WELSH TO FIGHT WHITE.

With the exception of a few minor details, the twenty-round championship bout betwen Freddie Welsh, lightweight title holder, and Charley White, of Chicago, to take place in Buenos Aires some time in July or August, was arranged yesterday at a conference in the Hotel Cumberland between Billy Gibson, American representative of the Argentine promoters; Harry Pollock, manager of Welsh, and Nate Lewis, manager of White.

WESTCHESTER RESULTS; NONE PLAYED IN JERSEY

Five matches in the team competition of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association were contested yesterday on the links of Long Island and Westchester. By virtue of a defaulted victory over Scarsdale, the Knollwood team now holds the lead in the Westchester section, with clear victories over Sleepy Hollow and Fairview, and the default from Scarsdale. The Century team defeated the Ardsley team, at Ardsley, and went into second place with a record of victories over Apawamis and Ardsley, and a tie match with Dunwoodie.

The Apawamis team scored its second victory of the season in its successful defense of the invasion of its links by the Dunwoodie team, led by Mrs. Frayne. The Apawamis team triumphed 9 points to 1, but Mrs. Frayne led a forlorn hope because she and Mrs. W. Chilvers were the only members of the Dunwoodie team to appear for the contest. The Dunwoodie captain saved her team from a whitewash by defeating Mrs. Conner, of Apawamis, in a close match.

HERE'S A LONG DISTANCE SWAT.

"Hub" Perdue Made One Two Base Hit In Eleven Years.

"Hub" Perdue once made a two base hit. It happened eleven years ago. The amazing discovery was made by one of our southern contemporaries.

There are thousands and thousands and millions of persons who are of the opinion that the one time Brave and Cardinal pitcher never even made a single. But facts are facts. One must give the de—that is, "Hub"—credit when he's got it coming to him.

In May, 1905, "Hub" was with the Hopkinsville (Ky.) team in the "Kitty" league. It played Vincennes. Along about the fifth inning "Hub's" turn came to bat. He closed his eyes, swung—and a crash was heard. "Hub" opened his peepers, saw the ball shooting on a line for the fence and ran—as far as second base.

If "Hub" hadn't been so overcome with surprise by his feat he could have made three bases and probably a home run on it," says the historian.

Lajoie May Quit In Year.

While no one can venture to predict when Hans Wagner will play his last ball game it is a pretty good guess that Nap Lajoie will retire after the coming season, for his $9,000 contract will expire at the end of the 1916 campaign, and he will not be likely to accept a cut or take the management of some minor league club.

It is estimated $200,000,000 is invested in bowling alley equipment in this country.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

DUNELLEN TY COBB "SAVED THE BACON"

11 to 9 Victory Hung up Yesterday at the Expense of New Market Outfit.

In the deciding and most exciting game of a series of three, the Dunellen Juniors defeated the New Market Juniors on Maurer oval, Dunellen, yesterday afternoon by the score of 11 to 9. It took eleven innings to decide the affair. Greenhalgh, the Dunellen second baseman, saved the bacon for his team when he made a regular Ty Cobb steal of home with the tying run in the ninth, sliding skillfully under Catcher Stillwaggon, who was awaiting him with ball in hand. In the eleventh inning, Greenhalgh shone again when he singled and brought Oakley home with what was a sufficient margin to win by.

Post, the Dunellen twirler, only allowed two hits, but he was wild and walked eight men. La Rue, the New Market hurler, also had difficulty in locating the plate and walked seven men. In a race to see which could strike out the most men, La Rue bested Post by a margin of three, striking out 14 against his opponent's 11.

Queries--Comment--Answers

Query—Is it proper to place an address on a calling card, and if so, where?—G. L.

Answer—The address on a woman's card is usually put in the lower right-hand corner or, if preferred, directly under the name; the former is the best taste. The address on a gentleman's card is usually engraved in the lower left-hand corner. Both are proper.

Query—I have been told there is a flag-pole somewhere in Plainfield made entirely from concrete? Is that so and where is it?—S. A. E.

Answer—A concrete flag-pole, one of the most unusual in the State, was erected several years ago on the sailors' monument in Hillside cemetery and is still floating the Stars and Stripes.

Answer—Direct from the Weather Bureau at Washington. They are received daily by wire.

Query—Where can I get a copy of the Plainfield city ordinances? Are they for sale at any place?—K. Y.

Answer—They are free for the asking and you may secure one on application at the city clerk's office in the city building on North avenue.

Query—What is the difference between a newspaper story and fiction? I have been told that a good story writer, who has made a success of magazine work, would probably not make a good newspaper writer. What do you think of it?—B. C. S.

Answer—There is a vast difference between the two. A newspaper story should carry the climax in the opening sentence and work down to a minor point while a magazine story opens with the minor point and works down to a climax. You can see for yourself that it would be hard for one used to writing one way to accustom himself to the other style.

Query—What does "two-ply" paper mean?—K. H.

Answer—"Two ply" paper means two thicknesses of paper pasted together. The ordinary card-board, for example, is six or eight ply.

Query—From what has the English language, in its present form been derived? Is it heterogeneous or homogeneous?—A. B. C.

Answer—The English language, as spoken after the Norman Conquest, and as it is now used, is conceded by the best authorities to be a mixture of ancient Saxon and Norman French, with such new foreign words as commerce and the exigencies of learning have demanded and gradually introduced. The English language is heterogeneous, and no analogy can be found in the simpler languages which are homogeneous, like the German.

AMERICAN LOST ON DUTCH LINER

New Mexican Drowned as Ship Blows Up.

MAY HAVE STRUCK MINE.

Two Other Citizens of United States Are Saved—Mancini, Wireless Expert Loses Life—Embassy In London Is Collecting Affidavits of Passengers.

London, May 18.—The Dutch steamer Batavier V. has been blown up in the North sea, says a dispatch to Lloyd's from Great Yarmouth. Three of the crew and an American passenger were lost. The Batavier V. was on her way from London to Rotterdam.

The American embassy has been notified that the American who was drowned when the vessel sank was Luigi Martini Mancini, a wireless expert, whose home was in Roswell, N. M.

Two other American citizens who were on board the steamship were saved.

Samuel Howard Comstock of Santa Monica, one of these, gave the following account of his experiences:

"I was in the saloon talking when a terrific explosion occurred. My hat was smashed against the ceiling of the saloon. I think the vessel must have been blown up by a mine, as the explosion apparently was directly underneath the ship. The after hatch was blown off and much of the cargo was hurled into the air.

"Within three minutes the ship's decks were awash. I had a lifebelt, but being a good swimmer gave it to my fellow American, Mancini, who could not swim. I kicked off my shoes, dived and swam to a boat which had been launched. I assisted a stewardess and an injured officer of the ship into the boat. I was so busy that I did not see what happened to Mancini. The ship sank in twenty minutes. We were picked up by a trawler patrol and arrived at Yarmouth."

Comstock has made a report to the American embassy expressing the opinion that the Batavier V. sank as a result of striking a mine. The embassy will forward this report to the state department at Washington. Through consular officials the embassy is obtaining affidavits from the ship's officers.

Another American who was on the Batavier V. was John Joseph Kaleta of Brooklyn, N. Y. He was rescued and landed at Yarmouth. Kaleta was on the way to Rotterdam to become wireless operator on a Dutch steamship.

Mancini was a major of the national guard of New Mexico and a deputy sheriff of Cleaves county, N. M.

QUAKE SHAKES ITALY.

Northern Part of Kingdom Again Visited by Shocks.

Rome, May 18.—The vast region in central Italy extending from Aquila, through the Abruzzi provinces, to Perugia, Pesaro, Forli and to Ferrara, on the north, and including the republic of San Marino, has been shaken by an earthquake, the shocks having been repeated many times. So far as is at present known there were no casualties, but details reaching here are still meager. At Pesaro some houses were damaged.

The present disturbance is considered part of the seismic movement, of which the greatest development was the earthquake of January, 1915, when thousands of persons were killed in Avezzano, which lies directly south of Aquila.

In that region the shocks have continued ever since. They are estimated to have numbered about 600, but most of them have been so slight as to be registered only by instruments.

URGES STANDARDIZATION.

Wilson Would Educate Americans in Business Methods.

Washington, May 18.—President Wilson made public a letter to Vice Chairman Edward N. Hurley of the federal trade commission praising the work of the commission in attempting to educate American business men as to methods of accounting which will reveal the cost of production.

The president referred to a recent address in which Mr. Hurley had declared that fewer than 50 per cent of American manufacturers operate systems of bookkeeping whereby they could determine the cost of production of the manufactured articles they place upon the market.

FIFTEEN MINUTE TROLLEY SCHEDULE IS ESTABLISHED

The Public Service Corporation beginning last Monday introduced a fifteen minute trolley service between Bound Brook and Somerville, from 3:30 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon. This improved service is the result of cooperation between the trolley company and the Cotta-Lap Company, whose plant is located at Bound Brook. The latter concern has largely increased its force traveling between the two places. The same schedule will be continued throughout the day as soon as sufficient help can be secured to properly operate the cars.

CIRCUS MEN QUIT TO WORK IN MUNITION PLANTS

Trenton, May 18.—Because 150 canvas men quit Barnum & Bailey's circus in Newark last night to work in munition plants at $5 a day, the "greatest show on earth" had a hard time when it reached Trenton yesterday morning. It was well toward noon before the last of its cars arrived, and the parade, scheduled for 10 a. m., was abandoned.

The afternoon performance was given up and the crowds that gathered at the big tent went home disappointed.

Twenty thousand school children and many adults lined the streets awaiting the parade, which had been announced. The crippled forces of the circus were able to arrange everything in time for the evening performance.

BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS TWENTY YEARS OLD TODAY

With three of its original conductors and one engineer still in service, the Black Diamond, the Lehigh Valley's famous daylight train between New York and Buffalo, today is celebrating its twentieth anniversary. At its start the train was hailed as the most luxurious ever put in service, and was made up of four cars. Special emphasis was laid on the fact that the train was lighted throughout with Pintsch gas.

Thomas Farley, an engineer on the original train, is running the Diamond now and has not missed a trip, except in two instances, when he was held on company business. Richard Mack, Thomas E. O'Donnell and O. D. France are still conductors on the train. During the first few weeks Black Diamond Express was operated scores of Plainfield people journeyed to South Plainfield to see it come in, this station being its first stop out of New York. That same year, 1896, traveling moving picture shows were sent about the country for the first time, and the feature picture for an entire season was the passing of the Black Diamond Express at a point near New Market.

SYNOPSIS.

Stephen O'Mara, a homeless and friendless boy, starting from the wilderness to see the city, is welcomed to the home of Caleb Hunter and his sister Sarah. Stephen meets Barbara Allison, young and rich, and Caleb gives him a home.

CHAPTER IV.

Then I'll Come Back to You.

ON the drive home Wednesday Caleb rehearsed a half score of speeches with which he might apprise his sister Sarah of the step he had taken, but when the time came for him to employ one of them he forgot the entire lot and had to resort to a bald and stammered statement of the facts, which sounded more like a confession of guilt than anything else. It had grown colder with the storm, and directly after a hastily swallowed supper, with many indignant glances for her brother, Sarah had bundled the boy off upstairs to bed, for he had come in out of the rain as sleekly wet as a water rat and blue fingered and blue lipped from the cold. So it happened that they were alone before the fireplace when Caleb made known his decision.

"I've never done much of anything for anybody but myself, you know, Sarah," Caleb hesitatingly tried to account for his conduct. "And this seems to me to be as big an opportunity as I'll ever have. You—you like the boy, don't you, so far as you have become acquainted with him?"

"Yes, I like him," she assented, after awhile.

"Of course it—it comes as a surprise to you," he murmured. "It is pretty sudden, but I don't think that either of us will ever regret it."

And then Sarah faced round toward her brother. Her eyes were unaccountably wet, but there was laughter on her lips.

"A surprise—a—a somewhat sudden!" she faltered. "Why, I knew you were going to do it that first day when you came sidling up to the veranda behind him. I was certain of it even then. And if you hadn't decided to—why, I'd made up my mind that I'd do it myself if you ever came back from that endless fishing trip!"

"I've been rummaging through some of the old chests upstairs," she added. "Today I explored for hours and found some of the things you used to wear which look as though they hadn't been worn at all. I laid some of them out for him to put on when he gets up in the morning. And, Cal, who'd ever believe now that a plump behemoth like you ever could have worn such—such dainty and cunning things!"

The inferred description should have prepared Caleb, but at the moment he failed to remeber that it was some forty years since the garb she mentioned had been in vogue. Instead, he blushed uncomfortably at the gurgle in her throat. And so the next morning, when a little figure in velvet jacket and pantaloone—velvet of the same jet hue in which Barbara Allison had first appeared to the boy a day or two before—stopped at the head of the long stairway the moment was robbed of not one whit of its sensationalism.

There was something in Sarah's fluttering delight over the boy's changed appearance that morning which awoke an almost hysterical impulse in her brother.

When Caleb came back an hour later, with Allison at his heels, he searched the house through without finding the boy. In his perplexity he appealed to Sarah, who followed him to the front door.

"Where's Stephen?" he asked.

Sarah nodded to Allison.

"Why, I waited a half hour, Cal," she said, "and then, when I thought you wouldn't be back for awhile, I sent him downtown—I sent him to the village"—

Caleb seemed fairly to shrink.

"You sent him down to the village?" he echoed. "Did he—did he change his clothes?"

"For some eggs," Sarah rounded out the sentence. "And of course he didn't." Suddenly her brother's face alarmed her. "Cal," she exclaimed, "I haven't done anything I shouldn't have done, have I?"

Caleb turned a wry face toward Allison.

"In—that—outfit!" he groaned. "Down to the village, and it's a lumber town! He's gone, and if he doesn't have to fight his way back then I"—

Sarah's alarm changed to fear instantly. She stepped out upon the porch.

They sat and waited, and in due course of time the boy returned. As he appeared at the gate Sarah, with a strange choking sound in her throat, half rose and then dropped weakly back into her chair. And even to Allison, who had fondly looked forward to the worst, the little suit with the pretty ruffed cuffs was an unbelievable wreck. The coat had been ripped from hem to collar and dangled loose upon either side as the boy advanced toward them, the knees of the trousers were split till the bare skin showed through beneath, and those portions of the fabric which were not incrusted with dirt were liberally o'erspread with egg.

After one stricken glance at the spectacle Sarah tottered to her feet and retreated none too steadily into the house.

"Just what does this mean?" Caleb faltered. "Where have you been?"

He hardly recognized the boy's voice.

"I been daown to the city," Steve slurred the words. "I been daown to git Miss Sarah a dozen eggs, and I run into trouble daown there a-gittin' 'em."

"You'd better go upstairs and get into your old clothes," Caleb advised him then. "And I'll get you something less—less dangerous to wear before night."

But the boy stood rigid still.

"Will you," he asked, "will you give me another quarter now?"

"A quarter," echoed Caleb slowly, even while he reached into his pocket and handed the coin to the boy. "Now, what do you— Here, where are you going now?"

"Why, I'm goin' back daown to the city," he grated out. "I'm goin' back after Miss Sarah's eggs!"

And he went, and when he returned the creases in the paper bag which held his purchase were as fresh as when it had left the grocer's counter.

"Well, I'm—I'm hanged!" Allison murmured, after the boy had entered the house. "I'm hanged! You'll have to bring that youngster over, Cal, and introduce him to the children."

Acting upon Dexter's suggestion, the man took Steve the very next day and presented him to the children who were guests in the big stucco and timber house: Little, shy, transparent skinned Mary Graves and Garret Devereau and Archibald Wickersham—the Right Honorable Archie. But from the very first Steve's lack of enthusiasm for their company impressed itself upon Caleb. As a matter of fact, the boy did cross over and join in their games the first day or two, but it was only after Caleb himself had suggested it. And more often than not he would be back again before an hour had passed, to sit silent and moody.

But it needed no word of Caleb's to keep Steve at home. Without some suggestion to urge him, the latter showed no inclination to leave his own yard, and yet he would sit, too, for hours upon the top step of the veranda, staring in the direction of the stucco lodge and listening to the voices behind the high hedge. More and more often Garry Devereau came over and joined him instead, and together the pair made almost daily trips down to the mills. A quick intimacy had grown up between the two boys, an intimacy which seemed all the stranger to Caleb because of the contrast between them.

From the beginning Steve had evinced an insatiable appetite for books; he started in to devour everything upon which he could lay his hands, and the Hunter library was lined with well stocked cases. But it was the history volumes that drew him most. With a fat tome upon his knees he would sit for hours in a corner upon the floor, his eyes glued to the pages. And one day, two weeks after the occurrence of the eggs, he came to Sarah with a shy question, a book in one hand. After she had caught the drift of his query Sarah took the volume and found that he had been reading of the fabulous deeds of King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table.

Steve went back to his reading after she had finished, but ever and again that morning his eyes, blank with preoccupation, wandered from the type; ever and again his ears seemed to be straining to catch the echo of childish trebles from the yard beyond the hedge. And after dinner Caleb was astonished when the boy explained, a little awkwardly, that he was going over to Allison's grounds for awhile. Allison himself passed Steve in the hedge gap and, with a word of greeting, stopped to shake hands with him gravely. So it came about that they were sitting together, Dexter and Caleb, smoking in silence, when Barbara Allison's first scream came shrilling to their ears. They waited, staring at each other until the riotous clamor which rose set them to running across the lawn. But the scene which met Caleb's eyes when he burst through the shrubbery froze him into immobility.

There was a seething pack of children around two writhing figures upon the ground; they were all shrieking in soprano panic—all save Garry Devereau. He, standing a little to one side, was smiling his queer, crooked, handsome smile, while Stephen O'Mara mauled the Honorable Archibald Wickersham with true riverman thoroughness, which meant the infliction of the greatest possible damage in the least possible time.

It grew very quiet when Caleb whirled the boy around and stood peering sternly down into his battle streaked features. Allison strode quietly up in that moment.

"Well?"—Caleb didn't know just how to begin, but his voice was cold. "Well, young man, can you explain just what this means?"

"Nuthin'—nuthin' much," Steve replied, "only we was goin' to play King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table. He wanted to be her knight"—an uncomplimentary thumb indicated the Hon. Archie—"and—and so did I." This time his eyes went to Barbara, who was listening, her teeth sunk in her lip. "He wanted to be her knight, an'—an' he ain't got no call to be, because in case of trouble or anything he couldn't purtect her. He couldn't fight good enough to take good keer o' her, because I kin fight better. I—I just licked him to prove it."

"But in the days when knighthood was in flower, Steve," Caleb explained ponderously, "the—the fair ladies always chose their own knights, didn't they?"

And just then the little girl, her eyes

twin shafts of searing scorn, curled her lips at him and fairly spat out the words in her shaking rage.

"You—you—my knight?" she half whispered. "You!" And she turned her back and went, solicitously, toward Archie and his rumpled clothes.

Even Allison stopped smiling, even Devereau forgot his curious amusement at the livid change which came over Steve's face with that answer which she flung at him. The boy fell away a step before her fierce little visage; he crooked one arm over the cheek where her fists had beaten the skin pink a moment before. And then her meaning struck him like a blow between the eyes.

"I ain't good enough to be your knight, am I?" he accused her in a hushed and vibrant voice. "I—I don't know enough, ner I can't talk good enough to be your knight. I ain't good enough fer you. But I'm a-goin' to be—do you hear? I'm a-goin' to be. An' when I am—when I am—then I'll come back to you!"

Steve did not come downstairs for supper that night, and when he failed to appear at the breakfast hour both Caleb and Sarah mounted to his room, fear in their hearts. The bed had not been slept in. The sheets were not even disarranged, but there was a scrap of paper pinned to one pillow slip. It wasn't written in "book language," that short message, for it was not his grain, but his heart which had phrased it:

I'm a-comin' back—I'm comin' back to you some day when they won't be no need fer you to be ashamed fer me. I'm takin' my new clothes with me because I knowed you would a-wanted me to—and the shoes too. I'm askin' you to take keer of ole Samanthy til I come fer her—and Miss Sarah ain't got no call to worry, fer I could always take keer o' myself.

It was signed "Stephen O'Mara."

Sarah's face went white when she had read it through. Her knees weakened under her, and she had to sit down.

"Why, Cal—why, Cal, he's—he's gone!" she quavered.

"Yes, he—he's gone!" he breathed.

Sarah swallowed hard. Then two bright tears crept out from under her eyelids and went coursing down her cheeks. She rose and groped her way to her own room.

Caleb found Barbara Allison waiting in the living room when he, still numb from the shock, went back downstairs. She came up to him and stood a moment, twising the fingers of one hand within those of the other.

"I want to see Stephen, please, Uncle Cal," she faltered.

Caleb drew a deep and unsteady breath.

"Steve isn't here, Barbara," he said as gently as he could.

The child didn't understand.

"Father sent me over to apologize," she explained slowly. "I'm to tell him that I'm sorry. But I—I want to tell him, too, that if I couldn't have him for my knight I—I wouldn't ever have any knight at all!"

Caleb felt a tightening at his throat which made speech difficult.

"But Steve has gone away," he managed to gulp.

A shadow came into the big dark eyes lifted to his.

"He'll be back for breakfast, won't he?" she asked hopefully.

"I'm afraid not, Barbara. I'm afraid now that he may never come back—again."

She didn't understand what he meant at first, so Caleb tried to explain. But when his voice broke and trailed off into a husky whisper there was no further need of explanation. She ran then and threw herself in a passion of tears upon a window seat in the corner. Caleb found his chair. And after a time he felt a small hand touch his sleeve; he felt a wet cheek pressed tight to his own.

"Oh, don't you feel so badly, too, Uncle Cal," Barbara sobbed. "Please, please! Because he is coming back! He told me he would; he told me he would himself!"

CHAPTER V.

My Man O'Mara.

FOR a week and more Caleb Hunter scoured the surrounding country. He whipped over the hills in every direction, half hopeful that he might overtake the boy who had gone in the night. But none of the farmers on the outlying roads had seen pass their way a little foot traveler such as he described, and after a time even that small hope died.

When Dexter Allison came over the next day, his face far more perturbed than Caleb had ever before seen it by the news which Barbara in tears had carried to him, together the two men searched for Steve, driving in silence through the country until they both realized that the search was useless. And at last, one day in early fall, Caleb started alone upon his errand into that stretch of timber to the north which the boy himself had vaguely designated as "up river."

He spent a week in the saddle before he located the cabin of the Jenkinses in an isolated clearing upon the main branch of the river. And even then, when he did locate the Jenkinses, it took hours of quiet argument before Caleb could convince those shy and suspicious people that his errand was an honest one. Eventually they did come to believe him. They led him afoot another half mile up the timber fringed stream to a log cabin set back in the balsams upon a needle carpeted knoll. And they stood and stared in stolid wonder at this portly man in riding breeches and leather puttees when he finally emerged from that small shack. Old Tom's tin box under his arm, and with lips working strangely pinned the door shut behind him.

Caleb left in the limp fingers of the head of the Jenkins' household a yellow tinted note of a denomination which they had not even known existed. He left them half doubting its genuineness until later when there came an opportunity to spend it. And Sarah was waiting at the door of the white place on the hill when Caleb wheeled into the yard at dusk two days later.

"You've found him!" she exclaimed as she glimpsed his face when he entered the hall.

Caleb shook his head, his heart aching at the hunger in her question.

"No, I haven't found him, Sarah," he said gently enough. "But I—I've found out who he is."

They forgot their supper that night. With heads close together they hung for hours over the ink smeared sheaf of papers which the tin box yielded up. Most of them were covered with a cramped and misspelled handwriting which they knew must be that of the one whom Steve had called "Old Tom." Some of them were hard to decipher, but their import was very, very clear.

There was one picture, a miniature of a girl, eager of face and wavy of hair. Her relationship to the boy was unmistakable. Sarah found that and wept over it silently, and while she wept Caleb sifted out the remaining loose sheets.

"It's not hard to understand now, is it?" he said. "It's pretty plain now why he had to go. And we, Sarah—we who were going to 'make something of him'—why, we should have known absolutely without this evidence. They laughed at him, they made fun of him, and there isn't any better blood than flows in that boy's veins! He was Stephen O'Mara's son, and no more brilliant barrister than O'Mara ever addressed a jury of a prisoner's peers and—and broke their very hearts with the simplicity of his pleading."

Sarah folded her thin hands over the woman's picture.

"I like his mother's face," she murmured faintly. "And I'm jealous of her, Cal! You don't have to remind me of the rest of it, either, for I recall it all. She died and he—he went all to pieces. They said at his death that he was destitute. And when he did follow her—across—they hunted everywhere, didn't they, and never found the boy? Didn't some of the newspapers argue that a servant—a gardener—had stolen him?"

Caleb nodded his head.

"Most of them ridiculed the suggestion, but it was true, just the same. That servant was Old Tom. And the only defense he makes is just one line or so in—in this." Caleb dropped a hand upon the half legible pages. "He says that he wasn't going to let civilization make of the boy's life the wreck which he, poor, queer, honest soul, thought it had made of his father's. And do you know, Sarah, do you know, I can't help but believe that this overzealous thing which the law would have prosecuted was the best thing he could have done? I'll take these things now and lock them in the safe for the boy until he—until he comes back home!"

But Sarah Hunter kept the picture of Stephen O'Mara's mother separate from the rest; she took it upstairs with her when she went, white and tired faced, to bed. And it was Sarah's faith which outlasted the years which followed. She never weakened in her belief that some day the boy would come back—she and one other whose faith in his last boyish promise, phrased in bitterness, also endured. For during the next five years there was not a summer which brought Allison into the hills but what the first question of his daughter Barbara, motherless now herself, was of Steve.

"Has—has Stephen come back?" she asked invariably.

At first the query was marked by nothing more than a child's naive eagerness, and later, when it was brought up in a casual, by the way fashion, it was, nevertheless, tinged with hope. Five years lengthened into ten, and still Steve did not come. But whenever Barbara asked that question Caleb remembered, as though it had happened only yesterday, that morning when she first appeared to the boy.

Then came a morning when Stephen O'Mara did return. All winter and throughout the summer, too, the Hunter place had been closed until that day in late October. It had been a warm week—a week of such unseasonable humidity for the hills that Caleb, rising somewhat before his usual hour, had blamed his sleeplessness, as usual, upon the weather. He was glad to be home again that morning. Caleb was wondering if Barbara would be with her father on this trip. Barbara had, he knew, been two years on the continent, "finishing," Allison called it, always with a wry face and a gesture toward his wallet pocket. He was wondering as he came down the stairs if she would ask him again if—if—and then at the sight of a seated figure outside on the top step of the veranda he pulled up sharp in the doorway.

Caleb heard voices in the adjoining grounds, and as he half turned in that direction Allison's bulky form, vivid in a far more vivid plaid, appeared in the hedge gap. While Caleb stared another figure flashed through ahead of him, laughter upon her lips, and paused a tip-toe to wave a hand in greeting. And instantly, as they had ten years before, Barbara Allison's eyes swung in instant scrutiny of the one who was seated at Caleb's feet. She hesitated and recovered herself.

"Good morning, Uncle Cal," she murmured very demurely.

Then the man upon the steps moved. He rose and turned and swept his rather weather beaten hat from his head. His hair was still wavy, still chestnut in the shadows. And Caleb, though he could not force a word from his tightened throat, marveled how tall the boy had grown—how paradoxically broad of shoulder and slender of body he seemed to be.

Dexter Allison, coming up less airily across the lawn, surprised his daughter poised with one hand outstretched, red lips half open. He found her starting, velvet eyed and pink of face, at a tall figure in blue flannel and corduroy, and, although he had never seen him in all the months that the latter had been in his employ, Allison knew this must be the one in whose keeping lay, directly or indirectly, the success or failure of the biggest thing he had ever attempted in this north country—the man to whom he always referred, whenever he boasted of his exploits, as "my man O'Mara."

"I always told them that you would come back," she murmured then. "Just as you—you said you would."

"Hum-m-m!" puffed Allison. "Hum-m-m!" He spoke directly to Stephen O'Mara, who half turned his head at the first heavily facetious syllable. "So you did get my message, eh? I rather thought that it wouldn't reach you up river until today." An ample smile embraced the tall figure in riverman's garb and his own daughter's crimson countenance—a most meaningful smile of roguery. "Well, from what I've heard," he stated, "and what I've * * * seen, I should say that you are my man O'Mara. Mr. Elliott himself has informed me that your quite spectacular success in one or two vital campaigns has been entirely due to the fact that you are an—er—opportunist! I agree with Mr. Elliott absolutely—that is, if my first premise is correct."

Barbara's face had cooled a little in that moment since Steve's eyes had left her face. Now she forgot her confusion—forgot to be annoyed, even at her father's clumsy banter.

"Your man, O'Mara!" she exclaimed indignantly. "Your man! Why, he—he's my"— And that was as far as she went.

Stephen half faced toward Allison. "I am O'Mara," he finished very briefly; "your man, O'Mara—if you happen to be the East Coast Development and Timber company."

There was at most no more than the barest suggestion of it in Steve's crisp question, but Caleb sensed immediately that Allison's placid appropriation of the blue flannel shirted one as his own particular property was not a mutually accepted status. Dexter, however, failed or chose to read nothing in the drawling question.

"I'm it," he agreed jovially—"that is, I and two or three others, including Mr Elliott, our esteemed president. I've heard much of you, Mr. O'Mara. I've looked forward to this meeting," he added as he shook hands. "Now I want to tell you that I am proud to know you. And so you didn't get my message, after all?"

"I had to come down river yesterday," Steve explained. "Your telegram found me here, and I waited over until this morning, as you suggested."

"Surely—surely! I see—I see!" Allison emphasized his comprehension. "Not that it was anything of vital importance. I just wanted a short conference with you, that was all."

"Would you—would you mind finding Miss Sarah, Steve?" Caleb asked. "Will you tell her, please, that we are to be subjected to another—neighborly imposition?"

Allison shook his head and led the way to a chair. "I didn't know that you were acquainted with him, Cal. Have you known him long?"

"Um-m-m—yes!" Caleb weighed his reply. "Quite some time, I think I might say."

He shook with scarcely suppressed laughter, but Allison ignored his senseless mirth.

"I'd like to claim that boy as my own discovery," he avowed, "but I can't, not without fear of successful contradiction on Elliott's part. And in point of service it isn't fair to call him a boy, either, though I suppose both of us are old enough to be his father. He's Elliott's find. Elliott suggested him as the one man for this job when I consolidated with the Ainnesley crowd and they took up the contract to move the reserve timber from Thirty Mile and the valleys above. Elliott knew of him, but I've been looking up his record pretty closely since he took hold in earnest.

"He's in his twenties, as near as I can make out, but he's come through on one of two jobs that might well make an old campaigner envious. He took a fortune in hard woods out of San Domingo for a Berlin concern; he was the only man on the St. Sebastian river job who said the construction was too light. He said it wouldn't stand when the ice began to move in the spring, and it didn't! Oh, he knows his business! But it wasn't his successes which caught Elliott's eye. It's the way he has failed a couple of times, fighting right back to the last ditch, and fighting and fighting, when all the rest had quit, that made me anxious to get a look at him. Perhaps there are older men who can outfigure him on loads and stresses, but as a field general he stands alone. He can handle men. And when it comes to meeting conditions just as they arise Elliott says he's a wonder. He can outguess dear old Mother Nature herself.

"That's why the East Coast company brought him up here to build its bit of road," he went on slowly. "They've got to move that Reserve company timber. They have a contract that'll break 'em—break us—if we fail down. And do you know, Cal, I—I can't help but believe that the thing is beyond the pale of possibility. I believed it six months ago, when Elliott and Ainnesley and the rest of them were so keen for it, and I believe it still, even though I have seen Elliott's engineer and know what he has already accomplished. That track'll never go through on schedule—and that's why I'm up here for the winter. It's going to be a hot little race against time, with some millions for a purse. It'll break the East Coast company if he fails, and"—his voice became oddly intense—"and I tell you again that it—can't—be—done!"

Allison lay back in his chair and breathed deeply, slowly, and Miss Sarah appeared that moment in the doorway, pinker of cheek and more tremulous of lip than her brother had ever seen her before. She dropped Allison an old fashioned courtesy, which was an exceedingly frivolous performance for Sarah.

"Breakfast is served, Cal," she fairly chortled, "and there are two very hungry children inside."

REFUSE BERNSTORFF REQUEST

Lansing Does Not Believe Merchantmen Seek Submarines.

Washington, May 18.—Secretary Lansing has indicated that this government would not follow Germany's suggestion conveyed in a note from Count von Bernstorff that captains of merchant vessels be warned not to approach submarines which call on them to stop. In response to a question Secretary Lansing said he never had heard of a merchantman seeking out or approaching a submarine on the high seas until the ambassador's note mentioning the Dutch steamer Bandoeng was brought to his attention.

The insinuation in the German note was that British merchantmen made a practice of this. Secretary Lansing has never credited German reports ascribing this procedure to British merchantmen.

TAKE 6,200 ITALIANS.

Austrians Continue to Press Their Strong Offensive.

Vienna, via London, May 18.—The Austrian offensive between the Adige and Astico valleys, in the Trentino, which was begun with a successful surprise attack, was continued with the capture of a number of Italian positions along this front.

By the continued successes the Austrians have increased the number of prisoners taken on Monday to 141 officers and 6,200 men. Thirteen guns and seventeen machine guns were captured in the two days' fighting.

Will Vote on Brandeis Wednesday.

Washington, May 18.—The senate judiciary committee held a brief session on the Brandeis case and agreed to vote on reporting the nomination to the senate next Wednesday. It is believed the nomination will be reported to the senate without recommendation.

Hindoo Troops Mutiny, Says Berlin.

Berlin, May 18.—A mutiny of Hindoo troops in Egypt is reported by the Neue Zuricher Zeitung, says the Overseas News agency. It is said that during the recent fighting near the Suez canal many Hindoos refused to obey orders, and fighting between the soldiers and Australian officers resulted in a large number of casualties.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

KIDDIES DAY; THE CIRCUS IS HERE!

TRAINED WILD ANIMALS

IT'S here! Ask any small boy on the street and he will tell you what IT is. But for the benefit of the grown-up boy who has become so wrapped up in war news, or the baseball scores, or business, IT can be described as the Cook & Wilson Greatest Wild Animal Circus on Earth, or an equally interesting sounding title. Yep! the show drew into the freight yard this morning, and the unloading of the fifteen carloads of paraphernalia was witnessed by every small boy who woke up in time to head for Richmond street. Of course there were a few grown-ups, but they assured a curious reporter that they only went to see that the kids did not get in the way of the elephants, or be bitten by one of the lions, or some other flimsy excuse for their curiosity.

The Cook & Wilson circus is the only one that will be in Plainfield this spring, and possibly this year. That is assured by the fact that Mayor Calkins has had no applications for licenses from any other shows, and these applications are always made a couple of months in advance, so that the show people can pick out some other town in case a license is refused.

The Cook & Wilson show is a new one, and the various wagons, as they were drawn through the streets this morning attested the fact in no uncertain way, by the resplendent condition in which they appeared. There were seven fine lions and lionesses in sight, three big elephants, tigers, leopards, bears, pumas, monkeys, lots of ponies and a good showing of other splendid zoological exhibits. The press agent promises, and the newspapers in New Brunswick and other towns where the show has appeared, bear him out in saying that there is a really, truly lion that rides horseback, a big gorilla that does everything that a human does except talk, a group of six monster performing lions, "forest bred, and the most ferocious in America," and other splendid features, not to omit clowns. The show has three rings and a big steel arena, and there is something doing all the time for the two hours or more that the exhibition lasts.

A new lot is being used by the circus for the first time this year, and it is the most centrally located from a residential point of view of any that has ever been used by a circus in this city. It is at the corner of Arlington avenue and Rose street, and is a grass covered plot, there being none of the dirt and dust which has made the old circus lot a bit unpleasant at times for the spectators. The Arlington avenue cars pass the entrance, and it is but a few minutes' walk from Front street.

The afternoon performance began at 2:15 and there will be one more exhibition tonight at 8:15. There are the usual side-shows with a big list of attractions, and a feature is the music by a big band under the direction of Al. J. Massey, one of the best band leaders with a traveling organization in the country today.

According to the newspapers in the towns where the show has appeared this season, nearly all of which are in New Jersey, the company give a clean, interesting and diversified performance such as similar shows of the size have seldom, if ever, equaled.

BAPTIST WOMEN IN SESSION HERE

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Dr. W. H. Roberts, of Burma, Makes Principal Address — Reports are Presented—Luncheon Served by Women of Entertaining Church.

Officers were elected and reports were presented at the thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Women's Baptist Foreign Missinary Society of the East Association, held today at the First Baptist church. There was a large representation from the various churches in the association, including Newark, Elizabeth, Perth Amboy, Roselle, Westfield, Scotch Plains and Plainfield. Mrs. W. H. Bawden, of Perth Amboy, the president, was in charge of the sessions, following the greeting by Mrs. J. Hervey Buchanan, president of the society of the entertaining church.

The business of the morning session was quite largely routine, some time being taken up with a discussion of finances, the aim being to raise about $5,000 the coming year. Mrs. J. H. Schlottman, of Elizabeth gave the report for the juniors, and Miss Grace M. Davis, of Newark, corresponding secretary, the report for the seniors. The "five-year program" was deferred to this afternoon. Miss Katherine L. Aller, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., closed the morning session with devotional services, after which lunch was enjoyed, a committee from the entertaining church being in charge.

The first business of the afternoon session, after the devotional exercies, was the election of officers, the following being chosen to serve for the year: President, Mrs. William H. Bawden, of Perth Amboy; vice-presidents, Mrs. Newton Simmons, of Elizabeth; Mrs. J. Madison Hare, of Scotch Plains; Mrs. Reilly A. Vose, of Newark; secretary, Miss Florence Bogart, of Roselle; corresponding secretary, Miss Grave M. Davis, of Newark; junior secretary, Mrs. J. H. Schlottman, of Elizabeth.

Dr. William H. Roberts, a missionary of Bhamo, Burma, was the principal speaker of the afternoon, and he made an interesting address, bringing the latest news from his mission field, telling of the progress of spreading the gospel.

Other feature of the afternoon session will be reports on the State meeting by Mrs. J. Madison Hare and Mrs. Edward McWhood, of Newark a solo by Mrs. Robert Giddes, presentation of attendance banners and a report of the Junior Sewing Circle.

WILL CLOSE EXCHANGE FOR WOMAN'S WORK

It Has Been Found Impossible to Maintain Business on Paying Basis.

The Plainfield Exchange for Woman's Work on Park avenue will be closed at 6 o'clock tomorrow night, pending a settlement of the affairs of the exchange with a view to giving up the project permanently. The women in charge of the exchange feel that it is unwise to try and maintain the same at an annual expense of $700, when there are so many other interests demanding the attention of the Plainfield people. It is now possible to close the exchange clear and free of debt and if it is continued indefinitely obligations might be incurred which would make it difficult to break even.

The exchange has been in existence for many years and has had the support of a large number of women who have given of their time and money to maintain it. In order that no one depending on the exchange may be thrown out of employment, the officers have arranged to have the worker of the bakers taken over by a local grocery and the other consignors will find a market for their goods. There are about ninety consignors in all. Much praise is due to the women who have made every effort to make the exchange a success and a medium of support to many others, and there are not a few who will learn with regret of the closing of the business.

WILL OBSERVE "FLOWER DAY."

The Jewish National Fund Bureau of America announces its third annual "Flower Day" to be held throughout the country, Sunday, May 21. The local branch of the Jewish committee have had automobiles donated to them for use on Sunday, in order that every Hebrew family in the city may be visited for contributions. The money collected in this way is applied to the fund being raised for the relief of the suffering Jews of Palestine.

CARRIERS PLACED IN WRONG LIGHT

Hoboken Writer Infers That Plainfield Men Wanted Beer Decoration Day.

CHAIRMAN'S LETTER

Local Workers Had No Hand in Agitation to Put "Free Booze" on the Program, But They are Being Attacked from all Quarters.

That a decidedly mistaken impression has been spread broadcast over the State concerning the part local letter carriers have played in the recent notoriety given the coming convention, ragarding the "booze issue," is evident from a communication received today by John B. McCormack, of this city, a member of the executive board of the State Association, from C. Eugene Doyle, the chairman. Mr. Doyle, in his letter, infers that the Plainfield carriers have been working against odds to have "free beer" served on Decoration Day and decries the erroneous impression that the local committee has put the State carriers down as beer drinkers who demand this beverage as a part of the day's program. The letter indicates that the Hoboken letter carriers are not familiar with the fact that the local carriers had no hand in the agitation to serve beer and that they personally never wanted it furnished on convention day.

As far as branding the State letter carriers as "boozers" is concerned, the Plainfield department has done everything possible to discourage the idea and a committee of local carriers has been working during every spare moment to bring out the fact that beer serving was not demanded by the carriers. The letter from Mr. Doyle follows in full:

"John J. Walsh and myself were out to Plainfield on Wednesday evening ostensibly to attend a meeting of the carriers that was to be held at the regular time, but found out after getting there that the meeting had been held at 5 p. m. It was our intention to address your members on the unenviable notoriety we have received in the press of New Jersey and New York on this question of intoxicants being served to the visiting carriers at the convention.

"Not having the opportunity of addressing you on the subject, it becomes necessary for me to write to

GETS LICENSE TO WED $55,000 LOVE

Dr. Hendrick and Miss Biggar May Be Married—License Issued Here May 10.

Dr. Charles C. Hendrick and Mrs. Laura A. Biggar-Bennett, principals in the sensational divorce and alienation case in Brooklyn courts a short time ago, secured a license to wed at the office of the Plainfield Board of Health on May 10. Whether or not the marriage has been consummated could not be learned.

Mrs. Hendrick, divorced wife of Dr. Hendick, last week secured a verdict of $55,000 against Miss Biggar, or Mrs. Bennett, when she sued in a Brooklyn court for alienation of the affections of her husband. Miss Biggar gave her residence in court as Plainfield. During the trial she was staying at the Queen City Hotel here as Mrs. Bennett, but she has been living at the old Fitzsimmons farm near Dunellen. The farm is now owned by Joseph Hendrick, who is said to be a brother of Dr. Hendrick. When the old Fitzsimmons farm was called today Mr. Hendrick said that he knew nothing of the wedding, and that he personally opposed it. He said Dr. Hendrick was not at the farm, nor Mrs. Bennett, and refused to tell where they could be found.

In securing the license Dr. Hendrick gave his age as 45 years. He said he was both divorced and widowed. Mrs. Bennett gave her age as 46. She was both divorced and widowed.

The vaqueros were led by Guadelupa Quesodo. The bandits had been raiding the ranch and carrying off property. Sixteen of their number were killed and a number of prisoners, including Pedro Costillo, were taken.

BIEDERWOLF TELLS CONVERTS HOW THEY MUST LIVE IN ORDER TO BE REAL CHRISTIANS IN LORD'S SIGHT

PRAY, JOIN THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE, BRING SOME ONE ELSE TO CHRIST AND GO GO FORWARD, HE SAYS.

WARNS AGAINST THE SIN OF BEING INACTIVE

Entire Center Section is Almost Filled by Those Who Have Made Decisions During Services—Big Prohibitionist Delegation, and One From Daughters of Scotia.

With thousands of bright faces—those of men and women who have become converted during the Tabernacle services—directly before him, the Rev. William E. Biederwolf last night delivered a message of instruction to new-born children of Christ, in which he told them to trust and obey and to keep going forward.

It was "Converts' Night" at the Tabernacle, and the entire center section of seats was almost filled with those who have made decisions within the past four and one-half weeks. That there were others present was shown by the large number that came forward at the close of the sermon to add their names to the list of almost 5,000 that have walked the sawdust aisle. The attendance last night was 4,500.

The words of advice from Dr. Biederwolf were out of the Word of God and out of his own Christian experience and that of his friends. His sermon was the happiest and wittiest of the entire campaign, for the service was one of rejoicing as well as one of instruction, and Dr. Biederwolf frequently told appropriate stories to illustrate his text.

You must be real Christians, he told the converts, and not drift back into sin after a few weeks.

"What kind of a Christian is the church member who bobs up in church on Sunday morning and then takes a header into the world on Monday, going to a dance on Monday night, a vulgar vaudeville show on Tuesday night, a beer party on Wednesday night, a poker game on Thursday, another dance on Friday night, and then turns up in church again on Sunday morning, warms a seat for an hour and a half, drops a little money into the plate, and then is off again in the same old way?"

"Don't allow people to sneer at your Christ and belittle your Lord. When some little lump-headed piece of sophisticated assininity laughs at religion or derides Jesus Christ or gets off a rotten story, don't sit there like a coward and look sheepish. Rebuke him like a Christian gentleman ought to."

He warned the converts not to doubt their forgiveness for sin and not to listen to skeptics or to critics of the Bible.

"Backed up by the Spirit of God," he said, "Samson one day slew a thousand of his enemies, but without this backing the higher critic preachers are trying to do the same thing—and with the same weapon."

He urged them to pray, to immediately join the church of their choice, to support the church in service and with their pocketbook, to go to work for God, and to trust and obey the teachings of the Bible.

There was a large delegation of Daughters of Scotia at the Tabernacle last night, and in their honor Mr. McEwan sang "My Ain Country." The quartet sang, "I Am With Thee." The other delegation was one of prohibitionists, and they came in numbers behind the Dutch Arms Band. In his welcome to them Dr. Biederwolf said that he was and always would be a prohibitionist—a foe of the saloon—and that he would support the Democratic or Republican party whenever it stood for the abolition of the whisky traffic, but not until then

"If third party prohibition is the only way that our country is to be freed from the curse of liquor, then I say Godspeed the third party. And until that time comes, if there is only one prohibition vote cast in all the United States, you can go home and tell the wife, 'There's that old fool, Biederwolf, still votin' her straight.'"

Dr. Biederwolf announced that he would speak tonight on "The Unpardonable Sin," and Saturday night on "Heaven." The last of the afternoon meetings is being held this afternoon. There will be three meetings Sunday and the farewell service Monday evening.

Dr. Biederwolf's sermon of last night will be found on another page of the Press today.

To the People of Plainfield and Vicinity:-

The Evangelistic Campaign conducted by Dr. William E. Biederwolf for nearly six weeks, is drawing to its close and audiences exceeding two hundred thousand persons have heard the inspiring messages that he has so forcibly delivered, while over four thousand people have either reconsecrated their lives or have been so touched by his earnestness that they have joyously resolved to travel the safe road which has been so clearly pointed out.

In addition to those who have been privileged to hear him many have through the generous oourtesy of the press read his sermons and have thereby benefitted. It is clear to everyone that great good to the community must accrue from these evangelistic services, and now that Dr. Biederwolf and his able associates are about to leave us, would it not be ungenerous if we did not tender a testimonial of substantial character to him as an appreciation of what has been accomplished?

Thus far Dr. Biederwolf has not received one cent for his services, and those of us in Plainfield and vicinity, who have had the good fortune to be present at these meetings, and who will miss them greatly when they are over, would be deeply disappointed could we not express our appreciation of the enjoyment and profit realized, by contributing towards a testimonial to Dr. Biederwolf, and therefore everybody will be given an opportunity to do so at the three services to be held next Sunday.

In addition, there are those who will want to contribute who have been indirectly helped by the quickened life of the community, having been benefitted by those who have shown a renewed devotion to conscience and to justice.

Our community is especially noted for the splendid effect of its volunteer work. The excellent type of our public officials is due to volunteer work, and the numerous religious and civic bodies are all doing volunteer work, serving the community willingly and without pay. The splendid achievements of this evangelistic campaign are the result of volunteer work and hundreds of our fellow citizens have volunteered to work in connection with this movement giving their services night after night without reward except the great pleasure and inspiration they received. They have been in the choir; they have been ushers; they have been personal workers; everybody has welcomed the opportunity to be of some use, somewhere. Largely through the efforts of these volunteers the campaign has been a success. Let us volunteer now to make the close of this campaign a fitting tribute to Dr. Biederwolf. Let us volunteer to give him a splendid offering. Let us volunteer to show that we are thoroughly appreciative of his sincere and magnetic character, as well as the strengthening and uplifting influence of the ideals which he has so indelibly imprinted upon the minds and hearts of the people of this community.

The people will remember that this evangelist came to us at the request of a committee of citizens, without any agreement as to compensation whatsoever except that he was to receive the Free Will Offerings given at the three services on the last Sunday of the Campaign. It cannot be repeated with too much emphasis that our expression of appreciation must be that of gratitude and not of any implied obligation of any character. THE OFFERING OF THE LAST SUNDAY IS PURELY A FREE WILL OFFERING AND ABSOLUTELY A VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTION. It is believed that Plainfield will volunteer to stand not second but first and foremost in the matter of the offering to be given to Dr. Biederwolf.

Many of those who have been at the Tabernacle or those in sympathy with the movement and who may find it inconvenient to be present on Sunday, but who desire to express their appreciation for the good work accomplished, may send their contributions to the undersigned.

Chairman.

RETURN DONATIONS TO LIQUOR DEALERS

Committee Sends Back $300 Contributed by Them to Letter Carriers' Fund.

Donations amounting to about $300, contributed to the local Letter Carriers' Convention fund by various liquor interests, were ordered returned at a meeting of the citizens' committee in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night. This action was taken as a result of the committee's determination, through popular request, to serve no alcoholic drinks to the visiting delegations on Decoration Day. It was ascertained by some members of the committee that money had been solicited from brewers and others with the understanding that each concern would receive a portion of the orders for "wet goods," and that under the circumstances it was only fair that what had been given should be sent back.

The return of the $300 makes a shortage in the convention fund of just that sum, and the committee makes a further appeal to local citizens to help make it up. The time is growing short, consequently it is urgent that donations should be made immediately.

At the meeting last night an interesting letter was received from Solomon Mann, the West Third street grocer, expressing his approval of the committees' plan to serve no beer or other alcoholic beverages during the convention entertainment. He proved his sincerity by offering to donate absolutely free to the committee fifty pounds of his best coffee, known as the "David Brand," and also fifty pounds of sugar, same to be delivered to any place designated. The offer was accepted with thanks.

The line of march for the convention parade will be made public within a few days. In the meantime business men and residents generally are requested to decorate their store buildings or homes. A request is also to be made to those owning automobiles for the use of them during the parade to care for the retired letter carriers and members of the G. A. R. unable to traverse the long line of march.

Samuel Hollingsworth, as chairman of the building committee of the Board of Education, outlined the decision to build an addition to School No. 1 in preference to a separate structure as decided on by his committee. Conservative figures, he said, placed the cost of making the main building fireproof and erecting an eight-room addition at $43,000 and the cost of a six-room addition $10,000 less. With figures to back his statement, Mr. Hollingsworth estimated that in eight years an eight-room addition would be outgrown and that by that time Fanwood borough would, in the estimation of the Board, be large enough to warrant the erection of a school. The enrollment in the school last September was 371, an increase over that in 1908 of 142. The increase at present was on an average of 60 a year, which made the enlargement of the school imperative whether a school was built in Fanwood or not. The Rev. J. Madison Hare made a plea for the building of an addition, making as the basis of his plea the rapidly gaining idea of concentration, and he incidently urged manual training in the schools.

Dr. Johnson said that the Board of Education would be compelled by the State authorities to make School No. 1 fireproof whether or not they built elsewhere, a rising vote was taken to go on record simply as an expression of opinion that the majority of those present were in favor of a six-room addition to School No. 1 and a four-room graded school in Fanwood.

With the sentiment of the meeting as a guide, the Board of Education will call a special meeting of the voters in the near future when they will be asked to decide the issue. Following the suggestion of the county superintendent, it is probable that two questions will be submitted, one to be voted for the addition and one for the erection of a separate school in Fanwood, so that it will be up to the voters to decide whether or not they want both or one or the other singly.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

Katherine Walsh, employed as a domestic in the borough, was arraigned before Recorder Sheelen for being drunk and disorderly. The recorder, after suspending sentence, had her put on the first train for Elizabeth, where she came from. Marshal Logan found her on Martine avenue during the middle of the afternoon in a helpless condition, although where she got the liquor is a mystery.

A regular meeting of the Saturday Night Club will be held tomorrow night in the Fanwood firehouse, when cards and dancing will be enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Sherwood and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kyte are on the entertainment committee.

Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Aikman, of Brooklyn, have arrived in the borough to spend the summer at the Homestead, something that they have done for a number of years back.

TAXPAYERS DISCUSS SCHOOL CONDITIONS

Fanwood Residents Favor Six-room Addition and Four-room Graded School.

The voters of Fanwood township and Fanwood borough met in School No. 1 last night to discuss the matter of relieving the congestion in the schools. The matter was also discussed by County Superintendent Johnson. The majority of the hundred and fifty people present were residents of either the borough or the Willow Grove section of the township, and a petition signed by one hundred and eight people was presented to the Board asking that a school be built in that section. Mayor William H. Hoar asked on behalf of the Fanwood people that a school be built there, and Borough Collector Charles Sheelen, H. P. Robinson and other residents also urged this plan.

"PACIFISTS ARE HEIRS OF TORIES"

Roosevelt Beards Peace Men In Detroit.

REPLIES TO HENRY FORD

Declares He Advocates Preparedness as Means of Preventing War—Would Rather Fight Than Permit Women and Children to Be Killed—"Be Americans and Nothing Else."

Detroit, May 19.—As an answer to Henry Ford, the pacifist, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt delivered a speech here calling upon the citizens of the country to prepare.

He invaded the so called "Ford territory" at the instance of several well known men of this city who invited him to preach here his gospel of preparedness.

Among some of the striking utterances of the colonel were the following:

"If the pacifists of the Revolution and civil war had had their way they would have put an immediate stop to much suffering and much loss of life. They would have secured immediate peace. They would have averted some years of war. They would have turned men away from military training into the path of ordinary civil occupation. They would have secured the applause of every peace at any price man at home and abroad. And unwittingly they would have utterly ruined this nation. They would have prevented its being a nation.

"Let my pacifist friends understand that I am advocating preparedness so as to avoid war and I am advocating preparedness in the work of peace as in military matters.

"I would rather go to war than permit our women and children to be killed. But it is a crime against this nation that our own supine folly, our weakness and vacillation, our utter failure to prepare, should expose us to the possibility of war without having made ready for war.

Heirs of the Tories.

"Remember that the pacifists of today, the peace at any price men, however well meaning, are the spiritual and moral heirs of the men who denounced and opposed Washington; of the men who denounced and voted against Abraham Lincoln.

"As part of the work of preparedness, as part of the work of Americanism and of nationalization, we must set our faces like flint against any effort to divide our people along the lines of creed or of national origin.

"My plea is that all our citizens today shall act in the spirit of the men of many different race strains—the Washingtons, Adamses and Lees, the Schuylers and Sullivans, the Carrolls and Muhlenbergs, the Marions and Herkimers—who disregarded all questions of national origin and became Americans and nothing else when they founded this country.

"We all stand together for our common flag and our common country. We must so prepare that this country will be a good place in which the children's children of all us shall live, and to do this we must so prepare that we can repel all foreign foes and preserve the inestimable right of settling for ourselves the fate of this mighty democratic republic. But the essence of this policy of full preparedness, which, remember, is not only military, but at least as much industrial and social, is that it is purely defensive and is the best possible assurance of peace. No nation will ever attack a unified and prepared America."

ORPET RELIES ON LETTER.

Student's Counsel Say Girl Threatened to End Life.

Chicago, May 19.—William Orpet's defense in his trial at Waukegan for the murder of Marian Lambert will hinge upon a letter she is said to have written to the University of Wisconsin undergraduate in which she threatened to commit suicide. This fact was made public for the first time in the involved history of the mysterious Lake Forest tragedy by James H. Wilkerson, young Orpet's senior counsel.

The letter is said to have been written a few days before the eighteen-year-old girl died of cyanide of potassium poisoning in the snow in Helms woods last February. If the letter is produced or if the fact that it was written can be established to the satisfaction of the jury it is felt that the defense will have made a strong move.

It was in an answer to this suicide letter, it is held, that Orpet wrote his schoolgirl sweetheart the hurried note containing the words, "Don't do anything desperate until I arrive." And the defense claims this letter drew Orpet from Madison to keep the final tryst.

VERA CRUZ APPREHENSIVE.

Mexicans There Fear Americans Will Again Seize City.

Havana, May 19.—Spaniards arriving here from Vera Cruz say the Mexicans there expect that the Americans again will seize the city and are preparing to resist.

All the locomotives and cars possible are being kept in the interior for the purpose of preventing their falling into the hands of the Americans for an advance on the capital.

JUDGE AND POLICE CHIEF TAKE CARE OF SICK MAN

City Judge William G. DeMeza, aided by Police Chief P. S. Kiely, this morning played the roles of good Samaritans in having Muhlenberg Hospital take charge of Thomas Walsh, of New street, who was found by the judge on West Second street, yesterday afternoon in a serious condition. Walsh, who has been drinking heavily, was in an extremely nervous state and Judge De Meza ordered his removal to police headquarters, at the same time instructing the police to summon City Physician Norman W. Currie.

This morning the man was still in bad shape and inasmuch as no charge had been lodged against him Judge De Meza and Chief Kiely took steps to have him removal to the institution, where he would be properly cared for. At the solicitation of both officials the hospital authorities finally consented to care for Walsh and he was removed there shortly before noon.

FATE OF LYNCH NOT KNOWN HERE

Wilson Appeal to England Unanswered—The Worst is Feared.

Washington, May 19.—England still refuses to notify President Wilson whether or not his request for clemency in the case of Jeremiah C. Lynch, American citizen, who was sentenced to die at daylight today, was granted, and at 2 p. m. Washington does not know whether Lynch is alive or dead.

He was to have been executed before a Dublin firing squad on order of a field court martial at 4 a. m. today, which meant midnight last night, Washington time. President Wilson sent a request for a stay of execution from a theatre box in Washington at 9 p. m. last night. The English government has not answered his appeal. A rumor that Lynch was not executed was received, but it is not official, and Washington does not believe it true. Officials say that if England had obeyed the request of the President he would have received an answer at once.

The State Department has notified Luke Kilgallon, of Far Rockaway, that his son, John S. Kilgallon, under arrest in Dublin in connection with the Irish revolt, would shortly be released.

Young Kilgallon is reported to have said in his defense that he, with other students of P. H. Pearse's Dublin school, was lured into Liberty Hall when the revolt started on Easter Monday.

LOCAL CONTRACTOR HAS ROAD ACCEPTED

Fourteen-Mile Highway Built by Joseph F. Burke in Atlantic County.

State road officials and county officers yesterday inspected and accepted a fourteen-mile stretch of gravel road built in Atlantic county by the Joseph F. Burke Company, of this city, of which Joseph F. Burke, of Monroe avenue, is the presiding head. The thoroughfare is a connecting link in the highways leading to six of the largest towns in South Jersey and also affords better communication from them to Camden and Philadelphia. The contract price was $70,000 and was completed in less than a year.

The Burke company was highly praised by the inspecting officials yesterday as the contract was fulfilled in every respect and the road was declared as fine a piece of highway of the kind as there is in the State. Mr. Burke personally supervised the work and kept a large force of men on the job all the time, in addition to thirty horses, a traction locomotive with a mile portable track, gasoline locomotives and a steam shovel. On one occasion his force established a new record for filling in and topping off, completing a full mile of the road in one week. The thoroughfare runs from Hammonton to Buena Vista, stopping at the Cumberland county line.

The completion of the Atlantic county job places Mr. Burke, who is a native Plainfielder and still a very young man, in the front rank of New Jersey contractors. He has built a number of the finest roadways in the southern part of the State and several in Delaware. Within the next few days he will commence work on a stretch of amesite road two miles in length running from Penns Grove to Pennsville, Salem county, having been awarded the contract for $62,262, against keen competition. Once force of his men is now completing a strip of road at Manville and another is finishing up a big job at Red Bank. With the commencement of the Salem county contract he will have enough work to keep his full force of men, horses and equipment, busy until next fall.

It is the recognized souvenir of the Biederwolf evangelistic campaign, and was edited by Paul L. Roberts and printed under his supervision. It will be sold at the Tabernacle tonight at ten cents a copy.

FORMER PLAINFIELDER DIES AT SARANAC LAKE

Augustus Force, son of Benjamin R. Force, of East Fifth street, and until a few years ago a resident of Plainfield, died Wednesday night at Saranac Lake, N. Y., where he had been seeking the restoration of his health. He was born in this city thirty-two years ago, and after completing his education in the Plainfield schools, entered the employ of the United States Leather Company in New York. He had been promoted to a responsible position, when he was compelled to relinquish work because of his illness. Mr. Force had a wide acquaintance throughout the city and borough, although he had been living in Brooklyn for some time. Beside his father, he is survived by his wife, a six-year-old son, one brother George Force, and two sisters, Mrs. Owen Smith and Mrs. Edna Notting, the latter two living on Long Island.

The funeral will be held at his late home, 91 Lincoln street, Brooklyn, tonight at 7:30, and burial will be in a Brooklyn cemetery tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

BOROUGH STUDENTS IN NEW LITERARY MOVEMENT

The Literary Club of North Plainfield held one of its most interesting meetings at the home of Martin McDonough last night. Three names were submitted, but the name of "Vanswackoe Literary Club" was chosen after considerable controversy. One new member was voted in and he will be initiated at the next meeting. Mr. Dilts was elected disciplinarian and assumed his duties.

The club is planning to have a grand rally, which will be held sometime the coming month. Judging from the interest and enthusiasm displayed by the members a great success is anticipated by all. A committee was appointed by the president to look into this matter and make proper arrangements for the affair, consisting of McDonough, Dilts and Seidel.

After all business was transacted, the members were favored by a speech delivered by Mr. Dilts. His subject was "Immigration." The members present were: Martin McDonough, Oscar Dilts, William Seidel, Kenneth Lowrie, Sherman Chandler, Vinvent La Porte and Ernest Pruden. The members were served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

WILSON PREFERS THAT WESTOTT NOMINATE HIM

President Wilson, in a letter to Governor Fielder, has expressed his preference that Judge Wescott shall make the speech at the St. Louis Convention placing himself in nomination for a second term. He tells the Governor that he is sorry that there should have been any misunderstanding regarding the matter; but, as a matter of fact, he has invariably stated that Judge Wescott was his choice for the honor.

In view of this, Governor Fielder will surrender the privilege of making the speech nominating the President for another term. He made that statement yesterday, clearly defining his position, assuming that the arrangement will be satisfactory to the delegates who previously agreed that the Governor should present the President's name at St. Louis.

PRICE OF HAIRCUTS MAY BE ADVANCED

Shaves, also May Be Dearer if Journeymen Barber's Demands Are Met.

Following a lengthy discussion at the regular meeting last night, Local No. 315, Journeymen Barbers' Union of America, decided to make application to the boss barbers for an increase in wages. The provisions or terms were not made known today, but the bosses have named May 28 as the date on which they will receive them from a committee from the journeymen. This committee is composed of Charles Pagluccia, Robert H. Turnstall and Alexander Cervetto.

It is pointed out by the journeymen in justification of their plan to receive more wages that the money they now receive is not sufficient to provide a proper living for themselves and families. The cost of foodstuffs, clothing and residences have risen in many cases much beyond their means but the daily earning capacity of a journeyman barber has not risen in proportion. The idea has been advanced at frequent intervals that the bosses cannot give an increase in wages without boosting the price of shaves and hair cuts and this will be a matter open to discussion at the conference on May 28.

Among the other matters of business considered by the local last night was the plan of having a clambake on or about July 4. The matter was placed in the hands of a committee composed of Robert H. Turnstall, Charles Pagluccia and Dan. Di Leonardo for final disposition.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, MAY 19, 1916.

A CITY MANAGER POSSIBLE.

Montclair people were told the other night that under the Walsh act, in case the town should adopt commission government, a city manager can be employed. If the argument is sound, there are many cities which now hesitate about making the change from the mayor and Council form, that will soon consider the matter. Here in Plainfield Mayor Calkins is an advocate of the manager form of government, but does not believe that a commission could make things any better than they are now. In this view there are many citizens who agree with the Mayor, and we would not be surprised, because of the opinion given at Montclair, to see a movement again started for a change in government in this city. Commenting on the suggestion made at Montclair, the Newark Evening News says that there would be only one drawback to the idea, as proposed by the speakers in the Essex county town, and that would be an increase in overhead expenses, which would be overcome if a city charter provided directly for the manager. Continuing the News says:

"The Walsh act is intended to have the managing of the various departments done by the commissioners, and salaries are provided that are supposed to be adequate for officials devoting their entire time to their public duties. With a real city manager, however, the commissions would not be called upon to give all of their time to the municipal business. They would act in that event more in the capacity of a board of directors, while the details of the executive work would be looked after by the manager employed for that particular service.

"A city manager who could be depended upon to do a good job would be a high-priced man, without any conflicting personal interests to interfere with his official duties. The ordinary municipality could hardly afford to pay him a fitting salary when it was also paying substantially for the time of the commissioners. With a city manager law, in which the salaries were well balanced in accordance with the amount of work required, the commissioners would not be entitled to pull down the amounts now provided for them in the Walsh act.

"Perhaps if Montclair decides to adopt the Walsh act this year and wants the city manager plan to go along with it, it might elect commissioners who would be willing to turn back the greater part of their salaries into the town treasury and so make available a fund sufficient to pay a manager the amount that his services would be worth. It might prove difficult to find such self-sacrificing officials, but it is possible that this could be done. Then again Montclair might be willing to pay the salaries fixed by law, and the manager as well, in order to try out the system for the benefit of the other municipalities of the State, with the expectation of making a record that would impel the Legislature to supplement the Walsh act with a law that would recognize the city manager plan and provide for the equalization of salaries.

"Until it is proved that there is an actual demand for the city manager style of government in New Jersey, the Legislature is not likely to pass any bill that will further encourage reforms in the form of municipal government along non-partisan lines. There are too many men sent to Trenton who are indebted to leaders opposed to giving up party control of local affairs. It Montclair should lead in a move that would demonstrate that there is a public demand for the change, it would accomplish a good thing. Even if the town should adopt the Walsh act without trying the city manager plan, an advance would be made.

THE PLAINFIELD WAY.

Dr. Biederwolf will complete his work in Plainfield next Monday night with a farewell meeting. On Sunday residents of the city will be given an opportunity to express their appreciation of what he has done in a substantial way. As has been repeatedly told, the evangelist has not received one cent for his services here up to the present time. All the money that has been taken in the collections has been used to pay the actual expenses of the campaign, or has been given to charity, as in the case of the collections taken since April 30. Dr. Biederwolf will be paid and the amount of his salary will be fixed by the people of the city of Plainfield who have employed him. They are to determine just what they think his services are worth, and they will give to him according to that measure on Sunday. When the first meeting was held Dr. Biederwolf expressed some regret that the expense had been so great, and William D. Murray, chairman of the committee, replied that the expense had been great, but that they wanted to do things in the "Plainfield way," and he was sure that all expense would be paid. Now that it is about over, everyone knows that the "Plainfield way" is about right, and the expense was not too great for the results accomplished. And Dr. Biederwolf will learn, before he retires on Sunday night, that the "Plainfield way" will include a liberal and fitting recognition on the part of the people for the splendid work he has done here. In several ways this city has broken the records of the Biederwolf campaigns in other cities, and we expect to see the same thing done on Sunday when the collection is taken for the clergyman. The results warrant it.

United States Senator Martine is not to have such an easy time of it after all getting the Democratic nomination for re-election. After flirting with the suggestion for several months, and incidentally having a talk with President Wilson, whose name he will present to the Democratic convention next month, Attorney General Westcott has shied his hat into the ring, and will give Martine a run for his money in the primaries. And Mr. Westcott's close personal relationship with President Wilson, coupled with the fact that Martine has at times opposed the Executive on the floor of the Senate, leads to the belief that the former will at least have the moral, if not the active support of Mr. Wilson in his fight for the nomination. So "our own Jim" will have to bestir himself, and even then he will have hard going to land the nomination.

Recollections.

Backward, turn backward,
O time in thy flight,
Make me a boy again,
Just for a night.
Give me one slice of
The blueberry pie
My mother once made, to
Enjoy ere I die.
Please knock off three decades
And give me one chance
To strut once more in my
First pair of long pants.
Just let me play hookey
And stay out of school,
And plunge once again in
The old swimmin' pool.
Please loosen one moment
Your fettering chain
And let me enjoy my
First circus again.
Just let me go back to
A joy that's immense,
To that old knothole in
The center field fence.
But father's old trunk strap,
I care nought about,
And if you don't mind, you
Can just leave that out.

- Proctor's Theatre -

Mary Pickford Week is rapidly drawing to a close at Proctor's local theatre, a week that has been full of glad surprises for the many patrons of this cozy theatre, and in which a wonderful list of photoplay attractions were presented for the entertainment of local film fans. Today Miss Pickford will be seen in "A Girl of Yesterday," a charming Paramount picture that brings all her artistic and winsome traits to the fore with marked vividness. Charlie Chaplin will alo appear at Proctor's today in "The Floorwalker," the latest of his comedies, and the first one produced under his famous contract with the Mutual Company of $670,000 a year. Charlie is at his best in this picture, and as a department store furnished a worth of natural situations and scenes for burlesque, the result is a whole half-hour of uproarious merriment. Tomorrow two mammoth features will appear at Proctor's, both containing two of the greatest little stars in filmland. One is "Madame Butterfly," starring Mary Pickford, many of the scenes of which were taken right in this vicinity a short while ago, and the other is Mary Miles Minter, one of the youngest of screen favorites, who will be seen at the head of a wonderful cast in "Dimples," acknowledged by the majority of critics to be the most delightfully entertaining production in which this winsome miss has yet starred. Monday Victor Moore, the famous Paramount player, will be featured in "Chimmie Fadden Out West," adapted from the famous stories of the adventures of Chimmie Fadden, and the third episode of "The Mysteries of Myra" will also be on Monday's program. On Tuesday, by special request, the management will present Edna Goodrich in "Armstrong's Wife," a play that is worth going miles to see, and which marks Miss Goodrich's renowned for her beauty, first entry into the realm of the silent drama. In addition Tuesday De Wolf Hopper, one of the greatest of funmakers will be seen in a brand new Triangle production entitled "Sunshine Dad," and then there will be Ford Sterling in "The Snow Cure," a riotous Keystone comedy, and the twelfth episode of "Mary Page." Wednesday the feature attraction will be William Farnum in "The Man of Sorrow," while on Thursday Pauline Frederick will star in "Bella Donna."

DANGERS OF THE DEEP

--Astor Theatre--

Charlotte Walker, the clever American actress, will be seen at the Astor Theatre today in her famous character "June," in the Jesse L. Lasky production of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," a Paramount picture. The scenes of this wonderful story were laid in the wilds of the Cumberland mountains of Virginia, and is a romance of the lives of the beautiful daughter of a moonshiner and a handsome young officer in the employ of the government, and although he is forced to make the father quit his illegal traffic, wins the daughter's love. Miss Walker is supported by an all-star cast, including the ever-popular screen favorite, Theodore Roberts, and the ever-popular hero, Thomas Meighan. These players are well known to Plainfielders, for there past performances in the great productions shown here in the past. Tomorrow we will screen for your approval the Knickerbocker star feature, "Spellbound," with Lois Meredith in the stellar role, in five acts. When Lord Chief Justice Howell of Canada was in America on a visit he was treated to the spectacle of "seeing the movie made" in California. His visit was peculiarly opportune, for Harry Harvey, who was directing the staging of an English court scene for "Spellbound," pounced on the eminent justice and made him co-director in the staging of the picture. The result is a scene not only remarkable for its vividness, but equally remarkable for its correctness in every detail. In addition to this wonderful photoplay there will be shown the third episode of "The Girl and the Game," something pleasing for the kiddies, and other interesting photoplays. Always an attractive bill at the Astor Theatre—the house of first-run Paramount, Bluebird and other Broadway features. Get one of our programs giving you the features for the present and coming week, and see for yourself the wonderful photoplays the Astor Theatre presents to its patrons. Nothing too good for Plainfield. Why go to New York and pay big prices when you can see the same at home in a comfortable theatre which caters to your every want. You see them here first.

MRS. VANHOESEN SPEAKER AT RAHWAY HIGH SCHOOL

Mrs. Stephen G. Van Hoesen, district respresentative of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, spoke this afternoon in the auditorium of the Rahway High School, taking for her subject the humane treatment of dumb animals and making a special plea for co-operation on Humane Sunday, which will be observed next Sunday in all parts of New Jersey. She outlined the course of work proposed by the churches of the State for that occasion and urged the student body to attend in a group.

Mrs. Van Hoesen outlined in brief the work that has been done by her society in this section during the past two years and laid down specific rules to be followed by the coming generation to better humane conditions.

TROOPS IN COAHUILA TO GO NO FURTHER

Langhorne's Work Is Practically Done.

Boquillas, Tex., May 19 (by Courier to Marathon, Tex).—Large quantities of food for the American soldiers in the field on the expedition into Coahuila and oats for their horses are being rushed to the front by motor truck and mule train, but in spite of the aspect of permanence that this lends the officers and men of the expedition feel that its end is near. The food is badly needed for the immediate present and for the return of the troopers to United States soil.

The quartermaster's department does not make the brilliant dashes that the cavalry sometimes makes, as in the case of the present dash into Coahuila, and the twenty-seven motor truck loads of food asked for a week ago are just getting started from Marathon.

The expedition started out with a dual purpose—as a rescue force and a punitive expedition. In record time it has accomplished the one end entirely in effecting the rescue of the Americans held captive by the Mexican raiders, and the other in large part by dispersing the bandits and killing or capturing the bandit leaders. And so the American officers now in the field feel that the Coahuila expedition has little more to do.

The general belief of the officers is that the present American force in the field south of here will be retained approximately in its present position, as in the case of General Pershing's force, for a short time, probably a couple of weeks, and will continue to scout the vicinity in search of scattered members of the outlaw band that raided Texas territory, and then will be withdrawn to the border.

Walter R. Pearson, who made a big hit in this city the past season while playing one of the leading roles in a burlesque show, registered another success when he was seen yesterday at the Plainfield Theatre in his latest vaudeville novelty, "The Green Dragon." The production is described as "a Chinese fantasy," and Mr. Pearson impersonates a Chinaman in a manner as to make most people believe his own nationality is Oriental. He has the support of a specially selected company, and the fantasy is equipped with an elaborate scenic setting.

The ten youngsters comprising the "Juvenile Revue" are again on the Plainfield Theatre bill for the last half of the week because of their popularity Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The clever children have a number that is a refreshing novelty to local patrons, the ability of the principals producing open wonderment on the part of the spectators. Beside these two acts, other numbers on the program to be continued today and tomorrow are Jules Jordan, formerly starring in "Potash and Perlmutter," who present a comedy monologue act; Fisher, Lucky and Platt, comedians, and Harding and company, presenting the laughable sketch, "Friend Wife."

The latest Charlie Chaplin picture, "His Prehistoric Past," was presented at the theatre yesterday for the first time and proved to be the biggest scream of the season. The film is one succession of hearty laugh. It will be flashed on the screen again this afternoon and tonight for the especial benefit of those afflicted with the blues. The succeeding episode of "The Strange Case of Mary Page" is also scheduled for today, and the Pathe semi-weekly will be the picture feature tomorrow.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

I have read Mr. Depew's letter in your paper criticising my letter about John Koren and I would like to reply very briefly.

First. In regard to Mr. Koren's standing. In 1893 a number of well-known men organized themselves under the name of the "Committee of Fifty," and decided to make a thorough and impartial investigation of the liquor problem. They were men of the highest standing, including Charles W. Eliot, Seth Low, James C. Carter, Felix Adler, William E. Dodge, and others. Mr. Koren was one of two (Mr. Wines the other) to investigate the "legislative aspect" of the question, and their joint report, accepted by the committee, was published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co. in 1897. Mr. Koren alone was selected by the same men to investigate and report on the "ecomonic aspects" of the question. His report, accepted by the committee, was published in 1899. These are authoritative books of the highest standing. The "Atlantic Monthly" certainly needs no praise at my hands and the fact that Mr. Koren was selected to write the series of articles which they recently published is sufficient proof of his authority and responsibility.

Second. One of Mr. Koren's contentions is that Prohibition encourages the consumption of distilled liquor and discourages the lighter and less harmful beverages. Mr. Depew ignores the fact, as stated by the Internal Revenue Office (see N. Y. Times, May 14) that the consumption of whisky for the fiscal year ending June 30 will be 10,000,000 gallons more than ever before and beer 60,000,000 gallons less, and this in face of the fact that seven States have "gone dry" since July 1, 1915. Now it is useless to quarrel with me; I am not responsible for the facts. I only insist that the temperance people ought to face the facts and not ignore them.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Little Halmar Takes a Nice Sailing Trip.

Among Them Were Castles of Marble.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

AFTER supper daddy told Jack and Evelyn about Ole Shuteyes.

"Soon as a little boy, Halmar, was in bed Ole Shuteyes waved his wand, and all the furniture in the room began to talk. One picture was a landscape with tall old trees, flowers growing in the grass and a river flowing past castles on its way to the open sea.

"When Ole Lukoie touched the picture the birds in it began to sing, and clouds scudded along over the treetops. Now, Ole Lukoie lifted little Halmar out of bed up close to the picture, so that he could put his right leg into the frame and stand among the tall grass. He ran to the river and got into a little boat that lay there. It was painted blue and white, and its sails shone like silver. Six white swans, with gold crowns around their necks and a shining blue star upon their heads, drew the little boat past dark green woods, where the trees told Halmar beautiful stories about robbers and witches. But the pretty flowers all along the banks told him stories about elves and butterflies.

"All about his boat swam beautiful fish with silver and gold scales. Splash! they would spring up out of the water and almost into Halmar's boat. Behind him red and blue birds, large and small, flew in two long lines. The gnats buzzed and the cockchafers boomed. They all wanted to go with Halmar in his boat, and each one of them had charming stories to tell him.

"Oh, it was a sailing trip! Now, the woods Halmar passed were dark and thick, and now they were like lovely gardens full of sunshine and flowers. Among them were castles of glass and marble. Upon the balconies stood princesses, and they were all little girls that Halmar had known and played with at parties.

"They stretched out their hands, each one holding the most beautiful sugar toy that any cake woman could possibly make. As his boat sailed along past the park Halmar took hold of one of the toys a beautiful little girl held out to him. She held on tight, too, and the toy broke, but the princess kept the smaller piece and let Halmar keep the bigger. Beside each castle Halmar passed stood little princes as sentries. They each saluted him and showered him with sugar plums and tin soldiers. And all this time the birds in the picture kept singing and the flowers kept dancing on their stalks and the trees nodded just as if Ole Lukoie, the dustman, were telling them stories," daddy finished.

"Oh, daddy, we want to go on a sailing trip, too!" cried the children. And daddy gave them two big hugs.

Marrying a Butterfly

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

Ethel Finds It Easier to Be a Martyr Than a Manager.

Relations had been strained between Ralph Gordon and his wife ever since the scene caused by his objecting to paying the new maid $30 a month. Ethel had gone around with the air of a Christian martyr; had answered all his questions in a plaintive voice and displayed every exasperating symptom of patient endurance. Ralph's nerves were worn past endurance, and he decided to capitulate with as honorable terms as he could obtain.

Ethel had come in from the dining room and ensconced herself in an easy chair with a book. Ralph watched her furtively over the top of his paper for fifteen minutes. She had not turned a page. Finally he rose, and pulling an easy chair up to her side sat down, and drew her to his knee. With her head on his shoulder he felt that it might be possible to talk things out and come to some understanding.

"Ethel, I have been very cross," he began. "You know——"

"Yes," she whispered.

"But I have been so worried. I wonder if it will not be possible to make some arrangements that will straighten out some of our kinks." He smoothed the golden head as the spoke.

"It is you who have had the kinks. I have been good natured enough when you let me alone, but you have been so irritable that I have been glad when you were away." The voice was dangerously near tears.

"Well, we must see if we cannot plan so I will not be so worried about money matters," began Ralph. "I am not likely to have any raise in salary, and if we have got to pay this girl ten dollars more a month than we paid Minnie it must be saved somewhere."

"I have no new clothes to speak of, and I go nowhere. I do not see how I can save. It is the high cost of living that is to blame," said Ethel virtuously.

"High cost of living!" exploded Ralph. "That's just it. Why make it so high? You buy everything you see that you happen to fancy, no matter what it costs. What did those squabs cost that we had for dinner?"

"I do not remember. I did not suppose you could not afford to let your wife have what she wanted to eat." Ethel sat up and gazed indignantly at her husband. Ralph groaned.

"It is not necessary to pick out the most expensive thing to eat. Would nothing else satisfy you?" She did not answer. "And there is always an expensive box of candy standing around," he continued. "So much candy is not good for you; it spoils your appetite and it certainly runs up the bills enormously."

Great tears rose in Ethel's eyes They looked like violets full of dew. Her lips trembled as she said:

"You used to bring me boxes of candy and now you say we cannot afford to have any." The tears ran over the eyelids and rolled down her cheeks. Ralph kissed them away penitently and drew the head again to his shoulder.

"There, dear," he said, suppressing a sigh, "we will manage some way."

"You blame me for everything that happens," sobbed the little woman. "If you do not like what I buy, why don't you do the marketing yourself."

"I haven't time. Can't you see that my hands are more than full as it is." Ralph leaned back wearily and closed his eyes. "I thought you might plan to save in some way if you knew just how things are," he added after a pause. She did not reply.

"Couldn't you keep your housekeeping expenses inside a certain amount?" he persisted.

"I don't see how I can tell what things are going to cost before hand," she sighed, "but I'll try."

Gentlemen:

With reference to our use of electric power from your mains, we take pleasure in stating that we have found your service more satisfactory than the service we received from our own power plant, while we were operating it.

We are not only buying power from you for less than we can produce it, but your service is more elastic than the service would be if we were operating our own power plant.

Your current is on tap any time during the day or night we have use for it, and we can devote all our efforts to the production of the goods we manufacture without bothering about producing power.

One of the greatest advantages in buying electric power is that this plan facilitates the expanding of your plant, and increasing your output by simply connecting additional motors. Our investment in our power equipment is now limited to the motors and wiring. We feel we owe you a debt of gratitude for your part in influencing us to decide to buy our electric power.

Yours very truly,
Armstrong Cork Company.

Manager.

ONE OF the chief concerns of the Manufacturer is a constant, sufficient, and yet flexible supply of power. With this assured, he can give his entire attention to the production and sale of goods.

Are you so assured now?

No doubt you keenly appreciate the need of time given to output and marketing in these days of constantly increasing cost of raw materials, scarcity of labor and urgent demand for finished goods.

Are you able to thus utilize your time, or must you worry over the limitations or shortcomings of your own power plant?

You need not—in fact you can ill afford to burden yourself with the trouble and expense of manufacturing power.

—With a reduction in your profits, caused by unavoidable friction, losses of 27 per cent. to 50 per cent. (proved by numerous tests) of all the power you produce in a belt driven factory.

—With an underproduction in output of 10 per cent. to 19 per cent., due to belt slippage and insufficient power supply.

—And with the excessive cost of overtime operation due to the necessity of operating the greater part of the power equipment to supply only a few of the machines.

With Central Station Power

—You can give all your time and attention to the profitable manufacture and sale of your goods;

—Have an abundant supply of reliable power at any time of the day or night;

—Use and pay for only the power required to operate any one machine, or group of machines needed for overtime work,

—And have an elastic source of power that may easily and economically be increased as your business grows,

—If you purchase all your power from Public Service.

The benefits to be derived from purchased power may be proved by taking Public Service power as an auxiliary supply for breakdown service—or as additional power supply to meet immediate production demands or opportunities.

The capital required to increase your present power plant might then be invested in your business where it will earn more profits for you.

PUBLIC SERVICE operates twenty-two generating stations and sixty-one sub-stations, with a total capacity of over 300,000-horsepower—one of the largest systems of inter-connected electric power stations in this country.

Let us submit an estimate of the cost of operating your plant with Public Service Power. This estimate will cost you nothing and it may show you a way to save much.

Philadelphia.—Miss Esther Cleveland, daughter of the late president, has planned to go to France during the autumn to teach soldiers who have become blinded in the war. She is studying a system of alphabetical instruction at a school for the blind to prepare for the work. Miss Cleveland is an expert nurse. On her arrival in Paris, she will be sent to the American Hospital at Neuilly. Her companion in school here is Miss Maria Osborne, daughter of the president of the American Museum of Natural History.

She was a prominent school teacher before she married a newspaper man. When her husband became district attorney she assumed entire control of the paper. She also finds time for strawberry culture and automobiling, which are her favorite diversions. She has three children, whose interests she never neglects, and takes part in church affairs and in civic improvement matters.

WILL CHECK OFF THREE MORE TOMORROW.

Another week has rolled around and six City League club are ready to check off three more contests tomorrow afternoon. With Netherwood leading the way and two more positions divided up among the other five contestants the battling this week is certain to be keen. Other league talent is determined to root the champions out of the attic and it is a safe conclusion that the remaining five aggregations will get warmed up in the very near future and impress their ambitions on the minds of the East Enders. All will not be easy sailing for the Netherwoods in their second race pennantward, that's sure, for the clubs this year are better than those who fought it out in 1915 and the competition is getting to be of a higher calibre at each start.

NETHERWOODS HAVE HAD THEIR UPS AND DOWNS.

Speaking of the Netherwood champs it seems fitting at this time to pause and ponder over the fight they have already launched. Not satisfied with pulling down the "rag" last season the East End youngsters are hot on its trail again this summer and to date have made their bid pretty well felt. All has not been roses in the Netherwoods' path and we would not be exaggerating the truth to state that they have been subjected to more discouragement thus far than any of the other leaguers. The most recent slam has come in the taking away of their home field on Emerson avenue. This occurred during the past week but the Netherwood players have set to work with a will and are preparing a new diamond for tomorrow's play at South and Leland avenues. This is the kind of spirit that will make a success of the local loop and it's to be hoped that the other teams get a little inspiration from it.

IT MIGHT AS WELL HAVE RAINED ALL SUMMER.

Another week such as this has been will force scholastic baseball teams to pack their togs and call off competition. More games have been cancelled and postponed in Jersey this week than at any time before in recent years and it's one safe bet that the scholastic records will be minus many of their most important tussles when the statistics are made public. Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools have been among those hard hit and the inactivity is certain to cause a setback that will be felt badly in both camps. Practices as well as games have been called off and some kinks will probably be brought out in the next contests staged.

According to one of his worthy neighbors, Postmaster Hoagland has a goat. Scientists tell us waste-paper and tin-cans make an excellent diet for goats and if it can be proved that Mr. Hoagland's pet exhibits a fondness for side-dishes of paper we'll know just where to place the blame if any of our mail fails to reach its destination in the future.

Plainfield High is slated to meet Woodbridge on the tennis courts this afternoon. Inasmuch as hard and safe clouting is not essential to success in the racquet sport it's an even bet that the localites will at least make a creditable showing with Woodbridge.

Queries--Comment--Answers

Query—To settle an argument will you please say whether or not a man found guilty of driving an automobile while intoxicated can be given a fine instead of a jail sentence?—W. P.

Answer—Under New Jersey laws the police court judge must send the guilty party to jail for at least thirty days. There is no alternative.

Answer—Some days there are more than on other days and some months the sales at the Central Railroad depots exceed those of other months. According to the station agents the number lies in the vicinity of 2,000, this including the commuters from Grant avenue, Clinton avenue, North avenue and Netherwood.

Query—When does Mayor Calkins' term expire? May a man once defeated for the office of Mayor run a second time on the same ticket?—H. F.

Answer—Mayor Calkins is serving the last year of his present term. The citizen of average intelligence knows that a candidate once defeated is eligible to run again on the same ticket.

Query—When was the last Pan-American Congress held? Have these meetings been productive of any good?—J. U.

Answer—The last one was held at Buenos Ayres in 1910. These sessions have been productive of much good in developing friendly relations between the American republics.

Query—What is meant by naphthyl?—T. R. E.

Answer—It is a hydrocarbon obtained, together with other products, by heating naphthalene with a mixture of manganese dioxide and sulphuric acid, diluted with twice its weight of water.

Query—Is there an ordinance in Plainfield prohibiting the establishment of a pawn shop? If so, how does it read?—S. A.

Answer—There is no law prohibiting the establishment of them, but there is a city ordinance regulating them, and any pawnbroker desiring to open a business here must first make application to the Common Council for a license.

E. R. T.—You wrote to the wrong place. Beatrice Fairfax is who you are looking for, not the Daily Press.—Editor.

Query—To whom should I apply for information concerning a letter I know was sent to me from Canada two months ago and which has not arrived at this time? Would it be in the Dead Letter Office?—V. X.

Answer—Better consult Postmaster Hoagland, he can generally explain these delays or losses. If your letter was not properly addressed it might be in the Dead Letter Office at Washington, D. C.

WITH TEN "SKULLS" BAYONNE WINS OUT

P. H. S. Pitcher Flighty During Yesterday Afternoon's Game on Parker Field.

Wild pitching was partly the cause of Plainfield High School's 10 to 4 defeat by Bayonne High School on Parker Field yesterday afternoon. Ten walks were sufficient to get men on the bags, and three doubles, coupled with several one-sackers, were enough to finish the work.

Both sides drew one counter in the initial frame by hard sticking, the visitors counting on Smith's two-bagger. P. H. S. forged one run to the good in the second on two hits, a sacrifice and walk, but after one scoreless inning the Bayonne lads got to Victorson for four runs in a bunch. Apgar and Linke were responsible for two counters for Plainfield in the sixth, but in the next frame Victorson had a wild streak and passed three men in a row after two singles had been made and an error allowed another to get on, filling the bags, so that he forced three runs over. One more run raised the Bayonne tally to ten in the eighth, when Brady sent Napelbaum home with his two-bagger.

Plainfield's misplays in the field were not as numerous as usual, and at times they showed some excellent teamwork, especially in the third inning, when the first double play of the season was recorded. Linke made a nice stop of Manz's sizzler, and tossed to Semer, forcing Horweck at second, Semer throwing to first to get Manz. All the local swatters seemed to lack the punch when it was needed, Dunham being the only man to get more than one hit.

MAN COMPARED TO FITZ NO WILL O' THE WISP

"Mike" Gibbons, the so-called St. Paul phantom, was no will o' the wisp for "Ted" Lewis last night in their ten round bout at Madison Square Garden. Lewis was thought by many of the three thousand persons who saw the rattling affair to be nothing more than a set-up. In fact, quite a howl had been raised in certain quarters over the uneven quality of the match.

Still when the last gong sounded Mr. Lewis was right there in the centre of the ring swapping punches with the middleweight, who has been compared to "Bob" Fitzsimmons, "Tommy" Ryan, "Jack" Dempsey and all of that class who have passed out. "Ted," only a welterweight and giving away almost ten pounds, did more than most of the middleweights have ever done against the flashing speed of the St. Paul man. Lewis not only was willing to stand toe to toe with "Mike" and measure his strength against the Westerner in a close up swirl of fists, but he was willing to match punch for punch at long range, and most of the time he had the better of it.

TWELVE BOROUGHITES TRAVEL "S. O." ROUTE

Seton Hall Reserve Twirler Had Opponents Standing on Their Heads.

Unable to hit a southpaw delivery, North Plainfield High School folded their colors to the Seton Hall reserve team, yesterday afternoon on Hyde Field, by the score of 3 to 1. It was an interesting encounter for the entire nine innings, but the boroughites lacked the vim and dash which has characterized their playing in previous contests, while the confidence at bat was also a negligible quantity.

The locals seem to have difficulty in batting against left-hand twirlers, they making a similar showing against a portsider in the game with Carlton Academy. Only three hits were gleaned from the delivery of Weigand, while twelve of the adorners of N. P. H. S. uniforms took three "healthies" and sat down.

Dilts was doing the heaving for the borough nine, the five hits which he allowed his opponents being utilized and converted into runs. The North Plainfielders displayed the best fielding form of the year, they supporting their moundsmen in errorless tyle.

The only run secured by the boroughites came in the initial session. Townley, the first man to face Weigand, hit safely and stole second. A delay steal put him across the rubber when a low throw by the shortstop shot by third base. N. P. H. S. will meet an old rival tomorrow when Kearny High School appears on Hyde Field for the first time this season.

MURRAY AND BURKE "TAPPED" AT YALE

Plainfielders Are Chosen Members of University Fraternities at Ceremonies.

Yale's historic "tap day" ceremonies, at which forty-five junior men are annually elected to three senior societies, furnished few surprises yesterday. The exercises, as usual, were held on the college campus, and various juniors were slapped on the shoulder and told to go to their room, which remark is equivalent to an election to one of the three societies—Skull and Bones, Scroll and Keys or Wolf's Head. Among the large number "tapped" were two Plainfield boys, George M. Murray, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Murray, of West Ninth street, and Stanley Williams Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Burke, of Netherwood.

Skull and Bones, the oldest of the societies, elected a number of prominent athletes, among them being Harry W. LeGore, the football and baseball star; John W. Overton, the runner, and E. N. Harriman, stroke of the crew. The latter is the son of the late E. H. Harriman. Another election to "Bones" was H. S. Fenimore Cooper, a grandson of the author, James Fenimore Cooper. Cooper is a member of the relay team which recently equalled the world's record.

An election to the oldest society, "Skull and Bones" was refused by Mr. Murray, of this city, who later accepted an election to Wolf's Head. Mr. Burke was elected to "Scroll and Key." Both Mr. Murray and Mr. Burke were students in the local High School and the latter was graduated from the institution. Mr. Murray went to the Hill School at Pottstown, Pa., following one year spent in P. H. S. and prepared at the former school for Yale.

When the Netherwood champions entertain the Tabs tomorrow afternoon in one of the three weekly City Baseball League engagements the contest will be staged on the East Enders new field at the corner of Leland and South avenues. During the past week the league leaders were notified that the Emerson avenue field would be sliced up into building lots and as a consequence they had to look elsewhere for a playing site for tomorrow. The new diamond has been scraped and put in first class condition for tomorrows game. The Tabs, although now in third place, are playing good ball and are optimistic of their chances to be the first to pull down the colors of the title holders this year. With a clean slate of three games the Netherwoods have a one-game advantage over the Baptist and Hopes, who appear on the Clinton Avenue and Farmers' grounds, respectively, tomorrow.

Probably the only new face in tomorrow's contests will be that of Norman Barnes, the veteran local performer. He is slated to play first base for First Baptist and should greatly strengthen that outfit.

BURGLAR ENDS HIS LIFE--IN A MIRROR

Intruder Takes No Chances When He Finds Himself in a Glass.

A burglar with a lust for splinters shot and killed his own reflection on Wednesday night in the home of Philip W. Tunison, Jr., in East Main street, Somerville. His loot, packed in two large bundles, was found in the dining room, and his footsteps, all going in the same direction, were discovered in the yard. A large mirror was shot through the midriff.

Mr. and Mrs. Tunison were awakened by a revolver shot and the crash of glass. They called for help, and when after a few minutes neighbors arrived they investigated the cause of the disturbance and found that it was an interrupted robbery.

The situation made it clear that the robber had paused in his work to kill himself when he caught himself creeping up on himself. He probably ran from sheer embarrassment when he discovered what an extremely silly burglar he was.

BOY SCOUT FUND NOW TOTALS $200

Arrangements Are Now Being Made to Engage An Experienced Camp Master.

Following announcement that the special collection taken for the Boy Scout Camp fund at the Tabernacle last Friday night had netted $135, a friend of the scout movement contributed another $65, making the total in hand at present $200, or one-third of the total sought for this purpose.

An officer of the local scout Council said this morning that there was an opportunity for an experienced camp master to take charge of this camp under suitable remuneration this summer. It is especially desired to obtain the services of a man of balance and executive ability, who has had practical camp experience, along the line of constructive preparedness either as camp director or as a salaried camp commandant. Applications may be sent to Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., or to President Theodore G. Davis, of the Plainfield Boy Scout Council, both of whom have telephone connections.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.—Adv.

"A Message to Converts"

Sermon by the Rev. William E. Biederwolf at the Tabernacle Last Night.

Text, Phil. 1:6, "Being confident of this very thing, that He who began a good work in you will finish it until the day of Jesus Christ."

Some one has said that when Peter preached in his day it took only one sermon to convert 3,000 sinners, but nowadays it takes 3,000 sermons to convert one sinner and then he usually backslides.

Of course, that isn't so. The fellow who said it likes to play with words more than he likes to tell the truth. But it is true that the church is in a terribly backslidden condition. People will take an oath of allegiance and start in well; they'll give every indication and promise of being some acount for God and the Church, but the first thing you know they begin to drift and by and by they are missed from the prayer meeting and then they are missed from the church on Sunday morning, and after a few months more they are back with the old companions, back in the old life, and are lost to God and to the Church of God.

I had a friend by the name of Hadley who ran a mission in New York and a good many of his converts were of this class, and he had so much trouble with them that he said he thought the best way to make sure of them was to have a guillotine and chop their heads off as fast as they came.

It's a good deal like the Jew and the Irishman who were out in a boat and they got to arguing about religion. The Jew stood for the Pentateuch and Pat, of course, was for the Pope and the Catholic church. The discussion got rather warm and in their wrangling they upset the boat and out they both went. Pat could swim, and the Jew couldn't. The Jew went down once and as he came up Pat grabbed him and said, "Now do you believe in the Catholic church?" and the Jew said "No," and Pat let him sink. He came up a second time and Pat said again, "Now will you believe in the Catholic church?" and the Jew sputtered out "No," and down he went again. As he came up for the third and last time Pat grabbed him and said, "Do you believe in the Catholic church?" and Isaac knew it was all up with him if he didn't, and he said, "Yes, I believe." "Begorra, then," said Pat; "die in the faith," and he shoved him under.

Well, now that's an all-right remedy for backsliding, but there are just two things wrong with it.

In the first place it's a dangerous experiment, for if you don't hold out longer than some people do it's a pretty good sign you weren't converted at all. And then what? But in the second place a man's not converted merely to go to heaven when he dies. God wants you to live and to amount to something. Don't be what George Eliot in her "Mill of the Floss" calls a "mollycoddle." If you're going to be that sort of a spiritual jelly fish you'll just be washed about with the slow tide and of course you'll never arrive anywhere.

The purpose of this sermon tonight is to help you get started right. I hope every one of you has made up his or her mind to be a vigorous, high-souled Christian man or woman and not a dawdling, simpering, effeminate weakling. You've been floating down stream and now you're going to pull up. I know it's harder to pull than it is to float. And now I want to give you a few words of advice. They're out of the Word of God and out of my own experience and I know they'll help you.

1. Study the Bible.

If you expect to grow you must have the right kind of food and there's no thing so good for new-born children of the Kingdom as the sincere milk and the Simon pure, unadulterated meat of the Word of God.

Get a Bible of your own. And get a good one. Don't buy an expensive hat and a cheap Bible.

Then take every word of it as God's message for you. Never mind what the critics say. No other book has ever withstood such attacks. They've said, "This couldn't be," and "That couldn't be," but every time we've dug up some old tablet or discovered some old monument which showed that it could be and that it was.

I remember when I was a kid they said Jesus never fasted forty days, because no man could go that long without food and not die, but there was a fellow out in Illinois who said he'd try it and see if he couldn't call their bluff. His name was Dr. Tanner. Well, he fasted forty days and then said he'd go them some better and he never took a bit of grub for sixty-three days. And the old critics never opened their chops about fasting again.

Backed up by the Spirit of God, Samson one day slew a thousand of his enemies with the jawbone of an ass, but without this backing the higher critic preachers are trying to do the same thing with the same weapon.

Of course, there are things in the Bible you can't understand. It would be surprising if you could. But the Bible is a mine full of rich treasure and the deeper you dig the more you find.

In the Dresden gallery of royal gems is a silver egg and when you touch a spring it opens and discloses a golden chicken, and when you touch the chicken it opens and discloses a crown studded with gems; you touch the crown and it opens and discloses a magnificent diamond ring. And that's the way it is with the Bible. The more you study it the more you touch its successive springs, and as you go down into it you will find ever-increasing revelations of duty and wonder richer than the gems from any royal gallery.

2. Don't Forget to Pray.

There are too many church members that don't know how to pray. About all they know about prayer is what they read in a book or hear the preacher say on Sunday.

Some people pray only when they get scared or get in trouble, but if God ever brings them out it is not because he is answering their prayers; it's just to give them one more chance to get right with God and amount to something before they die.

Paul says, "Pray without ceasing." Now you can take that in two ways.

(a) It means to hold on to God until you get what you go for. The Bible says, "Knock and it shall be opened unto you." But some of you pray like the little boys ring a door bell on Hallowe'en night and then run away.

(b) And then it means to keep in touch with God; to commune with him. You can't always be on your knees, but your heart can, and that's the way to get your strength and grace and to get your life transformed.

There was one time a young girl who had a very beautiful character and she was most attractive and people often asked her to tell them the secreta of her beautiful life, but every time she would say, "Just wait until I am dead, then pry open the locket that hangs around my neck and you will know the secret," and when she died they pried it open and they found this verse of Scripture, "Whom not having seen I love." It was her communion with God that transformed her life.

You could be a millionaire in grace but most of you are satisfied with being hoboes. You go and beg for crumbs from God's table but if God had his way with you he'd give you a whole loaf.

If you pray you won't take somebody's piece of hand-painted china because you happened to get four of a kind or some other kind of a lucky hand.

If you pray, people won't look at you and say, "There goes an old skinflint of a deadbeat," because you'll pay your debts.

If you pray, nobody will ever have any occasion to call you beer swillers.

If you pray you won't go and see a chorus girl flop around with scarcely enough clothes on her to make a stocking for a Lilliputian.

If you pray there's some thinbs you won't do that a lot of you church members are doing now.

There isn't a better song for you to sing than:

"I need Thee every hour,
Stay Thou near by;
Temptations lose their power
When Thou art nigh."

3. Solve All Your Doubts by Giving God the Benefit of the Doubt.

Don't argue with the devil—hit him. He's older than you are and he's liable to get the best of you.

The whole thing is a question of bigness and littleness.

I get disgusted with these church members who are all the time trying to see how much of the world they can hold on to and still be Christians. They say, "Can't I be a Christian and play golf on Sunday? Can't I be a Christian and dance, and can't I drink beer, and can't I do this and can't I do that and still be a Christian?"

Oh, for any sake if you've got a streak in you like that, get rid of it. That's a piggish disposition. If you'd just get the hog out of you you wouldn't need to be carrying slop to it all the time.

Don't try to see how small you can be. I remember in Scranton there was a man who was a dwarf. He worked in the mines and every night about six o'clock he would go by the mission where I was preaching. He was a short little fellow and much deformed and had to walk with his head bent far down toward the ground. And every night, with his face all black with coal dust and with his dinner pail in his hand he would go by my place. And I used to feel so sorry for him, but oh, I have thought so many times since then that I would rather have a dwarfed and puny body if I could have a spirit in it like the spirit of Jesus than to have a big and able body with a soul in it that was dwarfed and shrivelled and atrophied and didn't care to grow and expand and be God-like. And I tell you now the only road to spiritual beauty and satisfaction of soul is the road that leads by the way of the altar and the cross.

And then there is another side to it. It's not so much a question as to whether dancing or beer drinking and some of these other things are wrong or right in themselves, but it's a question again of how big or little you are going to be. Something that may not hurt you may hurt somebody else. In Paul's day they sacrificed animals to the heathen gods and then sold the flesh down on the market. Some church members thought Christians ought not to eat it because it had been sacrificed to heathen gods. But Paul knew the meat was all right and he must have been down to the market one day to get a chunk of it for dinner and some of the church members saw him going home with it, and they told him they didn't think it was right and that he ought to set a better example, and Paul said, "The meat was all right, but if some of you fellows with a weak conscience are going to get offended at it, why I'll get along without it." And he threw it down. An old dog grabbed and shot around the corner with it. Paul said, "If meat make my brother to offend I will eat no meat while the world stands." That's the sign of a big man. And if by any sacrifice that I can make I can help and strengthen and uphold and save a weaker brother, I want to be big enough to make that sacrifice. Don't you?

4. Join the Church of Your Choice.

You say, "Can't I be a Christian and stay out of the church?" Well, suppose everybody said that? If it's right for one to stay out, it's right for two, and if it's right for two it's right for two thousand. And if everybody did like you want to do, we wouldn't have any church at all and we'd have a pretty mess on our hands.

But as far as you are concerned yourself, you'll make the biggest mistake of your life if you don't get into the church just as quick as you possibly can.

A young fellow who walked the aisle one night, said to his father the next day, "I've decided to be a Christian, but why is it necessary to join the church?"

"Well, my son," said the father, "there are a great many reasons why you ought to do it, but come over here and I'll show you one of the biggest ones." They went over to the grate that was full of live coals and the father took the tongs and picked up a coal that was red hot and laid it out on the hearth by itself, and as it began to cool off and lose its lustre and turn black and get cold the young fellow said, "That's enough, father; me for the church."

Do you see?

Yes, join the church. Don't wait until you find a perfect church, for that will be a post-resurrection church sure, and you can't afford to wait that long.

You say, "Which church shall I join?"

Join any of them.

Join the one where most of the people you associate with are members.

Join the one where the rest of your family are.

But join any one of them and you'll be a great deal better off than if you don't join at all.

Would you join a church where the pastor played cards and danced and preached little essays and criticized the Bible?

Not on your life.

"Well," someone says, "what would you do if you were already a member of a church like that?"

I wouldn't wait to get m hat.

But join the church. You need the church and the church needs you.

5. Support the Church with Your Pocketbook.

The church is the only institution where you are welcome to membership without paying. If you don't pay your dues in the lodge it's 23 for you. But I think the church is wrong. You ought not let anybody be a member unless they pay, and I'd make a rule that every member has got to pay one cent a week—at least one cent. Don't tell me you can't pay one cent a week and then go and blow wourself for a sack of peanuts or a nickel show or a dozen other things like that, you spend money for. Don't think I'm advocating any penny business for the church; the poorest of you can pay a nickel a week, but it's the principle of the thing I'm talking about. They don't need your penny but it's not fair to you to allow you to make a cheap skate out of you. Don't deadbeat your way through the church. Don't be a tight wad. Don't sing through your nose to keep from wearing out your false teeth. I heard of an old sponge in the church who was so stingy that every time they announced "Old Hundred" he would sing "The Ninety and Nine" to save one per cent.

You say you're poor. Well, you can give one cent, can't you? Well, then, make a vow to God that you'll give it religiously every week—some definite stated sum, no matter how small, and don't go and warm a seat for an hour and a half and take in all the service and then be so busy blowing your nose when the collection plate comes around and you can't see it. You may think you are worshipping God, but you're only making sport for the devil.

A woman wrote me a letter saying that she didn't feel welcome in the church because she couldn't pay anything and she spent two cents for a stamp to tell me. Why didn't she give that two cents to the church? You don't want to give; that's all.

Now you see what I'm driving out. I am lampooning you church members who can pay and yet go through the whole year and never drop a soumarkie in the collection plate. If you are going to keep up that kind of business, for Heaven's sake the next time the plate comes around take something out—it's for the heathen anyhow.

If a church has a membership of 300 you'd be surprised to know how many of them go a whole year through and never cough up a red copper. I tell you the church needs training here.

I heard of a little fellow who was in church one Sunday morning with his mother and when the collection was started, to her horror and humiliation she found she had left her pocketbook at home and she said, "Willie, what in the world shall I do?" And Willie said, "Here, Mamma, you take my penny and I'll hide under the seat." That little fellow had been so trained in the propriety and decency and good sense of giving that he'd rather hide under the seat than be seen in the house of God without a little something to drop in the collection plate. May the little fellow's tribe increase.

6. Go to Work.

Do you want to know how to defeat the devil? Well, one way is to keep busy and he won't bother you so much.

The other way is to be fixed for him when he comes. It's no kid-glove proposition. You want to go at him with a husking-peg, a pitch fork and a krautmaul. But what are you going to do if you're not in fighting trim? But you might as well lie on your bed all your life and expect your muscles to get into a Jess Willard condition as to take no exercise in the work of God and expect to grow strong and vigorous enough to put the devil out of commission.

Standing water always stagnates and so does a standing Christian.

Being a Christian is a good deal like riding a bicycle. You've got to keep a-going or you'll fall off.

I read of a little six-year-old philosopher who fell out of bed and bumped her head on the floor. She sat up and rubbed the sore place and said, "I dess I slept too near where I dot in." Now you've gotten into the Christian life, but if you lie down and go to sleep just where you got in you'll be likely to roll out at the same place.

But you can't push that illustration too far, because the Christian life is no feather-bed proposition. Paul says, "Don't go to sleep, but be up and on the job."

Two of the best rules for your Christian life are:

(a) Always witness for Christ. Do this whenever the opportunity comes. You'll be surprised what a difference it makes. Then do it whenever the occasion demands it. Don't allow people to sneer at your Christ and belittle your Lord. When some little lump-headed piece of sophisticated assinity laughs at religion or derides Jesus Christ or gets off a rotten story, don't sit there like a little coward and look sheepish. Rebuke him like a Christian gentleman ought to.

(b) The other rule is to win someone else for Jesus Christ. They saved a fellow from a wreck some time ago and when they got him out he was unconscious, and when they brought him back the first thing he said was, "There's another man." Saved himself, his first thought was for somebody else. God give you a spirit like that, and you'll never know what it is to be a Christian until you get it. You'll never know what it is to be happy until you have brought someone else to Jesus Christ, and if you die without trying it your last hours will be full of regret.

And now in a single sentence if I were to sum it all up I would say:

7. Trust and Obey.

1. Trust. Don't always be doubting your salvation. God says if you would confess and acknowledge His Christ he would save you, and that's enough.

I know I'm saved, not because I feel like it; not because I'm so good, but because thirty years ago I staked my all on His word. My reputation, my character, my soul, my future I piled on top of the Bible and when the Bible goes down and God goes down I'll go down with them.

2. Then obey. In the ultimate it's not your obedience that saves you; it's your faith. Trust Him and He'll make up for all you lack when you come to die. But of course you must do His will. Your obedience is a sign of your faith. Jesus says, "If you love me you will keep my commandments."

What kind of Christian is the church member who bobs up in church Sunday morning and then takes a header into the world on Monday, going to a dance on Monday night, a vulgar vaudeville on Tuesday night, a beer party on Wednesday night, a game of poker on Thursday night, another dance on Friday night, and then turns up in church again on Sunday morning, warms a seat for an hour and a half, drops a little money into the plate and then's off again in the same old way. "Why call ye me 'Lord, Lord,' and do not the things that I say?"

3. And then keep on going. If you fall don't throw up your hands and quit. I beat Zimmermerman in a bicycle race once. It was the year he became the world's champion. They gave him spans of horses, loads of presents and showered him with gold wherever he went. He was about the greatest peddler the world has ever seen. He rode what they called a Star wheel—a bicycle with the little wheel in front and a big high one behind. His feet didn't go round with the crank, but he pedaled up and down.

It was the opening race at Princeton University. Taxis and Murphy, two of the greatest riders in America, were there. They had gone into training early and Zimmerman just came over to open the season and see what he could do with them, but he hadn't done any training yet and so was no match for them. I had never been in a race that amounted to anything. I was what they call an amateur and so they gave me a handicap. You know what that is, don't you? They put me about a mile and a half around the track before they started—gave me that much of a start. Well, the pistol cracked and we commenced to peddle. In about one minute and a quarter I heard something go "phizz!" and I looked up and saw Taxis go by me, and then about twenty seconds later and "phizz!" Murphy went by me, and then it seemed like it was only about five seconds and something else went "phizz!" and I looked up and saw Zimmerman shoot by me. But I just kept on and pretty soon Zimmerman saw he couldn't catch the other two fellows and he got off his wheel and stood by the side of the track and in a little while, "phizz!" I went right by Zimmerman, and when the judges called out the winners it was Taxis, first; Murphy, second; Biederwolf, third, and Zimmerman, fourth. I beat him. He didn't stay in the race.

Keep on going. You know Paul says there is a prize for every one who stays in the race to the end.

And now I wonder how many of you other people want to join this great crowd and go with us in the Christian way. I think it would be better for some of you never to have been born than to have lived in Plainfield in days like these and not to have stepped over into the Kingdom of God. You know you've sinned; you know your sin will lose for you your soul; you don't want to die without Christ. Then why live without Him?

Some of you tonight are like the man in the flood. It was when the Allegheny and the Monongahela rivers went on a rampage. The people saw him swept down the current holding on to the roof of an old shed. They ran out on a bridge and let down a rope but as he came sweeping along he thought, "If I let go the roof and miss the rope I am lost," and so he held on with one hand and reached for the rope with the other, but missed it. They ran to the other side of the bridge and shouted, "There is another bridge below," and the people there let down a rope and he missed it again in the same way because he was afraid to run the risk. They ran to the other side of the bridge and shouted, "There's just one more bridge below; there's just one more bridge below," and he came along to the last bridge, he said, "If I miss the rope this time I am lost anyway," and so as he swept up to it he let go with both his hands and reached out and caught the rope and they pulled him up and saved his life. And there are some here tonight and bridge after bridge has been passed, rope after rope has been thrown out, call after call, invitation after invitation has been given, and there's just one more invitation, just one more rope, and to miss it now is to be swept away and to be lost forever. God help you to catch hold of the lifeline tonight.

LITERARY

HOW TO BE EFFICIENTLY WED.

In the June Woman's Home Companion is an article entitled "How I Made a Good Husband of My Son" in which the writer lays down some rules for a course of domestic training for bachelors, who are thinking of being married.

"Besides heating the house," he says, "a man should have a thorough theoretical, and a simple, practical knowledge of plumbing, so he can be beyond the mercy of an ignorant or dishonest plumber. The upkeep of all the furniture is your province; you should be able to replace a castor automatically, or in your sleep put on the pull of a bureau drawer.

"Of course he will not call in a painter when floors or woodwork need painting, or a man to replace panes of glass or put up shelves, or any of the smaller tinkering around the house, any more than his wife should hire a woman to darn the stockings or do the small mending.

"One of his most important duties is to see that each window and door is properly screened. He should keep all the shades in proper order and see that the windows work easily and smoothly; also keep the lock of all doors in perfect order. He should have a general knowledge of building materials, so he will be able to advise his carpenter. Naturally, too, he will keep the knives in proper condition, and no young man should wait until he is married to learn how to carve."

OUR POLITICAL SECTIONS.

"The elements of political division are still [illegible]graphical. The different parts [illegible] intry possess different charac[illegible] which, if combined, are [illegible]roviding a high standard [illegible]nent, but when estrang[illegible]ion, lead to dangerous discor[illegible] was shown by the refusal of a number of central congressmen to vote for the minimum military protection necessary to guarantee our seaboard States from invasion. The characteristics of the various regions can be described in complimentary or acid phrase, according to the temper of the critic.

"A dispassionate observer might call New England thrifty, New York and Pennsylvania hard-headed, the West idealistic, the South devoted to tradition. The public men of the different regions who are on each others' nerves use sharper language.

"New England is accused of 'hypocrisy.' One day while listening to a conversation between a New England Congressman and one from another part of the country I heard an illustrative bit of dialogue. The New England man said he could not vote for a certain measure because of his New England conscience, to which the other replied:

"'Yes, that is the most convenient thing in New England. It is a habit of mind which believes that the material welfare of New England is the highest moral law of the nation.'

"The New York trait is said to be cynicism, as is natural to the State which harbors the greatest gambling institution in the world; also arrogance, as becomes the home of wealth. The South is accused of an undying persistency in fighting the Civil War, while the West, in the opinion of the more sophisticated parts of the country, is given over to fool notions."—Robert R. McCormick, in the June Century.

UNEDUCATED HORSE "CRABS" GOOD ACT

Animal's Stage Fright Puts "Patsy" Riccardo's Drama "on the Bum."

An attempt on the part of "Patsy" Riccardo, porter at the Elks clubhouse, to shine as a dramatic star, was frustrated at the Plainfield Theatre's weekly amateur performance Wednesday night through the carelessness of a horse chartered for "Patsy's" thrilling war drama, "Capturing Villa." The plot and incidental music were written by E. Y. Neighbour, and if carried out according to his ideas would have been a howling success. Mr. Riccardo, playing the part of "General Jose Yenz," an American army officer, was supported by Henry Field, janitor of the Elks Club, playing the part of Villa.

Everything was going fine at the beginning of the drama, but when the General attempted to chase the Mexican bandit leader and slay him with a "prop" sword, the stage-frightened horse refused to move across the stage. "Patsy" emptied his borrowed revolver of its blank cartridges, stage hands banged the panic-stricken horse with every conceivable weapon, and the gallery gods howled in derision—but there was nothing to it. The only forward movement the equine would make was just enough to trample to pieces a five-dollar bouquet passed across the footlights by a contingent of fifty applauding Elks who occupied the boxes and forward orchestra seats. Villa himself stopped running away to coax the horse to chase him, but it only added to the animal's terror. "Patsy" finally give up in disgust, beating a hasty retreat off the stage without getting in a thrilling combat with swords which he and Mr. Field had practiced for several weeks under the leadership of Manager Shannon. He asked permission to give this later, but got "cold feet" when the patrons of the peanut seats indicated by their shouts that they wanted "General Jose Yenz" hung at sunrise.

An inquiry at the box office brought an explanation as to why the horse refused to do his part. "Patsy' sent a note to Dan Keiderling asking for a "noble charger" from his stock of livery horses, and the foreman of the stable thought the message read "not much charge," as a result he sent an animal to the theatre that had no dramatic education and consequently was unable to handle its sudden burst into popularity. Mr. Neighbor promises to rewrite "Capturing Villa," and Mr. Riccardo will try it in the near future with the aid of one man, two dogs two swords—but absolutely no horse.

MARTINE STICKS TO OPPOSITION

Will Hold to Vote Against Rublee.

DOESN'T FEAR PRESIDENT

Not Afraid of Administration Getting Back of Westcott's Candidacy—Declares He Cannot Be Scared—Refuses to Reconsider His Decision.

Washington, May 19.—Senator Martine has made another declaration of independence. He avowed that whether or not the administration got in back of the senatorial candidacy of Attorney General Westcott in order to "punish him" he would not reconsider his vote to reject the president's nomination of George Rublee for the federal trade commission.

Although the senator continues to hear from a good many of "my good, progressive friends" protesting against his joining with Senator Gallinger against Rublee, he stated that no one had given him a sufficient argument to make a change in his vote.

The senator has no information as to the administration's intentions toward the Westcott senatorial candidacy. He merely has the suspicion—entertained by others—that the president's decision to have Judge Westcott renominate him is not unconnected with the movement to separate Martine from the Democratic nomination.

"They can't scare me, though," says the senator.

There is strenuous wire pulling going on to save Rublee. The prospect is fairly bright. Senators Gore, Lee, Taggart and Cummins, who were absent at the last roll call, will be present when the vote to reconsider occurs next Tuesday. They are all credited as favorable to Rublee. Their votes would make a tie, and Vice President Marshall, who votes in a deadlock, is counted for Rublee.

There is also a plan to have some of the Democratic opposition to Rublee—men who feel they must vote nay as a matter of senatorial courtesy to Gallinger—to absent themselves when the vote comes. Friends of Rublee who are also friends of Mr. Martine are hopeful that Mr. Martine will find it convenient to have an engagement that will keep him away from the senate chamber.

FIREMEN ARE INJURED.

Camden Fire Does Damage Estimated at $75,000.

Camden, May 19. — Three firemen were injured during a fire at the plant of George Boyd & Sons, candy specialists and sirup manufacturers, at Delaware avenue and Penn street, causing a loss estimated between $50,000 and $75,000. All were removed to the Cooper hospital suffering from broken legs and other injuries.

Four alarms were turned in that brought the entire fire department of the city to fight the fire and prevent the flames from spreading along the river front to the Campbell Soup company, Evanson Soap company, the lumber yard of the Victor Talking Machine company and other buildings in the immediate vicinity.

The fire started in the mixing room on the fourth floor of the seven story brick building. It was discovered by the watchman, and it took him half an hour to locate it. By this time the flames had gained considerable headway. It was directly under a large water tank on top of the building, and soon the flames had burned the bottom out of the tank, causing the water to flow down the elevator shaft.

TRENTON MAY WALK.

Trolley Men Threaten Strike to Back Up Comrades.

Trenton, May 19.—The Trenton and Mercer County Traction company has received demands to reinstate fourteen discharged trolley conductors, one of them the president of the local union David H. Coleman, in order to avoid a strike of all its employees.

The trolley men allied with the union have decided to stand by the discharged conductors, who were accused by the company of dishonesty, according to report. The men deny the accusation.

ACQUITTED OF MURDER.

Jury Finds For the Defendant In Wyckoff Mystery.

Flemington, May 19.—After deliberating an hour and a half a jury acquitted William Henry Wyckoff of the murder of Richard J. Wyckoff, an aged farmer, who was found beaten to death in his home last February.

The murdered man's housekeeper, Catherine Ann Fisher, was found shot to death in the barn at the same time.

War Spoils Greatest Show.

Trenton, May 19.—Having been offered $5 a day to work in munitions plants in and around Newark, 150 circus hostlers quit Barnum & Bailey's show when it was about to start for Trenton, and as a result the trains arrived too late to give the advertised street parade, and the afternoon performance, scheduled at 2 o'clock, was delayed to 5:30.

Vol. 1, No. 31 NEWARK, N. J., MAY 19, 1916 Priceless

One of the best signs of the times is the co-operation being shown between the merchants of Newark in the "Buy It In Newark" enterprise.

As most folks know, the dominant idea in this movement is to encourage the people of Newark themselves to trade in Newark and more particularly the people in the towns of northern New Jersey.

Newark's stores are well equipped and amply stocked and are giving service of such character as enables them to satisfy practically any demand that may be made upon them.

Next week is set aside by the enterprising merchants of the community as a week of demonstration of their ability to serve, in which this store will join heartily.

We begin our demonstration tomorrow and we invite our out-of-town friends to come to Newark and profit by what we offer.

you to express if possible a few of the unanimous opinions that have come to me from members of our association in the State.

"If you can arrange to give this letter the same publicity the scurrilous articles received, so much the better, as we have been made the laughing stock of every one who has read the articles mentioned.

"In the first place the general opinion is that the articles mentioned above have libeled us by inferring that the postmen will greatly regret the lack of beer or liquor at the Convention, or that they are coming to Plainfield for no other purpose than to spill intoxicants into their system. They feel that they have been subtly maligned without any real accusations being made. They also feel that they ought to be able to attend the Convention without being placed in the position of being held up as the horrible examples who have been deprived of their liquor fr one afternoon. Let us say right here, while I think of it, that the letter-carriers of this country are so sober and industrious a class of people on the average as there are in the country, and the files of the post office department will prove it.

"The different branches of our association that have accepted your invitation, have not done so with the idea of getting their stomache full of beer, but because they wanted to show, in a measure, the strength of their organization, and to help out a small branch that has had the pluck to take and hold a convention of this size.

"They are sacrificing their half-holiday (one of the few they get in a year) which could be spent with their families in a much more enjoyable manner.

"It costs each man in our branch one dollar and twenty-five cents car fare to go to Plainfield, and if the only reason for his going there was the beer that he would get free, I think they would all stay home and spend the dollar and twenty-five cents on twenty-five beers at home. There is a superabundance of saloons in Hoboken, and we do not have to wander from our own fireside to get all we want.

"It seems to a great many of the men to whom I have spoken that this whole matter of publicity has been engineered for the sole purpose of helping some temperance agitators who can think of no better way of furthering their own cause than by casting reflections upon the sobriety of the carriers.

"Anybody that tries to boost themselves up by knocking down others will fall ignominously.

"There is another misunderstanding on the part of the persons that published the articles mentioned, and that is this: They have forgotten that they are to act as hosts on that occasion and that they have the privilege of serving anything they desire. The guests of the occasion ought not to be censured because the hosts do not feel like serving certain liquid refreshments.

"This whole matter ought to have been settled amongst yourselves in Plainfield, without any undue notoriety, and it would not have made a difference of one per cent. in the attendance whether you served beer or not. I do not know whether I have made myself clear or not on this subject, but I at least have given you some of the impressions that are at present prevailing in the minds of our men, and unless there is something done to counteract those articles in the papers, you will probably find that on Decoration Day a great many men who are strictly temperate will stay away on account of the reprehensible notoriety the parade and convention have received."

DEATH COMES TO STEPHEN BABCOCK

Prominent Member of Seventh-Day Baptist Church Passes Away at Yonkers, N. Y.

Stephen Babcock, for many years president of the American Sabbath Tract Society, and also president of the Seventh-Day Baptist General Conference, died this morning at his home, 48 Livingston street, Yonkers, N. Y. He had been ill for more than two years because of a stroke of paralysis. The funeral will be held at Livingston street residence Sunday afternoon at 2:30 and will be attended by a representative body of members from the Seventh-Day Baptist church in this city and local men who knew the deceased intimately.

Mr. Babcock, who was eighty years old, was a remarkable man in more ways than one, particularly because he was a power and wielded an influence for good despite the fact that he had been sightless since boyhood. Beside his connections with the Sabbath Tract Society and the Seventh-Day Baptist General Conference he was the presiding head for many years of the New York Institute for the Blind. He came to Plainfield regularly for a long time to attend the monthly meetings of the Tract Society, ceasing his visits only when his fatal illness began and at which time he was made honorary president.

Mr. Babcock's only near surviving relative is his wife, although he had numerous distant relatives, several of whom are in Plainfield. He was connected by marriage to the Charles Potter family, Mr. Potter, now deceased, being the founder of the Potter Press Works. The interment will take place at Mr. Babcock's boyhood home at Ashaway, R. I.

APPROACHING WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Morgan, of Scotch Plains, have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ellen Ridley Morgan, to Frank Carrington Woodruff, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Woodruff, of 26 Seminary avenue, Rahway. The nuptials will take place at All Saints' church, Scotch Plains, on Thursday, June 1, and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride-elect's parents.

HOW CERTIFIED MILK IS MADE

Plainfielders Enjoy "Personally Conducted Tour" of Wood Brook Farms.

DAIRY IS A MODEL ONE

Party is Guest of Management at Appetizing "Spread," after which an Inspection of the Place is made and Methods of Production Shown.

Producing nearly 1,400 quarts of certified milk every twenty-four hours under the most approved conditions which insures its absolute safety not only as a beverage, but a food, for persons of all ages, is an achievement of which anyone might be justly proud. This is what is being done at the Wood Brook Farms which, under the careful and highly-efficient management of William S. Tyler and C. B. Tyler, has really become a Plainfield institution.

Through the courtesy of the management a party of Plainfielders were delightfully entertained at the farm last night, and after all had enjoyed a delightful appetizing "spread," a personally-conducted tour of the farm was made, when the modern methods employed in the production of milk was witnessed and explained in every detail. Well-appointed and thoroughly sanitary buildings situated on a beautiful stretch of 275 acres of land, where the cows find ideal pasture, house these cows and they are kept under the most careful supervision. There are now about 200 cows at the farm, and in addition to being carefully groomed both night and morning by a large corps of help they are regularly subjected to the tuberculin test, which, after all, is the most important factor in the entire procedure of milk production, when it is realized that about 60 per cent. of all cows have traces of tuberculosis in some form or other and that 80 per cent. of the children contract the disease during their early life through milk.

The management have "gone the limit" in providing safeguards against the spread of any disease through milk produced on its farm. Every cow is practically given a bath night and morning, antiseptic solutions being used in cleaning the udder and those parts of the animal which are liable to carry germs of any kind.

The cows are brought in from the pasture about an hour before milking time so as to permit the settling of any dust, etc., as another preventative. The greatest care is used by the men milking and handling it, the milkers being required to thoroughly cleanse their hands, and throughout the whole process the milk does not come in contact with the hands. Each pan of milk is weighed, placed in large covered cans and sent on trolleys to an enclosed room where it is bottled. The cooling process takes place after bottling—the very latest method—and is then placed in a refrigerator until ready for delivery. The same care is exercised in the making of buttermilk.

The ice used on the farm is manufactured right there and here again great care is used, purity being the objective point. Within the past few days the Union County Medical Milk Commission was incorporated, and it will have supervision over this dairy. The management of the farm is especially anxious that the people of Plainfield become acquainted with the methods of producing milk there, and visitors are always welcome.

Constant supervision of the farm in every detail is the work of Philip D. Atwater, who is unusually well qualified for this important position. After being graduated from Harvard University and the New York University Law School, Mr. Atwater took a special course in the Oregon Agricultural College and he is conversant with his work to the last degree.

Those who were privileged to enjoy the hospitality of Wood Brook farms last night were Mr. and Mrs. Laurens H. VanBuren, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Frost, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie R. Fort, Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Dobbins, Mrs. Ursula Conrad. The hosts were Mr. and Mrs. C. Boardman Tyler and William S. Tyler.

CHARGED WITH CRUELTY TOWARD DUMB ANIMALS

Walter Ford, colored, who lives on Filmore avenue, was arraigned in court this morning on a charge of cruelty to animals. Complaint against him was made by Mrs. Van Housen, agent for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. He entered a plea of not guilty, and the case was set for Monday morning.

JUDGE ORDERS VERDICT IN SUIT FOR DAMAGES

GEORGE HERMAN BABCOCK CELEBRATES NATAL DAY

George Herman Babcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Babcock, of West Eighth street, proved to be an entertaining host to thirty-four young friends, yesterday afternoon at his home between the hours of 3:30 and 6. The occasion was the celebration of the sixth natal anniversary of the young man. The thirty-four guests ranged in ages from four to six years.

The rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion, pink and white being the prevailing color scheme. There was a profusion of spring flowers used and dainty favors were given each attendant. Mrs. Babcock received the many youngsters and the Misses Monica Sharretts and Marie Boles entertained them during the afternoon with a program of varied features. A feature of the refreshments served was a huge pink and white birthday cake lighted up with six candles emblematic of each year of little George Babcock's life.

ASKS REPRIEVE IN LYNCH CASE

Wilson Cables Demand For Delay.

IS CALLED FROM THEATER

Former New Yorker Sentenced to Death as Irish Rebel—Senator O'Gorman Acts to Prevent Execution President Is Hurriedly Advised by Secretary Tumulty.

Washington, May 19.—The life of an American citizen sentenced to be executed by an English firing squad in the Tower of London depends upon the respect paid by the British authorities to a demand made by President Wilson that a reprieve be granted.

The American is Jeremiah C. Lynch, formerly of New York, who is accused of complicity in the recent Irish revolt. He has been tried by court martial and found guilty. A stay of execution was practically demanded by President Wilson as a result of information regarding the case laid before him by Senator O'Gorman.

Senator O'Gorman acted on the entreaties of friends of the supposed Irish sympathizer in New York. When he went to the White House to appeal to the president to utilize the power of the United States in order to obtain a greater assurance of justice for one of its citizens the president was at the theater with Mrs. Wilson.

President at Theater.

The senator found the president's secretary, Joseph Patrick Tumulty, and laid the case before him. He said that already it might be too late for the United States government to accomplish anything in Lynch's behalf. If action were delayed until the president returned from the theater, he said, it almost certainly would be in vain. Summoning a White House automobile, Mr. Tumulty hastened to the theater where the president was sitting with Mrs. Wilson and called him to the back of his box for a conference.

Mr. Tumulty's entry produced a little flurry of excitement in the crowded theater, where the president and his secretary had been recognized. Leaning over the president's chair, Mr. Tumulty presented Lynch's case as forcefully as he could. The president listened gravely.

After learning the facts, the president directed Mr. Tumulty to get in touch immediately with Acting Secretary of State Polk and inform him of the president's wish that he cable to the British foreign office with all possible dispatch, asking that Lynch's execution be postponed until the United States could make inquiries as to the evidence against him and an opportunity be afforded for relatives here to present new facts.

O'Gorman Explains Action.

Senator O'Gorman, when apprised of the action of the president, said:

"I acted at the request of friends and relatives of Lynch in New York. Of course the information that sentence had been pronounced upon him for execution made it necessary that the president act immediately if he was to act at all, so I hurried to take the matter up with officials at the White House.

"My information as to the Lynch case was of a general character. The outstanding facts on which I formed the judgment that the United States might properly intervene in his behalf were that he was a citizen of the United States and that he had been sentenced to death by a hastily convened court martial on foreign soil.

"The manner of his sentence is so offensive to our American ideas of judicial procedure that I do not believe the government of which he is a citizen could permit it without protest."

State department officials believe that the hastily sent message of the president will reach London before the hour set for Lynch's execution. They are confident that if the message is received in time the desired stay of sentence will be granted.

This postponement probably will be for an indefinite period. It is anticipated that the American ambassador at London will be instructed to make a personal examination of the evidence in the case and the manner in which Lynch was brought to trial.

TENT LIFE IN TRAINING CAMPS TO MAKE MORE CAPABLE WOMEN

The woman's training camp idea, rapidly gaining popularity in the United States, received new impetus this week. At the woman's training camp just opened in Washington, where are gathered women from all over the country, Mrs. George Dewey, Mrs. George Barnett, Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, Mrs. F. F. Fletcher and Mrs. Hugh L. Scott, wife of General Scott now conferring with the Mexicans, were prominent participants.

The President of the United States was present on the opening day and addressed the camp. On this occasion Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Barnett and Mrs. Fletcher, representing the army, marine corps and navy, respectively, "manned" the lanyards and hauled the stars and stripes to the top of the flagstaff.

The physical side of the training camp idea is strongly emphasized in the national capital camp. Susanna Cocroft the noted health expert, of Chicago an enthusiastic supporter of the camp idea, was one of the prominent women invited to talk to the "dimpled rookies."

"I believe in training camps for women," she said, "not because I believe that these will be put to the actual test of war. I hope that this war in Europe will teach us a lesson and that we will never have another. But because I believe every mother's son and daughter will be a better man and a better woman if they will give their time and thought and energy for a certain period of their lives, be it six months or a year, to something outside of their personal interest.

"We of America, in our smug self-complacency, have become too self-centered—purblind to other than self-interest. The consecration of devoting a definite part of our thought and life and energy to the nation would result in that nation's good, through the good to the individual citizen.

"The self-sacrifice, the surmounting of hardships, the learning to subdue self-will by putting oneself under discipline and guidance of others, the ability to see the good of the many as above the good of the one, means to build character. It means a broader self and it means the making of men and women.

"To live in tents means to appreciate the value of fresh air. The physical training means the surmounting of minor ailments; it means a recognition of physical conquests over the physical self; it means better health, strength and vitality, and the power of resistance. All of these work for the greater good to the individual and to the nation.

"I should like to see a certain portion of every life given to active work, not idleness, in camp life under direct and definite training.

"Such training, such consecration, would make us realize broader issues; would awaken us to our own and our nation's possibilities. Life, as we came from these camps, would take on a different aspect, greater freedom and greater enjoyment.

"We talk much of self development through unselfishness, but we do not put our ideas into actual practice."

Week-Ending with FASHION

Premet has Designed this Adequate Country Costume for Any Hour of the Out of Door Day a tie of braided white worsted with tasseled ends. The tan linen frock is accompanied by white canvas sport shoes, a white crin hat trimmed with white silk and gardenias, and a parasol in tan, green and white.

Sport Clothes For All Hours of the Day.

The sport girl does not hesitate about what to take to the week-end party. She knows pretty well which of her favorite sports will be available; packs a box with golf, tennis or boating clothes, tucks in a dinner gown and a negligee—and is quite ready. An irreproachably correct golf costume is pictured—an eminently correct little rig for May days in the country. Skirt and jacket are of English reversible fabric, the plain side out in the jacket and the checked side visible in skirt, pocket facings and cuffs. Sport shoes and hat and a silk sport shirt with wide, immaculate collar give the finishing touches.

An adequate sport costume for general out-of-door wear in the country is illustrated in the Premet combination of coat, skirt and hat. This coat, of dull green tussah, is especially smart and the tall collar, set low in the neck opening and the pouch shaped pockets are distinctive touches. The coat accompanies a green and white blazer flannel sport skirt, laced sport shoes of white canvas and a matchless sport hat of leghorn, bound with green ribbon and trimmed with a white silk band embroidered with green arabesques.

The Dinner Costume Important.

Everybody will dress up elaborately for dinner—be sure of that and prepare accordingly. The woman who trails around the golf links all day in a badly cut plaid skirt and weather beaten jacket may appear at dinner hour in the most brilliant costume in the room. A black evening gown is always a wise choice and one woman who makes many week-end visits has two under-bodices for her black tulle dinner gown; one mostly tulle so that the effect is very decollete; and the

What To Take On the Week-End Trip and How To Carry It - Smart Traveling Clothes Usher One In Correctly - Dance Frocks for the Evening, Sport Togs for the Morning, a Safe Rule.

CAN you come to us over the week-end? Just an informal party—the Carringtons and one or two others whom you like. A car will meet the 4.15 from town on Saturday. Am counting on you to make the party completely delightful, so do wire at once that you will come."

A brief and friendly message like this; or perhaps a more formal invitation indited weeks in advance of the occasion summons you to the delights—or perchance the disappointments—of a week-end gathering in the country. And receiving the summons, after writing, wiring or 'phoning your pleased acceptance, you immediately turn to vastly important considerations of "what to wear." This will be determined, of course, by the sort of week-end festivity you are going to; if the party is to be at a big country house with a garage full of luxurious cars and a full complement of serving men and maids to make the domestic wheels run smoothly you will need rather an elaborate outfit; if the week-end is to be up in the woods at a modernly equipped hunting lodge, still another sort of outfit, equally elaborate, will be required. If you are merely to stop over Sunday with a young married couple living in a pretty suburban home and keeping a single maid, everything you need can be packed in the week-end suitcase.

Two things, however, you will almost invariably need in any case, a complete motoring outfit and a very smart dinner gown which will serve for bridge or dancing in the evening. Sport clothes of smart yet simple style will stand you well anywhere in the country from breakfast time until late in the afternoon, and it is always well to have with one a dainty negligee with boudoir cap and slippers to match. I know of nothing which makes one long for home more than being without easy lounging garments for one's room during a time when most of the hours are spent on dress parade in the more or less mentally keyed-up state of visiting.

What a Fashionable Week-End Requires.

Suppose, however, that the week-end invitation bids you to a large country house where several other guests are expected. There are certain things in the way of entertaining that will almost surely be part of the program and for these you must prepare. Sport clothes of very correct type will be the mainstay of your wardrobe; unless you are the sort of woman who does not feel at her best in these tailored things. In that case, provide a good looking linen or pongee silk frock with hat and parasol to match—the sort of costume that will look well in a possible trip to a country club, or merely strolling about under the trees and having tea on the terrace. A "little morning dress" you will not be likely to need so do not fill up valuable space in the trunk with it. Nobody appears until eleven or twelve o'clock at a fashionable week-end party. Breakfast is served in the rooms and unless you have a particular engagement to ride or play tennis or sail with somebody in the morning hours, there is no necessity for leaving your room at all.

Just the sort of negligee for a week-end visit is the one pictured. The graceful over-drapery of cream lace falls in points weighted with silk tassels over a slip of pleated crepe de chine, this slip attached at the high waistline to a waist portion of chiffon. The lace drapery is caught to the foundation gown under flat bows of satin ribbon, trimmed with tiny rosebuds and frills of the pink ribbon edge the loose chiffon sleeve, under the lace, and the V-shaped neck opening. Pink silk stockings and pink satin slippers accompany this lovely negligee in cream and pink tones, and of course a very delectable petticoat forms part of the early morning costume. This petticoat may be worn also with the dinner-dance frock if space is at a premium in the luggage.

If you adore the country and refuse to loaf through the morning hours indoors, there will be nothing to hinder your going out—even at sunrise if you choose; for the joy of a week-end party is that everybody may entirely please himself—or herself—as far as entertainment is concerned. All the hostess asks is that her guests shall assemble at luncheon and at dinner and shall be ready to go on any special excursion she has planned in their behalf.

A Pinafore Frock of Tan Linen.

The type of smart tub frock which may, if one prefers, take the place of ordinary sport attire, is illustrated in another picture. This is the new "pinafore" model adapted from a Doeuillet creation which employed silk, not a tub material in its achievement. As pictured, the frock is of tan colored linen embroidered with white worsted in a boldly outlined border pattern, a large square of the linen forming the "pinafore." Above the waistline the square—or one point of it—is appliqued to the bodice (the fastening coming at the back) and at the waistline rows of smocking hold the material in, to the figure, giving the pinafore much fullness over the skirt. The material has been slashed away over the hips and the pocket sections are set on—all the way to the hem—alongside the large square above mentioned, giving the pinafore even greater flare and fullness. The sleeves are slashed and turned back diagonally at the wrist over smocked undersleeves of white lawn. Under the wide, turndown collar, is drawn other mostly black satin (like the foundation skirt) so that the gown will be quite right if rather simple dressing seems the rule of that particular house. A very dainty little dinner-dance frock for one week-end party is pictured. The puffed and panniered skirt is of pink and white taffeta, the quaint, fichu-bodice and sleeve of white point d'esprit net with silver ribbon and pink rose appliques. The crisp freshness and prettiness of this little frock is its chief charm; at some week-end parties a much more elaborate evening gown would be demanded; but as a rule in the summer season formality even in the matter of evening costume is laid aside and simple demi-toilettes are perfectly permissible. It is rather a mistake to cart a costly tulle or spangled evening gown from week-end party to week-end party. Its freshness will speedily be ruined by so much packing; an evening gown of satin, chiffon or silk—any material that may be pressed out without injury between times—is a much bet-

Tub Petticoats With Colored Ruffles

SIX yards is the correct width for a summer petticoat this season and one cannot help pitying the poor laundress who has had a long and blessed rest from starching and fluting crisp petticoat frills. Some petticoats to be sure own to but three yards, but these are the most inexpensive and humble models. As the price advances the width advances, and the number of frills also. Four ruffles of embroidery, overlapping from knee to hem, is a pretty trimming; especially when the embroidery is the fine scallop-and-dot kind always in already very popular, has four ruffles of fine lawn edged with narrow, handkerchief hems in some pretty color; and the ruffles are stitched to the petticoat with colored thread to match. With pink or blue edged frills and stitching, these new tub petticoats are really enchanting.

THE SUMMER LIVING ROOM BLACK AND BLUE.

THE temperamental woman has discovered that black strikes the rhythmic note in her surroundings. In other words, to borrow from tions respond most happily and contentedly when in a room furnished largely with black. Black, with dull blue, is a particularly cool, pleasant color scheme for the summer living room; and of course there must be sufficient white to lift the decorative idea above funereal gloom. There are new black and white wallpapers in striped effect and with these go cretonnes in blue and white, or plain reps in a beautiful shade of French blue. The wicker furniture will be stained black and a few pieces of teakwood will add distinction. Not a suggestion of rose, yellow or green must find its way into the room—even in

The Little Artifices of Prettiness

EVERYBODY makes up—more or less—these days, in the metropolitan community at least. Of course there are provincial circles in which rouge and even face powder are still looked upon as dreadfully immoral, and where it is equivalent to blackening a woman's reputation to whisper: "I believe she paints, my dear." But there is no doubt that the attitude toward little feminine artifices of the toilet has become a much more tolerant one in the past decade. Many women abhor the idea of artificially produced charm and refuse to adopt even a little innocent face powder; but this fastidious abhorrence on their own part does not make them judge with severity other women who do use make-up preparations.

It is always a pity to see a young, and naturally fresh face made-up to look artificial and fast. For this is invariably the result of elaborate make-up on youth. All the trouble has been so needless, too, so superfluous, for the young face would be so much more charming and appealing without the make-up which gives a hard, sophisticated suggestion along with its dead white pallor, sharply defined red lips, shaved, exaggeratedly arched eyebrows and immobile expression.

It seems quite excusable, on the other hand, for the woman whose beauty is fading, to prolong her day of charm—as she most certainly can—by an intelligent use of carefully selected make-ups. But the word "intelligent" here has a vast importance There are many things to be taken into consideration before powder is dabbed and rouge daubed recklessly over the complexion in order to simulate the peaches and cream of youth.

In the first place, the emulator of youth may never have possessed a peaches-and-cream skin. She may have been olive-toned or even swarthy. She may have had the thin, easily freckled complexion that accompanies very red hair. Her endeavor should be in every instance to reproduce the effect of youth in her own type of coloring; and she will be a wise woman if she goes to a competent beauty specialist for her creams and her lotions rather than buying them over a department store counter or, worse still—sending for them because of some alluring advertisement she has perused.

There seems no valid reason why a woman should not "touch up" her complexion to make it look younger, if she has her front teeth filled with porcelain to hide the fact that they are filled, and adds a switch to her back hair to disguise its thinness. Yet the most severely moral old ladies who would draw themselves up in horror at a suggestion of face powder to conceal their wrinkles, take great pains to have their teeth becomingly cared for and pin switches to their heads with no moral scruples whatever. And really, wherein lies the difference between morality and immorality in switches and touched-up complexion? Each is an artifices—yet one seems to be quite respectable and the other—reprehensible!

After the face has weathered the suns of summer and the storms of winter for thirty-five years, it needs more than a dab of powder over the nose and cheeks, flicked off with a pocket handkerchief, the daily touching-up process of six women out of ten. Sitting before a dressing table, in a clear, unshaded light—daylight, (not soft artificial light!) push your hair back from your forehead and tie it there with a bit of ribbon. Yes, I know it is hard to look at your face thus cruelly exposed to a glare of light and absolutely unsoftened by the coiffure, but there is nothing more dangerous than an application of make-up in a dim light.

Go over the whole face, forehead, cheeks, nose, chin and jaw, with a good cold cream, working it in and then wiping it off with a bit of soft linen. Liquid rouge may then be applied on the cheek bones and worked outward with the fingers toward the edge of the face, carefully blending the color in. A tiny bit of rouge is rubbed into the chin at its tip. A reinitely colored to bring it forward After the rouge a liquid powder is applied and through this the rose glow of the rouge gleams naturally. A dead white finish should never be used in the daytime and few women are so fair that they can stand it anyway; the liquid finish should be selected to match the general tone of the skin and it must be rubbed down with a lambswool puff or a bit of absorbent cotton, all over the face and under the chin and jaw, and also on the neck.

It is a careless woman who forgets that rosy ear-lobes are the sign manuel of health, youth and vitality.

If a decollete gown is worn, apply the finish over the throat and shoulders so that there may be no obvious line of demarcation. Last of all, the brows are carefully accentuated with a fingertip just touched with pure vaseline, and if it is deemed necessary, a lip-stick may be touched lightly to the lips. And never forget, when applying make-up, that the ear-lobes should have a rosy look. In youth the ears are like shells, a dead white look suggests age.

Always apply cosmetics in the strongest possible light—for by such

A Bathing Cap That Serves Two Purposes

MOST women roll up their bathing suits and tuck them into the silk kerchief for easy carrying; and some ingenious soul, noting this, conceived the idea of a bathing cap that could be turned in an instant into a convenient bag. The idea was carried out and now any woman may possess one of these practical swimming accessories. The bag is fifteen or sixteen inches long and has a deep heading drawn up on narrow tapes or ribbons at the open end. The opposite end is shaped to an oval. Midway of the bag is a tuck and through the upper half of this tuck an elastic is shirred. When it is desired to turn the bag into a cap, the bottom of the bag is pushed up inside and the shirred tuck with its elastic band becomes the edge, with a becoming frill around the face. The heading at the top of the bag, drawn up tightly on the ribbons, makes a fluffy pom-

SPECIAL AID SOCIETY HEADQUARTERS OPENED

Large Number of Women Are Enrolling for Higher Standard of Pattriotism.

The Plainfield and North Plainfield Chapter of the National Special Aid Society opened its local headquarters, Wednesday afternoon, at 216 Park avenue. The purpose of this society is to establish throughout the country higher standards of patriotism and national efficiency; also to organize and train the women of America for the efficient national service that is their privilege and duty to perform in times of peace as well as in times of national disaster, and to contribute to preparedness in its broadest meaning, through all practical activities open to women. The society is permanent and non-partisan.

The time has come to co-ordinate all the forces of our country; to harmonize and bring to mutual understanding all our people and the enthusiasm of patriotism now aroused should stimulate us to mutual service in daily living, as well as in great emergencies.

It is considered the duty of every American woman to further the interests and purposes of this society, which are to promote patriotism and national efficiency. It is hoped that the women of Plainfield will lend their support to the movement by joining the organization and that they will take advantage of the opportunities offered by the society to join the classes in different branches of national efficiency formed under its auspices.

Already over ninety women have joined the local chapter, and daily more enrolments are being received at headquarters.

Dues for annual membership, which carries no obligation, are ($1.00) one dollar a year. Dues for service membership, which carries a pledge for some optional service in time of national emergency, are twenty-five cents (25c) a year.

Classes are being formed under the auspices of the chapter to train the women and girls of Plainfield in first aid and hygiene. These classes, which are commencing immediately, will be held at the Muhlenberg Hospital.

Classes are also being organized to teach home economics, scientific gardening and cutting and sewing.

All knowledge gained in these courses will be of practical and daily benefit to the pupils and any information regarding them may be obtained at headquarters.

STATE-WIDE GOOD GOVERNMENT BODY

G. W. V. Moy and J. S. Frelinghuysen Among Trustees of Citizens' Union.

Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Republican candidate for United States Senator, and former Mayor George W. V. Moy, of Plainfield, are among the trustees of the Citizens' Union of New Jersey which was incorporated at Newark yesterday. The first board of trustees also includes women, which is to serve until the first annual meeting.

The objecton of the organization as stated in the bylaws, is, by means of a State-wide organization with branches everywhere deemed advisable, "to promote good government in the State of New Jersey and its municipalities, employing to that end all proper methods, other than the nomination of candidates, required to secure honest elections, worthy officials and wise legislation."

The inclusion of women in the ranks of the union and as members of the board of trustees does not commit the organization to equal suffrage, but some ardent supporters are to be found in the first list of trustees. Equally represented are workers who were identified with the Progressive party. It is said that the union may be regarded as "organization," but "anti-machine."

SOMERSET STREET WIDENING WILL COST ABOUT $10,000

As stated in the Plainfield Daily Press recently, the total cost of widening Somerset street from Jackson avenue to Johnston's drive will be about $10,000. The report of the commissioners who have the work of assessment in hand will be presented at the meeting of the Borough Council Friday night, June 2. The expense for this work is to be assessed on the borough at large, it being considered an improvement which will be of benefit to everyone in that municipality.

The plan is to take five feet from the present sidewalk on either side of the street for a distance of nearly 5,000 feet, making a total of about 8,800 square feet. As near as can be ascertained, the damages will be assessed on a basis of about one cent per foot. It is proposed to contract all of the work. The idea is to widen the street with a view of not disturbing any more trees than is absolutely necessary.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

Write to Your Next Employer Through "The Classified"

The work-seeker's classified advertisement need not be a "regular letter," of course; but it should be a clear statement of facts about the business capabilities of the advertiser. It SHOULD give to a prospective employer a definite idea as to the probable fitness of the advertiser for the position sought.

State WHAT YOU CAN DO, what you have done, how well you can do the work you are seeking. If your "ad" is frank, concise, factful—if it indicates in the writer a clean-cut, forceful personality, it will get the attention of YOUR NEXT EMPLOYER!

FRANCE BREAKS WITH ROUMANIA

Russia Also on Verge of Hostilities—Allies Worried Over Situation.

MINISTER IS RECALLED

Paris Reports That U-Boat Captain Who Sank Sussex is Prisoner—Germany Denies This, and U. S. Ambassador is Investigating.

Rome, May 20.—A Bucharest dispatch to the Messagero states that the French Minister and military attache in Roumania have been recalled. Berlin advices yesterday stated that recent agreements between Roumania and the Central Powers had aroused deep concern in Russia, but did not hint diplomatic relations between the Entente Powers and Roumania would be broken off.

Germans Deny French Claims.

Washington, May 20.—The French Government has informed the State Department that a German named Otto Steinbrink was commander of the submarine U-18 which sank the Sussex. The submarine captain is now a French prisoner and the French Admiralty has found certain documents on his ship which make it certain that he fired the torpedo which sank the Sussex. The German Government takes direct issue with the French on this point. Germany informs the American Government in her last note that the submarine commander who fired at the Sussex had already been punished. An inquiry is now being conducted by Ambassador Gerard into the nature of the punishment inflicted. An interesting conflict of facts between the German and the French governments is certain to follow the present claims.

Lynch May Be Alive Yet.

London, May 20.—From what could be learned from official quarters today, Jeremiah C. Lynch, of New York, a naturalized American citizen, convicted by a court-marital of participation in the Dublin rebellion and sentenced to death, is still alive. The War Office and General Sir John Maxwell, commander of the British troops in Ireland, are considering Lynch's case as a result of an appeal in his behalf sent by direction of President Wilson.

Mira Sinks With Crew.

London, May 20.—None of the passengers or crew of the French coasting steamer Mira were saved when she was sunk as a result of a torpedo attack in the Mediterranean on May 16, says a dispatch from Marseilles.

Austrians Continue Victories.

Austrian troops are continuing to advance at points on the Italian front, although the Italians are undertaking vigorous counter strokes. The Austrians crossed the Luan Valley and captured Costabella.

Artillery Duels Raging.

Paris, May 20.—Although the Germans furiously shelled French positions west of the Meuse River there were no infantry actions on the Verdun front last night. The War Office communique today stated that the French positions in Avacourt Wood and at Le Mort Homme, Dead Man's Hill, were bombarded with the utmost vigor by German artillery. Bergues and Dunkirk have been attacked by German aeroplanes and at Dunkirk one woman was killed and 27 persons were injured. At Bergues five persons were killed and 1 injured.

PLAINFIELD BOYS GUESTS OF PRINCETON UNIVERSITY

Forty Plainfield boys are today guests of the Plainfield Princeton Club in the annual pilgrimage to Princeton, when they will witness the Princeton-Harvard baseball game this afternoon and also will be guests of the university at luncheon. All of the Princeton Clubs of New Jersey are engaged in making similar trips.

The Plainfielders left here at 9:45 o'clock in nine automobiles. Elliott C. R. Laidlaw is in charge of the Plainfield delegation. During their stay in Princeton the boys will have a chance to visit all the buildings at the university. They will return home about 8 o'clock tonight.

LOCAL MEN ENROLL.

According to former Mayor Percy H. Stewart, of this city, who has charge of the enrollment of applicants for the Plattsburg encempment from this State, Union county keeps up a steady stream of applications.

Those who have enrolled from this city up to the present time are:

6,200 DINERS ARE CONNECTED BY 'PHONE

Remarkable Demonstration is Given at Gathering of Telephone Society in N. Y.

The local branch of the New York Telephone Company was represented by fifteen men, who attended the annual dinner of the Telephone Society, of New York, at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, New York city, last night. There were 3,000 guests, the local party including Fred Ambrose, C. Brokaw, Paul H. Burns, W. H. Bush, John G. Carty, J. J. Carty, J. L. Crate, A. W. Drake, Harry A. Keating, J. A. McEvoy, M. L. Reedy, J. S. Slawson, G. Thomas, W. Williams and A. B. Wilson.

The 3,000 telephone men in the big drill hall of the armory were joined by telephones with 3,200 other telephone men in Philadelphia, Baltimore and San Francisco. Each of the 6,200 diners had a hand telephone receiver permitting him to participate in the demonstration of wire and wireless telephony.

During the demonstration of the wire telephone, the voice was carried from New York to the four corners of the country. Greetings were exchanged with men in as many of the principal cities in the country, and it was all done so easily as to almost palsy the imagination. The voice went to Portland, Me.; to Jacksonville, Fla.; to the Mexican border, to San Diego, to Los Angeles, Portland, Oregon, and Seattle, Wash. From New York to Seattle was a voice trip of nearly 3,800 miles, and to San Diego was a journey of equal length. It was difficult to understand that every song that came from the hundred voices in the Blue Bell Glee Club, of New York, was being heard in every other city connected by telephone.

INCREASE CAPITAL STOCK TO $300,000

Plainfield Trust Co. Creates Capital, Surplus and Undivided Profits of $600,000.

Owing to the unusual success of the Plainfield Trust Company's business and the growth of its deposits to over six millions of dollars, the directors have felt that, as a conservative measure, it would be well to increase the capital stock from $100,000 to $300,000, thereby creating a capital, surplus and undivided profit account of over $600,000, and giving the company a larger working capital than any bank in Plainfield. A call has accordingly been issued to the stockholders for a special meeting to be held on Thursday, June 1, at which time they will be given an opportunity to vote on the question.

It is proposed to offer to each stockholder at par ($100) two shares of the new stock for each share of the old stock which he now holds. This plan not only provides a most attractive investment opportunity for the stockholders, but puts $200,000 of new money into the business without disturbing the present surplus and profits, which amount to something over $300,000.

Since its organization in 1902 the Plainfield Trust Company has become the largest financial institution in both the city and county in which it is located, and has taken its place among the leading banks of the State. In five years it has practically doubled its deposits which in May, 1911, amounted to $3,200,000, and in May, 1916, have gone as high as $6,400,000. This growth has been based not only upon the efficiency of its service and its progressive methods, but also on the activity and high standing of its board of director, which is composed of the following prominent business men: Messrs. E. R. Ackerman, J. Herbert Case, Frederick Geller, Augustus V. Heely, Jas W. Jackson, Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Charles W. McCutchen, Harry H. Pond, Charles A. Reed, Isaac W. Rushmore, Frank H. Smith, Samuel Townsend, Cornelius B. Tyler, Lewis E. Waring and Orville T. Waring.

CEILING GIVES WAY AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Entire Surface in Domestic Science Room Falls While Pupils Are Absent.

The giving way of two supports caused the ceiling of the domestic science room in the Plainfield High School to break because of the strain and allowed the entire surface to fall to the floor yesterday afternoon. The area affected measured 24 by 32 feet and will have to be entirely reconstructed. The fall occurred at 2:15 in the afternoon, at a time when no children were busy in that part of the building. In the event of their having been there it is doubtful if any of them would have sustained injuries, as fully twelve seconds elapsed after the first break until the material fell to the floor.

Architect H. K. White, F. J. Hubbard and Benjamin Evans made an inspection of all the rooms on the third floor, where the domestic science room is located, and as a result will transfer all classes until everything is made absolutely safe. While no weakness was discovered in any of the other ceilings it is deemed advisable to take steps to guard against a recurrence of yesterday's happening. Six grammar classes, which have been occupying the lower floor of the High School will be transferred to the new Evergreen avenue school and six High School classes located on the third floor will take the grammar classes' rooms on the first floor. The changes are being made today in order to permit the pupils to resume their studies next Monday morning without any interruption. The ceiling of the domestic science room was placed on metal lath and part of the work done in connection with the recent big addition to the main building. The work had been carefully inspected by experts in this line and was declared to be perfectly safe at the time the job was completed.

NEW PITCHER SIGNED.

The South Plainfield baseball team will clash with the Spicer team at South Plainfield tomorrow afternoon. John McGuiness, of Metuchen, will decorate the mound for the home guard.

The lecture given in St. Peter's Lutheran church last night by the pastor, Rev. G. Daeuble, on "African Missions," was largely attended. The talk was illustrated with stereopticons.

WILL STOP CARS AT TARRED POINTS

Commissioner Gavett Gets Co-operation of Public Service Company.

In the future street cars in Plainfield will stop at corners so as to make a crossing at points where tar is being applied to city streets. Through the activity of Street Commissioner Gavett an order has been issued to this effect, as is shown by the following letter:

"A. J. Gavett,
"Street Commissioner,
"Plainfield, N. J.

"Dear Sir:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 17th inst. relative to stopping cars so that one platform thereof will come opposite a crosswalk at points where tar is being applied by the city. In reply would say that I have instructed our Mr. Gettings to arrange as per your request.

"Yours very truly,

OFFICER KELLY HEROICALLY STOPS A RUNAWAY HORSE

But for the heroic action of Patrolman John Kelly in stopping a runaway horse at the corner of Somerset and Front streets last night the animal would have crashed into a Front street window, causing much damage and probably loss of life. The horse was hitched to a wagon belonging to Israel Snyder, of 81 Somerset street. He ran away on Somerset street, and Patrolman Kelly grabbed him at the corner of Front, and after a hard struggle, in which the patrolman was dragged several feet, he turned the animal into a post. Both horse and man were thrown to the ground, and the top of the wagon was torn off. Mr Kelly was not injured.

TO PREACH AT MT. HOLYOKE.

Dr. and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, of West Front street, who was graduated from the Theological Seminary, New Brunswick, on Thursday, appeared before the Classis of Newark in Newark yesterday and after a highly satisfactory examination was admitted for ordination. The Classis fixed Monday night, June 12, at 8 o'clock, as the time for ordination at the Franklin Reformed church, Nutley, of which Mr. Schenck is to be the pastor.

Rev. Edward S. Ralston, of the Netherwood Reformed church, as president of the Classis, will preside. Rev. Dr. J. F. Burke, of the New Brunswick Seminary, will preach the sermon; Rev. J. Y. The church extension committee, of which Rev. J. Y. BIEDERWOLF URGES LOCAL PEOPLE NOT TO FALL INTO UNPARDONABLE SIN OF UNCONCERN ABOUT CHRIST

SOME OF YOU HAVE GAINED A VICTORY, HE SAID—A VICTORY OVER YOUR MOTHER'S PRAYERS AND OVER GOD'S LOVE.

MORE THAN 100 WALK DOWN SAWDUST AISLE

Crowd of 4,500 at Friday Evening Service—Big Delegation From Newark, Elizabeth and Bayonne—Dr. Strong Asks for Big Free Will Offering at Sunday Services.

"Some of you," the Rev. William E. Biederwolf told his audience at the Tabernacle last night, "have gained a victory. You have gained a victory over your mother's prayers; you have gained a victory over the tears and entreaties of your wife and little ones; you have gained a victory over the pleadings of the minister; you have gained a victory over the tender, patient spirit of God. But what I fear for you is that if you win a few more such victories, or another such victory tonight, it will cost you your soul."

Dr. Biederwolf's sermon was on "The Unpardonable Sin." He said the unpardonable sin was not a specific sin—that God in his mercy and through the blood atonement of Jesus Christ would pardon any crime that man could commit, or all the crimes of men, but that the unpardonable sin was the putting off of the acceptance of Jesus Christ until such a time as the soul became hardened, the conscience dead and all reason choked.

Man cannot sin until it is impossible for God to forgive him, he said, but he can sin until it is impossible for him to ask forgiveness of God, and Dr. Biederwolf trembled as he gave the invitation, fearing that for some it was the last call to Christ, and, if refused, they would be condemned to eternal punishment.

The evangelist pointed out that most decisions for God are made in youth. He said the chances of a man over 50 years of age becoming converted and saved were about 151,000 to 1 against him. Young people die begging forgiveness for the sins of their life, he said, but old men are unconcerned. They have ceased to care. Not one man in a million who has reached the age of ninety unconverted has a desire to know Christ, said the evangelist.

At the close of the sermon more than 100 responded to the appeal and walked down the sawdsst aisle.

Delegations at the Tabernacle last night were from Hope Chapel, the business and professional men of Plainfield, the Jefferson Loyal Brothers, and from Elizabeth, Newark and Bayonne. The Hope Chapel delegation included 28 members of the Berean Bible-class and every one of them wilked the sawdust aisle. There were about 80 business and professional men present, and about 120 in the outside delegations. The congregation totaled 4,500.

Dr. Strong told of the act of local letter-carriers who yesterday returned $300 to whisky men in Plainfield who had contributed to the convention entertainment fund. He said that the Biederwolf committee had intended to ask for a collection last night to refund this money, but that local citizens had responded so generously that the entertainment fund was complete and the collection was unnecessary. He asked that all local people who were willing to loan their autos to the letter-carriers between 2:30 and 4:30 on the afternoon of May 30 let some member of the committee or of the local organization know at once. Dr. Strong once more congratulated the postal employes on their decision not to serve beer at the coming convention.

He called attention to the free-will offering to be made for Dr. Biederwolf on Sunday and urged that Plainfield give liberally. No amount of money could pay the evangelist for his wonderful work here, he said, and the collection ought not to be less than $6,000.

It was family night at the Tabernacle and a large number of fathers and mothers were there with any number of children. It had been announced that a prize would be given the largest family present, and Dr. Biederwolf asked that all families having five or more members present stand up. There were four. He raised it to seven, and there were still two contestants for the prize. At eight, nine, and ten they still ran neck and neck, but one faltered and fell after ten. In order to find out just how many were in the winning family, Dr. Biederwolf called eleven, twelve and thirteen without dropping them, but they failed to rise on his call for all families with fourteen members in the Tabernacle. Mr. and Mrs. George Mobus, of Watchung, and their eleven healthy children, then walked to the front of the Tabernacle, where they were introduced to the audience and presented with a set of books by Mr. McEwan.

Dr. Biederwolf also announced that there was a family of eight in the Tabernacle, in which four generations were represented. The oldest was a great-grandmother of 79 who had missed but two meetings since the evangelistic campaign started in Plainfield.

The Rev. J. W. Kemp, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church of New York, offered the opening prayer. Mr. Heaton sang a beautiful song, entitled "Daddy," and the quartet sang a selection.

To the People of Plainfield and Vicinity:-

The Evangelistic Campaign conducted by Dr. William E. Biederwolf for nearly six weeks, is drawing to its close and audiences exceeding two hundred thousand persons have heard the inspiring messages that he has so forcibly delivered, while over four thousand people have either reconsecrated their lives or have been so touched by his earnestness that they have joyously resolved to travel the safe road which has been so clearly pointed out.

In addition to those who have been privileged to hear him many have through the generous oourtesy of the press read his sermons and have thereby benefitted. It is clear to everyone that great good to the community must accrue from these evangelistic services, and now that Dr. Biederwolf and his able associates are about to leave us, would it not be ungenerous if we did not tender a testimonial of substantial character to him as an appreciation of what has been accomplished?

Thus far Dr. Biederwolf has not received one cent for his services, and those of us in Plainfield and vicinity, who have had the good fortune to be present at these meetings, and who will miss them greatly when they are over, would be deeply disappointed could we not express our appreciation of the enjoyment and profit realized, by contributing towards a testimonial to Dr. Biederwolf, and therefore everybody will be given an opportunity to do so at the three services to be held next Sunday.

In addition, there are those who will want to contribute who have been indirectly helped by the quickened life of the community, having been benefitted by those who have shown a renewed devotion to conscience and to justice.

Our community is especially noted for the splendid effect of its volunteer work. The excellent type of our public officials is due to volunteer work, and the numerous religious and civic bodies are all doing volunteer work, serving the community willingly and without pay. The splendid achievements of this evangelistic campaign are the result of volunteer work and hundreds of our fellow citizens have volunteered to work in connection with this movement giving their services night after night without reward except the great pleasure and inspiration they received. They have been in the choir; they have been ushers; they have been personal workers; everybody has welcomed the opportunity to be of some use, somewhere. Largely through the efforts of these volunteers the campaign has been a success. Let us volunteer now to make the close of this campaign a fittting tribute to Dr. Biederwolf. Let us volunteer to give him a splendid offering. Let us volunteer to show that we are thoroughly appreciative of his sincere and magnetic character, as well as the strengthening and uplifting influence of the ideals which he has so indelibly imprinted upon the minds and hearts of the people of this community.

The people will remember that this evangelist came to us at the request of a committee of citizens, without any agreement as to compensation whatsoever except that he was to receive the Free Will Offerings given at the three services on the last Sunday of the Campaign. It cannot be repeated with too much emphasis that our expression of appreciation must be that of gratitude and not of any implied obligation of any character. THE OFFERING OF THE LAST SUNDAY IS PURELY A FREE WILL OFFERING AND ABSOLUTELY A VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTION. It is believed that Plainfield will volunteer to stand not second but first and foremost in the matter of the offering to be given to Dr. Biederwolf.

Many of those who have been at the Tabernacle or those in sympathy with the movement and who may find it inconvenient to be present on Sunday, but who desire to express their appreciation for the good work accomplished, may send their contributions to the undersigned.

ERNEST R. ACKERMAN,
Chairman.

C. O. S. ENLARGES FINANCE COMMITTEE

Five New Members Added to Acquaint Public With Needs of the Society.

In order to increase the annual receipts of the Charity Organization Society, its finance committee has been enlarged from three to eight members. The former committee consisted of H. C. Munger, Henry L. de Forest, Henry J. Cochran and the members recently added are J. Whitney Baker, Henry W. Brower, Edward A. Stevenson, R. Story Rowland and A. B. Jones.

The finance committee held its monthly meeting at the offices of the society in the Babcock building last night and decided not only to bring the attention of the community to the many demands for assistance but also acquaint the public with the efficient way relief work is rendered by the organization. In line with this idea and in order to be in touch with the entire work themselves, one member of the finance committee will attend each of the other committee meetings of the society.

In the last two years the Charity Organization Society has been compelled to borrow from its capital account in order to give much-needed relief. This the new finance committee feels confident, it will not be required to do in the future, as Plainfield always responds most generously to every genuine appeal, especially if it is near home.

DINNER PARTY GIVEN FOR MISS CLARA WINDHAM

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Windham, of Hotel Waldorf, East Front street, last evening gave a dinner party in honor of the eighteenth birthday anniversary of their daughter, Miss Clair Windham. Thirty-five young people, including guests from Rahway, Bayonne, Brooklyn, New York and this city, honored Miss Windham in helping her to celebrate the occasion. The evening proved a delightful one in every way. At 8:30 o'clock the guests were seated at tables adorned with cut flowers and a most appetizing menu was enjoyed. The banquet hall, where the dinner was served, was decorated with flags and bunting.

After the repast the guests enjoyed dancing and games until midnight. Several solos were sung by Miss Elsie Molton, with Miss M. Windham at piano, and all had a delightful time. Miss Windham is a young woman of charming personality and popular among a wide circle of friends.

"SPRINGTIME" POEM BY MISS MAUDE WHITFORD

The following poem entitled "Springtime" was composed by Miss Maude Whitford, the seventeen-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Whitford:

We love the country in the spring
When Nature looks so bright and green,
The little brooks so merrily flow
And trees their lovely blossoms show.

We like the pretty, bright spring flowers
That grow on sunny hills and bowers,
With love on the sweet, little violets we look
That bloom in the cool and shady nook.

The air is pleasant, sweet and mild,
The sun shines down as with a smile,
The happy birds sing with delight,
And coming days grow long and bright.

The golden sun and the sky so blue
We feel each morn that the world is new,
And the thoughts we have and the things we do
May carry the Spring Dream all the year through.

Then should we not with joy and love
Praise the Creator who dwells above,
For if this Earth is so bright and fair
Oh, what must the joy of Heaven be there.

WILLIAM M'EWAN IS GIVING REMARKABLE TALENTS TO THE WORK OF WINNING SOULS

First I must confess that, at my best, I am something of a check-loving writer. It is seldom, indeed, that I tag the keys of my typewriter in a labor of love. My appreciation of "Mac" is a genuine labor of love, and, believe me, friend and reader, I am proud to be the one whose printed words will be the space-holders in this column. It gives me more satisfaction to know that it is I, John J. Gifford, who wrote what you are now reading than I have ever experienced while cashing an editor's return for contribution value. So much for that.

William McEwan is a man and a Christian. He is no better at one than at the other; he is a splendid example of both. You know that, but do you realize that his untiring energy, that his thoughts for, and interest in you; that his desire to make of you a better people—should be declared an epoch of goodness by you and retained in your memories as such. Do you understand what I mean? Do you appreciate "Mac" as I appreciate him; with all the finer sense of gratitude one possesses?

I sincerely hope and trust that you do, and will continue to, even when the day of his departure from our midst is looked back on as the "long ago." Remember this, among other things, when a man of such remarkable talents as his gives them over together with his life to Jesus Christ, sacrificing, as he does then, the vicious and rotten amusements which so many of us deem necessary to make life worth living on this earth—he is, beyond all doubt, a man among men; a true son of his Father in Heaven.

Will you not, now, join me in my appreciation of William McEwan, the big little "Mac" of the Biederwolf staff; and, in joining me, grasp him by the hand with a "God bless you, McEwan, for that which you have done for others, are doing for us and will do for thousands elsewhere in the years yet to come."

Mr. McEwan will have charge of the big concert to be held at the Tabernacle Tuesday evening, when members of the Biederwolf party, those in the chorus choir and other local people will present a pleasing program.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

I have just read Mr. Biederwolf's criticism on Christian Science in your evening Press. I am not a Christian Scientist, but Brother Biederwolf criticizes Mrs. Eddy and says she was a liar or crazy. This does not sound like a good Christian or sporting statement to me. Granting everything he says to be true about her personality and the inconsistency he finds in her book, no open-minded person can go anywhere without meeting the most lovable and intelligent people who have not only been healed of diseases that were diagnosed as incurable by celebrated physicians and surgeons, but these same people have been benefitted in every way by the study of Christian Science. If Dr. Biederwolf does not believe this I will give $100 if any Christian Scienhim satisfactorily.

Now, I ask in the spirit of enlightenment, what difference does it make whether Mrs. Eddy was taught by Quimby, the meta-physician, or Quimby, the carriage maker? The greatest teacher we know of concerning the abundant and perpetual life, invited twelve fishermen to be his first students, and I have an idea that they could not spell or write, and that they did not even know that there wasn't any Santa Claus, and from the record of the Hebrew Scriptures, I am led to believe that they were not always as truthful as George with his hatchet.

The point I desire to make clear is this: Both the Rev. Biederwolf and Billy Sunday are as sincere as the daylight in what they believe to be the best way to awaken humanity to a better and higher life, but a great many of us believe that it would be more lovable and better wisdom for them to deal with principles and not with personalities.

WAITE RESTLESS IN TOMBS.

Observers Expect No Breakdown at Poisoner's Trial Monday.

New York, May 20.—Awaiting his trial on Monday, Dr. Arthur Warren Waite passed several restless hours in his cell in the Tombs. There was no sign of a breakdown, however, and attenda in the Tombs who have observed him closely say he is prepared to go to trial without the slightest manifestation of fear.

Dr. Morris J. Karpas, one of the alienists for the defense, visited the district attorney's office and examined a number of letters written by Waite. These will be put in evidence at the trial to show the operations of the dentist's mind when he was planning to poison his father-in-law, John E. Peck.

HIGH SCHOOL PARENT TEACHER ASS'N MEETING

The next meeting of the Plainfield High School Parent-Teacher Association will be held in the Auditorium Thursday, May 25th, at 8 p. m. The pupils of the science department will give a demonstration of the work that is being done in physics, physical geography, biology and chemistry. Experiments will be similar to those which form part of the regular class room work and will be of such a character as to be especially interesting to parents.

All parents are cordially invited whether they are members of the association or not. A few minutes of the first part of the meeting will be devoted to the annual election of officers.

Ask What It Means

Got a Perfectly Good Camera That You Don't Use Any More?

One of the ways in which want ads can be useful to you is in selling, for fair prices in cash, any "second hand" articles you own. They must be good, of course—and priced so that the buyers secure bargains. You can sell any article of furniture, any piece of machinery—anything that still has usefulness for the man who has use for it—through want advertising.

INQUIRY HURTS INTEREST OF U. S.

High Officials Condemn Wire Tapping Quest.

MITCHEL CRIES TREASON.

Administration at Washington Embarrassed by Legislative Investigation in New York as to Activities of Police in Listening in on Telephone Wires.

Washington, May 20.—Important national interests are said already to have suffered serious injury by the Thompson legislative committee of New York in regard to the operations of the police in tapping telephone wires. Further prodding along the present lines of the inquiry would embarrass the federal government still more.

Unfortunately this is a subject which federal officials cannot openly explain. In discussing the subject they said that they had to be extremely guarded in their statements and even then they could not permit the publication of all they said.

But they showed that when Mayor Mitchell in the inquiry stated that the investigation of the Thompson committee into this matter was "treachery" to the United States government the mayor spoke with a meaning which could not have missed the members of the committee, although its full import cannot be made known to the public at this time.

The intimations given in New York that the wire tapping in behalf of the federal government was done to prevent the shipment of munitions by German agents to Mexico covers but a small part of the field.

No detailed facts can be stated at this time, but it is suggested that the most casual review of events in the international field for the last few months should prove the many instances in which such a surveillance of telephone wires was essential to the federal authorities.

No Formal Request Made.

It may be argued that in strict accordance with the law the federal authorities have no right to maintain a surveillance over New York telephone wires nor to request that this be done. It can be stated emphatically that no formal request of this sort ever was made. Officials of every department of the government interested in the maintenance of neutrality formally denied they had given such orders.

But in the serious and extraordinary situation that menaced the nation as a result of the operations of foreign agents more than one way had to be found and was found to accomplish the vital end of protecting the national interests.

Public investigation into the operations, however, instantly destroys their effectiveness. The view is taken here that they are matters in which it is essential to the public welfare to trust to the integrity of officials in caring for the national interests.

Concerning the operations of New York police in tapping wires for the detection of crime, which comes solely under their jurisdiction, officials here know nothing. But they insist that a general inquiry into the matter at this time cannot be conducted without frustrating vital operations of the federal authorities, and it is upon this ground that they indorse the statement of Mayor Mitchel that the investigation is treacherous to the United States government.

Mr. Loft Wants Inquiry.

Despite the attitude taken by officials an effort was made in congress to have another investigation of the wire tapping operations added to that of the Thompson committee. Representative George W. Loft, of New York, a Tammany man, introduced a resolution in the house looking to a congressional investigation of the wire tapping disclosures. He called for a committee of five members of congress to conduct the investigation. The resolution was referred to the house committee on rules, and it may be stated authoritatively that the influence of the administration will be used to the utmost to keep it there or to prevent its adoption while the present international situation lasts.

POPE TOLD OF FAMINE.

Austrian Emperor Expected to Make Plea to Pontiff.

Rome, May 20.—The Vatican has received confidential information that the shortage of food in the central empires is verging on famine, especially in Austria, where conditions are described as worse than in Germany. It is expected that Emperor Francis Joseph will protest to the pope against the "inhuman attempt of the allies to starve noncombatants."

Information from diplomatic sources is that in case such a protest is made the pope is not likely to take any action beyond suggesting peace as a remedy for existing conditions.

TO ORDER ENGINE FOR NETHERWOOD

Fire Committee Said to Have Agreed on American-LaFrance Make.

At the next meeting of the Common Council members of the fire committee will probably submit a report recommending the purchase of an American-La France automobile engine and hose cart for the Netherwood station. Some time ago competitive bids on this engine were received, and Chairman Cose has been going over the bids with other members of the committee for weeks. It is said that the bid of the American-La France Company, one of the pioneer fire engine manufacturing companies of the world, has been decided on and that the engine will be ordered for immediate delivery. It is understood that the committee may recommend the purchase of a automobile truck from the same company.

WILSON PLEA WINS RESPITE FOR LYNCH

Britain Orders a Stay of Execution.

Washington, May 20.—Whatever sentence has been imposed on Jeremiah C. Lynch by a drumhead court-martial at Dublin has not been confirmed by the higher military authorities and will not be made public until it is so confirmed, Ambassador Page cabled from London.

He added that, in accordance with President Wilson's urgent message, the British government has been asked to suspend the inflicting of any punishment until the case can be investigated, Lynch being a naturalized American citizen and long a resident of New York until he returned to Ireland two years ago.

Friends of Lynch in Dublin cabled to New York that he had been sentenced to be shot. That report was wired to Senator O'Gorman here and he immediately sought out President Wilson and requested him to move immediately to save Lynch's life, at least until his case could be looked into.

Senator O'Gorman announced that he had received assurances from the White House that Lynch has not been put to death and that his sentence will be held in abeyance until the American ambassador at London can make further investigation and report to this government.

"THE SQUARE MAN"

Is the subject of Dr. Biederwolf's sermon to men at the Tabernacle tomorrow afternoon.

Emerson said "An institution is only the lengthened shadow of one man." That is true of a religious revival as well as an establishment that sells "Things Men Wear."

When one has the pleasure of knowing Dr. Biederwolf, he fully understands the reason of his successful campaign in our good city. The Doctor is full of enthusiasm and progress.

That which moves upward and onward—becomes larger, fuller, finer—takes on shape, proportion, color—makes for itself beauty, magnificence, charm.

Progress looks around and sees behind the journey that has been covered—and then proceeds to explore newer fields.

Progress is that restless old fellow who is never satisfied with his own work—whose life is consecrated to Improvement.

The story of the Rothberg Store can be expressed in the single word PROGRESS.

All of these materials, fruits, jellies, etc., cost money and this year, the Women's Auxiliary Board have decided to hold a Rose Tag Day in order that every person in Plainfield may contribute to this most worthy organization w[illegible] so much to relieve suffering and bring joy to the sick.

PAVING THE WAY FOR THE ARMORY

Union County Freeholders Appoint Committee to Recommend Suitable Site.

SEVERAL ARE OFFERED

Bartle Plot at East Second and Church Streets stands in Local Favor—Actual Building May Soon be a Reality.

Action on the part of the Union County Freeholders in appointing a committee to recommend a suitable site gives the impression that the proposed armory for Company K will soon be a reality. According to the State law the ground must be paid for by the county while the State provides the necessary money for building and equipment.

The local armory site committee is composed of George T. Teller, chairman, of Cranford; Burton P. Hall, of Fanwood, and C. A. Smith, of Westfield. They are now considering a number of properties that have been offered by owners for the purpose. Among these are the large lot at the southeast corner of East Second and Church streets, occupied by Bartle's Stone Yard and owned by W. H. Bartle; the Junior Club property on East Front street, opposite Washington street; the old Harberger property at the northeast corner of Front street and Geraud avenue, and another property at Fifth and Sycamore streets, opposite the site selected for the new Y. M. C. A. building. The dimensions of the various plots or the price asked has not been made known as yet.

Although none of the Freeholders' committee has expressed an opinion, the impression prevails locally that the Bartle lot is the one standing most in favor. It is plenty large enough for the purpose desired and will probably be one of the cheapest because it has not a large building on it at the present time, consequently no expense could be incurred in buying in a structure to be torn down. The corner is convenient to the main line and local trolleys, the North Avenue railroad station and is but three blocks from the heart of the business district.

The State appropriation for any armory, no matter in what city, is limited to $25,000 and this amount will be forthcoming for the Plainfield building. It is possible that Company K may secure an additional amount through private donation or by using funds it has acquired in various ways. By persons in a position to know the sum of $25,000 is declared to be inadequate to put up a building that would meet the needs of Company K, consequently something will have to be done in another direction. The set appropriation was established years ago when material and union labor was much cheaper than at the present time, and by a simple system of ratio or proportion it can be seen that each new armory proves more costly than its predecessor. However, Captain Charles A. Peterson, of Company K, is a hustling business man as well as a soldier and the probabilities are that when actual work is commenced on the home for Company K arrangements will have been made to give the city as fine an armory as there is in New Jersey. Plans for the structure will not be made until the Freeholders' committee has recommended a site for purchase.

FINE NEW YARDS FOR LOCAL FIRM

J. D. Loizeaux Co. Completing Plans for Occupancy of South Avenue Site.

MUCH TIME REQUIRED

Planing Mill Now at Rock Avenue will be Housed in Modern Fireproof Structure—West End Branch not to be Combined with East End.

Although the actual removal will not take place for many months as yet, the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company is perfecting plans for its fine new planing mill and yards to be located on South avenue, east of Berckman street, and running parallel to the New Jersey Central tracks to a point nearly opposite Woodland avenue. When the new place is fully equipped it will be one of the most up-to-date places of the kind in this section of New Jersey.

In conversation with a member of the firm yesterday, a Daily Press reporter learned that the planing mill which is part of the business and which is now located at the Rock avenue yards will be transferred to a new fireproof building on the South avenue site. It will be fitted with the latest woodworking machinery and will permit the business to be greatly expanded. The Rock avenue lumber and building material branch will not be removed to the East End, as some people have gained the impression, but in reality will be enlarged. A deal for the property had been underway for some time until several weeks ago and if this had gone through the concern would have gone still further West and put up another yard to care for West End trade. As it is now the present Rock avenue place will be greatly improved when the planing mill is transferred.

Within a short time the work of placing railroad tracks into the South avenue property will be commenced, permitting new shipments of lumber to be located there from time to time. There will be one elevated trestle for the reception of cars while another will be on the ground level, running almost the entire distance of the yard. This will permit materials to be loaded direct to trucks and it will also enable employes to send out shipments to much better advantage. The work of removal is made slow because of the great amount of lumber now kept on hand at the present East End yard on North avenue at Berckman street. The stock totals fully a million feet of all kinds of dressed lumber and the cost of trucking this to South avenue is prohibitive. It will be sold off as orders are received and the change of location will come without being noticed. Everything about the new place will be put up as near fireproof as possible and the general appearance of the yard will be made as attractive as possible. Altogether the change will not only be a good one for the company but at the same time will give the people of Plainfield a building supply business that will be a credit to the entire community.

PLAN NEW HOMES ON EAST FRONT ST.

Counselors Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and F. J. Blatz to Build Individual Structures.

Counselors Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and Francis J. Blatz, who recently made the joint purchase of the Kelley property on East Front street, opposite the Hyde estate, contemplate the erection of individual homes on the plot. The ground has a front measurement of 155 feet and a depth of 250 feet. It has been considered by local realty men for years as one of the most desirable residential sites in that exclusive section of the city.

While Mr. Blatz's plans for building have not been fully formulated as yet those of Mr. Hetfield have reavhed the stage where he is now securing bids. These will be all in during the next week at the end of which time the contract will be let.

According to the architectural design, the Hetfield home will be a handsome colonial structure with an exterior appearance in keeping with the many attractive residences near by. It will follow colonial lines in the materials used, but the interior will embody several original ideas of Mr. Hetfield's conception, who has made architecture a side study for the pleasure derived from it. The exact cost cannot be given as yet but a full description of the house will be printed in these columns later.

The house to be built later by Mr. Blatz will conform with the Hetfield place and the landscape decorations will be uniform throughout. With the addition of these two beautiful homes and the proposed improvement of the former Brown property adjoining to the east and running to the corner of Berckman street, now owned by Thomas Hughes, that particular section will undergo a change that will be fully appreciated by everyone.

BRICK SHORTAGE FELT HERE.

The strike of laboring men in the Middlesex and Monmouth county brickyards, which began two weeks ago and which is not yet fully settled, has greatly hampered local contractors. During the forepart of the present week, several of them had to stop work for four days and some are still shy of material. The Sayre & Fisher Co., one of the largest brick making concerns in the East, is one plant which has its men still out.

TO BUILD NEW HOME.

W. A. Garrigues, of Watchung avenue, who recently purchased the Gray property on Hillside avenue, is contemplating plans to have a fine home erected on the site. The lot has a wide frontage on Hillside avenue and extends back to Kensington avenue.

A HALF-TIMBER AND CEMENT COTTAGE

DESIGNED BY CHAS S. SEDGWICK, ARCHITECT.

THIS is a popular design for a low-roofed cottage, with two good stories, the first story being 8 ft. 6 in. and the second story 8 ft. high. The construction is frame with cement stucco on metal lath and the upper story finished with half timbers and all of the outside trimming, cornice, casings, etc., stained brown and the roof shingles stained red, the stucco to be a light cream color.

The size of the main part is 26 ft. 6 in. by 35 ft. in depth, with a glazed piazza on the left that is 9 ft. in width, making a total frontage of 35 ft. 6 in.

There is a good full basement under the house with a coal bin under the piazza which is a great convenience. There are three good rooms on the first floor and three chambers on the second story, each provided with a good clothes closet and in addition a well located sleeping porch over the dining room, glazed and finished the same as the other portions of second story. The porch entrance on the left opens with a vestiblue into the large living room and on the right is the stair-case with a small coat closet off from the first landing. The stairs are on the combination order with a section from kitchen to upper landing and the basement stairs underneath with a grade entrance. There is one main chimney with a wide fireplace in living room and a separate flue for heating apparatus. The finish of first story is in oak with dark mission finish and natural oak floor and the second story finished in birch and the chambers enameled white, the floor of birch.

The low cottage appearance of this design is especially attractive and homelike. The grouping of the windows is also an attractive feature. This plan is best suited to an east or south frontage, the connection between living room and the glazed piazza is with a glazed sliding French door. The estimated cost without heating and plumbing is $2,800 to $3,500. The first figure will build it in almost any locality. It is snug, simple in design and economical to build, all of the detail is very plain. The cornice has a wide overhang and is cemented up on the underside which looks well and adds to the warmth of the house. The flower box cemented in front is attractive and one might be added to the side of the piazza.

IN THE SUBURBS

The contract for building the new house for Leslie Latham, of Dunellen, on Prospect avenue, has been awarded to Contractor Edward Daniel.

The house of Marshal and Mrs. Ernest C. Keppler, of Dunellen, near what is known as Keppler's pond section of the Equator tract, has been sold by the genial marshal to out of town parties and he and his family have moved to the Bound Brook road section of the Equator section.

HEALTHY INCREASE IN WEEK'S PERMITS

Eight Granted by Building Inspector Doane in Past Seven Days.

A total of eight permits aggregating a total estimated cost of $23,150 were granted by Building Inspector T. O. Doane during the past week. The increase over the previous week is decidedly pronounced and demonstrated that work which has been in prospect for the past few months is now coming to a head.

The largest permit for the week was granted H. A. Babson for the erection of a terra cotta residence on Prospect avenue at a cost of $10,500. In dimensions it will be 48 by 48 by 23 feet. J. N. Wyman & Son have the contract for the carpentering and Talamy Brothers will do the masonry.

Another big job noticed in the permits is one for the alteration of two buildings on the Hartridge School property on upper Plainfield avenue. A fine frame structure formerly used as a barn when the place was known as the Evans Estate and latter the Barnaby place is to be converted into a dormitory, which practically means that the structure will be rebuilt. Living rooms will be on the first floor and sleeping rooms on the second. Another building on the place will be reconstructed into a modern boiler room and garage. A. P. Benson, of New York, will do the architectural plans and Michael Rimmer has the general contract. The estimated cost for the two alterations is placed at $8,000.

The addition of $23,150, representing the past week's permits, makes a total for the month of May of $41,488 and for the year $355,234. Besides the two permits already mentioned the others granted this week were as follows:

Arthur Pagan, 936 West Third street, cement hollow block building, 16 by 16 by 35 feet, for baker shop; Howard Elliot, mason; J. Skellenger, carpenter; estimated cost $500.

Edward F. Feiring, 441 Orchard place, building rear porch, 14 by 10; estimated cost $50.

J. Inedew, 730 St. Mary's avenue, extension on side of present building, cost $700.

Mrs. Ada M. Cumming, 1000 Putnam avenue, garage at that address, 12 by 12 by 18; estimated cost $450.

Lily Vreth and Louis Vreth, 356 Hillcrest avenue, garage, cost $150.

E. J. Johnston, 739 Webster place, erect two and a half story residence; 26 feet front, 26 rear and 30 feet deep; estimated cost $2,800; contractor, Charles Bicknell.

31,771 ATTENDED PRAYER MEETINGS

Reports Show This Feature of Campaign a Great Influence for Good.

A total of 880 prayer meetings have been held in Plainfield in connection with the Biederwolf evangelistic campaign, according to reports made at the big union prayer service held at the Tabernacle yesterday afternoon. These meetings were attended by 13,771 persons, and many were converted.

The prayer service was attended by about 3,500 persons, who comfortably filled the lower floor. Dr. Strong, chairman of the Cottage Prayer Meeting committee, was on the platform with Dr. Biederwolf and other members of the party, and each of the many district superintendents made a report. They told of a wonderful interest in the work. Prayer meetings were held in Swedish, Italian and other languages. One colored woman reported that she alone had held 24 meetings. There were 412 evening prayer meetings, with an attendance of 6,100, and 568 morning meetings with an attendance of 7,671. Many individuals not members of the committee testified that they had been greatly helped through these services, and so great was the continue home prayer meetings in Plainfield through the conservation campaign.

A feature of the reports was that of the work done by Robert Love in the West End. He held numerous prayer services there and his influence was so great that five were converted at his services even before Dr. Biederwolf came to Plainfield.

The first meeting in Warren chapel, following the evangelistic meetings, will be held in the chapel Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

The Presbytery of Elizabeth will met in the chapel Thursday night at 8 o'clock to organize Warren chapel into an independent church.

Joseph Regan, a member of the bookkeeping staff of the Plainfield Trust Company, is seriously ill at his home on Lee place with an attack of pneumonia.

Miss Anna W. Warnock, of Craig place, leaves today for a week's stay in Cleveland, Ohio, in attendance at a convention.

TEXAS RANCHES LOOTED AGAIN

Mexicans Cross the Frontier and Raid.

BANDIT LEADERS COMBINE

Have Force of More Than 300 Men Major Langhorne is Gringing His Troops Back to the Border—Pursuit of Glen Springs Raiders Abandoned.

El Paso, Tex., May 20.—The expedition of the American forces into Mexico south of the Big Bend country of Texas has been halted by more raids over the border.

Placido Villaueva, a Villa bandit reported killed in a fight with troops of Telesforo Domingues near Ojinaga several weeks ago, has joined forces with Jose Chavez, another bandit leader, and they are stealing horses on both sides of the river. The first theft was made from the ranch of Buck Poole, where they took ten head of horses, near Presidio, Tex.

News reached here that they also raided the ranch of Felipe Valdez, sixty miles from Presidio, taking a number of horses and supplies. It is generally thought they are getting new mounts for the purpose of committing raids into Texas towns.

This same band came from the vicinity of Lajitas, and it is said some of the members were in the band which raided Glen Springs. The total force is from 300 to 500 men.

As a result of these new raids pursuit of the Mexican bandits who raided Glen Springs two weeks ago is to be given up and the American government for the present will content itself with a thorough policing of the American country in the Big Bend.

In addition to the cavalry now pursuing the bandits in Mexico, whose mission was declared ended when it overtook the bandits and rescued Jesse Deemer and his two employees whom the bandits carried back into Mexico with them, another regiment is to be sent there from General Pershing's command now in western Chihuahua.

Sixth Quits Mexico.

The Sixth cavalry came out of Mexico, arriving at Columbus and going into camp there. As soon as they rest up from their long march from the vicinity of Namiquipa the troopers will be sent to Marathon for distribution in the Big Bend.

In the event that General Pershing needs any more men with him in Mexico the regiment of the New Mexico national guard, now mobilized and recruiting to the full strength at Columbus, will be sent in. This regiment is now being mustered into the service of the federal government. H. T. Herring, the adjutant general of New Mexico, commanding the brigade, is a West Point officer.

It became known that the American forces in Mexico south of the Big Bend country have been turned about and started on their way back to Texas. They penetrated over 130 miles into Mexico and encountered but one force of bandits, and these escaped after abandoning Deemer and his men.

The fact that additional cavalry is not available to extend the line of communication and that motor trucks not available in sufficient quantities to keep supplies going to the troops are considered responsible for the abandonment of the expedition.

GIRL TO WED ORPET.

Miss Youker Writes Him Letter Every Day.

Chicago, May 20.—Miss Celeste Youker of Maywood, Ill., will marry Will Orpet if he is acquitted of the murder of Marian Lambert at his trial in Waukegan.

The University of Wisconsin undergraduate has had this assurance from the lips of the young woman, for whose love he cast aside the pretty Lake Forest high school girl who died at his feet from cyanide of potassium in Helm's woods last February.

Orpet, as he sat between his father and mother at his lawyer's table, drew from his pocket furtively a letter written in a feminine hand on monogrammed blue stationery. As he glanced at it his eyes softened and his faint sneer melted into a happy smile.

The letter was from Miss Youker. One is delivered at the jail every day. Orpet watches for them eagerly. If they fail to arrive by the first post he is restless and morose until the afternoon mail brings the coveted epistle.

THE LIFE OF A CITY.

Who knows the life of a city? The politician may say, "I do." He does know it from one angle of vision. He knows the political color of every ward. He knows the political convictions of every voter. He has understanding of political probabilities, almost to a certainty. But there are many phases of life that he knows nothing about.

The merchant says, "I know the city;" and he does. He knows the best day in the week to advertise bargains. He knows what will bring the people to shop. He knows or feels sure that he knows what will help or hurt business. He is sensitive to social breezes and is ever alert to take advantage of or guard against their influence.

The loafer on the street corner says he knows the city and if a stranger comes to town, he can give him information in detail about hotels and amusements and with a swagger of importance can dole out information ad infinitum on all phases of social, political and moral life. If he were to take a side door Pullman and ride to some remote part he would tell in particular to any street corner auditor "all about" his home-city.

The saloon-keeper knows his city. He knows the city officials and just how much of lawlessness they will stand for. He knows what candidates for office he can support, in his own interest. He knows his patrons and whether they can pay for their booze. He knows the crowd that will hurrah for an open Sunday and a wide open town.

The commuter knows his city. He knows it as a comfortable place to sleep. He knows it as a place where he can find quiet and rest, a place of comforts.

The minister knows his city. He knows the number of churches, the strength of the religious forces. He knows the charitable organizations, the proportion of crime to society, the moral tone and ideals of society. He knows the moral medicine sin-sick souls need. He knows the religious life and the lack of it. He knows the badness and goodness of the city.

But the fact is that every man is looking over the fence from his own yard, and sees and judges the life of the city from his own point of view. In other words, there is no one person or class of people that can tell all about the life of the city and what the city needs. That class or man who have opportunity to know the city in the widest range of knowledge ought to know most of its actual and varied conditions and needs.

But again, the man that is most comfortable in his field and is prosperous, will say the city is all right. It is a good place. The prosperous merchant or the saloon-keeper who is left alone in his business or the minister who is comfortably supported and well received; each is apt to say, let well enough alone. We have a fine city.

A city can be allowed to go dangerously near ruin and surely to a deadness in sleep that might do well to wake up.

We have for years been congratulating ourselves upon the wonderful city we have. It is beautiful. It is comfortable and we have developed a fine spirit of self-congratulation and "leave-it-alone."

But what about it? Can we never arouse ourselves enough to ask the question, "Can we make it better?" Are we satisfied? Perhaps one of the greatest values of the great religious campaign now closing is that it has caused thousands of people to feel dissatisfied with themselves. We will never stir as long as we are perfectly comfortable.

Plainfield has great need, even though it is the finest suburb of New York. What are some of its needs? Can one make suggestions without being called a knocker? Well, where can you find a community of thirty thousand people where the sidewalks are as poor and dangerous as here? Where can you find a city of this size without garbage collection, with so few paved streets? Yes, we have schools that seem as good as anywhere, and they are a great asset. But you are saying, keep still and remember taxes are high enough. Very well; remember that to us who live here these things come to be common and we adjust ourselves to the condition, but you want the city to grow and visitors who are looking for homes judge of our enterprise by what they see in our streets and learn of our customs.

Well, are we satisfied in these things? How about the moral issues. "We have a good city." We have been lulling ourselves to sleep for years and congratulating ourselves that we are not as bad as some. That is what the Pharisees say, too. We can not rightfully content ourselves as long as a single booze joint stays like a festering sore among us. Now is the time if ever for the people of this city to strike out this enemy of all society. It can be done. Shall we do it? Is this a church town? We will see after the Tabernacle is torn down. Can we make our churches more interesting? That is not the question. Can and will the people measure up to their moral and spiritual responsibilities? Get new preachers if you need them, but stand for those positive and progressive teachings of truth that save the world.

But now is the time to grapple with the question, How can we make the city, not more contented and self-satisfied, but how make it purer, more righteous, happier?

Destroy evil, personal and social, build up that which is good, and let us be at it.

URGE PEACE TALK FROM THE PULPIT

Ex-President Taft Writes Letter to Many Plainfield Ministers.

New York, May 20.—Ex-President William H. Taft, as head of a special committee on church co-operation, has written to 10,000 ministers throughout the country, asking them to embody in their sermons on May 21 (the third Sunday in May, which, in a good many churches, is observed as "Peace Sunday"), an explanation of the program of the League to Enforce Peace, which is to hold its first annual assemblage on May 26 and 27.

Other signatures to the letter are those of L. T. Wilson, Methodist bishop of New York; Shailer Mathews, president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America; the Rev. Charles S. MacFarland, the Rev. J. B. Remensnyder, Rev. Arthur J. Brown, Hamilton Holt and Fred B. Smith

Mr. Taft is president of the League to Enforce Peace, which was formed at Philadelphia, in Independence Hall last June, when a platform was adopted which proposed the establishment of an international court and council of conciliation by a league of nations, which should pledge its joint economic and military forces to prevent any signatory from beginning hostilities or declaring war over any question until it had first tried judicial methods.

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

He Fletcherized.

Hank was up-to-date, you betcher;
Took advice from old Hod Fletcher,
Chawed his vittels good and plenty;
Fifteen chaws, or maybe twenty.
Chawed his soup and chawed his water,
'Cause Hod Fletcher said he'd gotter;
Took two hours to eat his dinner;
Was a mastication winner.

Soon he saw his jaw was growing,
And the vittels he was stowing,
It was not at all surprising,
But was due to exercising,
And it did not cause elation,
But increasing consternation,
As he sacrificed his beauty
To the stern demands of duty.

Suddenly an inspiration
Found for him a reputation,
And this champion vittel biter
Blossomed out as a prize fighter.
Every fistic title bearer
Saw his jaw and fled in terror.
On the stage he went then, winning
Wealth and fame by his chinning.

Fred Keister Says:

The pearly gates, they stand ajar
For Mrs. Bunker Bean,
Who foolishly tried to start the fire
With a quart of gasoline.
And also they are opened wide
For Ebenezer Friar
Who argued that ye editor
Was something of a liar.

It has got so out in the local option districts that even the traveling man can't order lemon pie at the village hotel any more without looking guilty.

What has become of the old-fashioned minister who used to wear a black frock coat the whole year through?

Speaking about the trials and tribulations that are continually haunting the present administration, we quote the following from the Palo Post: "Washing and other work wanted. Inquire at the postoffice."

As She is Spoke.

The waitress in the country hotel gracefully poked her blond pompadour in place, set a glass of water down in front of the guest and remarked casually and indifferently as though it didn't really matter whether she announced it or not:

Wrong Again.

"Skirts are fuller this year. Seems as though everything is fuller excepting the old man's pocketbook," says the Grand Rapids News. Wrong again brother. Here is driest Arkansas, our good friend Col. Henry Hardsop isn't nearly as full as he was this time last year.—Arkansas Democrat.

Fred Keister Says:

Oh, for a return to the good old days when we used to have a little excitement in this burg. The kind they had when me and Alex Robertson crawled into the wooden sluiceway down near the old mill and the local village populace had to dig up 18 rods of village streets to get us out again.

Keep On.

Oh, weary not of effort,
For sore will be the strain;
Though they be exterminated
They always come again;
So vigilance eternal
Alone unties the knot
That tangles up their nuisance—
So swat, swat, swat.

- Proctor's Theatre -

AT PROCTOR'S TUESDAY.

Today marks the conclusion of Mary Pickford Week at Proctor's, and owing to the innumerable requests received from many of the patrons the management have made arrangements to again present Miss Pickford in "Madame Butterfly" today. This feature was presented at Proctor's a short while ago, and received such favorable comment and praise from the patrons that it will be a decided treat indeed to witness this delightful photoplay again. Many of the scenes were taken in the Japanese gardens on Leland avenue, this town, and several were taken right around in this vicinity, including Bernardsville, so it is doubly interesting by showing Miss Pickford's charming talents, and also injecting much local atmosphere. In support of "Madame Butterfly" today another charming little screen star will appear at Proctor's. She is little Mary Miles Minter, the delightfully cute Metro actress, who appears in what is conceded to be her most successful picture, "Dimples," in which she makes the most of the many opportunities offered her for charming character studies. On Monday the program will be topped by Victor Moore, the popular musical comedy star in a gripping story of adventure entitled "Chimmie Fadden Out West," which was adapted to the screen by the world-renowned Paramount Company. In addition, on Monday the third episode of that remarkably novel serial masterpiece, "The Mysteries of Myra," will also be shown. On Tuesday a big triple bill greets the patrons of Proctor's, and by special request, Edna Goodrich, famous for her beauty and talent, will appear on the screen in "Armstrong's Wife," a powerful dramatic creation that is destined to keep the spectators rigid with intense interest. Tuesday also De Wolf Hopper, the famous comedian, will star in his second Triangle comedy-drama entitled "Sunshine Dad," which is shown for the first time in this vicinity. Ford Sterling will also be seen in a rip-roaring Keystone entitled "The Snow Cure," and the twelfth episode of "Mary Page" will also be shown. On Wednesday William Farnum will delight the hundreds of his admirers in "A Man of Sorrow," a big six-part Fox production adapted from the stage success, "Hoodman Blind."

THEIR PROBLEMS

--Astor Theatre--

Lois Meredith, the dainty film star with the expressive eyes and mobile mouth, has had a "Frankenstein" experience. She is no more superstitious than the rest of us, although she does refuse to walk under ladders and is very careful of her mirror. But when Director Harry Harvey was making the five-reel feature, "Spellbound," in which Miss Meredith is starred, he sought every available curio shop for a one-eyed idol, that holds a high place in the spirited events that lead up to and through the story, and finally found one, even ugly enough for his purposes. In this story the idol, stolen from a Hindoo temple, is bought by an Englishman, who returns with it to England and his ward, with whom he is in love. "Spellbound," while dealing with the mystic influence of the East, is essentially a story of present-day life in England, and its story, though thrilling, and unusual, is both interesting and plausible. This fine feature will be seen at the Astor Theatre today in conjunction with our other big features, and fourth episode of "The Girl and the Game." On Monday, Daniel Frohman presents to the Plainfield public, Marguerite Clark, in a powerful Alpine drama, "Out of the Drifts," by William H. Clifford; a Paramount photoplay in five thrilling parts, produced by the Famous Players Film Company. "Out of the Drifts" is a big story of the great Alps and of its everlasting snows in which this superb little star is seen battling not only for life itself against the elements, but to save herself from a young roue with whom a great avalanche has penned her in a deserted cabin. We have laughed and cried with Marguerite Clark in many funny and some touching situations, but in this story she gives us something entirely new—the fearless, unspoiled girl of the mountains whose simple trust in mankind and her Maker steels her courage in time of peril and wins our heartfelt sympathy in moments of distress. Happy little Elise first learns the meaning of sorrow when her father loses his footing in the St. Bernard Pass and dies in her arms, leaving her alone in the world. Rudolph, an Alpine guide, is desperately in love with Elise, but she does not return his affection. There arrives at the monastery a young Englishman namedd Reggie Van Rensselaer, who has come to Switzerland to forget his past follies in London. Instantly attracted by the beauty of Elise, Reggie meets and induces her to agre to accompany him to London in the belief that they are to be married there. But Rudolph discovers the real purpose behind Reggie's scheme, and, in order to prevent it, he attempts to kill the stranger by cutting the guide-rope and sending him headlong down the precipice over which he has been dangling. The story is thrilling from start to finish, and dainty Marguerite Clark is seen to god effect. Including our other features, this will make an attractive bill. Always a good show at the Astor Theatre, the house of first-run Paramount, Bluebird and other Broadway features. Our motto, "Quality, Not Quantity."

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How the Dustman Tells Stories to Sleepy Children.

This He Holds Over Good Children.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

THE minute Jack and Evelyn stopped rustling daddy told them: "There is nobody in the whole world who can tell such wonderful stories as Ole Lukoie."

"Can he tell better stories than yours, daddy?" asked Evelyn, surprised.

Daddy smiled. "Such beautiful stories as Ole Lukoie can tell!" he said. "When night comes, as little children are sitting around the supper table as good as gold, in walks this prince of story tellers, Ole Shuteyes. Without shoes he creeps so quietly up the stairs and opens the door so softly nobody hears him. And, puff! into the children's eyes he sends a fine spray of milk so they can't keep their eyes open another minute. He never hurts them, but he steals up behind their chairs and breathes upon their necks till their heads are as heavy as lead. This is the way he makes them quiet, but the best way to keep children quiet is to put them to bed, and when all children are still as mice in bed Ole Lukoie tells them, oh, such wonderful stories!

"Then as soon as the children are fast asleep Ole Lukoie sits down on their beds. He always wears silk clothes, but what their color is I can't say, for every time he moves his garments shimmer green and red and blue. Under one arm he always carries a big umbrella with beautiful pictures on it. This he holds over good children, and all night long they dream delightful stories.

"Under his other arm he carries another umbrella with no pictures on it. This he holds over children who have been naughty during the day, and they sleep heavily till morning light comes and have no dreams at all."

Daddy stopped and thought a minute. Then he said: "Now I will tell you both about a little boy that Ole Lukoie used to love to tell stories. His name was Halmar, and once Ole Lukoie told him a story for every night in the week."

"How many stories did he tell, daddy?" cried Evelyn.

And Jack shouted, "There are seven nights in a week, sister, so Halmar must have got seven stories!"

"Oh," said Evelyn, snuggling back in daddy's arms.

"This was a very good little boy, and he could listen without fidgeting or interrupting. He kept still as a mouse while Ole Shuteyes rustled his changeable silk clothes on the edge of the bed, and if you are both good children all day tomorrow I shall try to remember what little Halmar heard when he went to bed," daddy finished.

Marrying a Butterfly

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

Homemaking Is the Dullest of Games, Thinks Ethel.

"How long did you say you have lived here?" asked Ethel Gordon, standing on her side of the hedge and talking to Nell Morton, who had brought her sewing out under a tree on the lawn.

"Nearly five years," answered Nell.

"How have you ever stood it so long?" Ethel's sigh indicated the length of time five years seemed to her.

"I did not like it at first, but Mrs Parsons was so good to me that I soon grew better satisfied. Then my best friend from home came to visit me and fell in love with Dr. Ellson. When she came to be my nearest neighbor I was perfectly happy." Nell smiled into the discontented face of her neighbor.

"But there is nothing to go to; nothing to do," complained Ethel.

"You see, I never had a maid until my boy was born, so I never suffered for lack of occupation," laughed Nell. "I often wonder how you put in your time."

"There isn't an earthly thing to do. I read till I am all tired out, and I hate walking. I hoped to have a machine, but that seems to be impossible." Ethel's pretty face wore the expression of habitual boredom that always spells lack of interests.

"What did you do in Milwaukee? Can't you transplant some of your interests here?" asked Nell with a real desire to help the discontented little woman.

"Oh, there! That was different. There was always something going on, some show or play. I belonged to a lively crowd that always kept something doing. We had canoe parties on the river, or picnics on the lake shore, or fine autoing parties that ended in a dance or supper——" Her voice broke and Nell, looking up, saw that her eyes were full of tears.

"You poor little thing!" she exclaimed, going over to the hedge. "You are homesick. That is what ails you, and you are taking just the course to aggravate the complaint." She gently shook the slight shoulders. "No one can conquer homesickness without becoming interested in some vital thing in the new surroundings."

"There is nothing intresting here," was the gloomy response as Ethel wiped the tears from her eyes.

"You are not very complimentary," laughed Nell, trying to get her to take a more cheerful view of things.

"Oh, you know what I mean." Ethel smiled a wan little smile. "Everybody here has her own special interest, her own home to attend to, and there is next to nothing going on. I positively hate this tiresome flat country and this tiresome flat life." Ethel spoke with fire.

"May I tell you just what I think would help you to overcome the homesickness, and grow to like the place?" asked Nell soberly.

"Do prescribe for me. I am sick unto death of the whole life," begged Ethel.

"You—don't seem much interested in your home," began Nell haltingly. "I mean you leave everything for the maid to see to. I think you would find it very interesting if you studied homemaking——"

"Studied homemaking!" echoed Ethel. "I do not understand."

"Why, I got so it was as exciting as a game, trying to see if I could keep my household expenses down to a certain sum. Really it is a great pleasure to make ends meet when they need a little stretching. Of course you have not the same need that I had, for my husband's salary was small when we first came here, but I thought——"

"Really I do not like your remedy, I think it worse than the disease," said Ethel in tones of disappointment. "I hate fussing over money matters, and how anybody can even think of that as a cure for homesickness I cannot imagine. Thank you just the same for your interest," she added, for Nell looked hurt. "It is very kind of you to interest yourself in my woes." Ethel threw a smile with no merriment in it over her shoulder as she turned toward the house.

U. S. SHOULD ENTER WAR, SAYS PUTNAM

Speakers Denounce Sinking of Lusitania.

New York, May 20. — Anniversary services in memory of the victims of the Lusitania were held in Carnegie hall here. The memorial meeting was to have taken place on May 7, the anniversary of the sinking, but at the request of Mayor Mitchel was postponed, the mayor giving as his reason for making the request the critical status of German-American relations at the time of the anniversary and the danger of disorder due to the tension existing in the public mind as a result of that crisis.

The speakers at the meeting were George Haven Putnam, president of the American rights committee; the Rev. Dr. Randolph H. McKim of the Church of the Epiphany, Washington, and Professor Franklin H. Giddings of Columbia university.

The meeting was marked by out and out sympathy for the allies and their cause. The time had come, said both Major Putnam and Dr. McKim, for America to definitely align herself on the side of the allied nations. Prussianism was denounced, and the crime from the stigma of which Germany can never escape. There was no disorder at the meeting.

The entire blame for the postponement was placed on the shoulders of Mayor Mitchel. Major Putnam said that the committee, while complying through a sense of duty to the request of the mayor, nevertheless wished it to be distinctly understood that it had at no time shared the views of the mayor as to the wisdom of the postponement.

FEARS CONTROL OF WEALTH

Concentration In Hands of Few Menace to Nation, Says Comptroller.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 20.—Concentration of America's growing wealth in the hands of comparatively few men is the greatest danger threatening the nation, John Skelton Williams, comptroller of the currency, declared in an address here at a convention of the Tennessee Bankers' association. He urged bankers and financial leaders to try strenuously to help small local industries and farmers develop their business.

Such a policy, he said, would increase the aggregate wealth of the nation and would promote contentment and patriotism among the people. Mr. Williams said the rapid increase in wealth of the United States was producing "an ostentatious class, which is a danger even more than angered poverty."

Baking and Caring of Bread

Bread that has been allowed to become stale may easily be refreshened by sprinkling it with cold water and placing it in a cool oven for five minutes. This will render the crumb perfectly light and elastic once more, but the bread must be eaten as soon as possible, as it rapidly loses its freshness again.

Loaves must always be kept in properly ventilated pans, an earthenware pan with a perforated lid of tin being practical and inexpensive.

Enamelled bread tins are also satisfactory, but the terra cotta pans with the lids of the same material are to be avoided, as sooner or later the lid is certain to be allowed to drop suddenly on the lower part, with the result that it becomes cracked, and allows too much air to be admitted.

Dampness is the worst enemy to bread, and it is better to keep the bread pan on a shelf rather than on a stone floor for this reason. The air should be allowed to circulate freely round it, and it should be kept from the sun if it is to retain its moisture.

It must be remembered that the smaller the loaf the more quickly will it become stale, hence the advisability of baking in large loaves, and of eating the small rolls and fancy breads as quickly as possible after baking.

It is generally imagined that the gas cooking stove is altogether inimical to the efficient baking of bread. As a matter of fact, the most excellent results may be obtained with one of these cookers. The ease with which the temperature of a gas stove can be maintained and regulated is a great point in its favor. If one can be obtained with a porcelain tray or bottom, so much the better; the bread will have a finer flavor than if baked on a metal shelf.

Before putting in the bread care must be taken to see that the oven is scrupulously clean, for bread is likely to absorb the flavor of anything adjacent to it. For this reason no other article of diet must be baked in the same oven with the loaves.

Skirt of cotton gabardine, top finished with heading and belt of self material, two pockets, pearl buttons. $5.75.

Can You Cook Spinach?

Spinach "boils down" almost more than any other vegetable, and it is incredible into what a small tureen a great basketful of spinach leaves will go when cooked.

So prepare plenty and, if it won't all go into the pan at first, don't be afraid you have done too much. It boils down very quickly, and you can add the extra leaves very soon after the first are put into the pan.

You couldn't find a more wholesome vegetable, and it is particularly good for children at this time of the year.

One pound of spinach, two ounces of butter and a little pepper and salt.

Carefully pick the spinach over and remove all the decayed leaves and larger stalks. Wash it well two or three times in clean water and put it in a saucepan with very little water to boil for fifteen minutes.

Turn it into a colander and drain by pressing out all the moisture with the back of a large spoon. Then chop it very finely on a vegetable board, and put it back on the fire again, adding the butter and the seasoning.

If you want to serve it as an ordinary vegetable, decorate it with slices of hot, hard-boiled eggs. This makes an excellent dish.

Prepare and boil the spinach exactly as described in the recipe for plain "boiled spinach."

Take the number of eggs you require, break one carefully into a teacup; have ready a saucepan of boiling water, with a little salt added to it. With a spoon stir the water round quickly, and drop the egg from the teacup into the miniature whirlpool. Repeat this process for each egg to be poached; the white will then envelope the yolk; drain and serve on a bed of the hot spinach. This makes a delightful supper dish, and is quickly prepared.

CULTIVATE BETTER ENGLISH.

You may have perfect manners; you may be beautifully dressed; you may be lovely to look upon; but if you have a slipshod way of talking, if your use of English is ungrammatical, inelegant and slovenly, your whole effect is spoiled.

Lacking the three first named attractions, if you have a soft, low clear voice, a cultivating enunciation, and use our noble language as it should be used you will make everyone forget that possibly your frock is out of date, your manner gauche, or your appearance weatherbeaten.

It is no exaggeration to say that English undefiled, spoken with the purest New England or old England accent by one with a musical voice, makes a more profound impression on a first acquaintance than any other attribute.

We Americans are careless in training our speaking voices, in our accents and in our use of English. In the last mentioned particular the average person daily mangles the language in a way most trying to the purist.

To quote a few instances of bad English in common use: "To be home," "to go a place," "he or she don't," "to cut in half," "A quarter of 4," "she arrived Tuesday," "a person—they" (a singular noun with a plural pronoun). Many of these little errors are in daily use by people who consider themselves well educated, but each one jars the really cultivated ear and gives an illiterate, slovenly impression.

WHEN TRAVELING.

In preparing a lunch for a journey, bake the bread in empty baking powder cans.

After slicing and spreading, replace it in the cans, put on the cover, and the bread will be as fresh at the end of the trip (although it may be several days) as when it was first packed.

Lawn Mowers and Garden Helps

Helpful Housefurnishing Store on the sunny Seventh Gallery has a whole section full of many kinds of lawn mowers. Lawn mowers are decidedly not all alike.

There are light ones that a person not particularly energetic will find it rather fun to run.

Big high-wheeled giant mowers are for the professional gardener who has a large area to cover.

20-inch high wheel mowers—the Wanamaker giant—at $8.75. Other styles to $14.

These, like all other house and garden furnishings here, have been tested adequately by us. We know they are satisfactory.

Gardening Implements

Lawn rollers, $10.75 to $19.50.

Lawn sprinklers, 45c to $3.25.

Watering cans, 35c to $2.50.

Rubber hose, 14c to 25c foot.

Gardening tool baskets with trowel, transplanting trowel, weeder, pruning knife, ball of twine, garden scissors, $8.50 to $9.75.

3-piece garden sets—spade, hoe, rake—65c up.

125 Afternoon and Evening Gowns, Specially Priced $35

We have sold gowns like these, from the same maker, within the past ten days at $55 to $87.50. Notwithstanding this—and the fact that we are but on the threshold of the season for which these gowns were designed—they will be $35 each on Monday.

Merchandising laws are inexorable. The only surplus a manufacturer cares for is a cash surplus. Stocks must be cleared while yet there is good demand for them.

Callot, Paquin, Georgette, Jenny, Agnes, Bulloz—these conceived the admirable models from which the gowns in this offering were adapted. The materials are very handsome; some are imported. And how faithfully the good Paris needlework has been copied.

A wonderfully pretty evening gown after Bulloz, is in rose or chartreuse. A bluet, after Callot, has plain cross-over bodice and pleated sides and back. This exquisite creation in silver lace with hoop below knees, is after Georgette. Agnes inspired frock with clouds of tulle over silver gauze underskirt, and the orchid pink gown with quaint Marie Antoinette panniers.

And the price—$35—is absurdly little for the 22d of May.

Women's Silk Dresses at $12.75, $19.75

Down-Stairs Store's Special Offering

Charming dresses for street, afternoon and evening wear. Hardly two are alike. This accounts for their exceptionally low prices—both of which are below their average wholesale costs.

The dresses at $12.75 include striped taffeta, white net in combination with various colors, taffeta with shadow lace or Georgette crepe, plain taffeta for street wear, afternoon dresses of net over taffeta—these are but a few of the many styles for street, afternoon and evening.

The dresses at $19.75 are of unusually fine silks in one-of-a-kind styles for afternoon and street wear. White taffeta with Georgette sleeves, jacket effect dress of taffeta with wide hoop skirt; imported marquisette silk dress over silk foundation, Georgette crepe dress with silk foundation, combination dress of Georgette crepe and charmeuse.

Raking 'Em Over

By "JINKS"

Suppose we'll have to excuse those City Leaguers if they attempt circus stunts today after the gathering of ballists noted in the tent bleachers last night. They were introduced to some new capers and we will not be among those surprised if something unusual is staged on ball lots. Authorities on the subject say that the circus fever is contagious and we well know there's no class of men better qualified to catch things than ball players.

• • • • • •

We have with us today—Old Sol. After an absence of several days he has come back seemingly on purpose for the City Leaguers. If the clubs on the local loop has as much influence on Plainfield fandom as they apparently have on clear weather they'd all be advertising for watchmen to keep an optic on the gate receipts each week-end until the banks opened Monday morning.

• • • • • •

One week ago Plainfield High School batsmen whiffed the empty ozone fifty-four times for eighteen strikeouts; Thursday North Plainfield players turned the same stunt thirty-six times for an even dozen get-up and sit-downs. All fandom doesn't realize that the respective coaches have not been practicing this particular tactic all season so it's up to us to put them wise.

• • • • • •

Just when North Plainfield High School had an excellent opportunity to snatch a mite of Ford publicity the advertising scheme fell through. Certain borough damsels not long ago believed they had the "makin's" of a baseball team but when introduced to such diamond vernacular as "cushion stealers," "ivory tops," "bum stickers," "spitters," "fence busters," "hook-sliders," etc., they shied and took a back seat.

• • • • • •

At any rate now that N. P. H. S. has decided not to have a feminine ball outfit Plainfield High and some other perfectly respectable sport promoting bodies won't be embarrassed into accepting or rejecting challenges hurled at their fair athletes.

• • • • • •

Inasmuch as Warry McLaughlin has reniged from the City League we'll have to announce that the contest for the old-age championship has been called off. Britt Martin gets the title on a silver platter and it's his turn to buy.

• • • • • •

Grapes may be sour but on the level don't you think that "Pop" Martin would fill the boots of an age champion better than "Mac?" He has one great big advantage in being accustomed to the environment under which he is starring and you've certainly got to admit that anyone who ever adorned a Pittsburgh National League uniform would have a hard time putting on enough extra baseball baggage to size up creditably with his rivals on the local loop.

• • • • • •

The one big scholastic athletic classic of the season is being held in Newark by the Princeton Club this afternoon and we haven't a single entry on the list. Up to now we've been doing a lot of bragging about our future greats on track and field but when the time comes to show the goods we fall short.

• • • • • •

In Milwaukee they locked a baseball fan up the other day for throwing a beer bottle at an umpire. If the "umps" on the city circuit are called on to dodge anything save a soft drink container we won't have to do much "deteckative" work to determine that the guilty party was a rank outsider for "dead" booze preservers are getting mighty scarce hereabouts of late.

• • • • • •

Speaking of umpires, here the first game of the interscholastic series has been settled and we haven't been requested to even mention the name of an official in the "Reprimand Column." Either the players have been scared dumb by the indications of wings sprouting on their anatomies or else the "umps" are for once working with both eyes open.

• • • • • •

Announcement comes from a well informed member of the Columbus Club that the organization will have no baseball team this year. Well, we for one, never accused the Columbians of anything along this line and our conscience is perfectly spotless.

• • • • • •

An important meeting of the City League will be held in the Daily Press office Monday night, according to President Walter C. Dobbins. Now come along all you little delegates, like obedient little leaguers should, and see what's due to happen. The president explains his absence from the last meeting by declaring his calender "did't run right," but while we have our doubts, he's guided the reins faultlessly to date and we're willing to give him another chance.

• • • • • •

One of the questions, 'tis rumored, that will come before the meeting is either the establishment of a rule to keep players away from the fans during the games or the barring of females. Certain managers have been worried well nigh insane to date for fear some of their stars would be talked to death by pretty feminine rooters between innings. Girls will persist in asking why the catcher's mask can't be made to hold water or why a base runner can't slide without getting his pants dirty, so we guess it's up to the moguls to cut out the damsel stuff.

• • • • • •

A certain scholastic ball player waiting for a train at the North Avenue depot yesterday afternoon carried his suit under one arm, his glove and bat in the same hand and a suitcase in the other. Now we'd like to know what he had in the suit-case?

• • • • • •

Jack Martin continues to clout the ball and run bases in a manner that would do credit to Ty Cobb on one of the latter's most amiable days. You can bet your boots that some of those ball managers who dealt out "escape papers" to John not many years back would be glad to have him "among those present" in their lineups this afternoon.

• • • • • •

Man riding on lion wagon in yesterday's parade shouted in our ears: "Big free exhibition this afternoon." Guess he didn't know that a big slice of his audience saved Saturday afternoons to take advantage of the gratius stuff along City League clubs' sidelines. At least, the Saturday night change counting in some instances has given this secret away.

NETHERWOOD TEAM BEST RUN GETTER AND HIT MAKER AS WELL AS HIGH AVERAGE LEADER IN THE CITY BASEBALL ORGANIZATION

Statistics Show That Leaders Have Been Setting Hot Pace.

Besides leading the City Baseball League in games won with a clean slate for three starts the Netherwood A. C. has scored the most hits and runs to date and has the least number of errors charged to it. Statistics show that the East Enders have clouted safely thirty-eight times and have pulled twenty-two runs over the gutta percha. Three miscues have been recorded on their side of the ledger, this figure being just one-third of the next low error makers' mark. Louis Slolum, who captains the Netherwoods, won the initial two games, defeating the Farmer A. C. and the Tabs, while Russel Stewart is credited with the third finish, putting away the Clinton Avenue combine. In his two engagements Slocum allowed thirteen bingles and eight runs were scored against him, while Stewart gave Clinton Avenue ten hits and eight runs. The Netherwood team had its biggest day last week when it scored twelve runs and twenty safeties at the expense of Johnny Dixon, the Clinton Avenue boxman.

Although the First Baptist aggregation comes second in hitting and league standing it is at present ranking last in run getting. To date the Baptists have scored thirteen times, hit safely twenty-six times and have made nine errors. Stahl and Patterson are the twirlers who have won games for this clan, the former beating the Tabs and the latter taking the Clinton Avenue nine into camp. "Hub" Terry and Patterson split up on the game lost to the Farmer A. C. last Saturday afternoon. The Baptists' first encounter was their best. They scored five runs against the Tabs and Clintons, and three against the Farmers. In the Farmer and Tabs contest they tallied nine hits at each start and in the Clinton Avenue tussle accounted for one less. Two errors went to their credit in the opening two games and they raised it to five last week.

Slocum Has Shown the Best Form in Box up to Date

While Clinton Avenue is gracing the cellar berth with three defeats it has hit safely seven more times than the Farmers, who are splitting third place with the Tabs.

Jack Denny, Kachelries and Johnny Dixon have started in all of their respective teams' games, Dixon splitting the initial encounter with Spencer. Slocum has two victories to his credit while Schott comes second with one victory and a second he split up with Miller.

The team records to date follow:

	W.	L.	R.	H.	E.
Netherwood	3	0	22	38	3
Baptist	2	1	13	26	9
Hope	2	1	21	25	13
T. A. B. S.	1	2	16	24	9
Farmers	1	2	14	17	13
Clinton Avenue	0	3	16	24	16

EXPECT MUCH FROM MULLIN AND GRIMES

Local Ball Players Are Starring With Atlantic League This Spring.

One of the most succesful baseball players of this city is Tommy Mullin, who ranks second to Jack Martin in ability both to play the game and to get the "job." Tommy is having considerable trouble with the rival managers, who seem to think that he is about to take a "flier" into the "big show." Only yesterday Tommy, who is now a member of the Easton-Phillipsburg Atlantic League team, received a wire from Billy Pfau, the genial genius of the Pacers, requesting him to notify the Amboy authorities at once if he intended to play in that city any longer. Pfau was of the opinion that the local lad had forsaken him for new climes, but such is not the case. Tommy, who is captain of the Pacers and of the Washington "Schwab" League team, informed Pfau that he would be on hand at Washington today when the new league opens up, and when the home team plays that of Bangor, Pennsylvania.

In regards to his affiliation with the Atlantic League team, Tommy says that he told Manager Harry Achenbach, of the Easton team, that he would be able to play with that team only five days during the week, and that he intended to report to Pfau on the other two days. According to Tommy, Achenbach agreed to the proposition, and the directors of the club gave him permission to play with the Pfau teams on Saturday and Sundays. Had Achenbach denied Tommy the permission to pastime with the Perth Amboy team, the local lad would have left the Easton team flat as he feels that he has received too good treatment at the hands of Pfau to forsake him in an emergency. However, Mullin says that there are no two better managers than Pfau and Achenbach, and that he is glad he is working for two such men. The Atlantic League is an organization that is not under the wing of organized baseball, while the Schwab circuit enjoys full protection This fact has had considerable to do with Tommy's latest move.

"Red" Grimes, the Somerville crack, is also a member of the Easton team, and according to newspaper clippings, he and Mullin are "stars" of the first order.

In a recent game Mullin made two hits and so did Grimes. At the request of Manager Achenbach Connie Mack sent a third baseman to team up with Tommy. The lad bore the name of Turner and was a farce. His release followed shortly after his engagement. Owing to Mullin's inability to play with the Easton team week-ends, he announced today that he would send Jimmy Emery up to fill his place.

CITY MAY PRODUCE COLORED BALL NINE

H. G. Hobson Interested in Staging Crack Nine on Plainfield Soil.

That this city is to have a colored baseball team seems to be the verdict reached after a consultation with H. G. Hobson, who is promoting the deal, and who hopes to be able to give local fans sterling exhibitions during the coming season. While the team has not been fully organized as yet, it is understood that the players are practicing hard whenever they get the chance. Manager Hobson is reluctant to assert that he will positively put a team on the field, inasmuch as he does not know whether other powers will "win over" his charges or not. As far as he is concerned, Hobson says, a rejuvenated and purely local colored team will pastime around these parts this summer.

The biggest obstacle to be overcome is the proper apportionings of players according to their ability. There are so many good colored players in Plainfield that Manager Hobson is having a hard time deciding just whom he will use. And then, too, there is that ever-impending danger of losing the whole bunch should other managers offer the tempting bait that only out-of-town leaders can offer. In the pitching department Hobson believes that he is well fortified, inasmuch as he has Hall and Butler. It is also believed that Valentine and Brown, both the mainstays of the defunct Royal Giant outfit, will spend the warm months in this vicinity, and will be glad to lend a helping hand. "Senor" Maiden is also mentioned as a member of the outfit as is "Tune" Kline. However, it is whispered about in official circles that "Midge" Kline is to have a baseball team, and it is feared that a few of Hobson's men will take a "flier" with Midge. Eddie Ford, who is at present living in Princeton, where he is employed, and where he also plays baseball, may return to this city during the next few weeks, and if he does, he will be offered a berth on the new team. However, should Eddie fail to put in an appearance, a youngster from Winston-Salem will take care of the initial sack. "Pop" Somerset is mentioned as one of the "probables." Paul Colema and "Homer" Barnes have also signified their intention of joining the new team.

When questioned as to what grounds his team would use, Manager Hobson would not give a definite answer, as he feels that the organization of his team is only begun. It is not his intention to "buck" the City League, but it is most likely that he will challenge the winner of the flag on that circuit. Inasmuch as the team he proposes to put on the field is to be a purely local one, Hobson has reason to believe that his challenge will receive due consideration. The team may use Parker Field for home games, but expects to do considerable traveling.

CITY LEAGUE GAMES.

The City League games on tap for this afternoon are as follows:

Hopes vs. T. A. B. S. (West End avenue).

Netherwood vs. Clinton Avenue (Soccer Field).

First Baptist vs. Farmers (Highland Field).

SCHOTT LEAVES HOPES.

Dick Schott, pitcher of the Hope Chapel baseball team, will don a Hopewell uniform shortly and will hurl for that team. Schott's place with the Hopes will be ably taken care of by George "Kats" Miller. Lud Hefti will probably be added to the team's roster as a reserve pitcher.

TABS SECURE LEASE FOR AVON DIAMOND

Will Play Sunday Games on Lot on Arlington Trolley Line.

James Scott, manager of the T. A. B. S. baseball team, announced yesterday that he had secured Avon Oval for the coming season, and that his charges would play there on Sundays. It was not definitely known until yesterday whether the field could be had for the season or not. Manager Scott has been carrying on negotiations for some time, but it was not until the last minute that the deal was closed.

Now that arrangements have been completed, Scott has set about the task of scheduling games. For tomorrow's attraction he has booked Coughlin's Netherwoods. The contest will not be registered on the City League books, but should prove interesting just the same. The rival managers have not announced their definite lineups, but it is understood that the Bound Brook quartet, regularly enrolled City Leaguers, will be on hand tomorrow. This band includes Frezza, Johnson, Hannon and Eddie Coughlin. Inasmuch as Pierce Oval cannot be secured for the coming season, it is thought that many of the Bees will do their season's pastiming in this vicinity.

It is likely that Jack Denny and Henny Winters will be in the points for the Abstainers, who will have, among other stars, Tony Denitzio and Benny Rosenson.

On June 4, it was announced yesterday, the Tabs will meet the Knights of St. Peter, of New Brunswick. It was originally intended to play this game in New Brunswick, but a transfer to this city is not now improbable. "Red" Grimes, until recently, was a member of the Knights' team. Jake Deinzer, who recently twirled a no-hit game against Pennington, is a member of the Knights' outfit and may twirl against the Tabs.

"MIDGE" KLINE TO PUT TEAM ON FIELD

Popular Colored Ball Manager Has a Following of Good Players.

Not to be outdone by H. G. Hobson, William A. "Midge" Kline submitted a communication for our perusal this morning. The information given out by Manager Kline was to the effect that he will have one of the fastest colored teams in this State. The team will travel and will open the season next Saturday, one week from today.

According to the press agent, the outfit which will be known as the Royal A. S., will sidestep no one offering a suitable guarantee and will play on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. All managers desiring to arrange games with the Royals should make application to William A. Kline, who can be addressed at the Babcock building.

The advance information states that Paul Coleman, who, by the way, was named as a member of Hobson's outfit, is president of the new organization. The fact that many of Kline's men may have been Hobson proteges will, perhaps, either result in an amalgamation of the two forces or in a lively rivalry between the two. There is, too, the possibility that Mr. Hobson will withdraw from the race as it was his intention to provide Plainfield with a team, provided no other manager "beat him to it."

NO, SIR, NOT ON YOUR LIFE; WE'VE GOT TO REMAIN HERE

The following challenge was received at this office this morning and inasmuch as we are not running any risks of being run out of the city we'll leave it for the team believing itself the strongest to answer:

"We are open for a game on Decoration Day, May 30, afternoon. Kindly give us the name of the manager of the fastest team in your town as we are considered about the strongest team around Trenton, N. J. Address Mercer Automobile Company, F. W. Carney, manager baseball team, Trenton, N. J.

ROSES FOR TOMMY.

Compliments for Tommy Mullin are coming in bunches. This is what John J. Hall, writing in the Elizabeth Daily Journal, has to say:

"The loss of Tommy Mullin, who has signed with the Easton Club in the Atlantic League, will leave a big hole in the Rahway infield if the clever little Plainfielder elects to do all of his pastiming with the Pennsylvanians this summer. Mullin' work with Bill Brown's athletes in 1915 was in no small measure responsible for the success of the club, and the big Rahway leader was counting heavily on him to round out the strongest nine Rahway ever had this summer."

P. H. S. TENNIS MATCHES.

The tennis match which was scheduled to be played between the Woodbridge High School and Plainfield High School teams at Woodbridge yesterday, was postponed at the request of the home team. It was announced yesterday that Flemington would play P. H. S. a return match at Flemington during the coming week.

QUEEN CITY TO PLAY.

The Queen City baseball team will probably clash with the Highlanders tomorrow. If Vincent Mullin, the "Queenly" leader, is successful in securing the match, he will probably use Sid Butler in the box with Sam Davidson held in reserve. The Highlander lineup has not been given out by Manager Stebor.

DUNELLEN PRACTICES.

The Dunellen baseball team, of which Warry McLaughlin is manager, held its first practice this afternoon. A number of candidates reported and prospects for a good team are rosy. This announcement will perhaps interest William A. Kline.

"The Unpardonable Sin"

Sermon by the Rev. William E. Biederwolf at the Tabernacle Last Night.

Whether or not a sin is pardonable or unpardonable depends upon the viewpoint from which you look at it. At least many things that we call unpardonable are things after all that are pardonable. We call things unpardonable because we judge them from the human standpoint, but these same things, as seen by the God of infinite mercy, are quite within the limits of his pardon.

We sometimes see a man who is notoriously lazy. You know there are some lazy men in the world—some lazy women, too. Some men are as lazy as Tatham's dog. You know that dog; he was so lazy he had to lay his head against a wall when he barked. There are men like that, men who loaf around all day and let the wife earn the living and then at meal time go home and lean their old lazy bones up against the table and eat down that living and never thank wife or God or anybody else. We see a man like that and we say, "Such laziness is unpardonable," but then isn't it pardonable?

We sometimes see a man who is notoriously conceited. It's astonishing what remarkable pieces of psychological architecture some men think they carry around on their shoulders, men who are always trying to impress upon you that they could give God pointers on how to run the universe; these men with the Henry Clay heads—with the Henry left off. Well, you see a man like that and you say, "Such conceit is unpardonable"; but it isn't; it's pardonable.

Most Sin Pardonable.

The papers told us some time ago of a human devil who held a red hot poker against his wife's naked body and told her he would give her a taste of hell, so she'd know what it was like when she got there. Hell's too good for a man like that. We read of a thing like that; we hear of it and we say, "Such a thing is unpardonable"; but it isn't; it's pardonable.

You say, "What do you mean, Mr. Biederwolf?" And I say, "It depends altogether upon the viewpoint; God will quickly pardon things that we would find it hard to pardon." But John says in his epistle, "There is a sin unto death," and Jesus said in the scripture we read, that it was possible so to sin in this world that a man never could be forgiven, neither in this world, nor in the world to come, and because such a thing is possible, it's mighty important for men and women who are liable to get into this fearful condition to know something of what Jesus meant. People say, "Don't preach about the unpardonable sin; it don't concern us." But, my friends, there's nothing in all the universe of God so much concerns us as that very thing, and I think if I did not speak of it before I leave this city, the very blood of lost souls would cry out against me at the judgment of God; and so to prove the possibility of such I am going to ask your attention to a three-fold proof—that of scripture, that of nature and that of experience. And if you'll promise to keep awake for the first fifteen minutes, I'll promise to keep you awake for the next fifteen, and then we'll be done.

The Testimony of Scripture.

First—The testimony of Scripture. Why back in the sixth chapter of Genesis, God says, "My Spirit will not always strive with men," and that is just as true today as it ever was. Three times God told Jeremiah not to pray for certain people because there was no hope for them. And about the tribe of Ephraim He said: "Ephraim is joined to his idols; let him alone." Suppose God should say that of the human soul. You know Paul speaks of some men whom even God had "given up." Heaven pity you man, if the time should come when God would say to you, "He is joined to his sin; let him alone!" Let him alone, conscience; let him alone, minister; let him alone, Holy Spirit; let him sleep on in his sin and his unconcern until the very darkness of eternal night wakes him up to realize his awful condition.

In the Book of Proverbs we read, "Then shall they call on me, but I will not answer, for they hated knowledge and did not choose the fear of the Lord; therefore they shall eat the fruit of their own doing and be filled with their own devices."

As we pass into the New Testament we are confronted in the twelfth chapter of John's Gospel with these words, "Therefore they could not believe." It does not say they wouldn't believe; it says they couldn't. Something had made it impossible for them to believe, and if they could not believe, by the very nature of the case they could not be forgiven.

In the epistle to the Hebrews are two very solemn passages. One, in the sixth chapter and the fourth verse, speaks of certain people for whom repentance is impossible. And in the tenth chapter and the twenty-sixth verse it says if a man continues to live in wilful sin after he has received a knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no longer any sacrifice for that man's sin." It says, "If we sin wilfully," but the present participle is used and denotes a continuance in sin. But the most explicit testimony of Scripture is the word of Jesus Himself in Matthew 12, where He says that all manner of blasphemy against the Holy Spirit, and this He says, never will be forgiven, neither in this world nor in the world to come.

Meaning of Scripture.

What, then, is the meaning of all this serious Scripture. I cannot tell you all that my soul experiences as I speak upon this solemn thing. You, who know how to pray, pray for him who speaks tonight, and then when you have sent up a prayer for him pray for those in this solemn gathering, whom God sees in danger of some day committing the most fearful of crimes. A man trembling with agony and his eyes filled with tears came to me once at the close of a meeting and said, "Oh, sir, I want so much to be saved, but I have been so terribly wicked and I've fought against God so long, that I fear I have committed the unpardonable sin." And I said, "My brother, you need have no fear along that line just now for if you have committed the unpardonable sin you would not be so concerned about your soul." When a man once sins against the Holy Spirit in the sense to which the Saviour made reference, God lets him alone, for he is joined to his sins and there is no hope for him. No penitent man will ever be rejected for the unpardonable sin, for his very penitence he proves he has never committed it.

A man could not be penitent if he had committed the unpardonable sin. This is the meaning of John 12:39: "Therefore they could not believe." They had so repeatedly refused to believe, in the day when that power was still with them, that their faith faculty had become atrophied. The unpardonable sin in a word is spiritual suicide; and it would be as impossible for a man spiritually dead to repent and believe as it would be for a man physically dead to perform the functions of the human body.

But as long as a man has the power to repent and the disposition to do it, there is no sin that will put him beyond the pale of God's forgiveness.

It Is Not Profanity.

The unpardonable sin is not profanity; if it were there are some in heaven now who would have to go to hell. It is not licentiousness, for Jesus said to the woman taken in adultery, "Go and sin no more." It is not drunkenness, for some of the mightiest servants of God have been men like John Bunyan and S. H. Hadley and John B. Gough, and others like them whom God has pulled out of the very quagmires of drunkenness and shame. It is not murder, for Paul's hands were red with human blood, but God saved him and after a mighty service let him enter heaven with a song of victory on his lips. I have met men who thought it was another. But in this particular sense there is no unpardonable sin. There is no special form of sin that will not be pardoned if a man but crave that pardon at the hands of God. There is no sin for which Christ's blood will not atone. There is no depth of hell on earth that will not be emptied, if man will but take this way of escape that God has made.

Unpardonable Sin is a Condition.

This answers the question whether the unpardonable sin is an act of the soul or a condition of the heart. It makes it plain that it is the latter rather than the former. No matter what kind of fruit a tree may bear, it is the inner life of the tree, the disposition, the root of the tree that is responsible for the kind of fruit that it bore. And it's so with the sin that a man commits. Any sin may mark the point of transition from the place of hope to the place of despair.

"There is a time, we know not when;
A place we know not where;
That marks the destiny of men
From glory to despair."

Any act or sinful deed of the soul may mark that time and that place and fix the character beyond repair, but as in the case of the tree, so in the case of the man; it is the inner condition, the disposition of the man, the calloused condition of the heart, that is responsible for the sin, whatever it may be, that puts him beyond the pale of God's forgiveness.

Now if you will imagine the history of these Jews you will discover the nature of the unpardonable sin. The opposition of these blaspheming Jews did not begin on the day he cured that unhappy demoniac and it did not end there. It began farther back, at the very beginning of His ministry. Time and again evidence of His divinity flashed out before them, but they shut their eyes and would not see. The first miracle he ever performed, when He turned the water to wine at Cana, should have been enough to convince them, but they said, "We will not have Him." One Sabbath day a man with an unclean spirit came into the synagogue and Jesus was there. Even the devil recognized Him and left testimony to His person. But Jesus said, "Hold your peace and come out of this man"; and when the evil spirit obeyed they were all amazed, and said, "What thing is this? For with authority commandeth Heaven the unclean spirits and they do obey." But this was not enough. They hardened their hearts and said, "He is not the Son of God." Once more He was in the synagogue and before Him stood a man with a withered hand, and at the command of Jesus, he stretched it forth and it became whole like the other one. What will the Pharisees do with this evidence; will they receive it? No! They took council among themselves how they might destroy Him. He entered a village one day, just as a funeral procession was coming out. A widowed mother was about to bury her only boy. Jesus said, "Young man, arise!" and instantly the gloom of the grave was dispelled by the flush of life. And now Pharisees, what will you do with evidence like this? and they cry, "Away with it; we will not believe."

He Raised Up Lazarus.

One day it was noised about that Jesus was going to the grave of Lazarus. Certainly now He will not think of trying to raise this man who has been in the grave so long that decomposition has commenced. A great crowd had gathered about the grave and the Pharisees were there. Can He do it? Can He call back to life this man who has been in the sepulchre four days? And now Jesus cries with a loud voice, "Lazarus, come forth!" and as before omnipotence waited upon His word and Lazarus, that was buried, lived again. Once more the Pharisees stood face to face with the question, is not this proof enough of His divinity, and once more they cried "Away with your proof; away with your evidence!" And so it was from the very beginning to the very end.

The time when Jesus told them of their awful sin, which they had either committed or towards which they were rapidly hastening, was only one instance of a hundred others like it. Here was a man blind and dumb and possessed of a devil and at a word from the Son of God, he spake and he saw and became sane. In the presence of a proof such as this it was no longer possible to doubt. His divinity shone forth too clearly to be denied and they were convinced.

But while the common people cried out with great enthusiasm, "This is the Christ, the Son of God," what did the Pharisees do? To have admitted that fact would have been to have repudiated all their past resistance and to have acknowledged this man as Christ, the Messiah. This, with diabolical resistance, they resolved they would not do. They would escape the necessity of believing. They were convinced of the truth but they shut their eyes and would not see. They could not deny the fact and so they will interpret it. They will ascribe it to the devil. False and absurd, hellish and satanic; but what matter. Let the cause of Judaism be saved at any cost. Anything! Anything! Anything under heaven rather than faith in this individual as the Christ, the Messiah, the Anointed of God. That was and that is the unpardonable sin, not any special form of sin, not so much an act of any kind, but a conscious, determined, persistent and hateful resistance to the Christ of God; a resistance in spite of the fullest light blazing all about and any man who so persistently denies the Christ in the face of such light, so repeatedly insults the Spirit of God is in danger of grieving that Spirit for ever away and of being left alone and given up to his sin. You might be guilty of many hideous crimes and yet not commit the unpardonable sin and you may sit still in your seat this moment and in the spirit just mentioned say No! to the Holy Spirit of God and thereby be guilty of that very thing. The unpardonable sin only marks the limit of resistance beyond which a man cannot go and be saved; it is that

"Line by us unseen
By which each path is crossed
Beyond which God Himself hath sworn
That he who goes is lost."

Any sin, I repeat, may fix the character and mark the awful condition of heart, and when it becomes true you will be eternally lost, not because you cannot be forgiven, but because you cannot ask forgiveness. You may so set your will against God that your will becomes fixed, and when this is so, what was said of those Jews may be likewise said of you, "Therefore, they could not believe."

Now this must be a comfort to every man who feels the least concern for his soul, for that is the surest sign you have not driven away the Spirit of God. Then, I pray you, do not do so tonight; and if there is one here who can sit through a meeting like this untouched, unmoved and unconcerned, while it does not necessarily mean that you have passed the limit of resistance, it does mean that you are nearing its awful verge and I pray God you may draw back before it be eternally too late.

Testimony of Nature.

II. Now look for three of four minutes at the testimony of nature. It is the law of nature that if a man will not do a thing the time is bound to come when he cannot do it. You go home from this meeting and take a rope and tie your arm to your side and simply leave that rope there long enough, refusing that organ for the purpose God gave it to you and the time will come when you will have lost forever the capacity to lift that arm again. Put a bandage on your eye, simply leave the bandage on long enough. You need not puncture the eye, simply leave the bandage on long enough, refusing to use that organ for the purpose God gave it to you, and the time will come when your eye will have lost forever the power and the capacity to see. Put a stopper in your ear; you need not puncture the drum, simply leave the stopper there long enough, neglecting and refusing to use that organ for the purpose God gave it to you and the time will come when your ear will have lost forever the capacity to hear. Harden your heart long enough, refusing to use it for the purpose God gave to you and the time will come when your heart will have lost forever the capacity to feel and believe. "Therefore they could not believe." If you will give an honest testimony, some of you will say that you are finding it harder to accept Christ tonight, than you honestly believe you would have found it, ten, fifteen or thirty years ago. This is all the proof you ought to need of the truth of what I am saying. This is the psychology of the sin. Age fossilizes and habit hardens or softens the soul according to its nature. You are what you will to be and years ago with some of you, many years ago, when the call first came to you for a definite decision for Christ, you thought it over and you willed to say No! Because you said No! the first time, it was easier to say No! the second time. Metaphysics will teach you that the first thought on this subject, when the moment of decision comes again, is the thought that was registered on the plastic cells of your brain when you first willed to say no to God. And so you said No! again and then you said it again. You said it 365 times last year. Time has stamped this decision deeper and deeper into your nature until tonight every former decision you have ever made unites with every other and at the call again to Christ, your whole being, brain, blood and soul, hurls back at God the No! that has become a part of your very self.

Youth Decides for Christ.

This is the psychological law of nature that explains why most decisions for Christ are made in youth. People say, isn't it strange that so few old men decide for Christ. No; it is not strange, it would be strange if they did. Nine-tenths of all the decisions for Christ are made before the age of twenty.

People, do you know what that means? Suppose we consign all infants and those who died before they are 12 to heaven. This certainly fixes the age of responsibility high enough, and science won't even stand for that. The law in some States prescribes hanging at the low age of 12. Then bear in mind that about one-fourth of all the other people die before they are 20, and that the average length of life is only about 33 years, and I will tell you what those figures mean. They mean that if you are 25 years of age, and still unsaved, that the chances of your ever becoming so are five thousand to one against you. If you are 35 years old and still unsaved, the chances are twenty-five thousand to one. If you are 45 years and not converted, the figures run up to eight thousand. If you are fifty and still out of Christ, the figures almost appal you; one hundred and fifty thousand to one against you; and if you are 75 and still unsaved you are almost the same as doomed and damned tonight.

My God, arouse men tonight! Help them to think and to act, before it is too late. Before that unseen line is passed between God's patience and His wrath and all hope be gone forever. I do not believe that one man in a million who has reached the age of ninety yet unconverted has a desire to know Christ.

Testimony of Experience.

III. And now, in the last place, you will find all this backed up by the testimony of experience and observation.

Look at the way some people die. Now I don't believe the Holy Spirit ever ceased to strive with some men until the last opportunity for coming to Christ has been forever lost in death, and that is the moment when that man's probation ends. But I am thinking now not so much of the probation that ends at death, as I am of the probation that ends before death, for there is a time when it is impossible for a man to say Yes to God. Many a man in his dying moment has said, "I would believe if I could, but I can't." There have been some awful deathbeds among the wicked. Listen while I tell you of one. He was a young skeptic, brainy in many respects, and the minister had come to show him the need of repentance. "Be gone," he cried, "I don't want any of your religious twaddle; I want none of your cant and hypocrisy; I am not going to die, and if I were I would die as I have lived." Four weeks later the doctor sat by the same bed, and to him the the young man said, "Tell me, doctor, I am not going to die; I cannot die now."

"My poor friend," said the doctor, "you are about to go out of this world to appear before your God." "My God," gasped the young man, "Tor, God," gasped the young man, "I have no God; I have fought against God and against my mother's prayers all my life and now you tell me I must die. Do you know what that means," he added in awful whisper, "it means if I die today I will be in hell! Take it back. Tell me I am not going to die. Father, it was you who taught me this way; you told me to go this way; and now you say I am to die"; and as he lifted himself on his pillow he began to curse and such a torrent of profanity poured from his fever-parched lips that it seemed like a wall from the bottomless pit of hell. The carried his mother fainting from the room, while on the father's brow there gathered great drops of perspiration as his gifted son fell back on his pillow, a corpse, in the very midst of his cursing. I tell you, friends, that experience all over the world is proving that God's spirit will not always strive with a man, and that Jesus Christ did not make a mistake when he said that man could sin in a way that he could never be forgiven.

But this was a young man and most young men who have gone so long in sin and in unconcern do not die that way. Death-bed repentance is usually made by those of lesser years. Occasionally an old man sniffles and whines for mercy on his death-bed, but it's the exception and not the rule. It is neither scriptural nor scientific for an old man to die in this way. Statistics show that only about three men out of sixty who have lived to any great age show signs of repentance when they die. Old men usually die as they have lived. Ingersoll went through a great deal of trouble to prove that Tom Payne died that kind of a death. I don't know whether he did or not. But suppose he did. Some men can't die any other way. Here is an old man dying and thousands die just like him. His memory and all his faculties are in perfect working order. His reason is clear and bright. He has just written his will two hours ago. You go to that man and say, "Don't you want some one to read the Bible to you?" "No, I don't want to see the Bible." "Don't you want some minister to pray for you?" "No, I don't want to see a minister." "Are you not afraid to go out with your sin into eternity?" "Not in the least." "Are you not afraid to meet your GOD?" "No, not at all." And you put your hand on that man's heart and he is more excited than is common at such a time. Past feeling, Paul puts it. A sinner let alone, the Spirit of God grieved away.

A man don't need to be in his coffin to be dead. There are men walking your streets today who are as dead spiritually as they ever will be in the eternal world. I believe there are men in Plainfield today who are just as truly condemned as if they were in hell.

Oh, friend; I would to God that you might see that there must and will come a limit some time to your resistance to Jesus Christ, and that it will come upon you like a thief in the night, and that you will be lost and may not know it yourself. Over and over again you have said No! to God and still He has not left you. Time and time again you have spurned His mercy and trampled under foot the sacrifice of His Son for your soul, but I fear for you tonight lest you should say No! again.

What Victory May Cost.

The great Napoleon was sitting in his camp sad and dejected, half of his army had been annihilated and as yet he did not know how the fortunes of the day were to end. Suddenly there came running into his camp an orderly who cried, "Cheer up, Sire, you've gained the victory." "Yes," said the great general, "I've gained the victory, but another such victory would cost me my kingdom."

Oh, man, you've gained the victory, haven't you. You've gained the victory over your mother's prayers, you have gained the victory over the tears and entreaties of your wife and little ones; you've gained the victory over the pleadings of the minister; you've gained the victory over the tender, patient spirit of God, but what I fear for you is that if you win a few more such victories, or another such victory today, it will cost you your soul.

I tremble as I think of giving the invitations tonight. I don't want ever to think that anyone has committed this awful crime against the Holy Spirit under my preaching. So much rather would I that you go home tonight without an invitation than to say that fatal No! to God; but as an ambassador of God, standing in Christ's stead, tonight, I must give you this opportunity, though you have murdered ten thousand others, and trembled while I do it. I feel sure that some will make their final choice tonight. If you have the least spark of a desire, there is hope for you. Christians, pray now as you have never prayed before. And while God's spirit still pleads and friends are praying for you, will you say Yes! to God?

REV. DR. PIERCE TO ADDRESS C. E. UNION

The principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union, which is to be held in the First Presbyterian church of Westfield, on Thursday evening, May 25, 1916, will be the well known crayon artist, the Rev. Robert F. L. Pierce, of New York city, who will speak on the great subject, "Saved to Serve."

Those who had the pleasure of listening to Mr. Pierce two years ago at the annual meeting will recall the excellent address that he gave the wonderful illustrations that accompanied his talk. Mr. Pierce is widely known for his art along the line of illustrating his theme with word pictures as well as crayon pictures, and everyone attending is assured of a great treat.

The annual meeting will be preceded by a supper which will be served by the Christian Endeavor Society of the First church. After the supper a brief social time will be enjoyed and following this the meeting will be conducted at which time the nominating committee will render their report and officers elected for the year. The county banner will be awarded to the society having the largest number of delegates present and many societies are competing for this honor.

The Junior Societies in the county will hold their annual meeting in the afternoon of May 25 in the same church. Some of the Junior choral societies will render special selections and a banner will also be awarded to the society having the largest number of members present.

A good speaker, lots of young people, plenty of enthusiasm and good music should be enough to draw all interested people to this meeting and great preparations are being made to accommodate all.

The Biederwolf Evangelistic Services

Will revive interest in Bible Reading in Plainfield as never before and regardless of sect, creed or faith. A universal reading of the Bible is bound to make for better citizenship, is bound to make for a plainer, stronger, simpler, honester speech in daily life, and a higher standard of ethics in the dealings of men. A return to Bible reading in these stressful times of world disturbance is needed as never before in our history and is bound to add to the moral and mental equipoise of this entire nation.

To Further Interest Our Readers In Bible Reading the

PLAINFIELD DAILY PRESS

HAS SECURED A LIMITED SUPPLY OF

Big Print Red Letter Bibles

All the Words and Sayings of Christ Printed in Red

This Book of Books

This Bible—this miraculous Bible—this Book of All Books—luminous with the light that dwelleth not on land or sea—this noblest and most beautiful Thing in all the world—what is it—whence cometh it—what means it?

It has made and unmade Nations. It has uprooted Kingdoms and Empires. It has diverted the mighty tides of History. It has crumpled ancient Faiths and Superstitions. Because of it fell Pagan Rome. The antique Systems of India and the Far East have bowed their heads to its enlightened sway.

China and the Orient now first awaken from their sleep of thrice a thousand years, and follow their sister nations of the Occident—whose feet are guided by one sole lamp—the sacred flame of which was kindled by the inspired Hebrew Prophets, and fed for all time by the Lord and Master of the Golden Rule.

Only ignorance scoffs at the Bible! The greatest rulers—the greatest statesmen—the greatest scholars—writers—orators—scientists—soldiers—and the untold millions of the Common People, whose collective genius outweighs them all—have thrilled to its Divine Wisdom.

Its lyrics of unfathomable tenderness—its orations of compelling potency—its contemplative prose of preternatural grandeur—have never been equalled. Its emotional depths and its intellectual heights make it the one and only Book of Books, vouchsafed for the guidance of mankind throughout the ages.

STRIKE TIES UP TRENTON CARS

Trolleymen Walk Out and Jitneys Prosper.

UNION MEN DISCHARGED.

Company Accused Them of Stealing Fares—Comrades Demand Employers Should Have Them Indicted or Admit Activities In Organization as Reason For Dismissal.

Trenton, May 20.—A strike of the trolley men on the line of the Trenton and Mercer county railway lines has tied up every car line in the city except that of the Public Service corporation, which runs a fast line through the city en route between Newark and Philadelphia.

The local cars and all the suburban lines are tied up, and not a wheel has turned on any of the tracks since the men turned in their cars. Jitneys, taxi cabs and trucks are doing a rushing business, but the supply was limited and most of the thousands of workers had to walk to their places of employment.

To avoid conflict with the federal authorities a car was run to Hamilton square, carrying the mail and then back, bringing in the suburban mail. This car will be run regularly as long as the strike lasts.

The company has announced that no matter how long the strike lasts it will not use strike breakers and that the cars will remain in the car barns until the old employees return to work. The leaders of the strikers have enjoined their followers to keep out of saloons and the men are all warned that if they are caught in any act of disorder the men will not stand back of them. The leaders have also asked the men to refrain from any act or word that would lead misguided sympathizers to do any wrong act.

Police are on guard at the car barns, but there has been no disorder. The power house is also under police guard.

The company last week discharged fourteen conductors. One of these was president of the union. The company claims that its action was due to the reports of spotters. The men had been negotiating for better working conditions and more pay.

The men discharged were in many cases, it is claimed, active in the union. The company denies that the activities of the men influenced it in the least. The men say that the company if justified in discharging the men for the reason given should justify itself by taking the matter to the grand jury and having the men indicted for stealing. Failure to do this is pointed to as showing that it was their union activities that led to the men being dropped.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

DEATH COMES TO CALVIN H. RUGG

Well Known Citizen Passes Away in Borough Following a Long Illness.

WAS BORN IN BOSTON

Served in Civil War With Co. H, 8th N. J. Infantry—Was Prominent in Masonic Circles—Leaves Wife, Daughter, Two Brothers and Sister

Calvin H. Rugg, a veteran of the Civil War, and for many years one of Plainfield's leading coal merchants, died this morning at his home, 75 Mercer avenue, the borough, following an illness of a year. He was originally afflicted with heart trouble which developed complications and several times since he was first stricken his trouble reached a critical stage. It had been realized by his family and relatives for several months that his case was hopeless.

Mr. Rugg was born in Boston, Mass., in 1844 and when a mere youth removed to South Jersey. At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted in Co. H, 8th N. J. Infantry, and was mustered in at Camp Olden, Trenton, in September, 1861. He was immediately sent to the front, but in January, 1862, was discharged at Budd's Ferry, on the lower Potomac, because of disability. A few years later Mr. Rugg entered the employ of the New Jersey Central railroad and far a time was agent at the Springtown station.

About thirty-five years ago Mr. Rugg came to Plainfield, where he opened a coal and wood business. His first yard wa on East Fourth street, later on Madison avenue, where the Consumer's Company is now located, and at the time of his retirement in 1903 was on West Third street between New and Liberty streets. Mr. Rugg had large dealings at one period of his business career here and his name was familiar throughout the city as a conscientious dealer.

Mr. Rugg took no active part in politics but for many years was prominent in fraternal circles. He was a member of Jerusalem Lodge, N. 26, F. and A. M.; Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M.; Trinity Comandery, No. 17, K. T., and Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F. He served as secretary for the Masonic bodies for many years and for a long time was also treasurer of Queen City lodge. His church affliation was with the First M. E. congregation, where he attended service regularly when his health permitted.

Mr. Rugg was possessed of a quiet, unassuming demeanor but was quick to make friends and keep them. He was widely known, not only in the city and borough, but throughout this vicinity. His surviving relatives are his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Fred Van Hoesen, two brothers and a sister. There are several nephews and nieces, one of the former being Elmer D. Cutting, of this city.

The funeral will be held at the late home, Thursday afternoon at 3:30 and will be in charge of Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson. Interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

REV. ALLYN K. FOSTER TO ADDRESS GRADUATES

Rev. Allyn K. Foster, of Brooklyn, will make the address at the annual graduation exercises of Muhlenberg Hospital Training School at the Hartridge Auditorium Thursday night at 8:15 o'clock. The presentation of the diplomas and the graduation pins will be made by Arthur M. Harris, chairman of the Nurses' Training School committee.

The nurses to be graduated, as announced last week, are those who have completed the prescribed course of three years and have successfully passed the required examination. In accordance with the usual custom at these exercises there will be dancing after the address and presentation remarks.

PLAINFIELD ENDEAVORERS TO ATTEND COUNTY RALLY

The Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union is planning to have a special car to take the members of the local Young People's Societies to the Union county rally in the First Presbyterian church, Westfield, Thursday evening. The car will leave the trolley station at Watchung avenue and Fourth street, at 7:30. All Endeavorers are urged to be present to help his society win the attendance banner, and to hear Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce speak on the great subject, "Saved to Serve."

The names of all who expect to go are expected to be in the hands of Robert B. Butler, 814 West Fifth street, by 10 o'clock, Wednesday night.

WANT 500 WOMEN FOR "ROSE TAG DAY"

Women's Auxiliary of Muhlenberg Seek to Raise $5,000 for Hospital June 17.

Every indication points to "Rose Tag Day," on June 17, for the benefit of the Women's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital, being a huge success. In the article which appeared in the Plainfield Daily Press last Thursday evening the fact was mentioned that 500 young women, dressed as nurses, would be "taggers" on that day. Already 200 have volunteered their services and tag day is still almost a month off. These young women will be on duty in relays from 7:30 a. m. to 7:30 p. m. —practically a sunrise to sunset day given up in order to ask the aid of Plainfielders to do their share towards alleviating sickness and suffering. The main reason why "Rose Tag Day" is going to be successful is the fact that Plainfielders have never yet failed to respond to any worthy cause. Another reason for the success of this tag day is the publicity given to it, not only by the local papers, but by the merchants and by the use of posters and printers' ink spread over the countryside for miles around.

The Women's Auxiliary desire to raise $5,000; and that amount of money from a community of 30,000 people, not to mention outside cities and visitors, which would swell the number to 50,000, should be an easy amount to get. It only means ten cents apiece from everyone. However, it naturally will be impossible to see and tag every one, so it will be those generous persons, whose donations run into dollars, that will be relied upon to bring up the average for the whole.

If any young woman in Plainfield is desirous of doing her little bit by being a "tagger" on that day, will she be kind enough to communicate either with Mrs. F. D. Warren, 966 Hillside avenue, president of the Women's Auxiliary, or Mrs. A. V. Helly, 321 West Eighth street, chairman of the women taggers, who will be able to give her full instructions, in detail, as to her duties.

WATCHUNG TROOPERS LEAVE FOR FT. MYER

Twenty-four Cavalrymen Will Live the Life of Regular Army Soldiers.

More than a third of the members of the Watchung Troop, Troop D, N. G. N. J., left town yesterday for a week of regular army instruction at Fort Myer, Va.

In sending twenty-four men the Watchung Troop is taking a larger advantage of the annual opportunity offered to the National Guard Cavalry by the government than any troop is taking this year or has ever taken before. The men are Captain Albert G. Borden, First Lieutenant Daniel Runkle, Second Lieutenant J. N. Charles, Sergeants Brown Rolston, A. W. Ransome, Austin W. Andrews, Donald A. McGee, Walter L. Righter and Louis L. Alberts; Corporals W. B. Tyler, James Brewster, R. H. Cox and Charles D. Wardlaw; Wagoner Percy A. Ransome, Horseshoer Edward Gottlichs; Troopers Lawrence A. Weaver, Harris M. Rush, Doald B. Fullerton, Edward F. Stevenson, J. Rex. Shoemaker, Douglas C. Anderson, Bugler Warren Ackerman, and Cooks Eugene D. Johnson and Charles C. Irby.

These men for a week will live the life of regular army soldiers, each one holding the same rank in the regular cavalry for the time being that he holds in the National Guard. Captain Borden will take command of a regular army troop, and each Sergeant will have charge of a squad of regulars.

Fort Myer is not far from the woman's camp at Chevey Chase, Va., where three prominent women of Plainfield are receiving training in "the Woman's Platsburg," as it is called: Mrs. Walter L. Righter, Mrs. William B. Tyler and Mrs. Allen Cowperthwaite, president of the Monday Afternoon Club.

DUNELLEN MAN INJURED.

Charles Shugars, of Dunellen, was received at Muhlenberg Hospital this morning suffering from injuries to his back which have not yet been fully determined. He was at work on the roof of the new blacksmith shop being built at the Levering & Garrigues plant at West Dunellen, and fell from the roof to the ground below. He was brought to this city in an automobile supplied by Herbert Nelson. The engineman is the father of Marshal Harry Shugars, of the Dunellen police force.

CRANE SURPRISES FRIENDS.

Counselor Robert Newton Crane, who is now convalescent at his home on Leland avenue following a serious illness with pneumonia, surprised a number of his friends today by calling them on the telephone. The popular young barrister stated that he was enjoying his first visit to the front porch since his illness began, and that if his improvement continues as it has during the past few days he will be able to be at his office the latter part of this week.

ALL RECORDS ARE BROKEN BY PLAINFIELD FOR ATTENDANCE, CONVERTS AND COLLECTIONS OF BIEDERWOLF MEETINGS WHICH WILL END TONIGHT

"Will Always Have a Love for You People," Says Evangelist.

HATES TO LEAVE HERE

Will Send Telegram to Tabernacle Next Sunday Evening—Farewells to Be Said at the Last Service This Evening.

On the greatest day of the entire Biederwolf campaign there was given to the evangelist a freewill offering that will total more than $7,000 when all the donations are in and counted, but what pleased him more was the hundreds of men and women who walked down the sawdust aisle.

In almost every way Sunday was the biggest and best day of the entire six weeks. Including the Saturday evening service, there was a total attendance of 21,000, and the decisions and consecrations were almost 400. At the three services of yesterday a freewill offering was taken, Judge W. N. Runyon having charge of the morning collection, W. D. Murray leading in the afternoon, and C. W. McCutchen in the evening. This offering totaled more than $6,800 last night, and many wanted to give and could not be at the Tabernacle yesterday, announced that they would give their part this morning.

The largest offering Dr. Biederwolf ever received before coming to Plainfield was $5,800.

"We are all sorry to leave here," Dr. Biederwolf announced with feeling last night. "In many respects it has been the greatest series of meetings in my nineteen years of experience as an evangelist, and all the members of my party, as well as myself, have a love for Plainfield that will never die."

There will be a farewell service at the Tabernacle tonight, when the evangelist and those who have worked with him will say goodbye, and will hear the goodbyes of thousands of local citizens whose lives have been brightened through their work here. This service will begin at 7:30 and will last just as long as is necessary. It is expected that the Tabernacel will again be filled.

Reasonableness of Religion.

Judge William N. Runyon had charge of the collection at the morning service. The Tabernacle was filled, almost every seat being taken, and those attending were from the best Plainfield families, as was attested by the long lines of automobiles parked near the Tabernacle, on Geraud avenue and along Front street and all other available places. Judge Runyon told of the coming of Dr. Biederwolf to Plainfield six weeks ago —a total stranger to the people, and of his wonderful work as an ambassador of God. He urged a generous giving to the evangelist in appreciation of his moral and spiritual service to the community, and when he asked for contributions they came so fast that the ushers scattered in all parts of the building were unable to record them accurately. More than $3,900 was donated from the floor of the Tabernacle at the morning service.

Dr. Biederwolf's sermon was short, but it was the most eloquent, the most convincing that he has delivered here, and was an appeal to the intellect of his congregation, although it carried a message to the heart as well. He first thanked the people for their contributions to the freewill offering, assuring them that the money not needed for his family would be used in a way that would please them if they but knew.

His sermon might well have been called "The Reasonableness of Religion," for after first admitting that after all the evidence of earth has been piled up there is still a chasm which faith must leap. He showed that there is but one scientist or philosopher of renown in the world today who remains an infidel. He asked what infidelity has ever given to the world, what ray of sunshine it had ever shed into the life of a human soul, and showed that all charity, all civilization is in the name of Jesus Christ.

Dr. Biederwolf told the story of the two infidels, the uncle and nephew, cast away upon what they supposed to be a cannibal island. They skulked around for days and days hiding away from the cannibals. At last the infidel nephew couldn't stand the nervous strain any longer, and climbed up a tree to look over the country; and then came scrambling down again, shouting to his uncle that there was a church spire in the distance and that they were safe. Even though they were infidels they had faith in the power of the Christian religion to protect them.

Dr. Biederwolf told of the lives of several infidels, the leaders of the world against God. He mentioned Tom Paine, "Bob" Ingersoll, Romanes and Heckel. He told vividly how they had all lived and died. He told of the change that came over George John Romanes, and how he at last arrayed himself on the side of the Christian religion.

The evangelist showed that the brainy men of the world were working for the progress of the Christian

SACRED CONCERT AT THE TABERNACLE

Farewell Musical Service to Be Held There Tuesday Night.

The greatest sacred concert ever held in Plainfield will be staged on the platform of the Biederwolf Tabernacle tomorrow night when Mr. McEwan, members of the chorus choir and local soloists get together for a farewell musical performance. "Mac" will be a big part of the program. He will direct the choir, sing a solo, tell his life story, "From Vaudeville Stage to Evangelist Platform," and sing a duet with himself. Judge William N. Runyon will sing —also Mrs. W. A. Coddington, Miss Etta Raybert, Irving Manley and others. There will be a 50-piece orchestra and the Dutch Arms band to furnish instrumental music. A silver collection is to be taken at the door, and the proceeds of the concert will go to the Family Altar League, in which Dr. Biederwolf is very much interested.

MISS HELEN WHITNEY APPEARS IN CONCERT

The guests of Galen Hall, Atlantic City, enjoyed a delightful song recital, given last Saturday night, by the pupils of Comb's Conservatory, of Philadelphia, one of the latter being Miss Helen E. Whitney, of Central avenue, this city. Miss Whitney has been studying at the Comb's Conservatory for the past few years, and has appeared in concert a number of times during the past year. She is the possessor of a charming soprano voice of unusual sweetness and range. Beside Miss Whitney, three others from the conservatory assisted with the program. These were: Miss Helen E. Waite, of Colorado, 'cellist; Miss Alice L. Coyle, of Pennsylvania, pianist, and Miss Genevieve Shaughnessy, of Oklahoma, violinist.

The program consisted of the fol- Waltz," op. HENRY HANSON RAPIDLY RECOVERING FROM INJURIES

Henry Hanson, of North Plainfield, who was stabbed in the abdomen in New York and later taken to Bellevue Hospital, is rapidly improving from his injuries. According to relatives who went to see him in the hospital his mind was a blank as to how he received his injuries, and he could not recall who it was that attacked him. He said that the day he went to New York he met two strange men who engaged him in conversation, but that is all he remembers until he found himself in the hospital.

WILL PETITION COUNCIL FOR COMFORT STATION

J. J. Varley, as chairman of the committee from the Plainfield Business Men's Association, will present twelve petitions to the city council tonight requesting that a public comfort station and rest room be established here. These petitions comprise more than 2,000 names, representing people in all walks of life. The association has been agitating this matter for some time and now feels much encouraged over the prospects of having such a convenieuce for the people of the city.

A committee is now engaged in trying to locate a suitable site for the station and as soon as a decision is reached the matter will be taken up with the City Council, hoping that it will have the support of the councilmen.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hull of 318 Stebbins place, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jessie Hull to Theodore Wormser, of 220 East Front street. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson, of West Third street, are the parents of a daughter born to them Saturday morning.

AT CHURCH WITH HATS ON

There were many Plainfield men who heard Dr. Biederwolf's sermon last night with their hats on. This sounds like a serious reflection upon local gentlemen, but it isn't. So great was the audience at the Sunday night service that the Tabernacle was filled to overflowing, and far out on the street men and women stood through the entire service. Men who could not get closer than ten or fifteen feet to the Tabernacle door wore their hats, and properly. From the platform of the Tabernacle the straw and felt "lids" were plainly seen, and Dr. Biederwolf preached to the wearers, too, although it was necessary to get up on his chair at times to do it.

ROBERT O. STEWART DIES IN 60TH YEAR

Passes Away at His Home on West Seventh Street Following Long Illness.

Robert O. Stewart, aged 60 years, who has been engaged in the banking and insurance business for many years, died yesterday at his home on West Seventh street. Mr. Stewart was born near Monroe, Ohio, and for some time was connected with the Security Trust Company, of Philadelphia. When the company established a branch in New York, Mr. Stewart was transferred to the latter place.

Later he took a position with the Mutual Benefit Insurance Company, of New York, with which concern he was connected at the time of his death. Mr. Stewart was a devout Christian. He attended services at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and was an active worker in Warren chapel since coming to Plainfield.

There survives a wife and three children, Henrietta, Alexander and Betty. The funeral and burial will take place at West Nottingham church-yard, Maryland, tomorrow.

ORGANIZE BIBLE CLASS IN ROOMS OF Y. W. C. A.

Because of the renewed interest in God's word aroused during the Biederwolf campaign a Bible class for men will be inaugurated Thursday evening in the auditorium of the Young Men's Christian Association.

William D. Murray, general chairman of the executive committee in charge of the evangelistic campaign, will be the leader of the class and will speak at the first session on "How We Got Our Bible," as an introduction to a course on "The Life of Jesus."

MEETING WEDNESDAY IN FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

A meeting of the greatest importance is called for Wednesday evening of this week at the First Baptist church. At this time it is expected that all who have signed cards during the Biederwolf campaign indicating a preference for this church will be present to meet the pastor and deacons and to become acquainted with the membership. Attendance upon this service will not obligate anyone to join this particular church, but will prepare the way for so doing if desired. Every member of the church is expected to be present as this service will be one of the most interesting and important in the history of the First Baptist church.

WANT NETHERWOOD ENGINE HELD UP

Board of Trade Will Protest to Council—Other Business Tonight.

A resolution urging that the purchase of a fire engine for the Netherwood section be deferred will be presented to the Common Council at the meeting of tonight from the Board of Trade. It was passed at a called meeting of the officers held yesterday. The Board feels that statistics as to the power of engines on the market have not been fully considered by members of the fire committee, and asks that the purchase of an engine be held up indefinitely.

Among other things to be done by the Council tonight will probably be the election of a freeholder to succeed the late J. Hervey Doane. It is understood that a number of names will be put before the Council. Mayor Calkins will also appoint, it is said, a tax assessor for the Second ward to succeed De Witt Ivins, who resigned last week.

While the councilmen are together there will be a discussion of the new salary schedules for firemen and policemen. Employes of both departments are to be given an increase in salary beginning next month. The increase will amount to approximately ten per cent. of the pay now received, and definite announcement of the exact amounts to be paid captains and others in the department may be made tonight, although the meeting is an adjourned one and no ordinance will be introduced.

P. H. S. PUPILS WIN STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Capture Gold Medals and Team Trophy in Shorthand Contest.

In competition with the larger cities of the State, such as Newark, Jersey City, Paterson and Trenton, Plainfield pupils won the two first prizes offered by the New Jersey Commercial Teachers' Association, in the first annual shorthand contest of the High Schools of the State of New Jersey, held Saturday, May 20, in the Central High Schol building, Newark. The team trophy, which was awarded to the school making the highest average record was carried away by the Plainfield students also.

There were about 125 entrants, fairly representing the schools of the State. The local High School was represented by Viola Sebring, Florence Boulter, Irma Waldorf, Helen Edwards, Fanny Mann, Elsa Palmer, Lillian Handelman, Elsie Cullinan and Ellen Shjarback. Miss Viola Sebring and Miss Ellen Shjarback both won the gold medals which were offered as first prizes. Their marks were exactly the same, 99 1-10 per cent. accurate.

Certain policies in the commercial department of the Plainfield High School were wisely laid down by the late James D. Macnab several years ago. His successor, J. C. Evans, has not only very ably and enthusiastically carried out the plans of his predecessor, but, in addition, has recommended many new courses and features which have met the approval of Principal Best, Superintendent Maxson and the Board of Education.

About thirty-five members of this year's graduating class are commercial pupils, who will want to work when school closes in June. Last year the school sent a letter to each of the local business men, calling their attention to the thorough preparation given our young people for office work. It was also pointed out that in addition to their technical training, the commercial pupils share the excellent general education which all High School pupils receive. The fact that the honors of the graduating class this year were won by commercial students, bot the valedictorian and the salutatorian belonging to this group, makes this statement apparent. Last year the business men responded promptly, heartily and cordially to the school's call for their co-operation. As a result, all of the 1915 commercial graduates are now employed.

In a few days another letter will be sent out requesting the business men to co-operate again this year. The school sincerely appreciates the spirit which the Plainfield business men have shown, and hopes that the pleasant relations will continue year after year.

CHURCH FOUNDER GOES TO REWARD

Mrs. C. S. Lewis, Who Helped Organize Heavenly Rest Congregation, Dies.

WAS ILL A LONG TIME

Deceased Woman and Her Late Husband Collected Funds to Erect Original Clinton Avenue Structure.

At the morning service in the Church of the Heavenly Rest yesterday, announcement was made by the pastor, Rev. C. H. Mallery, of the death a few days ago at Ossining, N. Y., of Mrs. Charles S. Lewis, widow of the man who had been instrumental in organizing the Church of the Heavenly Rest congregation. Mrs. Lewis labored with him to bring about an Episcopal place of worship in that section of the city, their home then being on Evona avenue, and by dint of persistent effort for four years the original church was erected on Clinton avenue just south of West Fourth street.

No details of Mrs. Lewis' death were given in the letter received by Mr. Mallery, but it was known by her friends here that she had been suffering from heart trouble for a long time. She and her husband removed from Plainfield about 1904, and since the latter's death a few years ago, Mrs. Lewis had made her home most of the time with two sisters, the Misses Sanford, of Ossining. Previous to that she had been residing in New York City. Mrs. Lewis was about seventy-two years old and had a very wide acquaintance throughout Plainfield. They always maintained an interest in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, and Mr. Lewis' funeral service was held there.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis were among the early residents of what is now known as the Clinton avenue section of the city, but which at the time they removed there, was referred to as "Evona." Realizing the need of a place of worship for the families nearby, Mr. Lewis called a meeting to be held in the Evona railroad station in 1879, but, being disappointed by the non-arrival of the late Rev. Dr. E. M. Rodman, then rector of Grace church, nothing was done on that occasion. Dr. Rodman had promised to be present, but was unavoidably detained. Mr. Lewis then secured the official sanction of Bishop Scarborough to hold service at his Evona avenue home, Mr. Lewis himself acting as lay reader. That was in January, 1879. From that beginning, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis left no stone unturned to secure money for a church, and they kept at it for four years. Two of their faithful assistants in raising the necessary funds were Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Stevens, of Clinton avenue, who had been in the custom of spending their summers in Evona, but became so interested in starting the new church that they rented a permanent home on South Second street, later removing to the present residence they have occupied for twenty-seven years.

The church was completed and consecrated in April, 1881, being known for many years as the Mission church of the Heavenly Rest. The congregation grew slowly at first because of a lack of development in that part of the city, but in recent years, under the rectorship of Rev. C. H. Mallery, it has made rapid strides. Beside the original church structure, the congregation now has a splendid parish house and a recently-built rectory, while plans are almost complete for erecting a large addition to the church and installing a handsome new organ. Mrs. Lewis watched every move of the congregation and nothing afforded her more pleasure than to see the splendid outcome of the humble beginning made by her husband and herself. She came to Plainfield regularly to visit the church and by this means maintained a close comradeship with the congregation, to every member of which yesterday news of her death came with keen regret.

MYSTERIOUS FIRE CAUSES $1,000 DAMAGE IN BORO

It is estimated that property valued at $1,000 was destroyed or damaged as a result of the barn of Gustavo Lavere, the Duer street grocer, catching fire at 8:20 o'clock Saturday evening. Nothing was left of the barn but the frame. Harness, a sled and other property stored in the barn were destroyed and flour stored in a shed adjoining the barn was damaged by smoke. Horses owned by Mr. Lavere were fortunately not in the barn at the time.

The alarm was sent in from box 152 and the firemen fought the fire with two lines of hose. In keeping the fire from spreading to the shed the firemen did good work. The cause of the fire is a mystery.

Dr. and Mrs. F. W Cornwall, of East Seventh street, have returned from Atlantic City, where they were registered at the Hotel Brigaton for several days.

National conscription of all resources was advocated by Dr. John H. Finley, commissioner of education of New York state, speaking at Annandale, N. COSSACKS WIN WAY TO THE TIGRIS RIVER

Join Britisb After Adventurous Campaign.

London, May 22.—The first news of the operations on the Tigris since the fall of Kut-el-Amara, sent by Lieutenant General Sir Percy Lake, commander of the British forces in Mesopotamia, although it shows that the Turks are still holding the Sannayyat position on the left bank of the Tigris, where the British check made it impossible to carry out the relief of General Townshend, brings the astonishing intelligence that a body of Russian cavalry after an adventurous ride has succeeded in joining General Gorringe's forces on the south bank of the Tigris.

An official communication issued concerning the situation along the Tigris says:

"General Lake reports that on the 19th the enemy vacated the Bethaiessa advanced position on the right bank of the Tigris. General Gorringe, following up the enemy, attacked and carried the Dujailah redoubt. The enemy is still holding the Sannayyat position on the left bank of the river.

"A force of Russian cavalry has joined General Gorringe after a bold and adventurous ride."

How this important junction was effected is still unknown, and the story will be awaited with intense interest. The supposition is that this detachment came from the Russian army which is threatening Khanikan, but it still remains a puzzle where and how the Russians succeeded in crossing the river.

Their sudden appearance with General Gorringe has also raised the question whether the Russians have already cut the Bagdad railway at Mosul. In any case the unexpected appearance of this body of cavalry is as great a surprise as was the first landing of the Russian troops at Marseilles and is another instance of the swift and stealthy movement of the Russian forces in Asia Minor.

AGITATOR ASKS WILSON'S AID

Quinlan, Convicted In Paterson Silk Strike, Charges Frameup.

Trenton, N. J., May 22.—Patrick L. Quinlan, who was sentenced three years ago to serve from two to seven years and pay a fine of $500 for having incited Paterson silk weavers to riot, is now appealing to President Wilson for aid in getting out of jail. Quinlan was indicted on the same charge as that of which Elizabeth Gurley Flynn was recently acquitted.

He has written a 2,000 word letter to President Wilson, in which he charges that he was arrested and indicted as the result of a frameup. He says he did not make the incendiary speech attributed to him and which formed the base of the charge.

A. L. DALRYMPLE KILLED AT DOVER

Crushed as Automobile Turns Turtle.

CAR FELL TWELVE FEET.

Political Sensation Results In Newark at News of His Death—Three Others In Machine Miraculously Escape Serious Injury—Victim Was Elected Delegate to Chicago Convention.

Newark, May 22.—Mortally injured when the automobile which he was driving overturned after toppling off a twelve foot embankment near Dover, N. J., Alfred N. Dalrymple, chairman of the Essex County Republican committee, leader of the New Jersey delegation to the Republican national convention and probably the best known political leader of the state, died in the hospital at Dover. Mrs. Dalrymple, who was with him in the automobile, escaped almost uninjured, as did Andrew C. Snyder of Newark and Mrs. Snyder. Mrs. Snyder was pinned under the automobile, but escaped serious hurts.

Mr. Dalrymple's death created a political sensation here, where he has lived all his life and where he has directed many hard political battles.

Mr. Dalrymple has been one of the most active members and leaders of the Republican party in Newark, in Essex county and in New Jersey for nearly a score of years. During his service of five years as chairman of the Republican county committee and since then he has been recognized as the party leader in the county and within the last year has been proclaimed a state leader.

His power in those capacities has been recognized in his own party and in the Democratic party. He has recently been the head of the campaign management for former Governor Franklin Murphy in the pending contest in the Republican party for the nomination for United States senator and for Senator Austen Colgate in the contest for the gubernatorial nomination.

In the face of criticism against having candidates for those two offices from Essex county he has declared that they would stand, that the county organization of the party would stand with them and that in his opinion they would win the nominations in the September primaries.

A Little Chat About Honesty

IN THIS little chat we want to talk particularly to the man who thinks the telephone operator sometimes "fibs" to him when she says "the line is busy."

In the first place, "Central" is a pretty busy girl. She's not apt to make useless work for herself. In learning that a line is "busy," she performs as many operations as she would in completing a call. It's easier for her to give you the connection you want at once than to put you off with the "busy" report.

Her report, "the line is busy," does not necessarily mean that the man you want is using his telephone. It may mean that we are trying to reach him for someone else who called before you did. If he's on a party line, it may mean that one of the other parties is using the line.

Next week we are going to tell you something you really ought to know about unanswered calls.

Allan Wilson Dunn, a former resident of New Market, and well known in Plainfield, died yesterday morning at his home, 36 Orchard street, Elizabeth. He was the eldest son of the late Isaac Holton and Hannah (nee Dunham) Dunn, and was born on the Dunn farm at New Market, seventy-five years ago, making the sixth generation to be born on this farm. He was a direct descendant of the Mayflower pilgrims. His survivors are a widow, Anna F. Dunn; four children, Harry C. Dunn, of Elizabeth; Mrs. Ruth H. Dauncey, of Plainfield; Mrs. Edith C. McMahon and Issac Herbert Dunn, of Elizabeth; two brothers, W. W. Dunn, of Plainfield, and Daniel Dunn, of Brooklyn.

The funeral will take place Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at his late residence in Elizabeth and interement will be in Hillside cemetery, this city.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

Howard A. Colby in the Press of May 20 says that Dr. Biederwolf's charge that Mrs. Eddy was a liar or crazy "does not sound like a good Christian or sporting statement to him." But if it is a true statement (as he proved it to be) and if it is necessary to make it (as it is) that people may be warned concerning her heresy, it cannot be an unchristian statement.

The critic asks "what difference does it make whether Mrs. Eddy was taught by Quimby?" I answer it would not make any difference if she did not claim to have been taught directly by God. To pretend to be the "discoverer of Christian Science" by special revelation of heaven, when, in fact, some one else was the discoverer of it without any revelation, is to be guilty of an untruth, and of blasphemy.

Mr. Colby seeks to excuse Mrs. Eddy's untruthfulness by saying that "from the record of the Hebrew scriptures he is led to believe that the apostles were not always as truthful as George with his hatchet." I protest against this slur on the character of the followers of Christ. They were good, sincere men, and when one of them, Peter, in a moment of weakness, untruthfully denied Him, he repented bitterly. Mrs. Eddy never repented.

CHARLES HILLMAN FOUNTAIN.

May 21, 1916.

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

I have read with amazement and indignation Dr. Biederwolf's sermon on Christian Science. My indignation is not because I am a Christian Scientist, for I am not, but because the sermon is a gross slander on Mrs. Eddy and her followers. And it is dishonest because the Rev. Doctor's quotations are disconnected, and taken alone convey a false impression. Dr. Biederwolf's billingsgate, in this instance, is peculiary out of place because Mrs. Eddy's writings teach with strong emphasis that right living is the first essential to spiritual progress and her followers are, in their lives quite as consistent with the teachings of Christ's sermon on the Mount as those of other forms of religion.

ALLIES REFUSE TO TALK PEACE

Wilson Told Overtures Would Be Untimely.

"GERMANY MUST FIGHT ON"

Entente Powers Inform Washington of Stand—President Learns That Time Is Not Ripe—Viviani Confirms Confidential Statements to United States Government.

Washington, May 22.—It is understood here that the war will go on until Germany is compelled to admit defeat.

"Germany must fight on to the end and cannot escape retribution by useless appeals to neutrals for peace."

This is the answer of the entente allies to the steadily increasing peace talk which has reached official circles here from Berlin. The allies' position, it is explained, has been made perfectly clear to President Wilson, and this is the prime reason why the president's efforts to act as mediator in the war have been confined to more or less academic utterances on the general subject of peace instead of taking the form of a definite proposal to discuss the ending of the war.

Both the president and Secretary Lansing have been informed confidentially from sources close to the entente capitals that peace proposals now are out of the question. The time is not ripe, it is explained, and the time will not be ripe until Germany's military domination has been completely broken.

Peace Talk Discouraged.

Realizing that this position assumed by the allies might tend unfavorably to influence public opinion in neutral countries, the chancelleries in London, Paris and Petrograd have discouraged all talk of peace proposals. The attitude of the entente, however, has been explained to the world by Rene Viviani of the French cabinet, who with the full sanction of all the entente governments made a statement in Petrograd in which he said that the allies stand solid for a "fight to a finish," that they intend to break Germany's heavy sword and that they are steadily forging Germany's chastisement.

Diplomatic circles here fully realize the importance to be attached to this official utterance made through the French embassy in Petrograd. It is, in fact, the first statement from an authoritative source setting forth the entente's reply to Germany's proposal to bring about the end of the struggle.

Viviani's statement has added importance here from the fact that it exactly coincides with the information which is understood to have been communicated both to President Wilson and Secretary Lansing. It explains why Secretary Lansing is understood to believe that any proposal for mediation now would simply vitiate the position which the United States may logically hold when the time to discuss peace finally does arrive.

"Handwriting on the Wall."

The entente allies have translated Germany's peace plans into the meaning that the imperial government now sees the handwriting on the wall and is taking measures far in advance in an effort to end the war. The entente allies claim that they are daily growing stronger in both armament and men. They declare that their campaign to break slowly but surely Germany's power by means of their additional resources backed by the control of the seas is now beginning to bear fruit.

Instead of being disposed to consider peace proposals the entente, it is explained, is only preparing for additional concentrated efforts to press their advantage.

So convinced are the entente diplomats of Germany's approaching weakness, of the final stages of the struggle, that they expect the peace talk from Berlin to become more and more pronounced and emphatic.

This opinion is of course strictly partisan, and so far there is no impartial evidence here to show that the central powers are in any such straits. This government has, however, received official reports from its own agents tending to show that Germany is beginning to feel the effects of the "drag" much more deeply than is generally known.

Information has been received showing that the failure of this summer's crop in Germany would spell unprecedented disaster. Heroic efforts are being made in Germany to deal with the food problem, which would be involved in this contingency, but so far no solution is in sight.

German officials who are now devoting their time exclusively to offsetting the effects of the British blockade and providing food for the populace have made a number of mistakes, with the result that growing hostile criticism has been aroused.

Dr. Greil Held In $1,000 Bail.

New York, May 22.—Dr. Cecile Greil, arrested on the charge of performing an illegal operation, was held in $1,000 bail for examination on Thursday by Magistrate McQuade in Jefferson Market court. The girl on whose behalf the charge was made is in a serious condition. She says her name is Violet French of Tarrytown. Dr. Greil escaped from the Ancona after the steamer had been torpedoed in the Mediterranean.

CARDINAL FARLEY.

Heads Committee to Aid In Irish Relief.

Cardinal Farley was elected honorary president at a meeting of a body organized in New York city to direct the work of the newly organized national Irish relief committee, which will have charge of collecting funds in this country for the relief of distress in Ireland.

IRELAND MAY GET HOME RULE AT ONCE

Asquith Has Plan to Reopen Conference.

London, May 22.—It is expected that Premier Asquith's chief proposal concerning Ireland will be that the Buckingham palace conference held just before the war shall be resumed on a broader basis.

Alternatives of inclusion or exclusion as regards Ulster will be discussed in a more friendly spirit. It is believed that the Nationalists will now make large concessions to Ulster, perhaps even to the extent of provisionally excluding all Ulster in return for immediate home rule for the rest of Ireland and combined with some arrangement with Ulster.

The success of the Buckingham palace conference might involve important ministerial reconstruction, and a remodeled war cabinet might be formed, with Sir Edward Carson and John Redmond in it. It must be remembered, however, that the two Irish leaders have as yet no responsibility for the premier's contemplated steps. They are committed to nothing.

The four days' conference at Buckingham palace, July 21 to 25, 1914, called by King George, was one of the last episodes in the Irish home rule controversy before the war broke out. It ended in failure, and when the last session had been adjourned it was felt throughout Great Britain that the bitter strife which had for months been threatening to disrupt England's domestic peace would be fanned into new flame.

The war, however, interfered with the execution of plans which are known to have been under way at the time for concerted action by the malcontents.

TO PUNISH MILITIA.

New Mexican Guardsmen Refuse to Obey Call.

Washington, May 22.—Three companies and the band of the New Mexico national guard regiment of infantry have appealed to General Funston to have the regulations set aside under which they have been called out for service with the regular army in defending the American border from Mexican raiders.

Their excuse is that only 25 per cent of their number can speak English. Fourteen men out of one company of the Texas national guard, 116 enlisted members of which have flatly refused to respond to the call, have put up the plea that their families are destitute and cannot spare them.

More or less disgusted by the attitude of the militiamen, officials of the war department are apparently determined to institute court martial proceedings in a number of cases for the warning effect which they may have.

MOTION TO ACQUIT BANKERS

It's Expected In Riggs National Bank Case.

Washington, May 22.—A motion to have the court instruct the jury in the perjury trial of Charles C. Glover, president; William J. Flather, vice president, and Henry H. Flather, former cashier of the Riggs National bank, to bring in a verdict of acquittal will probably be the first move taken by the attorneys for the defense when the government closes its case in the district supreme court.

District Attorney Laskey announced on Friday that the government would conclude the presentation of its case in about an hour. It is understood that the attorneys for the defense will contend that the government has not made out a prima facie case against the defendants and that it is therefore needless for the defendants to introduce any testimony whatever.

Georges Boillot Killed.

Paris, May 22.—Georges Boillot, automobile racer and aeronaut, has been killed in a fight with five German aeroplanes. He succeeded in bringing down one of the German machines before a bullet pierced his heart.

Paris, May 22.—French gains on both sides of the Meuse River were announced today in the War Office communique. At Le Mort Homme, Dead Man's Hill, strong counter attacks by the French won back some of the ground gained by the Germans on Saturday. A night attack by the French in the sector of Vaux put Gen. Nivelle's troops in possession of a German trench. There was fierce hand to hand fighting in the darkness under the glare of star bombs.

BOROUGH COURT

Edgar Robertson, 37 years old, of 66 Elm street; James Manning, 73 years, of the Soldiers' Home, at Kearny, and Jack Hogan, 50 years old, all arrested at different times between Saturday night and Sunday noon, for being drunk, were arraigned before Recorder Hand in the borough court this morning.

Robertson, who was arrested by Chief Weiss, was fined $5. Manning was given a suspended sentence, and Hogan, who was addressing pedestrians on Somerset street in a profane manner, was fined $10.

Others to be arraigned before Recorder Hand were Louis Denando, who was arrested by Officer Pope for riding his bicycle on the sidewalk along Somerset street, and Hugo Klem, who was spilling 2-inch stone along Somerset street as a result of the tailboard of his wagon being improperly fastened. Both were given suspended sentences.

SMALL FIRE IN BOROUGH.

Somebody threw a match in a barrel of rummage in the back porch shed of Fred Schmermond's residednce, No. 51 Wilson avenue, at 2:55 Saturday afternoon and set the shed on fire. The borough firemen were called out and they extinguished the fire which was commencing to eat its way into the house partition, with one chemical tank.

Morristown Has Candidate.

Morristown, May 22.—Morristown has the distinction of furnishing the state of New Jersey a candidate for the governorship. This is no new proposition for Morristown, however, for the late Governor George T. Werts was a Morristonian, and there were others before his time. But this year the town is placed on the political map by the Prohibition party. The cold water advocates have selected Dr. Harry Vaughn as their standard bearer in the state battle.

2,000 AUTOISTS EXPECTED.

Members of the New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club and the Motor Truck Club, of New Jersey, are convinced now that there will be more than 2,000 cars in the automobile pageant to be held June 24 under the auspices of these organizations and the Committee of One Hundred. Interest in the anniversary celebration has aroused much enthusiasm among the motorists, and the committees in charge of the parade are encouraged by the spirit they are encountering. The unusual liberal array of prizes is responsible in a large measure for the number of entrants. First, second and third awards in each class are offered. In previous years but one prize has been presented.

WEEDING OUT POOR DRIVERS.

Minnesota is not going to let anybody and everybody operate motor cars on its highway. Among 120 applicants for drivers' licenses only twelve passed the examination in a recent written test. Two others were "conditioned," depending upon their skill in operating a car in a practical demonstration. These road tests have been included in the Minnesota law as an added precaution against letting incompetent men drive, and, according to State officials, the practical work is weeding out a large number of otherwise qualified persons.

SAND BOXES FOR MOTORS.

Clifton Williams, an assistant city attorney of Milwaukee, Wis., has applied for patent rights on a device to prevent or minimize skidding, says the Motor World. The appliance utilizes the principle of strewing sand on smooth surfaces to make a rough path for wheels. Like locomotives and street cars, motor cars are to be equipped with sand boxes, from which lead pipes to a position just in front of the rear wheels. A button in reach of the driver opens a valve and sand is strewn on the ground in the path of the driven wheels.

LIGHTS ON AUTOS.

The New Jersey law provides that lights shall be displayed on all vehicles from one-half hour after sunset until one-half hour before sunrise. The times by days at which lights must be lighted this week are as follows:

Today	7:46 p. m.
Tomorrow	7:47 p. m.
Wednesday	7:48 p. m.
Thursday	7:49 p. m.
Friday	7:50 p. m.
Saturday	7:50 p. m.

N. J. MOTORCYCLE RACE.

The New Jersey Motorcycle Club, of Newark, will hold its ninth annual endurance contest over the roads of this State on May 29-30, covering in all some 400 miles in twenty hours of riding. A field of more than 100 motorcyclists is expected to compete for the five silver loving cups, accessory prizes to the value of $150, and gold, silver and bronze medals to be awarded for the best scores turned in.

DANIELS HAD HARD LUCK.

Old Hard Luck leaned heavily on the shoulders of "Bill" Daniels, the P. H. S. colored flyer, at Newark, Saturday and after leading more than half the distance in the half mile event at the annual Princeton Club games in that city, he was forced to retire on account of a spiked foot. The field had a three lap track for the half mile and after getting away to a good start "Bill" cut loose a sprint on the second time around, as he thought it was two laps to the half mile the same as Parker Field.

P. H. S. LOSES ATHLETE.

Another name has been added to the constantly growing string of those lost to the P. H. S. baseball team. This time it is Robert McDowell, who has left school to enter business "Mac" played at either shortstop or second base this season until after the first N. P. H. S. game. He was also a forward on last year's basketball team and was recently elected captain of the 1916-17 team.

N. P. H. S. CAPTAIN.

Plainfield High School's tennis team now has a new captain. Wright McAnney has resigned on account of scholarship deficencies and Everett Case has been elected to succeed him. This makes the third change this year as Rodney Parvin, who was first elected captain, left school to enter business.

ONE CAR TO 13 PERSONS.

A world's record of ownership of automobiles is now claimed by Los Angeles, Cal., which registers one car for each thirteen of its inhabitants, according to the Chamber of Commerce of that city. During 1915 there were 55,217 registered, an increase of nearly 25 per cent. over the number in 1914.

FRENCH STORM QUARRIES.

Terrific Fighting Spreads Along River Meuse Front.

Paris, May 22.—In a series of engagements on both banks of the Meuse, in which by turns both Germans and French assumed the aggressive, the French reoccupied the Haudromont quarries on the right bank of the Meuse, which they lost a month ago, and recaptured two trenches on the Esnes-Harcourt road, between Hill 304 and the Bois d'Avocourt, on the left bank.

The Germans made a further gain on Le Mort Homme in the course of terrific fighting, which is still in progress all along the front from the Bois d'Avocourt to the Meuse.

The attacks delivered by the Germans on the west bank of the river included a heavy assault on the French positions just east of Hill 304, on the slopes of the ravine separating that hill from Le Mort Homme. This assault gained for the attacking party a brief footing in one of the first line French trenches, but the success was only momentary and a counter attack recovered the position for the French

Put Your Hand in Your Purse and Bring Joy to Some Sufferer

ROSE TAG DAY

Saturday, June 17

On that day you will be asked by one or many young women, dressed as nurses, to contribute something for the Women's Auxiliary Board of the Muhlenberg Hospital. Give what you can, whether it be 1c or $100. In exchange you will receive a rose as an acknowledgment that you are a contributor.

The Women's Auxiliary should appeal to every man, woman or child who has the instinct of humanity. It has no creed—except the creed of helping the suffering. Its duties are to assist in furnishing flowers, fruit, jellies and delicacies to the ward patients at the Hospital. It buys appointments for the children's ward. In addition, it purchases the materials from which over 5,000 articles, such as bandages, sleeping garments, towels, sheets, etc., were made by 175 women for the Hospital in 1915.

All of these materials, fruits, jellies, etc., cost money and this year, the Women's Auxiliary Board have decided to hold a Rose Tag Day in order that every person in Plainfield may contribute to this most worthy organization which does so much to relieve suffering and bring joy to the sick.

SUMMARIZED PRIZE LIST AND INDIVIDUAL RATINGS OF ELKS' HOUSE TOURNEY ISSUED BY SECRETARY NASH

Official announcement of the standings of individuals and teams in the recently concluded five-man house bowling club run at the Plainfield Elks' Club was made by V. W. Nash, Jr., the secretary of the tourney, this morning. The summary indicates that a lion's share of the prizes go to the Cadillac champions and the complete list of prizes will be awarded at a banquet to be held in the near future, the exact date of which will be made known during the next week.

With a record of twenty-five wins and but two reverses the Cadillac team, captained by J. E. Waldorf, won the first team prize, a silver loving cup, and second honors went to the Ford combine with a record of seventeen and ten. The Cadillac team also copped the high team score prize, merchandise donated by Henry Eggerding; and the high team average prize given for competition by Edward Brown. The Ford took second high team average.

Vail, of the Ford team, with a score of .267, captured the high individual score award made by James R. Blair, and Vail also came in for the high individual average prize, donated by Morris C. Van Arsdale.

HIT SHOWER BEATS LEAGUE CHAMPIONS

Abstainers First to Lower Netherwood's Colors in Sunday Game.

The T. A. B. S. ball team opened its Sunday schedule on Avon Oval yesterday by triumphing over the Netherwoods, champions of the City League, to the tune of 11 to 2. Matty Coughlan essayed to come back in the twirling line and started the game for Netherwood. The T. A. B. S. batters soon forced him to retire and "Eddie," his brother, took up the work where he left off.

His offerings seemed to suit the Abstainers, too, for they kept right on hitting and amassed a total of eighteen hits.

Batting laurels went to Rosenson and Lee, who each secured four hits out of five times up; two doubles being included in Lee's hits and one in "Benny's."

An extra large crowd attended the game.

PRINCETON'S PRESIDENT TALKS TO PLAINFIELDERS

Under the auspices of the Plainfield Princeton Club, thirty-nine Plainfield boys were taken to Princeton on Saturday in seven automobiles and enjoyed the athletic and other events arranged for the day. The boys had their luncheon at the Freshmen Commons, after which they had the privilege of listening to an excellent address by President John Grier Hibben of the University, who spoke especially to them and expressed the hope that they would fully enjoy the day.

In the afternoon the boys attended the baseball game between Princeton and Harvard, and although the former was badly defeated, the contest was much enjoyed. The party reached home about 8 o'clock, well pleased with the day's trip and the hospitality of the Princeton Club, as well as the University.

SOUTH PLAINFIELDERS OPENED WITH A WIN

The South Plainfield baseball club defeated the Spicer A. C. by a score of 7 to 3, on Saturday. The feature of the game was Velard's pitching and Houston's stellar work at short. Velard pitched good in pinches, retiring the side by the strikeout route several times when the bases were full. He had twelve to his credit. Frank Mullin and Dolan starred for the visitors. South Plainfield shows promise of having a good team, and Manager Hamilton expects to book some of the fastest teams in this vicinity. John McGuiness, of McGuiness, of Metuchen, who was slated to do the slab work, disappointed the crowd by not appearing. The score:

BLAMES "TROUBLES" ON GOLF

Weeghman Persuaded to Enter Baseball When on Links.

Charles Weeghman, president of the Chicago Nationals, offers golf as an alibi for his fling with the Federal league. He says that he was induced to join in the venture by James Gillmore when the two were playing golf together.

All of which proves that when at golf it is best to give the game undivided attention.

MULLIN AND HAND PLAYED GOOD BALL

Mullin Had Perfect Batting Average Yesterday and "Nibs" Did Well.

Tommy Mullin and Frank Hand, local ball-players performing on out-of-town clubs, established fine records for themselves over the week-end. Playing at Washington, N. J., Saturday afternoon Mullin held down the shortstop position for the Washington team in the Schwab League and Hand caught. Washington beat Stroudsburg 8 to 1. In Saturday's game Hand clouted out a single, a double and a triple, but Tommy failed to get in the hit column.

Playing yesterday at Perth Amboy against the New London, Conn., team Mullin recorded a perfect batting average. Out of four trips to the plate he scored two scorching doubles, walked once and sacrificed once. New London won 5 to 4. Both localites played errorless ball over the week-end.

EVENING SWIMMING CLASSES INCREASE IN POPULARITY

The swimming classes which have the use of the pool at the High School on Wednesday evenings are becoming more and more popular. The best instruction is being given both men and women in the art of keeping themselves afloat and propelling themselves in the water. Swimming is an art and, like other arts, must be learned. Every healthy man or woman can learn and aught to learn to sustain himself or herself in the water. It is not a difficult art. The most important aim of the swimmer must be to economize effort. Beginners must learn carefully the movements which have proved most effective. The natural struggles of a man in the water do not keep him afloat. The natural struggles of animals lift their heads. If a dog falls into the water he raises his nose and walks as he does on land. But for man the motions of swimming are entirely unlike any movements that he makes in daily life and must be learned. In the cause of "Safety First," every one should know how to swim.

Swimming is one of the most enjoyable and beneficial sports known, but for a lover of swimming there is something pitiful in a visit to a popular resort where hundreds of women venture waist deep into the sea and, seizing ropes, churn up and down screaming partly with delight and partly with fear while only a few "good swimmers" make triumphant progress to the raft beyond.

The classes for women at the High School on Wednesday evenings beginning at 7:30, when the first public class goes into the pool. The special class which is taking physical training and dry-land swimming drills under the direction of Mr. Keene, will meet in the gymnasium at 7:30 hereafter, and will go into the pool at 8 o'clock.

The men's class meets Mr. Keene in the gymnasium at 8:30, and goes into the pool at 9 o'clock.

Miss Ragland is in charge of the women's classes in the pool. Members of her public class should endeavor to be early on Wednesday evening.

POINT WINNERS FOR THE SPRING TROPHY

Weekly Competition Attracts Large Field of Players to the Country Club.

The weekly competition for the spring cup attracted a large field of players to the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday. There was also a match play event against par, which is 71, and the weekly sweepstakes event, all of which had a large number of competitors. The point-winners for the spring cup were as follows:

Howard H. Craig, 82, 12-70; C. E. Lipscomb, 92, 17-75; D. H. Rowland, 97, 21-76; J. R. Evans, 100, 24-76.

In the match play event against par, Howard H. Craig and C. E. Lipscomb were both 2 down. Other scores were as follows:

J. L. Fleming, 99, 27-72; Laurens H. Van Huren, 105, 26-75; D. H. Rowland, 97, 21-76; A. J. Watson, 86, 8-78; George L. Babcock, 105, 27-78; H. G. Phillips, 100, 22-78; D. W. Taylor, 100, 26-80; L. H. Miller, 113, 26-87. Paul B. Wells won the sweepstakes with a score of 95, 22-73.

GAME ENDED IN FUSS; WITH N. P. H. S. AHEAD

After Knocking Unbeaten Twirler From the Box Locals Had to Call Halt.

With the score 4-2 in the middle of the fifth inning, the game between Kearny and North Plainfield High School came to an abrupt ending with the latter having an advantage of two runs Saturday afternoon. With men on second and third the Kearny batter hit in front of the plate; Dilts fielded the ball and made a perfect throw to first game. The ball grazed the wrist of the runner and carooned off into right field. Whether it went on foul or fair territory could not be ascertained. Both runners scored on the play. The umpire ruled that owing to a ground rule each runner was permitted one base, while the visitors contended that since the runner was hit with the ball he was allowed as many bases as he could get, and since the throw was not wild the local ruling could not be brought into effect. Unable to come to any understanding the contest was called.

In order that the same friendly feeling which has always existed between these two institutions continue, the local manager will make arrangements for the Kearny team to appear here once more, while the boroughites will play in that town the early part of June.

The contest had all the aspects of a stirring encounter. If the ruling had been granted only one run would have separated the battling nines. The borough batsmen had already knocked Margetts, the visiting twirler, who had been successful in all his previous contests, out of the box by scoring three runs in the fourth.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, MAY 22, 1916.

HE LEFT THE WORLD.

In the will of S. Rabinowitz (Sholom Aleichem), the famous Jewish writer whose names signifies "Peace Be With You," there is found the following clause:

"X.—My last wish to my successors and my prayer to my children:

"To protect mamma, to beautify her old age, to make her bitter life sweet, to heal her broken heart, not to weep after me, on the contrary, to think of me with joy; and the main thing—to live together in peace, to bear no hatred one for another, to help one another in bad times, to remember one another upon occasion in the family, to have pity on poor man, and when circumstances permit, to pay my debts, should I have any. Children! Carry with honor my hard-earned Jewish name, and may God in Heaven come to your help. Amen!"

What need to read the rest. He left the world, and all the joy that there is in it.

GENEROUS PLAINFIELD.

In giving liberally to the Rev. William E. Biederwolf at the three services of yesterday Plainfield people showed their fairness and their generosity. They were not pledged to give a single cent to the evangelist. No man or woman who entered the Tabernacle at any of the services of yesterday was under any obligation except that dictated by conscience to give, and what he or she gave was known and will ever be known only to themselves. It was an inspiring scene as the subscriptions rolled in faster than the scores of ushers could cry them out. No one who has attended a single one of the meetings and had watched the efforts for good upon a single one of the lives that were touched will deny the justness of such giving, but it remained for Plainfield people to set a new record in the free-will offerings that Dr. Biederwolf has received during his entire nineteen years as an evangelist, which is perfectly proper. In all things that is the Plainfield way.

IT'S AN AWFUL CHANCE YOU TAKE!

In the June Woman's Home Companion a writer says: "Don't expect all the virtues in one man. If he is good-natured he may be lazy; if he is scholarly, he may be cold; if he is thrifty, he may be stingy; if he is generous, he may be wasteful; if he is smooth, he may be deceitful. The man who charms you with his immaculate appearance is likely to be something of an old maid; the man who is careful to pick threads off your skirt is prone to pick flaws in you; the man who takes an undue interest in the selection of your hats may take an undue interest in the bill which comes home; the man who, before marriage, jumps to open the door, lest your fingers be contaminated by the knob, may after marriage, allow those same fingers to be contaminated by the washboard."

In commenting upon the announced candidacy of Attorney General John W. Westcott for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator from New Jersey, the Trenton Times says that "there is no question but that great numbers of the voters are dissatisfied with Senator Martine, who has been exceedingly erratic when voting upon progressive policies in which the administration has been interested; and the head of that administration made it possible for Martine to win a seat in the United States Senate. Because of this dissatisfaction there has been a strong demand for a new candidate. Hitherto the effort has apparently been made, but unsuccessfully, to supply that section of the State from which Martine hails. Attorney General Westcott, as a strong personal and political friend of the President, will receive the support of the dissatisfied element in the Democratic party, notwithstanding the intimations that have been given out from Washington that the President will express no preference. He is less than two years older than Martine, so that the question of age will cut no figure in the contest for the nomination; and he will have an advantage in not being a seeker of the office." Mr. Westcott must have had his ear pretty close to the ground when he heard the clamor of the voters of New Jersey. Those that are clamoring for him over here are succeeding in hiding it about as well as Villa is his home-place just now.

To the converts at the Biederwolf meetings the great evangelist says "Buy a Bible." Get a good one, he says, and we believe he would heartily recommend the offer made by the Daily Press to furnish a handsome, substantial Bible for a small sum and three coupons clipped from this paper. Those who have lately found their Christ, or who have wandered away from the feet of God and who now want to live closer to Him and His people here on earth will find the way hard and the struggle almost impossible without the constant consolation and divine guidance of the word of God. The Daily Press will aid in placing authenic Bibles in the homes of Plainfield.

At last Netherwood is to get its automobile fire engine. Residents and property owners there have chaffed at the delay perhaps, but now that they are so soon to realize their greatest community need, they can realize that it is better to have waited until sufficient money could be spared to buy the best in fire fighting apparatus. Members of the fire committee have practically decided on a make of engine that will be big enough for the Netherwood sections for years to come, and it will be worth waiting for.

Paying a dollar or a few cents for a rose, the fragrance of which will steal into the home of a family where the stench of disease has fallen and brighten it forever, is what Plainfield people will have an opportunity of doing when the Women's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenburg Hospital have their tag day next month to raise funds for the charity wards of the hospital. Every man and women in the city should wear a rose on that day.

Jeremiah C. Lynch, an American citizen, is to get ten years in a British prison for his attempts to make Ireland free. Serves him right. Why didn't he stay at home and try to free one or two of the thousands of children who are slaves to the gold-crazed capitalists of this country?

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

The Old-Fashioned Man.

The things that I am fond of the four hundred never eat;
The clothing that I dote on is considered indiscreet.
My friends all counsel exercise whenever I take my ease,
And when I exercise they say I'll bring on heart disease.
The music that is proper is all of a classic style.
For me the old-time heart songs have it beaten by a mile.

With highfalutin' goin's on, I'm always out of tune;
And sit home quiet by the fire I'd always just as soon.
I've oft been told by stylish folks that I am out of date;
That I was put upon this earth one century too late.
The other folks can think me odd, I don't care what they say;
I'm pretty middling happy in my own old-fashioned way.

Short Story Writing.

I set out to be a short story writer. I could see a mint of money in it and O. Henry and Guy de Maupassant were not going to have a thing on me. I wrote my first story and mailed it to a well-known magazine, which had the habit of printing the names of contributors on its cover. That was eighteen years ago.

The editor of this magazine sent back the manuscript, saying that he was sorry he couldn't use it. It was the best story he had ever read. It was, in fact, a masterpiece, but he was afraid all of his other contributors would get jealous and quit him if he published it.

For nine years the story kept coming back and all of the rejection slips read about the same with slight variations. In short, it was the marvel of the literary world, but they could not use my stuff. One editor said he was afraid it would go over the heads of his readers. I don't know how many trips to New York that story made, but I had enough rejection slips to paper three bedrooms and a living room when finally, eight years ago, the story was accepted. It was accepted by the magazine I had sent it to first many years before. I have learned since that the former editor had died. This magazine received the story and read it eighteen times before accepting it.

It was accepted eight years ago, but it has not yet been published. I have just received a check for $25. The postage I spent on that story during its ten years of travel amounted to $126.84.

There may be money in literature. There must be, for nobody seems to get any out of it.

In the meantime, I have held down a position and have earned enough to pay the postage on my story. Now that I have received a check for the first story, I am going to write another on the chance that I will sell it and get a check before I reach the sear and yellow leaf.

I also hope that some of my children will live long enough to see my first story published.

- Proctor's Theatre -

Victor Moore, the stage favorite of thousands of theatre-goers, appears at Proctor's today in a diverting comedy entitled "Chimmie Fadden Out West," his personality being evident in all the scenes. There are laughs galore throughout the entire five reels, and numerous artistic touches that will be heartily appreciated. Chimmie's ludicrous mistakes in a sleeping car afford many hearty laughs, and another scene pleasing from its novelty and little touch of humor is where he lies down to sleep head-to-head with his skittish and stubborn burro, kissing the animal in a dream in which he imagines he is with his sweetheart. This picture abounds in laugh-provoking situations like the above, and is destined to be greeted with roars of laughter. In addition today the third episode of "The Mysteries of Myra" appear at Proctor's. Tomorrow the patrons of this popular playhouse will be accorded a big triple treat, consisting of Edna Goodrich, in "Armstrong's Wife," which is being presented at the behest of a number of patrons. This picture serves to introduce Edna Goodrich as a picture star, and her part in the title role gives her worthy opportunities in which to display her attractive ability. De Wolf Hopper, the inimitable comedian, also appears on the program today in his second Triangle comedy drama entitled "Sunshine Dad," in which his eccentric personality is a dominant feature, and which will provide over an hours' wholesome amusement to the enthusiastic spectators. Ford Sterling also will be seen tomorrow in the Keystone comedy, "The Snow Cure," and the twelfth episode of "Mary Page" will complete the bill. On Wednesday William Farnum, the famous delineator of powerful men shaken by emotion, will be seen in a tense drama befitting his talents, entitled "A Man of Sorrow," which was adapted to the screen from the stage success, "Hoodman Blind." The thirteenth episode of "The Iron Claw" will also appear on Wednesday, while on Thursday another big bill greets the spectators, headed by Pauline Frederick, the incomparable, in one of her most popular pictures, "Bella Donna;" William H. Thompson will be seen in a gripping Triange feature, "Civilization's Child," while Shorty Hamilton will cavort upon the screen in a Rough Knight," Keystone.

--Astor Theatre--

The breath of the great out-of-doors has been breathed into "Out of the Drifts," a stirring drama of the Swiss Alps, in which Marguerite Clark is starred by the Famous Players' Film Company on the Paramount program. In this great tale of the towering peaks and deep-sunken valleys, which is the feature of the Astor Theatre today, the diminutive star plays the most thrilling role which she has enacted since "Helene of the North." "Out of the Drifts," the story of Elise, a little Swiss shepherdess, who innocently falls under the spell of a roue. He persuades her to go to London with aim in the belief that they will be married there. But Rudolph, an Alpine guide, who has long been in love with Elise, discovers the intended elopement, and, while escorting Reggie to the girl's cabin, he gets him in a perilous position on edge of a precipice and cuts the rope, which is the only means of safety. Reggie is sent hurtling down the ice-covered sides of the chasm, and lands bruised and bleeding in a huge snowdrift at the bottom. Tomorrow those who love sensations with their moving picture entertainment will have their fill in the Bluebird film to be exhibited at this theatre under the title of "The Gay Lord Waring." J. Warren Kerrigan plays the role of a spendthrift scion of English nobility, who goes through a series of wild adventures in his ceaseless efforts to obtain money to gratify his penchant for high living. One of the most exciting scenes—and realistic, too—is the burning of a house and the rescue of two people by the hero of the story. Theatrical device is heightened by every device known to the craft. As flames consume a handsome residence, great crowds stand around excitedly suggesting means to aid the imprisoned people; others form bucket brigades and dash into the smoke-filled house in an effort to quench the fire. Meanwhile nothing is done until Lord Waring appears upon the scene, and then things happen. In addition to Monday's show, we will have the ever-popular Burton Holmes travelogue and other interesting photoplays. Starting Monday, June 5, matinee will start 3 p. m., excepting Saturdays and holidays, when performances will begin at 2 p. m. This is for the summer months only. Always a good bill at the Astor, the house of first run Paramount, Bluebird and other Broadway features.

.' Plainfield Theatre. '.

A patriotic conception entitled "The War Babies' Revue" comes to the Plainfield Theatre this afternoon as the headline attraction for the new bill, to hold the boards during the first half of the week. Sixteen talented artists, most of them of the "chicken" variety, make up the company which will present this offering, which is described as "war scenes set to song and dance." Special scenery, beautiful costumes and other accessories, such as only Joe Woods, the producer, knows how to place in a stage picture, makes a delightful background for the action. Because of the many solo parts and pretty ensemble numbers the act runs nearly a full hour, but every moment of it is chock full of action and delightful entertainment.

Beside the "War Babies' Revue," four other acts will be on the new bill, each one of them the very best of its kind and selected from the best talent appearing at New York's vaudeville houses. Photoplays will be a feature of the program every day. Manager Shannon has contracted with one of the costliest agencies in the country for its first run of pictures, and they will be shown exclusively at the Plainfield Theatre.

Amateur night will again be observed Wednesday night as usual, and those who were present last week, or any other week for that matter, know what fun is in store. The attempt of the amateurs to do their little stunt always proves a positive "scream," and any patron of the Plainfield Theatre not getting his money's worth, can have it returned by application at the box office. The serial film, "The Iron Claw," is shown at the Plainfield every Thursday, and the other successful serial, "The Strange Case of Mary Page," is presented every Friday.

BUY AIRSHIP FOR BORDER.

Record Breaking Machine to Guard New Mexico.

New York, May 22.—The aeroplane that broke all records by flying from Newport News to the Sheepshead Bay speedway in four hours and one minute has been bought by the Aero club and will be armed with a two pound gun and presented to the New Mexico national guard to patrol the border air lanes as protection against Mexican bandit raids.

An expert aviator will be sent to the border with the machine. Victor Carlstrom and Stevenson Magordon, who drove the machine in Saturday's flight, have offered to fly it to the border in much less time than shipping would take, but lack of gasoline stations along the route probably will prevent.

TO RUSH MEASURE FOR MORE REVENUE

Government Needs Additional Sum of $150,000,000.

Washington, May 22.—Having definitely shaped the administration's preparedness policy in the army and navy bills the Democratic leaders of the house during the present week will cap their labors by drafting the final and in many respects the most troublesome measure in the legislative program, the revenue bill.

It is estimated that $150,000,000 of additional revenue must be raised to pay for the army and navy increases and to meet the running expenses of the government. The army bill is ready for the president's signature. A naval bill will be reported to the house this week. The latter measure must also run the gantlet of the senate. Republican members of the house naval committee will bring in a minority report and carry the fight to the floor of the chamber.

Democratic leaders in congress, however, do not expect that the bill will be materially modified, although the senate is disposed to lay greater stress on the navy than the house.

Legislation has progressed to such a point that the majority leaders of both houses are now beginning to speculate on the possibility of a comparatively early adjournment.

And All the Plants Became Big Trees.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

Ole Shuteyes Smartens Up Little Halmar's Room.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

THE children clapped their hands and cried, "A story, daddy!"

So he sat down in his big chair, and this is what he told them:

"One night after a little boy, Halmar, had been tucked snugly in his bed and his mother had turned out the light and gone away Ole Lukoie softly crept in and sat down on the edge of the bed.

"'Just listen!' he whispered. 'But first of all I'll smarten things up a bit.' He held out his wand, and all the plants in the window pots became big trees. Their branches stretched right up to the ceiling and along the walls, so that Halmar's bedroom looked just like an arbor. The branches were covered with flowers, and the flowers were more beautiful than roses. They smelled very sweet, too, and if you tried to eat them they tasted better than jam. The fruit shone like bright gold, and there were buns bursting with plums.

"All at once the most miserable grumbles came from the table drawer where Halmar's schoolbooks were kept. 'What's the matter?' whispered Ole Lukoie, going to the drawer.

"It was the slate groaning and writhing about because there was a wrong figure in the sum upon it. The pencil was hopping and skipping at the end of its string, just as if it were a little dog trying to do the sum, but not able to. Then Halmar's copybook was complaining between its covers. There was a row of capital letters down each leaf, with a little one beside it. Next them were letters that imagined they looked like the copy, but were written by Halmar. They looked almost as if they had tumbled down when they ought to have been upright.

"'See how you ought to hold yourselves!' said the headlines, pointing to the copy.

"'Oh, we should so much like to,' cried Halmar's letters, 'but we're so crooked we can't!'

"'Then you shall have a dose of medicine!' cried Ole Shuteyes.

"'Oh, we don't like medicine!' the letters told him. And they stood up as straight as they could, being made crooked.

"'We can't have any stories while you are so crooked,' Ole told them. 'I must drill those crooked letters—one, two; one, two'

"So he drilled Halmar's letters till they stood up stiffer than any headlines. But when Ole Lukoie went away and Halmar woke up the next morning, there the letters stood in his copybook, crooked as ever."

"I believe Halmar couldn't write any better than I can," said Evelyn

Marrying a Butterfly

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

In Which a Stormy Evening Has a More or Less Pleasant Ending.

"Ethel, I saw the maid scraping the butter left on the plates, but I Don't you ever watch her to see she does not waste? You might do at least that much to cut down expenses," grumbled Ralph Gordon as he sat smoking in the dining room. The maid had just gone out with a tray.

"She asked me what to do with the the butteer left on the plates, but I did not see what it could be used for. Why do you take more on your plate than you can use?" Ethel was watering the ferns in the bay window.

"Mother always used the buter in cooking. We have bread and butter plates and spreaders. I do not think the butter is badly contaminated. Our butter bill is more than it used to be at home with a family of five," continued Ralph discontentedly.

"I have noticed that Maggie uses more than Minnie did, but I supposed she knew what it would take to make the food good. She certainly is a good cook."

"If the mistress of the home knows nothing of economy, and cares even less, I suppose one must not expect the maid to trouble herself about keeping expenses down," interrupted Ralph.

Ethel set the watering pot down on the window seat with a despairing gesture.

"Ralph Gordon, have you begun on my extravagance again?" she asked desperately. "Because if you have I will run away before I will listen to you."

"You will not need to; I'll go myself," he replied grimly, rising and going into the hall for his hat.

Once on the street alone, Ralph took himself violently to task. He had vowed that he never would use that tone when speaking to his wife again and he had used it. He had felt the faultfinding tone coming; had said, "Remember marriage is largely a matter of the right tone." Then he had forthwith used the wrong one. His head ached and the cool night air was grateful to it. His resentment against his wife for her utter lack of practical ability flamed up as he walked along, and he thought of all the ways in which his temper was tried. "And she doesn't care; she positively doesn't care how hard she makes it for me. She seems to think marriage brings no responsibilities." It was inexcusable, and he had a just right to be indignant.

Ralph walked rapidly for an hour or more from one end to the other of the sleepy little town. When he had reached his own door he had conquered his irritation, but his head ached and a dark uncertainty brooded over the future. As he opened the door Ethel came running to meet him, and, throwing her arms around his neck, said, half sobbing.

"Oh, where have you been? I have been so lonesome.

"I have a bad headache and thought a walk would do it good," he answered, laying his cheek on her golden hair. "I must get to bed, for tomorrow is a hard day for me."

She fluttered about him in sympathetic trouble, and when he had lain down, stole to his side and laid a compress on his hot temples. It felt cool and grateful. The pessimism about marriage lifted. He determined to succeed in marriage. The light was turned off for his comfort, and he could hear Ethel softly stealing about the room getting ready for bed. Finally she bent over him, a vague whiteness in the gloom, and kissed him good-night. Marriage seemed good after all.

The games played Saturday were all marked by heavy hitting and scoring, the T. A. B. S. leading in this latter art. The Netherwood team retained a firm grip on first place, while the Baptists remained "runners-up."

The T. A. B. S. boosted their stock considerably by walloping the Hopes, while the Farmers were forced to bow before the Baptist onslaught. The Clinton Avenue team has still to strike its stride, as it was "easy money" for the East Enders on Saturday.

NOT EVEN AT THEIR BEST ON TUBER LOT

Farmers Entertain Baptists in Potato Field But Go Down to Defeat.

One would think that the Farmers, playing on a field that shortly will resolve itself into a potato patch, would be able to hand the Baptists the beating of their lives, but such was not the case on Saturday, when the Baptists were the aggressors in a 6 to 3 contest.

The Firsts started right out to make things lively and they succeeded admirably. In the very first canto, "Curly" Taylor, who had walked registered on a hit by Elwood Waller. Elwood then participated in a little "catch me if you can" stunt and was run down on the paths. Compton hit to Anderson, who fumbled, but "Comp," in endeavoring to pilfer second, failed to realize that Morley was in the game. Terry fanned the ozone. The first inning did not end the Baptist scoring, however, as Gawler started a little revolution of his own in the next session. He lifted to Campbell, who fumbled the fly. Dan Randolph, who has been doing bench duty, cracked out a nifty double and Gawler romped home. Eric Van Norden took a tumble after three wide ones and retired, only to see Banks ground weakly to the pitcher. It looked as though Daniel would have to consider himself stranded on the sacks, but Patterson came along and with him came that "ole single." Duncan failed to count on the existence of Campbell, and he, like one of his pals, was a victim of oversight. The three other Baptist tallies came as results of hits and were well earned.

The Farmers in the first place, could not hit the ball, although had they all been as able in this respect as Campbell, the score would have been a little different. Campbell clouted out a homer with two down and none on in the ninth. The clout was a vicious one but, as Campbell says, "what good did it do." Friel and Billy Ryan were the only other Farmers to connect with Patterson's pills, which, according to the score, were by no means sugar-coated.

REGULAR BIG LEAGUE STUFF PULLED HERE

Something was radically wrong with the Hope Chapel baseball team on Saturday, when the outfit suffered a "terrible" defeat at the hands of the Abstainers, the score being 12 to 6. While the battle was uninteresting from some viewpoints, it did produce a few thrills and although swamped with errors was, nevertheless, productive of some fast fielding.

Everything that goes to make up a big league game was had on Saturday. Even Umpire Hansen showed his authority by banishing "Shakey" Clarke for a remark made after he had been called out at third. The decision was a very close one and did not meet with the approval of some of the fans. Clark, encouraged by the attitude of his friends, voiced a sentiment in a harmless way and went about his business. The ump., however, decided that "Shakey" had better refrain from diamond endeavors for the rest of the afternoon. Nothing further was said or done, but his "umps" gained a victory. It might be said that Hansen's work was good and few other kicks were made on his decisions.

The battle started with a rush. Arthur Walls hit to Benny Rosenson, who failed to throw to first in time to catch the fleet Chapelite. Jaeger followed with an easy infield tap which no one gathered up. "Wiggy" Van Zandt also tapped an easy grounder which no one noticed. With the bases occupied the outs of the next three men were enough to drag across two tallies, a passed ball having occurred during the process of retiring the trio. Fairly bubbling over with the "pep" they had instilled into themselves in the first frame, the Chapelites sallied forth in the initial canto to retire their opponents without a run. This play they followed in the second frame and sought to follow in the fatal third. But, alas, their intentions were not well-directed. Jack Denny, the first Tab man to bat in the third canto, singled, but Tone Denny's best endeavors resulted in a sacrifice, which was, by the way, good enough for any pitcher to produce in a pinch. "Alias" Smith, the best catcher in the City League, walked, but Clarke fanned. The horizon certainly was dim and it looked as though both Denny and Smith would be left stranded on the bags. But such was not the case. Tony Denitzio hit to Van Zandt, who fumbled and the bags were loaded. Miller tried to tighten up, but Benny Rosenson decreed otherwise and sent a smashing double to centre, clearing the sacks. Lou Dixon was safe on an error and Miller walked Billy O'Loughlin. McCarthy's single was responsible for some more tallies and before Jack Denny grounded for the third out, a total of six runs had been accounted for. The game had not been won, but a damper had been put upon the fervor of the fans and the additional six runs gathered in by the victors attracted only the usual attention. The Hopes were harmless after the first session, although they awoke in the final round and pushed over four runs.

The real reason assigned for the Hope defeat centers about the eight errors made by that team.

The feature of the game was Van Zandt's hurried exit in the last canto. It was necessary for Britt Martin to call on Scott for his choice of a pinch-hitter. Jim decreed that Henny Alberts, a mere onlooker, was good enough, and Henny just closed his eyes, swung, and Hope tallied.

HARNEY NO ENIGMA TO EAST END TEAM

Netherwood Leaguers Keep Slate Clean by Beating Clintons.

The importation of Percy Harney, the former Bound Brook masterpiece, failed to result in a win for the Clintonians Saturday, inasmuch as they were forced to be satisfied with the lower end of a 7 to 3 score. The Netherwood team clouted the ball all over the West End and made Harney wish he had remained in Bound Brook.

The game was a hitting fest from start to finish, seven two-baggers and one triple being among the 26 clouts registered. Eddie Coughlin was the leading man with the willow, being credited with four safe blows out of as many trips to the plate. Eddie Hannon, the Bound Brook demon, gathered three safe blows, while the "Ironsides" of the losers annexed two wallops apiece.

The star of the game was Russ Stewart, who, although he was reached for eleven safe blows, was invincible in the pinches and held his opponents safe. The Netherwood scoring was done in the fifth, sixth seventh and ninth frames, hits in rapid succession causing the trouble.

Matty Couglin's triple was the longest hit of the game and was perhaps, the feature of one of the heaviest hitting frays ever recorded in City League annals.

WELL-PLAYED GAME LOST TO COLLEGIANS

Visiting Rutgers Boxman Held P. H. S. Batters to Two Safeties.

Beaten though they were, Plainfield High School's baseball artists played by far their best game of the season Saturday afternoon when they held the Rutgers Reserves to a 2 to 0 score on Parker Field.

All of the damage during the afternoon's pastiming was done by Robeson. In the second inning he hit the first offering of Hutchcroft's out to left field for a slashing two-bagger, and came home with the first counter when Sprague grounded to the pitcher's box. Again in the fourth frame he sent a whistling three-sacker through right field that nearly topped the fence for a home run and came home on Sprague's single. That was the only time in the nine innings that P. H. S. allowed the boys from the banks of the Raritan to get two hits in succession, and when the day's totals were tallied up it was found that "Hutch" had held the collegians to four hits. Wittpenn held the locals to two hits and fanned eleven.

Besides all being second-string varsity men, the fellows that played on the Reserves have in a number of cases won fame on the gridiron. Robeson is probably best known locally, as he is the giant negro that ripped the Blue-and-Red line to pieces when he was playing on the Somerville High School team two years ago. He is now a Rutgers linesman. Also there was Scarr, in centre field, who is captain-elect of next year's football eleven. Wittpenn, Wilkens and several others are also football men.

In nearly any other schoolboy game Hutchcroft would have come away with a win. Although he did not do it all himself, his performance in passing but two men, both intentionally, is worthy of mention when heretofore the average has been a dozen a game. For the first time, too, he could rely on the fielding. Only one error was made and that on a difficult chance to Linke at short. Semer, a new man on second, made some great stops, while Victorson, back at his old stand at the difficult corner for the first time this year, handled everything that came his way.

PLAINFIELD HIGH PLAYING BETTER BASEBALL.

When Plainfield High School baseball players stacked up against a bunch of Rutgers College reserves on Parker Field Saturday afternoon the localites displayed the best brand of baseball they have served up this season. Facing a batch of athletes who have been drilled in baseball by authorities on the pastime the Plainfielders put up a brand of competition in the field, at the bat and on the bases that was decidedly above their established par and raised a streak of optimism among their following. If the Red and Blue players had played the same calibre of baseball against North Plainfield a week previous a far different tale would have been going the rounds now. At any rate the result of Saturday's creditable showing should spur the city schoolboys on to further efforts and the major portion of their following already foresees an evening up in the interscholastic series at the next start.

AN OLD FAVORITE IN A NEW UNIFORM.

Plainfield High School athletes were noticeably surprised Saturday afternoon to find Robeson, the big colored youth who formerly starred for Somerville High School, sporting Rutgers regalia. Not only did he wear the uniform but he was the leading light on the visiting side. As in the days when he led the Somerville attack Robeson got his old stick aworking and his willow efforts were the brilliant features of the game Saturday. He is a remarkable baseball player and is sure to be heard from in varsity circles before he completes the course he has selected at the New Brunswick college.

CAN'T SEEM TO SHAKE UP THE CITY LEAGUERS.

After another week-end series we have the same clubs occupying the same rungs in the City Baseball League standing ladder. The big question now confronting us is "when will Netherwood lose and when will Clinton Avenue win?" The East Enders are firmly settled on the top rung and the West Enders are equally as sure of their cellar berth. Saturday's contests all savored of good baseball and the Netherwoods were forced to do some clever playing to hold tight to their untarnished record. That the Clintons will come to life in the near future is the belief of the other leaguers and they will probably be reckoned with when the awards are being distributed.

PASSED UP A CHANCE TO WIN LAURELS.

Giving the records established in the Princeton Club meet at Newark Saturday afternoon the once-over, we notice several marks that could have been bettered by athletes claiming residence and schooling qualifications right in our own city. Just why the P. H. S. track team was not entered in the Newark classic is a mystery for the records already set up by several of the local performers are considerably better than those slated Saturday afternoon. Just another opportunity slipped past.

UMPIRE SIGNAL SYSTEM IS GROWING.

A few years ago signals between umpires was practically unknown. This year the system is advanced to almost the proportions of the baseball team signals. Umpires must work in harmony, and often, very often, one umpire makes a decision on a play that the other umpire has ruled on. The umpire at the plate must rule on whether a ball is caught or not in the outfield. On a trapped ball this is difficult. This year the field umpire has been instructed to pay particular attention to trapped balls. He forgets the base runner and gets as close to the fielder as possible, on a close play of that kind. He immediately flashes a signal to the umpire at the plate and the latter makes the ruling, even though it is possible he did not see the play, on account of players running between him and the ball. In some of the parks, especially right field in New York, it is practically impossible for a plate umpire to see the ball after it leaves the bat. A hit to right field is difficult to judge, even from first base, as at times it looks like it hits into the stands and bounces out; other times like it hits the wall, when in fact it has gone into the stands. Yet the plate umpire must rule on the plays. Plays at third base are left very largely to the signal system, too.

GIANTS MAKING GOOD THE PREDICTIONS.

The prediction was made before the Giants went West that McGraw would take a big brace as soon as he hit that territory. The Polo ground crew won but two out of 15 contests in the East, but have cleaned up seven straights after hitting the West. Philadelphia has just walloped the Reds four straights. The series at St. Louis since the eastern invasion have shown more eastern strength. Truly the Oriental division of the league is the class. More and more it looks like the circuit will be evenly divided at the finish, with the East occupying the first four berths and the West following in the second division. New York has a great ball club. The pitchers were out of shade to start the season, but are showing class now, and the fellows are hitting behind the pitchers. The Giants hit in the East, too, but fell down on account of the hurling. New York is easily a first division team, just the way it looms up now. Incidentally, in the American League the East seems to have the monopoly on good clubs, even the Philadelphia Americans showing indications of starting something worth while for opponents to worry about.

Queries--Comment--Answers

Query—Why doesn't the Daily Press run a bicycle column each day? It seems that all of the other sports are given more attention than this one.—L. J.

Answer—Cycling as a sport has been practically dead around Plainfield for several years past but now that it appears to be coming into its own once again we may be able to supply you with enough daily dope to satisfy you and other cycling enthusiasts.

D. F.—Your question is too general. State your desire plainly and it will be answered in these columns.—Editor.

Query—What steps are necessary to enter the aviation school on Long Island? Could a Plainfielder enter this school and take up aviation with a view to securing a pilot's license?—S. C.

Answer—The school at Garden City is conducted by the government. You had better pay a personal visit to the aviation grounds and the officers in charge will supply you with the information desired.

Query—Kindly give the record number of miles per day for forced march in wartime? Give the average rate of marching.—H. G.

Answer—The average rate of marching is three and one half or three and five-eighths miles per hour and a "forced march" is one of twenty miles or over or one during which the troops are on foot seven hours or more. Statistics of record marches have not been found.

Query—Where did the name New Jersey come from? What is the State nick-name and the nick-name applied to the inhabitants?—K. Y.

WOULD HAVE STATE SPEND ROAD MONEY

Commissioner Stevens Prefers This System in Case Bill Becomes Law.

Prospects of the enactment into law of the Bankhead road bill, which provides a $75,000,00 Federal appropriation, is arousing conjecture as to how each State will fare in the distribution and the method of expenditure. Colonel Edwin A. Stevens State Commissioner of Public Roads, favors State control of the expenditures in each State.

The bill, as it was passed by the United States Senate, simply provides that general outline—the method of apportionment and expenditure with the co-operation of the State highway departments, providing the State pays one-half the cost of the work and guarantees the maintenance of the roads. The details are left to the Secretary of Agriculture to work out.

The proposed division of the $75,000,000 bond issue is:

One-third in the ratio which the area of each State bears to the total area of all States; one-third in the ratio which the population of each State bears to the population of all the States, as shown by the latest available Federal census; one-third in the ratio which the mileage of rural delivery routes and star routes in each State bears to the total mileage of rural delivery routes and star routes in all the States. The appropriations would be strung out as follows: Five million dollars for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917; $10,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918; $15,000,000 for 1919; $20,000,000 for 1920; $25,000,000 for 1921.

New Jersey's share will not amount to a great deal for several years, if the bill becomes a law, but it will be watched and studied by the Governor's committee and will be taken into consideration in the campaign which it is proposed to conduct for the Egan bill $7,000,00 bond issue.

REO

On the Subject of— Commercial Integrity

THE REO FOLK BELIEVE—have always believed and from the first have based the Reo Policy on the belief—that ultimate supremacy in the automobile industry will redound to that concern that has the most scrupulously fulfilled its obligations to its customers.

IT MATTERS NOT whether those obligations are assumed in writing or merely implied in transactions as between man and man—the Reo Folk hold them as sacred.

IF THERE IS ANY REASON—aside from the inherent quality and value of Reo cars—for the splendid Reo success, it is to be found in the reputation Reo has for making good its guarantee.

OF COURSE YOU KNOW—all the world knows—that the Reo Motor Car Company is financially one of the strongest automobile companies in the world.

AND YOU KNOW that it is also one of the pioneers in the industry—so that financial strength is not due to lucky chance nor to a brief period of prosperity.

REO STANDING—financially and in the hearts of buyers—is the result of a policy firmly founded in the beginning and consistently carried out through a long period of years.

BUT ALL THAT WOULD NOT MATTER if the heart of Reo were not sound.

IT WOULD NOT MATTER how much money there was back of the Reo guarantee if there were not also Reo Integrity and Reo Good Intent.

THAT IS WHY, knowing the Reo Folk and their ideals, you'll feel safer in selecting a Reo than any other car of similar size or price class.

SPEAKING OF SIZE—do you realize what a big, as well as beautiful car is that New Reo Six?

IT'S A FULL SEVEN-PASSENGER CAR—126-inch wheelbase and on cantilever springs, giving the fullest passenger space and the utmost in luxurious qualities.

DEMAND IS TREMENDOUS—and output of this 7-passenger Six is limited. So if you'd have the most luxurious equipage and the sweetest running car the Reo Folk have ever turned out, your order should be in our hands at once. Today won't be a minute too soon.

Expert Advice For the Automobile Owner

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

There is a knock in the engine of my car, which has been run only about 300 miles. This knock takes place when the car is running slowly on direct or when the throttle is being opened and the car picking up. It seems to occur about every two revolutions of the crank shaft. Can you tell me what is the matter and the remedy?

From the information you give the motor is evidently suffering from a connecting rod knock. It is impossible to say whether the knock is due to side play or bearing looseness. Another possibility is that the motor has a piston slap which occurs at every explosion stroke. It sometimes happens that practically all the bearing of a piston is taken upon one ring. The result is that the piston oscillates about this ring, which gives rise to a slap audible every two revolutions. Since you have had the car such a short time you can no doubt get it repaired by the manufacturer.

How can one tell whether the height of level in the splash system is correct?

The oil level in a splash system can generally be determined by a riser gauge mounted on one side of the crank case. The level in the troughs is generally governed automatically, and if the oil is of sufficient depth in the pan to give a feed to the pump the oil in the troughs will be correct. If the motor smokes it is sometimes an indication that the level is too high in the crank case; but, as a rule, the splash level is worked out in the factory and need not be touched by the driver.

My motor misses when idling and when driving on high in different cylinders at less than twelve miles per hour, causing a very bad jerky motion, apparently in the rear universal. Have had the valves ground recently and there is fairly even compression. The ignition seems to be all right and no change in the carburetor seems to help it. There are apparently no air leaks and the car operates well when the motor has to pull. Can you tell me what is the matter?

The motor missing may be due to loose connections in ignition wiring, broken conductors, breaker point burned out, dirty or improperly adjusted; valves not seating properly, dirt or water in gasoline, spark plug points improperly adjusted or not set deeply enough in the valve caps, weak battery, valve spring weak or broken, mixture too rich or too lean, particles of carbon under the valves, defective spark plugs due to cracked porcelains or other causes, air leaks around the intake manifold, valve stem guides, valve caps, spark plugs or petcocks; valve lifts improperly adjusted and many other minor causes. A good order of procedure would be to take the simplest points of the above list and go through those, checking them off, and then go into the more complicated causes.

The distributer contact should be carefully examined to see that good contact is being made and especially that all the contacts are clean. In case the valves are not seating properly and the valves have been reground lately examine the valve seat in the cylinder to see if it has become deeply pitted. It is sometimes necessary to take a light cut off the valve seat in the cylinder before proper seating can be secured.

Can you give me some reasons as to the cause of my motor overheating very quickly? I have to continually fill the radiator with water.

Your loss of water is due to evaporation, caused by the motor overheating. Possibly the cylinders are heavily carbonized. This carbon, forming a coat on the inner walls of the cylinders, prevents the proper cooling of the motor by the water. The hose connections between radiator and motor may be clogged with dirt or possibly the propeller is loose on the shaft. If so the water will not circulate and an overheated motor is the result. Drive with your spark advanced as much as possible. This will help to keep your motor cool and also give you additional power.

I am troubled with explosions in the muffler of my car. Have ground in the valves and have tried adjusting the carburetor and valves without effect. I get the explosion whenever I cut down the gas and particularly in going down hill. Am using an exhaust horn. Would this have any effect upon it?

The only reason for getting an explosion in the muffler is that an unburned charge has found its way into this part of the car. This means that the cylinders are not firing regularly and consequently that there is trouble with the functioning in either the carburetion or ignition. It would be well to examine the spark plug points and see if they are not too far apart and also to adjust the carburetor so that the motor fires regularly on all four cylinders. The exhaust horn has nothing whatever to do with the muffler explosions, which are due to the fact that an unburned charge escapes into the muffler, to be followed by a hot exhaust, which explodes the unburned charge in the muffler.

Is alcohol a good carbon remover? How should it be used?

Alcohol is a good carbon remover and for the purpose can be used in its denatured state, which is more economical and just as good. You should use five or six tablespoonfuls at one time. The best way of applying is to use a sort of squirt gun composed of a rubber bulb in which there is a long, thin nozzle which can be directed against the walls of the combustion chamber and down on the piston head through a spark plug opening. This can be easily made and should have such a bend in it that it will be easy to insert into the opening for the spark plug and at the same time will be so shaped that the stream of liquid can be directed against any of the likely spots for carbon.

Carbon deposits are likely to accumulate in pockets and recesses of the cylinders and also on the piston heads. Sometimes on motors which have been allowed to go for a long time without having the carbon removed it is deposited in a conical shaped mass on the head of the piston, and very often the tip of the cone becomes incandescent and serves to preignite the incoming charge, thus giving rise to the so called carbon knock. Other places for carbon cones to form are in the top of the combustion chamber and in the recesses above the valve ports. The ports themselves, which are swept by the incoming and outgoing gases, are most often quite free from any but a soft deposit.

In using denatured alcohol some people mix it half and half with kerosene. Together they form a solvent of the resinous material, which acts as a binder for the particles of carbon, which in themselves are incapable of cohesion. When this binding material is dissolved the carbon forms into its natural flakes or scales and can be easily removed. Sometimes after the carbon has been loosened it is necessary to blow out the cylinders so as to remove the carbon flakes and prevent them from again solidifying and becoming a hard carbon deposit. It is a good idea to clean one cylinder at a time and then run the motor afterward with the petcock of the clean cylinder open. This blows out the flakes of carbon which have accumulated, due to the action of the solvent upon the resinous binding material, and leaves the cylinder clean. Another method which has been used successfully in introducing either denatured alcohol or kerosene into the cylinders is to feed it into the air intake of the carburetor while the motor is running. The motor will have to be running at quite high speed when this is done, as it will stall as soon as it starts to sputter when the rich kerosene mixture begins to be drawn into the cylinders. The suction of the motor draws the kerosene into the cylinders. There is some debate, however, as to whether or not this method is actually as good as the introduction of the liquid into the cylinder itself when the motor is not running.

Cleaning a cylinder with alcohol has its best effects immediately after the motor has come in from a trip and is still warm. At this time a portion of the liquid injected into the cylinders is vaporized, and the vapor of kerosene or denatured alcohol is an effective solvent of the carbon binding material. The best way of carrying through the work would be to lift the hood as soon as the motor comes in from a run and then turn the crank until two of the cylinders are on top center with all valves closed. When this is done these two cylinders should be treated with the liquid, which is squirted in through the improvised gun. The motor is then left standing overnight with the alcohol in the combustion chambers of the two cylinders treated. The two remaining cylinders, if it is a four, are treated in the same manner at the next opportunity. Some people inject about a teaspoonful of kerosene or denatured alcohol into the priming cup after each trip.

In which type of axle is the wheel most likely to come off in case of accident or breakage? Will the wheel come off if the axle is broken on a three-quarter floating?

In the semifloating axle, should the shaft break in the middle, the wheel will come off in a short time, while in the floating it will take a longer period. In a three-quarters floating axle the wheel is more likely to come off than in a floating, because the shaft is rigidly attached to the wheel hub.

Is the power of a gasoline motor usually rated on the speed of piston travel or revolutions of crank shaft?

The standard rating is based on a piston speed of 1,000 feet per minute.

In the average life of a motor how many times must carbon be burned out?

This will depend entirely upon the condition of the motor. Some motors with leaky rings become so full of carbon after three or four hundred miles that they start to pound and preignite to such an extent that they cannot be efficiently operated.

YOU CAN ALMOST TALK TO HER —THIS 3400 r. p. m. CHALMERS

They're buying motor cars today as they're hiring men—on ability.

Blue eyes, brown hair, a rugged jaw, mean something—but not so much as they used to.

They're seeking ability. And that is not always measured in stature, weight and reach.

Likewise in a car. They look her over, learn her wheelbase, note the tire sizes, ask the bore and stroke of the engine and then—

They make her perform.

They make her hit the trail, they roll her up the stiffest hill. They let her out on the straightaway, and they make her accelerate at slow speeds.

It's the only way to judge a car. And we're particularly glad, because we have in the 3400 r.p.m. Chalmers a car that answers every human wish.

You can almost talk to this animal. You can lead her anywhere. We know of no one who has ever called on her for too much, nor asked of her anything she couldn't deliver.

She's like a young ballplayer who keeps driving 'em over the right-field fence.

She's there. And the reason is her magnificent 3400 r. p. m. engine. When history in our business is written, 3400 r. p. m. will occupy a thick chapter.

Simply because at the lowest speeds she saves her energy, turns up only 500 r. p. m. at 10 miles an hour, and 1000 r. p. m. at 20 miles an hour.

Thus using only 18 per cent of her power at such speeds and saving 62 to 80 per cent for winding, hilly roads, bad turns, and on occasions when a little extra power gives you possession of the road.

One ride of five miles behind the wheel and you'll own it.

Ask your dealer about Chalmers service inspection coupons, negotiable at all Chalmers dealers everywhere. This system is a most important consideration in buying your car.

BUILDING AUTO FOR BIG RACING EVENTS

Plainfield Daredevils Will Pilot Car of Their Own Make in Track Classics.

Joe Jackson and Frank Frazee, two local automobile drivers, are building a racing car in the garage of Miller & Jackson on West Front street, to participate in the matinee automobile race meet to be held at Olympic Park, Newark, Decoration Day. In last year's meet at this park Jackson drove a Coreja special and made an excellent showing against a classy field. Engine trouble, however, caused him to withdraw from several of the races and he has concluded to enter a car of his own design this year.

The machine now in the course of construction will probably not be finished before the day of the race and the drivers will have very little opportunity to accustom themselves to it. It will be one of the speediest in this section and both drivers are optimistic of their chances against the best auto dare devils in the country who have entered the meet.

Both have had considerable experience and with a good car will probably land in the money. Following the Decoration Day meet they will compete at Sheepshead Bay on June 4 against one of the classiest fields ever brought together for an affair of this nature.

PLAINFIELD MOTORISTS INTERESTED IN ROAD FETE

Motorcyclists throughout New Jersey, including members of the Plainfield Motorcycle Club, are manifesting interest in the decorated parade of the New Jersey Motorcycle Club, which will be held in Newark on Saturday afternoon, June 17, in conjunction with the 250th anniversary celebration. Walter D. Ker, chairman of the parade committee, announced at a meeting of the club on Tuesday night that more than a score of entries had been received up to that time.

Among the contestants in the various prize divisions will be members of the Yonkers Motorcycle Club, Arrow Motorcycle Club of Jersey City, Haledon Motorcycle Club, Hackensack Motorcycle Club, and the Indian Motorcycle Club, of New Brunswick. All riders, whether competitors or not, in the prize divisions will be requested to decorate their cars. The anniversary colors will be used in the decoration. The New York Sporting Goods Company will enter a car in the division for rear cars.

WESTFIELD DRIVER AGAIN ENTERS NEWARK RACES

Amateur automobile racing men will have an incentive to start in the time trials at the Memorial Day automobile racing meet at Olympic Park, Newark. Manager T. B. Shoemaker, who has charge of the racing program, has announced that the silver cup, the prize for the amateur event, will be of elaborate design, about two feet high.

Joe Dickinson, the Westfield boy, who cleaned up in the races held on the Newark track last summer, Saturday entered his speedy Stutz for all of the races on the card.

The track is almost ready for the cars. The overhauling of the course was practically completed Saturday. Tuesday the oiling will start. The guard rails about the track have been placed. The one on the first turn has been constructed so the first will not be able to take such a wide sweep there.

The grandstand is receiving an overhauling as well as the track. The top tiers have been strengthened and new studding has been placed under the stand.

"HEAVEN"

Sermon by the Rev. William E. Biederwolf at the Tabernacle Saturday Evening.

If you would ask me why I know there is such a place as heaven, I would give you five reasons:

First. Because the human soul has always longed for such a place. You can go as far back as history will take you and find that that is true.

Now I don't believe God would plant in the soul a universal longing like that without making some provision for its realization.

If I knew I was going to be annihilated or had to go to hell I never would want to leave this world. I don't anyhow; I'd like to stay here a thousand years; I'm getting along fine. But when the times comes and I have to die I want something better and bigger in every way, and if I can only know that this longing of mine is going to be satisfied, then it don't make so much difference when I go whether I live a thousand years or die before the whistle blows tomorrow morning.

Second. Because the human soul has always felt there was such a place. That's the instinct of heaven that God planted in every soul.

Like the little boy flying his kite, and the kite was out of sight and some one asked him where it was and he pointed up into the skies. And they asked him how he knew it and he said: "I know it is there because I can feel it tug." And in some such way as that I know there is a heaven because I feel the pull of it, the tug of it in my soul.

Third. Because the human soul needs just such a place as heaven. The best developments of this life are only fragmentary and the soul needs another life in order to go on to perfection.

Fourth. Because justice demands a place like heaven. Things are not fixed up right down here. God had it that way in the first place, but man, like the fool he has always been, mixed himself in and upset the whole thing. The whole business is out of balance and if all the heaven a man gets and all the hell a man gets he gets right here on earth, as some of these sordid-minded, sin-loving, non compos mentis moral perverts claim, I'd like to know where justice comes in.

Fifth. And then in the last place which is really the first place, I believe there is such a place as heaven because God says there is. The whole Bible is full of it; and to doubt it for one second is to impeach divine wisdom, divine love and God's omnipotence.

Good Reasons Enough.

Some people say: "Don't talk so much about heaven; give us something practical." But I guess if Jesus talked so much about it we have a right to preach one sermon about it. Jesus said: "I go to prepare a place for you." He said: "In my father's house are many mansions." It says in Hebrews: "We have no continuing city, but we seek one to come." He says: "Rejoice that your names are written in heaven."

And so I guess these five reasons ought to be enough to persuade us that there is a heaven."

And now you want to know something about it, and I am going to tell you. I am not going to tell you what I know about it. I could tell you a great deal that way, I suppose. In fact, I could tell you all about it because the follow who don't know is always the one who can tell the most. Paul was caught up into heaven you know, and he found it impossible to express what he saw, but one man who has never been there, it's dead easy for him; he can just throw open the door and let you see the whole thing, he'll rake the door clear off the hinges for you.

Fancy and imagination and speculation don't amount to anything here, but God has told us a great deal about heaven, and what He has revealed is worth our while to consider.

First. Heaven is a place. Jesus said: "I go to prepare a place for you." Cannon Farrar wrote a book once and called it "Eternal Hope." It's long on surmise and short on logic. He says: "Heaven is to be something rather than to go somewhere. Well, it is to be something, it's a condition—sure; it's a state of mind and heart, but's it's more. If Jesus went anywhere he must have gone somewhere. He couldn't go nowhere. Where is nowhere? Heaven is a place. O course you couldn't be in a place without being in a condition is more important than the place, and it would be better for a man to be in hell if he could keep the proper spirit in him there than to be in heaven and have the mind of the devil in him. Some of you wouldn't be fit for heaven if you did get in.

Second. Heaven is a prepared place. "I go to prepare a place for you."

No Lack of Space.

1. It's commodious. He's made it big enough. God's never embarrassed for want of space. When He made the universe He didn't use the earth and its moon as a model. Why this earth's so small it's a wonder God hasn't forgotten He ever made it. You can take an auger and bore a hole into the sun and pour 1,200,000 earths like this one into it and still have room for 4,900,000 moons to lie around the inside edge.

We talk about the sun being 93,000,000 miles away, and that's some distance, I know. I could go to the moon; I could walk to it in 29 years if I only walked 24 miles a day. But I couldn't go to the sun; if I'd charter the Pennsylvania limited and hit her off sixty miles an hour it would take me 177 years to get there. Some distance, you say, the sun is. Yes, but wait. In the evening you look out into the west and you behold the most beautiful object in the heavens. It is Venus. She travels around the sun at the rate of 79,000 miles an hour and makes her revolution in 225 days. Venus isn't very far away, only 159,000,000 miles. When I finish this sermon I could jump on a ray of light that travels you know 93,000 miles a second; say "Hello" to the man in the moon in one and one-half seconds; tip my hat in four hours to those wonderful people that you think live on Mars, but I don't, and be at Venus for 6:00 o'clock breakfast tomorrow morning, and back again her in time for the afternoon meeting. But Venus is just our next door neighbor.

Yonder in the southern sky is old Saturn with her rings that got old Galileo a going so. She is 770,000,000 miles from here at the nearest point. How fast does the shell of a 13-inch gun travel? Fifteen miles a minute. Well, if the modern Krupp gun could fire a projectile far enough at that rate it would take it 111 years to drop down on the shore of that far off prodigious luminary.

And then away out yonder, too far for the naked eye to see, is the outermost planet of the solar system, old Neptune. If I'd take an airship and sail 100 miles an hour it would take me 3,000 years to get to old Neptune with her satellite. It takes her 165 years to go around the sun.

You talk about the sun being far away, 93,000,000 miles. Yes, but the nearest star you ever saw in the sky is 275,000 times farther away than that. Alpha Centauri is the nearest star. The light you get from Alpha Centauri is four years old. It takes it that long to get here, traveling at the rate of 192,000 miles a second as all light does.

A Long Trip.

But Alpha Centauri isn't far away. The North Star is 14 times farther. When we get an inter-stellar aeroplane system in operation you can take the trip. Paying 2½ cents a mile it will cost you trillions of dollars (6,250,000,000,000,000) to go and making 100 miles an hour, which is dead easy for an airship, you could arrive at the union depot in 406,000,000 years.

But the North Star isn't far away. There are stars twelve thousand times farther.

Talk about space and talk about size. Say, if old Neptune just over the way a little piece, is 75 times larger than the earth and you can't see it unless you go to Chicago and board a train for Lake Geneva and point the powerful Yerkes telescope with its forty-inch diameter lense, the largest refracting telescope in the world, and look through it, then tell me how far do you suppose that beautiful star Lyra is that is 100,000 times farther away than Neptune and yet you can see it with your naked eye.

Who conceived all this and brought it into existence? God! God! God! It makes me so warm under the collar to hear some little puny infidel disputing about God and finding fault with God's plan of salvation and other things that come out of the divine mind.

God's got plenty of room. Billions have died and billions are here and billions are still to come and people say where is God going to put them all? He's got plenty of room.

2. Heaven is a beautiful place. God loves beauty or He wouldn't have put so much of it in this world. Who painted the butterfly's wing with all those gorgeous hues and threw around the evening sun her drapery of a thousand living colors? From whose pastel were the colors mixed that gave the rose its blushing charm and touched the lily with its dreamy white? Who taught the raindrop to take a ray of light from heaven's shining orb and pencil it on the sky in one huge arch of bewildering elegance? God did it all. He made everything beautiful, and only sin has marred it and in heaven you'll find God's beauty at its best.

3. And then heaven is a comfortable place. Wouldn't this be a grand old world if there weren't so many things in it that curse and blight and damn it? God might transfer His headquarters and bring His angels down if it wasn't for that. But in heaven all these things are known.

No Grinding Toil.

There won't be any grinding toil. No blasting furnace to swalter around in steel mills and iron works. No heavy burdens to carry on tired shoulders. No sweat shops, where poor widows toil in the foul air and dim light. The first thing you do when you are born is to cry and the last thing you do when you die is to groan, but "Earth has no sorrow that heaven cannot heal."

There'll be no sickness there; no suffering. Some of us when we suffer a little make such a fuss about it there's no living with us, but some people suffer all their lives through and live in a moving prison and it must be hard, but it will be over there. Listen, Rev. 21:5: "And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain."

"And there shall be no more death."

No gasping for breath and failing to get it. The cheeks will never turn ashen and the eyes will never set in glassy stare. There will be no crepe to hang on the door. The undertaker will not come and screw down the coffin lid and there will be no hearse to haul the sad journey to the grave. There will be no heart-breaking moment when the coffin is lowered and the clods fall down. But our dear ones whom we love so much and miss so much when they are gone will never die. What a place it must be! No wonder the inspired apostle cried, "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him."—I Cor. 2:9.

III. But then heaven is not only a prepared place, a place whose builder and maker is God, but it is a busy place.

But there's going to be something doing in heaven all the time.

(1) It's a place of intellectual activity. And you can learn as much there in a day as you can learn here in a life-time. You've been too poor to get an education down here or too stupid, but up there God'll give you one free and touch your dull mind into such intellectual acumen that you can grapple with all the infinite mysteries of the universe, a Mighty God, how we thank you!

(2) And then heaven is a place of social activity. Christ will be there and will be the first to greet you at the door. He redeemed you, blessed be His name, and He has a right to the first embrace.

Would Never Tire.

Some one asked Spurgeon what he expected to do when he got to heaven, and he said he would take one good look at Jesus for about five hundred years and then he might look around for some one else he knew and loved on earth. It seems to me I'd never get through looking for Jesus. And I'd say, "Jesus, I thank you for saving me and I wish I had been a better Christian. I thank you for having honored me and I wish I had been able to do it better; you know, Jesus, how many times I made a miserable failure of it. But say, Jesus, this is great."

I expect I'll go before my wife does. I'd live longer if I'd quit this terrible strain on my tired body and nerves every night; but I'd rather live ten years less and amount to something for God than to loll around like some of you do and die in disgrace with nothing in heaven to show for the time you spent.

Well, if I go before my wife, after I've seen Jesus, I know who I'll look for. It'll be my dear old mother. And I'll feel the touch of her blessed hand again on my cheek and hear her say, "My precious son, I'm so glad to see you; when did you come?"

And then, one glad hour the angels would announce the coming of a friend and after our first glorious greeting, I'd say, "Come on," and we'd go and sit down in some bright restful spot and I tell you we'd have enough to talk about.

"How is old Deacon N.?"

"Been dead for years."

"Strange he isn't here. He's had plenty of time to arrive; I made it myself in one-half minute all the way from Chicago."

Some one you know, people said that when we go to heaven there will be three surprises. First, to see some people there we did not expect to see. Second, not to see some people there we expect to see. And third, the greatest surprise of all, to find ourselves there. That third is not true; it would be to doubt the word of God and to slander the sacrifice of Jesus Christ in our behalf. "I know in whom I have believed and am persuaded" about this thing. I would be surprised if I found myself in hell but I've got my Lord's word about my heavenly inheritance, and when I get to heaven I don't expect to be surprised that Jesus has kept His word. But the other two surprises will be real enough.

SUNDAY MORNING.

The quartet sang "Behold Me Standing at the Door."

Mr. McEwan sang "There is a Green Hill Far Away."

Dr. Biederwolf preached a short sermon, and he had hardly gotten started when he said, "You see what difficulties I get into when I wear one of these stiff collars," ripping it open as he said so.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

There was a delegation of men from Metuchen yesterday afternoon at the service.

The quartet sang "Onward and Upward."

Mr. Poulson, of tme Anti-Saloon League gave the men another chance to sign cards signifying that they believed in local option, because at the last men's meeting there were not enough cards.

SUNDAY EVENING.

Last night was the biggest crowd ever for Sunday night. People were standing in rows five and six deep in the rear of the building and out onto the street, and last night Dr. Biederwolf said that the number of "trail hiters" exceeded anything he had ever seen in his whole experience.

These meetings make some of the old-timers think of when D. L. Moody held similar meetings in the Rink, and the enthusiasm was just as great in that campaign as it is in this one.

The quartet sang a selection by request.

In answer to many requests, Mr. Roberts sang last night. This is Mr. Roberts' farewell campaign with Dr. Biederwolf, as he leaves to sing in a church in Philadelphia as soon as the meetings close here.

Tonight is the farewell service, and Dr. Biederwolf will preach his final sermon. There should be just as large a crowd tonight as last night to hear this farewell service.

Tuesday night is the big concert. There are many special features. There will be a silver offering taken at the door for the "Family Altar League."

Next Sunday afternoon, Colonel MacIntyre and the National Staff Band, of New York Company, will hold a rally in the Tabernacle. There are to be special speakers for the occasion.

Wednesday night is prayer meeting night. Everyone go to your respective churches and bring others with you.

Next Sunday night there will be a grand union service in the Tabernacle of all the churches in the city. This is to be the last service before the Tabernacle is torn down.

Thursday night, in the Y. M. C. A., is to be organized a Men's Bible class, under the leadership of W. D. Murray, at 8 p. m. The first talk is to be on "How We Got Our Bible."

BIEDERWOLF CAMPAIGN

religion. "Anyone who tells you that science is arrayed against the religion of Jesus Christ, call them Rip Van Winkle, and tell them to wake up." He stated that only one scientist in the whole world was an infidel, and that was Heckel of Germany.

The evangelist particularly went into the life of "Bob" Ingersoll. Kind-hearted, amiable, powerful man as he was, Dr. Biederwold said that didn't count. He slandered his mother's God. He scoffed at the faith of Christian people and made light of the things that the Bible holds holy.

At the end of the service many signed cards, and later walked down the sawdust aisle to pledge a life for Christ or a reconsecration to his work.

4,000 at Men's Service.

There were 4,000 men at the afternoon service, the last for men only of the campaign. W. D. Murray took charge of the freewill offering and the men responded generously to his appeal for a gift to Dr. Biederwolf.

It was announced that tonight would be the farewell service of Dr. Biederwolf at the Tabernacle, but the building will remain standing until after the letter-carrier's convention. Tomorrow night there will be the sacred concert of the chorus choir directed by Mr. McEwan and aided by Judge Runyon, Mrs. W. A. Coddington and many others. Next Sunday afternoon there will be a service by Col. McIntyre, of the Salvation Army of New York, and others in that work. The National Staff Band will accompany Col. McIntyre, and Dr. Biederwolf urged that all Plainfield people attend. Next Sunday evening the churches of Plainfield will unite in a farewell service at the Tabernacle. Dr. Biederwolf will not be here, but he promised to send a telegram.

Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A. a Men's Bible-class will be organized, with W. D. Murray as leader. Wednesday at noon the first of the midweek meetings of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the Babcock building.

A representative of the Anti-Saloon League appeared at the meeting yesterday afternoon to urge all voters to sign cards demanding a local option measure at the next session of the New Jersey Legislature. He read a letter sent by a St. Paul distillery to a Union county letter carrier in which the postal employe was asked to send the names of all "boys" on his route, and on other routes. For this work he was promised a quart of whisky or wine. The cards pledged nothing concerning candidates, it was explained, but simply said that the voter believed the people of New Jersey were competent to settle the liquor question for themselves by direct vote. Hundreds were signed.

Dr. Biederwolf's sermon was on "The Square Man." Man, he said, is the best that God can do—not always the man we see today, for he is sometimes little better than the boy's definition of a man—"an animal split at one end that walks on the split end"—but he said he meant man as God made him and intended he should be.

"God meant that every man should wear a crown," said the evangelist, "but we have been so busy looking down and scratching with our little rakes among the chips and straw and muck of this earth that God's angel hasn't had time to fit it to our heads."

He said that brains did not make the man, nor clothing, nor physique, nor even morality—but that he was measured by his spiritual qualities.

One of the greatest influences for evil is that of the man who is careless with his own life, and through this carelessness leads others to sin, said the evangelist, and he told the following story:

"In each of the great slaughter houses of our country they keep a trained animal which they use as a decoy. The sole business of this beast is to entice his mates along the pathway to the shambles. It was not so with the old-time drover. He used to ride along behind and urge the beasts on to their doom with blows and goads, but now they take advantage of the trustfulness of the poor dumb creatures in their own kind; and in the cattle yards, for instance, they have an old steer to lead them on. They give him a good name. They call him Judas Iscariot. He goes slowly along and the newly-arrived drove follows after. He leads them along the chutes and up the elevated bridges to the slaughter room, and just at the right moment he steps aside, and while his mates fall under the ax he goes back to lead on another drove. But he's only a dumb brute; he's been trained to his bloody business and doesn't know any better and yet every man and boy in the stock yards hates him for what he is. But I say to you today, that that miserable old Judas Iscariot of a steer is a gentleman and a hero; he's a scholar and a Christian, miserable four-footed betrayer that he is, he's an angel of light alongside the fellow who encourages another fellow in a thing that he knows may ruin him; who goes with him, lives the life that he lives, and by the influence of his example and his personality leads him along the way he knows has sent thousands to shame and hell, when he might be lifting him up toward the darling hope of a mother's heart, and then slip out unscathed himself and see the other go on to ruin in this life and hell in the life to come, and then say, "I have no need of Jesus Christ or the culture of my soul."

Now, some of you don't like that very well. Well, I can't help it; I didn't come here to say what you liked. I came to say the truth and, God helping me, I mean to do it."

His appeal was to the best and noblest in men, and at the close of the sermon they crowded forward in scores to shake his hand and repeat the penitent's prayer after him.

Many Stand in Street.

Last night's crowd at the Tabernacle was the biggest of the entire campaign, not even excepting that following the great civico-religious demonstration, when almost 8,000 people walked through the streets. The Tabernacle holds 6,750 and those who arrived a few minutes before the service opened found every seat filled and many standing in the aisles. Still they came, until the rear aisle was entirely blocked and scores stood in the street. They remained there for the entire meeting, and, although hoarse and weary after his trying day's work, Dr. Biederwolf talked so that they might receive the message. He sometimes stood on his chair to shout for their benefit, and that he reached even those outside the Tabernacle was shown when one man shouldered his way through the crowd at the door after the services and walked the full length of the building to kneel in front of the pulpit.

In introducing C. W. McCutchen, Senator Ackerman called attention to the prominent part that North Plainfield had played in making a success of the campaign and said that it was rightly a movement of "The Two Plainfields." Mr. McCutchen asked for the evening collection and his experience was that of the two earlier meetings in the day, the crowd responding nobly.

A feature of the day's services was the giving of the choir. Mr. McEwan had charge of subscriptions from members and he almost yelled himself hoarse calling out donations. In the morning the choir announced that it would give $500. Later it was made $625, and before the day closed its members gave a total of $639.10.

The work of Mr. McEwan was a treat to all who sat on the stage and watched him, and Mr. McCutchen said that "if this Mac had the voice of that Mac, he could raise $50,000." In thanking the choir, Mr. McEwan assured them that it was the greatest offering a choir had ever made to Dr. Biederwolf. "Anyway," he said, "we never had a choir like this before."

In announcing the close of the collection, Mr. McCutchen said: "We have done what we ought to have done. The Lord be praised." No figures were announced during the day, and no individual subscriptions will be made public.

The quartet sang a selection, and on many requests from the audience, Mr. Roberts sang a solo. His wonderful bass voice was appreciated by the audience and he was given hearty applause.

Dr. Biederwolf again thanked those who gave to the freewill offering for him, and said that in many respects it had been the greatest campaign in all his experience, not because of the money, he said, for "I have not come for yours, but for you." He promised to give some statistics at the meeting of tonight, and urged every one to attend the farewell service. Dr. Biederwolf called attention to the work of the Red Cross Society in Plainfield and to the Rescue Mission here, and asked that church people support them.

His sermon in the evening was on "The Caves of Infidelity." He read from the Bible," "How then wilt thou do in the swelling of the Jordan?" and explained that the Jordan flowed through extremely mountainous country for a short distance and that, when its waters rose in flood time, the animals were wont to seek refuge in caves, only to soon be driven out or drowned. Man, he said, sought refuge in the caves of infidelity, of morality and of Unitarism, but these were not safe retreats, he said, and the only refuge is in the sacrifice of Jesus Christ. "Come unto me," he urged.

"When God made man He took all the excellencies of His own moral nature, and wove them into a crown of glory and honor and put it on his brow and made him a fit associate for the angels of Heaven. But the old arch angel of the upper world, in a fit of jealous rage, dipped his dart in sin's insidious poison and drove it full into his heart and man fell staggering and stumbling toward hell. He went on, but God never gave him up. Through the songs of poets and the warning of prophets, He tried to woo him back and block the way to hell, but He couldn't do it, and 2,000 years ago He looked down from His heights of glory and saw us in wretched and undone condition, bruised and battered by sin.

"And God said, there is one thing yet I can do; I can open my heart and let them see what is really there and love will bring them back, and He went out into the garden and gathered the lilies-of-the-valley and the roses of Sharon, the violets and forget-me-nots, twined them about with the smilax of His love, and with the cord of mercy lowered the basket down into the manger of Bethlehem and the world came and looked upon Jesus, and in His infant face they read the story of John 3:16: "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth on Him might not perish, but have everlasting life."

"Surely," said God, "that will do," but wait—they took the flowers, but wait—they took the flowers, tore them into shreds, ripped them to pieces and crushed their bleeding petals beneath their feet; they cursed the Son of God, and hounded Him through the streets until one day Judas Iscariot, the black-hearted wretch, gave Him the kiss of betrayal, and the mad, seething, sinful passion of his day never stopped until it opened His veins and poured out His blood in the frightful tragedy of Calvary's cross.

But the bars of death could not hold Him and from the grave He arose with glory and majesty and dominion and conquering power. He ascended into Heaven and sits tonight at the right hand of God waiting for you to leave your miserable man-made refuge and come unto Him and be saved."

At the close of his sermon, Dr. Biederwolf asked that his congregation remain seated, and that personal workers wait. He then issued an invitatian to all in the audience who wanted to confess their sins and pledge a Christian life, asking that they walk boldly down the sawdust aisle alone and in full view of all the thousands gathered there. For awhile there was silence, then a lone woman came from one of the back rows. By the time her feet had touched the hallowed shavings in front of the pine pulpit, three or four others were up, and soon they came in solid streams that almost filled each aisle. More than 100 were down before the workers began to move through the crowd and the total for the evening service exceeded 300.

"Heaven" was the subject of Dr Biederwolf's sermon Saturday evening, and it was a most pleasant one for those living in the Christian faith, for he insisted that Heaven was a place that had been prepared for deserving children of God. Heaven is not only a place, he said, but a prepared place, a commodious place, a comfortable place and a beautiful place where all will be happy through eternity.

Dr. Biederwolf said that he believed in the existence of such a Heaven because the human soul has always longed for such a place, because the human soul has always felt that there is such a place, because the human soul needs such a place, and because God has said that there is such a place. Heaven is not only a state of mind, but it is a place to go to, he said—although he admitted that there were a lot of people who expected to go there who wouldn't be fit to live in Heaven if they should slip in. In order to show the vastness of the universe he quoted freely from science, telling how far away the planets were, how far the nearest star and the stars that moved farthest from the earth. "Who conceived all this?" he exclaimed. "God! God! It makes me warm under the collar to hear some puny infidel disputing about God and finding fault with God's plan of salvation and other things that come out of the divine mind."

After painting a picture of the beauties of Heaven and the joys to be there, Dr. Biederwolf issued an invitation to visit there when life is ended, as an ambassador of God, and there were scores of acceptances.

There was a good-sized delegation from the Italian Mission band at the Saturday evening service, and Dr. Biederwolf praised the wonderful work that is being done there. He said there were 2,000 Italians in Plainfield, and that every Christian in the city should aid the work of the mission in every possible way.

Mr. Heaton sang, "From Every Stormy Wind that Blows," and Mr. McEwan sang "We Shall Shine as Stars."

URGES EVERYONE TO QUICKLY GET ON WATER WAGON

To see the tinge of healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside-bathing every morning for one week. Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the blood and internal organs. Those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid, are assured that one week of inside bathing will have them both looking and feeling better in every way.—Adv.

MAY GET THEIR BENCHES BACK

Princeton Students Find Merchants Favorable to Restoration.

Princeton, May 22.—Princeton students are delighted with the prospect of the restitution of their time honored benches on Nassau street. Last fall Dr. Browne was elected mayor over A. H. Phillips, who was then mayor. The student vote was a large factor in Dr. Browne's success, as he had intimated that in event of his election he would permit the restoration of the benches in Nassau street removed by Mayor Phillips on the complaint of women, who said they were annoyed by loungers.

The Daily Princetonian has made a canvass of the merchants on the street and found them all in favor of replacing the benches, with the result that the matter will be brought before the student council.

MOOSE TURNS SOCIALIST.

Former Mayor Furber of Rahway Changes Politics.

Rahway, May 22.—James A. Furber, ex-mayor of Rahway, has resigned from the Progressive party. He says he will join the Socialist party, "where there is work to be done and workmen are few but sincere and where there is a real groundwork for service."

In a letter declining election as alternate delegate to the national Progressive convention Mr. Furber says the Progressive party has abandoned its social and industrial justice program and all other principles except preparedness.

NAVAL OFFICER ROBBED.

Police Capture Suspects on Train and in Trolley Car.

Passaic, May 22.—As Lieutenant M. Corry, U. S. N., was boarding a train for New York a man reached into his coat pocket and drew out a roll of bills. Patrolman Farrell, standing near by, witnessed the theft and ran for the train. It was moving as he jumped aboard. Inside he found Corry. The holder of the bills had joined two friends. Farrell had the train stopped and arrested the men.

Lieutenant Corry got his money back. It amounted to $60.

NO BIDS FOR SCHOOL BONDS

City Council Withdraws Proposal for $30,000 Issue to Be Acted Upon Later

TRADE BOARD APPEAL

Civic Body Wants Public Comfort Station and Rest Room Established—School Tax Appropriates $125,-215.

It was expected that bids for the $30,000 school bond issue would be received at the adjourned meeting of the City Council last night, but none were offered and the proposal was withdrawn to be presented at another time. The absence of bids was attributed to the low rate of interest—4½ per cent.

J. J. Varley, representing the Board of Trade, presented eleven petitions signed by citizens, asking the Council to establish a public comfort station and rest room, and he augmented these petitions with a strong appeal to the council to act promptly in the matter, pointing out the great necessity for such a convenience in the city. The petitions were referred to the public affairs committee.

The oaths of office of A. H. Atterbury, A. E. Smith and J. Fred Atterbury, A. E. Smith and J. Fred MacDonald, as commissioners in the matter of widening Central avenue, were filed. City Clerk J. T. HcMurray reported that electric light bills against the city had been held up pending the court decision in the case of the P. S. C. against the city. These were filed.

The department of revenue and finance, Jersey City, in a communication, requested the city to join in a State-wide movement to secure a new rating for electric consumption. This was referred to the light committee.

The Laing Auto Repair Company, in response to a petition, was given permission to installl a 500-gallon gasolene tank at 416 Sycamore avenue.

The Board of School Estimate sent its certificate to the Council, $125,-215 being named as the amount decided upon as necessary for school purposes for the coming year, exclusive of the county and State appropriations.

Mrs. James W. DeGraff, of Central avenue, owner of land on Stelle avenue, wanted permission to make certain changes which would affect the course of Cedar brook. The matter was referred.

A resolution offered by Mr. Babcock, authorized an appropriation of $20,000 from an unexpended balance on account of the Madison avenue widening.

An ordinance, offered by Mr. Hylan and adopted on two readings and ordered advertised, provides for establishing grade and curb lines on certain streets. There will be a public hearing on the ordinance Monday night, July 3, at 8 o'clock. Another resolution offered by Mr. Hylan and adopted, set forth that certain streets have been improved and fixed June 18 as the time when application will be made to the court for the appointment of assessment commissioners. A resolution providing for the vacating of Oxford place, in accordance with a petition from John E. Dunn, was adopted. This action is desired so that a railroad siding can be laid into the prperty recently sold to the American Motor Corporation far an automobile factory.

The ordinance to open Stelle avenue from Grant to Hobert avenues, was adopted on third reading. In response to a question from Mr. Sminck, Mr. Hylan stated that the cost would be nominal. The telephone company was given permission to open certain streets to make repairs to underground conduits.

The Kenyon Gardens' Association was given permission to lay a short sewer pipe line from Stelle avenue to Arlington avenue to connect with the bungalow on the association's property.

The street department, through a resolution offered by Mr. Hylan, was authorized to purchase a Ford car for the foreman of the street department not to exceed in cost $240.

CARD SIGNERS TO MEET.

Attention is again called to the very important meeting at the First Baptist church tomorrow evening, when all those who have recently signed cards indicating a preference for this church will be present, together with those who have indicated the desire to unite with the church by leter. An equally cordial invitation is extended others who, though they have not signed cards, may desire to converse with the pastor and deacons relatives to church membership.

AUTOIST FINED $15.75.

Among the large number of automobile speeders answering charges before Motor Vehicle Commissioner William L. Dill, in the City Hall, at Newark yesterday morning was Chas. Nordberg, of 241 Second street, this city. Nordberg was speeding at a rate of forty-five miles in the Fanwood section of Plainfield. He was fined $15.75.

GARDEN PARTY TO BE GIVEN AT "WYNWOOD"

Delightful Affair Planned to Raise Funds to Educate a Young Woman.

"Wynwood," at 1332 Prospect avenue, will be the scene of a delightful garden party and sale, to be given Thursday afternoon, the proceeds of which will be used to educate a local young girl in the business college so as to enable her to properly support herself, her widowed mother and several smaller brothers and sisters. Should the weather prove inclement, the party will be postponed until the first clear afternoon following.

Garden necessities will be on sale, such as hats, vases, birdsticks, etc., and there will be a large supply of choice hybrid tea roses and seedlings. Especial attention has been given for the entertainment of the children, and there will be many pleasing attractions for the visitors. There will be ponies to ride and drive, inexpensive toys and a little fairy tulip garden, wherein each flower holds a hidden prize. Young women will be in attendance throughout the afternoon to see that the juveniles fully enjoy themselves. Ice cream, tea and home-made cake will be served under the trees.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR SUFFRAGE CARD PARTY

Woman suffragists who are arranging the details of the card party to be given tomorrow afternoon at the Park Club have demonstrated that they are right up to date in the matter of standardization and efficiency. There is to be a prize at every table, and every prize is to have the value of one dollar. And if the winner prefers one prize to another, it will be quite possible to give the preferred object. No winning player need go away with something that has fallen to her as a matter of chance, while she envies other winners the pretty things they have secured.

With four players at a table each patron of the card party of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield will have one chance as against three to win a prize. Those who desire to play in pairs and groups can arrange for tables through Mrs. C. E. Lipscomb, 701 Belvidere avenue, or Mrs. I. Schwed, 1147 Evergreen avenue. "Suffrage Punch" is to be served, and, of course, in accord with suffrage principles, it will be free from intoxicants, but the suffragists assert that their recipe is full of "pep."

MOOSE ACTIVITIES.

Plainfield lodge, No. 310, Loyal Order of Moose, last night appointed George Beggs, M. J. Whalen and Charles Kling as delegates to represent Plainfield lodge at the Hudson Valley convention to be held in New York on June 8, 9, 10. The degree team initiated four candidates into full membership and the good and welfare committee reported that everything was in readiness for the "package social" to be given in Moose Hall tonight, under the auspices of the lodge. The Moose have been holding a series of dances to continue through May and June, and tonight's affair will be in connection with the regular Tuesday social.

COUNCIL REFUSES TO REJECT BIDS

Corporation Counsel's Advice in Purchase of Fire Apparatus is Turned Down.

SPIRITED ARGUMENT

City Fathers Are Still Divided over Question of Selecting Motor Engine and Search is Made for "Little Black Man."

Believing that if the City Council should accept the bid of the American La France company's of $8,-000 to furnish an automobile fire engine, there might be some legal entanglements, the bid being reduced $500 by the company after all proposals had been accepted, Corporation Counsel C. A. Reed drafted a resolution at last night's adjourned meeting of the Council which called for the rejection of all bids and authorized the Council to readvertise for bids.

The presentation of this resolution by Councilman Cose at once started an argument which resulted not only in its defeat, but also subsequent resolutions providing that the American La France Company's bid be accepted and another that all bids except that of the latter company's be rejected, the other three bidders being the Aaron-Fox, Wattrous and Boyd companies.

Several of the councilmen wanted to follow the advice of the corporation counsel, believing that to be the safest and wisest plan, but others were of the opinion that the Council had a right to accept any bid or reject any and all bids. After considerable argument, Councilman Hamilton then briefly recited what had taken place at various committee meetings since April 27 last, stating that it was agreed that the American La France engine should be purchased. A statement that Mr. Reed was present when this was authorized was afterward corrected by Mr. Hamilton when Mr. Reed said that he had left the meeting and gone home.

Mr. Hamilton read from the minutes of the various meetings, taking occasion to remark that he thought the Council was simply delaying the matter of providing the Netherwood section with proper fire protection and as the matter now stands it will not get that protection right away.

Mr. Hylan said that he was discouraged over the whole affair, that it was disgusting and that he was sick of it. He said that he had been unable to find the "little black man in the woodpile." He could see no reason why the Council could not accept the $8,000 bid, adding that such practice in business was common.

Mr. Graves said that he had no feeling against any engine, but thought it unfair to single out any one company as had been done. Mr. Reed then explained the situation from a legal standpoint, adding that it was possible if the $8,000 bid was accepted, there was a possibility of certiorari proceedings on the part of other interested parties.

It was stated by Mr. Hylan that he had heard the Wattrous Company had offered its engine for $7,500, which led Mr. Hamilton to say that the order for the La France engine had practically been placed and he hated to go back on his word. President Blatz was of the opinion that no company had a right to take anything for granted until contracts are signed.

"As a manufacturer of machinery the practice of accepting reduced bids is common," said Mr. Booth. "It is done every day. If we want the La France engine we will buy it, but if not let us turn it down."

Mr. Blatz thought the Council should follow Mr. Reed's advice, believing it to be the quickest way to dispose of the matter. On the resolution to reject all bids, Councilmen Babcock, Booth, Hamilton and Hylan voted no and Councilmen Bird, Cose, Graves, Sminck and Blatz in the affirmative.

The resolution to reject all but the La France bid was also lost, Councilmen Babcock, Graves, Sminck and Blatz voting no and Councilmen Booth, Hamilton and Hylan voting in the affirmative. Then a vote was taken on the resolution to accept the La France bid of $8,000 and that was lost, Councilmen Babcock, Graves, Blatz and Sminck voting no and Councilmen Booth, Hamilton and Hylan in the affirmative. Between the votes Mr. Bird was excused. The matter now stands where it did before the meeting was held.

During the earlier part of the session a communication was received from William Newcorn, as president of the Board of Trade, requesting that the matter of purchasing a fire apparatus be deferred until a further investigation could be made into the merits of various makes. This communication was referred to the fire committee.

Councilman Christie P. Hamilton, a member of the Fire Committee, expressed his opinion of last night's action by the Council in no uncertain terms, when he was seen by a reporter for the Daily Press this morning. He said:

"Again through lack of foresight and inefficiency of members of the Fire Committee, but mainly through the prejudice of Chief Doane and his influence with certain members of the Council, the protection of Plainfield is held back.

"The situation, as it developed last

MAKES APPLICATION FOR A RECEIVER

Howard Huntington, of This City Presents Claim Aganist Opal Chemical Company.

Newark, May 23.—Howard Huntington, of Plainfield, through his counsel, William N. Runyon, today made application here for the stockholders and alleged creditors of the Opal Chemical Company, of Kenilworth, for the appointment of a receiver. Mr. Huntington is the manager and owner of 1,140 shares of stock in the company at a par value of $100 each. He presents a claim of $1,100 plus interest.

Mr. Huntington says that the liabilities of the company are $8,000, of which $4,600 is in promissory notes past due and that there is no money to meet the claims. He also says that the assets are less than $6,000, exclusive of real estate, that his father, Samuel Huntington, has claims totaling $3,500 on two notes.

Affidavits of H. B. Norton and P. E. Helm, stockholders, the latter of Newark, claim that the company is solvent, that the company has orders aggregating $1,100, and Mr. Norton says that he has no knowledge of $4,-600 in notes. He maintains that the company can go on and that it was Mr. Huntington who allowed the debts to accumulate. Mr. Helm's affidavit is similar to that of Mr. Norton, adding that a meeting was called for May 17, at which Mr. Huntington was asked to be present. Instead he says that the latter went fishing. The matter will be continued this afternoon.

FURIOUS BATTLE BEFORE VERDUN

Germans Suffer Terrible Losses in Gaining Few Feet.

VICTORY ONLY SLIGHT

Thunder of Cannon Heard for 20 Miles—Men Mowed Down Like Wheat—Berlin Names Board to Control Food.

Paris, May 23.—All night long on the Verdun front a furious battle raged between the French and the Germans. Over a line 25 miles wide German troops were hurled against the French positions, winning at some points, only to be thrown out by the French counter-attacks that followed. The French War Office in its communique today states that the German losses in the fighting on both sides of the Meuse river in the Verdun region were tremendous on that section of the line where the foot soldiers were at grips. On the shell-swept slopes of the Meuse hills the big guns were engaged in a smashing bombardment and the thunder of the cannon could be heard for twenty miles or more. The French War Office states that the Germans made two violent assaults against the French position at Hill No. 304, but that both were repulsed. West of Hill No. 304 the soldiers of the Crown Prince drove the French from some of their trenches, but before the Germans could organize their new positions they were overwhelmed by a counter-attack and were forced to give up their conquered ground. To the east of the Meuse the Germans assaulted the French positions at Thiaumont farm, driving the French from a trench. Caught under the fire of artillery, machine guns and musketry, the Germans suffered terrific losses, but fought doggedly until they had gained the earthwork.

Berlin, May 23 (by wireless).—Today's official report from Army Headquarters announces the capture of a French blockhouse on the Verdun front west of the Meuse river, and the repulse of French counter-attacks.

TEARFUL FAREWELLS WERE SAID TO BIEDERWOLF AND PARTY AT GREATEST SERVICE OF CAMPAIGN

THOUSANDS CROWDED FORWARD TO PRESS HAND OF EVANGELIST AT CLOSE OF LAST NIGHT'S MEETING.

MORE THAN 600 WALKED DOWN SAWDUST AISLE

Vast Pine Tabernacle a Burial Ground for Sin, With White Monuments of Pure Lives Raised Over Graves—$7,500 Given to Biederwolf—His Assistants Also Remembered.

Thousands of Plainfielders—all that could be packed into the big pine Tabernacle—some cheering and some choked with tears, last night bid an affectionate farewell to the Rev. William E. Biederwolf and members of his evangelistic party after a wonderful six weeks' series of meetings here.

So determined were friends of the evangelist to be present at the farewell service that 3,500 of the 6,750 seats were filled at 7 p. m.—a full half-hour before the song service was scheduled to open. Every seat was filled when Mr. McEwan called for the first number; and when the evangelist and his wife entered a few minutes later they walked the full length of the Tabernacle through a passageway made for them along crowded aisles. The applause that greeted Dr. Biederwolf and his wife lasted several minutes, but this was at the beginning of the service. At its end, when Mr. Backemeyer, Mr. Heaton, Mr. Sluyter and Mr. Roberts stood above the more than 600 that walked down the sawdust aisle, and Dr. Biederwolf knelt on the platform as they sang "Nearer My God to Thee," throats were too choked to cheer and hands trembled so that applause was impossible. The last notes of the song fell on a house hushed in sorrow, and there were tears in many eyes behind outstretched hands that pressed a last goodbye to the evangelist.

Plainfield broke all records for converts, for attendance, for generosity and for fairness, according to Dr. Biederwolf, who has been an evangelist for the past nineteen years.

He was presented with a check last night for $7,500 as a freewill offering for his own personal use. Each member of the party was given a handsome check in addition to this. The total expenses of the six weeks' campaign were approximately $25,000, all paid, and every cent given voluntarily.

Converts during the campaign, including those who reconsecrated their lives to Christ, totaled more than 5,500. The largest number Dr. Biederwolf has known before was 5,165 in Oil City, Pennsylvania.

The song service at the beginning of last night's service excelled any of the campaign. "Mac" was at his best and the chorus choir, with 1,000 voices, entered into the spirit of the evening and sang as never before.

The Rev. B. S. Hudson offered the opening prayer.

As Dr. Biederwolf and his wife came down the aisle to the pulpit, a little girl sprang from her seat and presented the evangelist with a big bouquet. He kissed her, and the congregation arose and cheered.

Runyon Reads Resolution.

After the singing of "The Man of Galilee" by the National Male Quartet, Judge William N. Runyon came to the pulpit and took charge of the service for a few minutes. He said that no matter who might deny it, there was a heaviness in the heart of every person in the audience, because of the ties that were so soon to be severed; and this heaviness, he believed, also weighted the heart of Dr. Biederwolf. He expressed the hope that Dr. Biederwolf would always remember Plainfield with happiness and count its people among his loyal and loving friends. "We will never, in any measure, know the full extent of his work among us," said Judge Runyon; "know what good he has put into the lives and into the hearts of the people of Plainfield. But," he added, "every man and woman knows already enough to offer to him sincere thanks for having labored here." He asked permission to read a testimonial of peculiar significance, one unsolicited and from a source not given to hasty commendation or applause. It was a resolution signed by every official of the Borough of North Plainfield, attesting the good results of Dr. Biederwolf's work here. This resolution is printed on another page.

"I can't say very much," Dr. Biederwolf managed to get out after he had stood helplessly before his audience for several seconds. "I have never seen it done this way before. I would rather have an expression like that than anything else your city could possibly do. I can only thank you from the bottom of my heart. It means more to me than you can possibly understand."

Dr. Biederwolf explained that a work of the kind he undertook here was no indelicate task. He began it with fear and trembling, he said, but Plainfield responded nobly, went from good things to better, from great things to greater; and he promised that a city such as this, including North Plainfield, would work wonders with future generations.

"I have had but one desire as I stood before you night after night. I wanted you to see Jesus. If I loved him more I could have preached him a little better."

Just as the evangelist started to thank Judge Runyon and officials of the borough, W. D. Murray, chairman of the executive committee, walked on the platform and courteously took charge.

Thanks of Mr. Murray.

He wanted to express the thanks of the committee, and of the city, to all who had a part in the success of the services. He thanked the chorus choir, and Mr. Braider, who organized it; the secretary at headquarters; the firemen and policemen of Plainfield, and every committeeman. Mr. Murray said that he had asked many to work during the campaign and that only two had refused, each having a good reason for not aiding the work. He admitted that he had struggled to keep from accepting the chairmanship at the begining because the task seemed impossible, but thanked those who had given him an opportunity to have a part in the campaign.

"The campaign is over and the work is now about to begin," said Mr. Murray. He said that last night was commencement night for the Christian people of Plainfield, and that they must begin at once to take advantage of the results of Dr. Biederwolf's sermons.

Mr. Murray reported that cash collections during the campaign had totaled $4,668; that special offerings had totaled $1,526, and that the special collection taken for expenses amounted to $7,050. This made a total of $12,244 for expenses. With the amounts spent in preliminary work, traveling expenses and that given to Dr. Biederwolf and other members of the party, the cost of the entire campaign is close to $25,000. It is all paid, Mr. Murray reported.

IT COST PLAINFIELD $25,000 TO BRING THIS MAN HERE FOR SIX WEEKS--WAS HE WORTH IT?

THE REV. WM. E. BIEDERWOLF.

Dr. Biederwolf has spent six weeks in Plainfield. He, with the assistance of members of his party, has aroused the city as never before in its history. This much is admitted. He received $7,500, and other expenses of the campaign brought the total amount given to $25,000.

Was it worth it?

FRENCH AGAIN IN DOUAUMONT

Counter Attack Wins Back Lost Ground.

FIERCE FIGHT AT VERDUN

Fourth Month of Struggle Sees Germans Forced Out of Position Won at Terrible Cost; Also Recapture Trenches Lost at Dead Man's Hill.

Paris, May 23.—French troops once more stand in part of Fort Douaumont, Verdun's northernmost outer fortification that fell into German hands ninety days ago. This is the result of the most successful counter attack yet undertaken by the French at Verdun and ushers in the fourth month of the huge battle for the great barrier fortress.

Along a front of about two kilometers (a little more than a mile), between the Thiaumont farm and a point east of Douaumont fort, the French rushed forward in a furious assault, breaking down the German resistance on the whole line of attack, capturing German trenches and taking numerous prisoners.

The Germans, the war office admits, still hold the northern part of Douaumont fort. The attack was preceded by a powerful and sustained artillery bombardment.

On the left bank of the river the defenders of Verdun achieved a similar success, their infantry in a new counter attack wresting from the Germans parts of new trenches recently taken by them west of Le Mort Homme. Further progress also was made by the French south of Hill 287, where the Teutons were ejected from small earthworks captured by them.

A fourth attack was launched by General Nivelle's troops on the heights of the Meuse. Here a surprise action drove the Germans out of trenches on a sector of 300 meters, the French taking some prisoners.

Fort Douaumont Penetrated.

The war office issued the following statement:

In the Argonne our batteries conducted an energetic bombardment of Mantillois, Montaucon and the Bois de Cheppy.

On the left bank of the Meuse we continued to make progress south of hill 287. We forced the enemy to evacuate small earthworks which he has held since the 18th.

In the region west of Le Mort Homme our counter attacks enabled our infantry to drive the enemy out of certain new elements of trenches occupied by him.

On the right bank of the Meuse after a powerful artillery bombardment our infantry captured by assault German positions on a front of about two kilometers between the region west of the Thiaumont farm and a point east of Fort Douaumont. On the entire front of attack our troops captured German trenches and penetrated Fort Douaumont, although the enemy still holds the northern part. Numerous prisoners remain in our hands.

On the heights of the Meuse in the Bois Bouchot we executed a successful coup de main which enabled us to clean out the trenches of the enemy for a distance of 300 meters and to make some prisoners.

French grenadiers, according to the communique, wrested from the Germans in hand to hand fighting in the Bois d'Avocourt a number of blockhouses. The French launched a counter attack west of Le Mort Homme after their artillery had frustrated German attempts at a renewal of the drive in that region and recaptured part of the ground lost Saturday and Sunday.

The Germans on their part suffered heavy losses in futile efforts to recapture the positions at the Haudromont quarries. All tentative drives, the war office asserts, broke down under the German curtain of fire. In the outskirts of the village of Vaux the French took a German trench. A German attack in the Champagne, in which gas was used, failed.

RECORD MADE IN THE CASE

Twelve Jurors Are Chosen in Three Hours—Defendant Amused as Maker of First Electric Chair Is Excused. Mrs. Waite to Be Called as Witness.

New York, May 23.—The jury to try Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, charged with murdering his father-in-law, John E. Peck, was chosen in three hours. This breaks all local records in trials of important murder cases.

District Attorney Swann opened for the prosecution, and the examination of the first witness had progressed at the close of court until little remained for further cross examination.

It required just three hours to examine fifty-six talesmen and agree upon the twelve men and thirty-five minute's for Judge Swann's narrative upon which he and his assistants will urge a verdict of death for the defendant. Dr. Albertus Adair Moore underwent his examination in chief and nearly completed his cross examination in the remaining two hours and twenty-five minutes, actual court time.

Waite, the man around whom everything centered, passed through the day as calmly and apparently as undisturbed as any person in the courtroom. He might have been an idle spectator or a hardened court attendant for all the personal interest he displayed.

Clean shaven, neatly attired in a blue serge suit, with immaculate linen and carefully manicured nails, Waite could smile at the replies of some of the talesmen, and he could even laugh aloud when one talesman said that he was "decidedly in favor of capital punishment for this particular case."

Smiles at Talk of Death.

He made some humorous observation to his counsel seated next to him when the man who had worked on the first electric chair ever built for this state was excused. The accused man glanced up only casually when the district attorney sprang a surprise by saying that he would produce witnesses to show that on the night Mr. Peck died Waite had saturated a handkerchief with chloroform, which he first placed over the nostrils and mouth of the dying man and upon that he had placed a heavy pillow upon which he bore down hard.

The dentist lost all interest when Dr. Moore step by step told of the growing consciousness of the defendant that the law was after him; how the cremation plan, stopped by the mysterious I. K. Adams letter, had brought the man back to New York; his half veiled movements and attempts to evade, and finally his terrific doses of coal tar heart depressments, which passed off under the scrutiny of the officers of the law.

The head of the defendant was seen to nod at one stage of his examination, and a close observer saw that the man's eyes were closed and he was enjoying a little nap. There was nothing brazen, apparently no pretense, no particular concern in the actions of his counsel, no consultations with them.

When called upon to confront a juror under the ancient rules of law Waite would first gaze straight into the eyes of the man and then drop his own eyes, but stand immovable, his arms folded. He kept his arms folded nearly all day, occasionally uncrossing them as he flicked a spot of dust from his coat sleeves or meditatively rubbed one knee.

No Delays in the Court.

It was all business in the criminal branch of the supreme court from the moment that Justice Shearn took his place. District Attorney Swann, with his assistants—George N. Brothers, John T. Dooling and Francis X. Mancuso—had entered a little while before, with attendants bearing large packets of evidence. Walter R. Deuel and Joseph F. Crater, who are defending the man, came an instant later.

In the meantime Warren Waite and Frank A. Waite, father and brother respectively of the defendant, both men who show the strain far more than the son and brother, sat in one little inclosure, while Percy Peck, son of the dead man, and his wife sat to one side behind another railing. Seated in various parts of the courtroom were Dr. Mabon, alienist for the prosecution, who will be aided by Drs. Smith Ely Jelliffe and Minas Gregory; Dr. Diefendorfer and Dr. Allen Ross, upon whom will depend the insanity defense of the prisoner.

There were only a few spectators, for Justice Shearn told Captain James B. Kavanagh, head of the court squad, that there would be no morbid demonstrations at this trial, and Captain Kavanagh is seeing that the morbid do not get in. They have benched off the corridor outside the room and placed at the stairways policemen, who hold up all except those who have a right to enter.

Mrs. Arthur Warren Waite had come to the court, but had been excused for the day. Mrs. Margaret Horton, who will play an important part in the trial, was within telephone call. Many of the witnesses from Grand Rapids are in town, and more will come. The trial is arranged to proceed with the clockwork of a railroad timetable.

Hahne's—Main Floor, Main Entrance

People were pouring into the Tabernacle at an early hour last night; at 7 o'clock there were at least 3,500 there and the building was packed by 7:30, and lots were still coming.

There was a great ovation for Dr. Biederwolf as he passed down the aisle to the platform.

The quartet sang "The Blessed Man of Galilee."

Dr. Hudson led in the prayer.

The choir sang by special request "The Awakening Chorus."

Judge Runyon read a letter undersigned by the most prominent citizens of North Plainfield, expressing their appreciation for the work of Dr. Biederwolf and his party. This was presented to Dr. Biederwolf, who said that he prized this gift very highly and that he had never received anything like it before. Dr. Biederwolf said that he would never cease praising God for having given him the opportunity of preaching in Plainfield. Dr. Biederwolf thanked everyone who had any connection with the running of the campaign in any way, and he praised the loyalty and spirit of the ministers during the meetings. Dr. Biederwolf then addressed himself to the choir, on whom his back had been turned for six weeks, and thanked them for their splendid work which has been faithful and most efficient.

Dr. Biederwolf said that there would be no preachers or lawyers in heaven—they would all be singers; and he said that although he did not sing much, that whenever he did, "Mac" would slip up and suggestively say: "Doctor, hadn't you better save your voice for the sermon?" "Mac" must be jealous of Dr. Biederwolf's vocal talent.

Dr. Biederwolf expressed his thanks to the Dutch Arms Band for their great work during the campaign.

Mr. Bachemeyer sang "Sweet Will of God" in response to many requests.

The Quartet, "Mac," Mrs. Brake and Miss Boals sang a farewell song.

Some people have said that they are so accustomed to pass by their own churches to go to the Pine Temple that they are afraid that the habit has so grown in them that they will find themselves going past their houses of worship as usual.

Mr. Murray presented checks to each member of the quartet, "Mac" and to Miss Boals, since a friend had made a contribution which he wished to be distributed in this manner. Mr. Murray said that everything in this campaign had been done in the "Plainfield Way."

In giving Dr. Biederwolf a check for $7,500, Plainfield exceeded any amount ever given him by a city in his whole experience.

Dr. Biederwolf said that Plainfield surely had a way of her own for doing things.

Every Friday night will be Tabernacle night at the Y. W. C. A. Everyone over 15 is urged to come and bring your song books at 8 p. m.

REFUSES TO REJECT BIDS

night on the floor of the Council, is one which the city will have to face from time to time so long as we have a chief who prejudges bids for apparatus, as he has done in this case, before they are submitted, as is illustrated by his remark: 'I would not have a LaFrance engine in this town as a gift'; and so long as certain members are willing to be influenced by him. His activities in the present situation are such that in my opinion the people of Plainfield should take the trouble to think them over. Certainly I am disgusted with the management of the fire department."

There will be no prayer meeting in the South Plainfield Baptist church tomorrow night.

PETER WELCH MEETS WITH ACCIDENT AT WHITEHOUSE

While playing tag with a number of boys in the street in front of the parsonage in East Whitehouse, Saturday, Frederick Benson, ten years old, son of Rev. Frederick S. Benson, pastor of the Methodist church, of that place, was run over and injured by an automobile driven by Peter Welch, of Plainfield.

Welch was driving slowly, being about to pull his car up to the sidewalk to stop at a store, and as the boy ran in front of the car his companions say he tripped and fell. One of the front wheels passed over his arms. He suffered from cuts and bruises. He was atended by Dr. Clark. Those who saw the accident declare Welch was not to blame.

SOPHOMORES' HITS BEAT MOUNTAINEERS

Defeated Combine Could Collect Only Two Hits From Force.

In a five-inning tussle the Sophomore class of North Plainfield High defeated the Mountaineers, a schoolboy aggregation by the score of 6 to 2, yesterday afternoon, on the West End avenue diamond. The curves served up by Force from his left shoulder were a mystery to his opponents, who were only able to collect three hits. Dunning's delivery was like an open book to the class team. Van Mater and Fisher hit the ball with a lusty stroke, the former collecting two two-baggers.

He called attention to the great work done by Senator Ackerman, chairman of the freewill offering committee. Mr. Ackerman had also aided greatly in an initial donation to prepare for the coming of Dr. Biederwolf, he said. Mr. Murray then presented each member of the party with a check "from a friend," he said.

"The message of the evangelist has been delivered. We have found it sweet and convincing, and 10,000 people of Plainfield desire to make a gift to the messenger. I have the pleasure of presenting to Dr. Biederwolf and Mrs. Biederwolf a check for $7,500." Tremendous applause followed the presentation of the check.

Dr. Biederwolf again admitted that the "Plainfield Way" surpassed any he had ever known. It was the first time a gift had been made to other members of the party, he said, and the check for himself was almost $2,000 larger than it had ever been before.

"I take this check as a token of your love and appreciation," he said. "I assure you that I accept it as a steward of God and that I will use it to bring honor and glory to the name of Jesus Christ. God bless you!"

Mr. Bachemeyer, who is to go to Philadelphia today for a serious operation, responded to repeated requests and sang "Sweet Will of God."

"Mac" Sings "Farewell."

Dr. Biederwolf then offered his thanks to his hearers in general; to the press of the city (which he said had been unusually generous); to the pastors, to the helpers, to Mr. McLaughlin, the Rev. Mr. Conover, Dr. Whitford, all ushers and doorkeepers, personal workers, the mayors of the two cities, Mr. Murray, Mr. Rittenhouse, Mr. Hall, Judge Runyon, Miss Margaret Meade, Senator Ackerman, Mr. McCutchen, the chauffeurs, and car owners who had furnished machines, the ladies who had taken care of children in the nursery and all who had helped. He then turned his back on the crowd and thanked the chorus choir, saying he had never had another one as good, and never expected to hear better singing in this world. He would always think of Plainfield, he said, and so would every other member of the party.

Dr. Biederwolf also especially thanked the Dutch Arms Band, saying that it had furnished $2,000 worth of music to the campaign, and that its services were warmly appreciated.

Mr. McEwan sang a solo, "Farewell," and all members of the party sang a farewell song. Dr. Biederwolf then delivered his last message to Plainfield.

His text was: "Finally, brethren, farewell. Be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mind, live in peace: and the God of love and peace shall be with you."

The evangelist said that he could hardly conceive of a religion or a condition of religion when a revival wouldn't be necessary at times. It was especially necessary in these days when a "person had hardly time to tie his shoe strings." He told the story of the woman who was very busy. She was president of the missionary society and started out for a meeting, but stopped at a millinery shop on the way to the meeting to look at some hats, and spent so much more time there than she intended that she had to hurry to get to the meeting and she arrived all out of breath, went to the platform and said, "We'll sing hymn $6.50."

Dr. Biederwolf declared that the speed of modern life is too great. People had no more time to pray than was absolutely necessary. Time is precious. Men's minds are too full of business and the religion of Jesus Christ is in some ways neglected. But that was no sign, he believed, that the Christian religion was beginning to lose its grip, as some infidels had said. He held the campaign as an instance of the fact that it was not losing its grip. He declared that it was just beginning to get its grip.

He spoke on David, saying that he would pray to his God, "morning, noon and night." But people didn't have time for that now. Their minds were too full of business and they were lucky if they didn't forget to pray once a day.

Despite the charge of modernity, Dr. Biederwolf pointed out that the religion of Jesus Christ was becoming stronger every day and no one ever had such a chance to say as at the present time, "I am proud of the Christian religion." For now it is coming from the north, south, east and west, all wanting to crown Christ king. He advised the people that, if they ever got a preacher who was of the wishy-washy sort, that is always decrying modernity, they had better get rid of him as soon as possible.

Christians are now of one mind and one desire to crown Jesus Christ King of the World. He said that he would like to preach a sermon on the effect of the meetings on civic conditions of a city like Plainfield.

He wanted to preach a sermon to the people who had walked down those aisles. He told them again that it was the most graceful, intelligent and cultured thing that they had ever done, and it would, without doubt, be a great influence to the community. His first advice to the child in the Christian life was to study the Bible. He advised that they buy a good Bible that would help them. "If you want to be healthy in your Christian life you must have the right kind of food, and there is nothing so good for the new-born child of God as the pure milk from the Bible," said Dr. Biederwolf.

Advice to the Convert.

The evangelist advised the convert to solve all of his questions, all of his doubts, by giving Christ the benefit of the doubt. It was merely a matter of bigness and littleness, he argued. He spoke of the controversy in the High School as to whether there should be a High School dance or not this year.

Then, for a few minutes, Dr. Biederwolf talked to the old Christians. He made it plain that by bringing the evangelistic campaign to Plainfield and the results that had been given them, God had rolled a great responsibility upon them. The people that are living wrong and pretending to be Christians, were denounced. He called upon them to stop their wrong living and get right with the church and God at the first opportunity. Those in the churches should get a new vision of their Christianity.

He showed the people assembled that he was preaching the last sermon for those who hadn't already come and confessed Jesus Christ as their savior. He said, "God's funeral knell is sounding the death-knell of the soul for some of you out there tonight." It was a sad thing, the thought of going away and saying good-bye, but it must be done and he called upon those who wanted to take the last opportunity to respond to the appeal to lead Christian lives for the rest of the campaign to do so at once.

At the close of his sermon he asked his audience to remain seated and urged all who wanted to make a pledge to God for a Christian life to come down the aisles in full view of the gathered thousands. Scores came in response to this invitation and by the time the regular invitation was given, and the congregation arose to sing, the space in front of the pulpit was filled. Practically all of the ministers then marched down to shake hands with Dr. Biederwolf, and they were followed by hundreds, until almost half the audience was crowding toward the platform. For many minutes they stood there, while the tired, perspiring evangelist shook hands.

Dr. Biederwolf then conducted a burial ceremony. Each man and woman in the audience took out his or her handkerchief, and in silent prayer, buried the sin in their lives that they feared most. They then folded the handkerchief over their left hand and raised it high as a monument to the buried sin or weakness. Thousands of white-covered hands came out of the audience, and to those who saw through eyes of understanding, the Tabernacle really seemed a vast graveyard of sin.

Following this ceremony, Dr. Biederwolf gave thanks to God for the wonderful success of the campaign, committed the souls of Plainfield people to His keeping, and the farewell service was over. Practically everyone in the audience crowded to the pulpit to shake hands with the evangelist and members of his party and they stood there for some minutes before finally going home.

AN ISLAND FOR TOWNSHEND.

British Commander and Staff Will Have Full Liberty There.

London, May 23.—The American embassy at Constantinople, which has charge of British interests in Turkey during the war, sent word of the disposition of the British forces captured by the Turks at Kut-el-Amara. This information is contained in the following official statement from the British press bureau:

"Ambassador Page states that the American embassy at Constantinople has been informed by the Ottoman government that General Townshend, who was in command at Kut-el-Amara, and his staff will be brought to Constantinople and probably would be assigned to the island of Prinkipo, in the sea of Marmora, where they will be allowed full liberty. Most of the officers and men are still at Kut and Bagdad. Some will be sent to Damascus."

FREE SPEECH INVOLVED.

Minority Opposes National Board of Movie Censors.

Washington, May 23.—The old doctrine of free speech was projected into the moving picture field by a minority report of four members of the house committee on education condemning the proposed plan for the creation of the national board of censors.

In the report, which was formulated by Representative Ballinger of Massachusetts, the minority members assert that the bill infringes on the right of propagandum through moving pictures and presents the same problem presented from time to time in the attempt to curtail freedom of speech.

WIDELY KNOWN JOURNALIST DIES

William T. Hunt Succumbs to Liver Trouble.

EDITOR OF SUNDAY CALL

Had Been In Ill Health For Nearly a Year, but Appeared to Be Improving. Was Long Active In Newspaper Work and Public Life.

Newark, May 23.—William T. Hunt, editor of the Sunday Call, lies dead at his home, 40 Park place.

Mr. Hunt, who had been in ill health for some time, was stricken at his home, and members of his family were hastily summoned.

For the last few days Mr. Hunt had been confined to his bed. He appeared to be better and insisted upon getting up and dressing. He said he was going to the Call office. Before he could leave his room, however, he was stricken. Dr. J. Henry Clark, the family physician, pronounced it a case of acute liver trouble.

William Tallmadge Hunt was born in Buffalo Nov. 14, 1854. He was the son of Dr. Sanford B. Hunt, professor of anatomy in Buffalo Medical college, who was a newspaper man and magazine writer, later was editor of the Buffalo Express and, removing to this city, became editor of the Newark Daily Advertiser.

The young man was educated in the public schools of his native city and in the Newark academy after the family came here. He was graduated from the latter institution. He began his career as a proof reader on the Advertiser when his father was editor of that paper.

From early life Mr. Hunt had taken an active interest in public affairs. In 1878, a year after his marriage to Miss Lucy H. Southworth of Irvington, he became a member of the township committee of Clinton township. Two years prior to that he had been secretary to United States Senator Frederick T. Frelinghuysen and clerk of the senate committee on agriculture.

After the completion of his term as a town councilman Mr. Hunt became assistant secretary of the New Jersey senate and held the position three years, from 1879 to 1881, inclusive. From 1896 to 1906 he was a member of the state sewerage commission and from time to time had been a member of other commissions.

Besides his widow, Mr. Hunt is survived by two sons—William S. Hunt, who is in the editorial department of the Call, and Sanford B. Hunt, a member of the Evening News staff.

Has the Biederwolf Campaign Paid Plainfield?

The Daily Press Put this Question To a Number of Local Men and Women, Citizens Who Have Watched the Progress of the Campaign and Who are in a Position To Know, and Estimate, Its Results. They Think the $25,000 Has Been Well Spent. Here are Their Answers.

Officials of Borough Government Pay Tribute To Biederwolf

The following testimonial was presented to the Rev. William E. Biederwolf at the Tabernacle last night by Judge W. N. Runyon:

Dr. William E. Biederwolf,

Reverend and Dear Sir:

Appreciating to the fullest degree the great and uplifting work which your ministry of the holy gospel among us has accomplished for thousands of our citizens; realizing that as the direct result of your labors our community will henceforth stand, and in notable measure, more willingly and enthusiastically than ever before, for the higher and better things in life; feeling also that some recognition of such signal service, slight though it may be, should be accorded you by those whose portion it is to protect and safeguard public interests along civic lines;

Therefore we, the Mayor, members of the Common Council, corporation counsel, collector, assessor, clerk, chief of the police department, chief of the fire department, inspector of the Board of Public Health, and principal of the public schools of the borough of North Plainfield, in the county of Somerset and the State of New Jersey, avail ourselves of this opportunity to express to you the assurances of our deep and warm regard.

Proud we have ever been of the community in whose behalf we have been called to service; desirous all of discharging the duties of our respective offices as ably and straightforwardly as any of our citizens could desire, and we therefore conceive it to be but just and right at this time to acknowledge without reserve our sense of obligation to you, who have not only enabled us to see and realize most keenly, both as citizens and office holders, the duties which we owe to ourselves and the public, but at the same time have imbued that same public with ardent zeal to perform their appointed tasks as militant and Godfearing men and women.

For that which has already been accomplished, we render you, the servant and ambassador of Almighty God, our heartfelt gratitude.

For that which lies ahead, and which you must perforce leave to us to accomplish in part, we pledge you and our fellow citizens, our sincere and consecrated efforts.

May the Great Father of us all hold you and keep you safe for long years of service in His cause, and may He bless and hallow your labors in future fields as abundantly as He has in this community.

With deep regret that the personal ties which bind us are so soon to be severed and yet with joy that we have been permitted to associate so closely with you during the past few weeks, we are, one and all,

Sincerely and thankfully yours,

William L. Smalley, Mayor;
Clifford W. McGee,

Members of the Common Council;

That the Biederwolf campaign was the biggest and the best thing Plainfield has ever known is the opinion of a large number of prominent local citizens to whom the question, "Did Biderwolf Pay Plainfield?" was put. They were unanimous in declaring that he did pay, and will continue to pay through all the years that are to come.

The Biederwolf campaign cost close to $25,000. All this money was donated by Plainfield people, and every cent was voluntarily contributed . But little of the money went out of town.

Here are some answers that a Press reporter got when he asked whether or not the campaign paid:

Leighton Calkins, Mayor of Plainfield:

"Since Dr. Biederwolf has been here I have had people of different walks of life say to me:

"'What do you think of it all, and do your approve of it?' Let me say that I do approve of the purpose for which these remarkable meetings have been held. The object I believe to be wholly praiseworthy and deserving the support of all good people, even though they differ on many points among themselves. We need not be in agreement on all matters in order to support heartily a worthy cause, the aim and purpose of which is to awaken our better impulses as men and women and rouse us to the things in life that are really worth while. I congratulate the people of Plainfield on the great demonstration of approval of all honest effort for good. The crowds that have thronged the Tabernacle day after day for six weeks show what the people of the city think of the campaign. And I congratulate Dr. Biederwolf also, and those who have worked with him. I think Plainfield will be the better for the work they have done here."

William L. Smalley, mayor of North Plainfield: "I believe that the Biederwolf campaign will be the greatest power for good the two Plainfields have ever known. Already we see the wonderful effects of the evangelist's work in the community and its end will not come until eternity has finished. My views are well set out in the testimonial read last night by Judge William N. Runyon and presented to Dr. Biederwolf.

William G. De Meza, city judge: "No man can begin to measure the benefits that Plainfield, as a city, will derive from the Biederwolf campaign. 'The good that men do live after them,' and this applies also to the wonderful campaign of evangelism that ended at the Tabernacle last night. As I sit on the bench in police court each morning I keep my hand on the moral pulse of Plainfield—I watch it rise or fall in crime and sorrow, and never in my time as city judge has there been less drunkenness, less crime, than since Dr. Biederwolf began his sermons. I can name two, three, yes even a dozen old offenders who are offenders no more, because of having seen the light through his masterful messages. This is but the beginning. Each man or woman who walked down the sawdust aisle in the Pine Tabernacle will better their own lives, and by so doing will influence others for good. The whole community has already been raised to a higher standard of living, and I believe we will all grow stronger and better each day. Has it paid? If Biederwolf did not pay Plainfield, then nothing pays."

L. D. Albin, sales manager, Ingersoll-Rand Company: "The Biederwolf campaign has paid Plainfield and paid about as big returns as is possible to conceive. It has brought to hundreds of people the determination to clean up their own lives and to enter a life of service, the value of which can only be determined by time, but the big value is found in the magnificent way in which Christian people of all denominations worked together in perfect accord to accomplish the same object. No longer can it be said that anything is impossible in Plainfield—with all our forces joined together we can do anything.

"From now on we must all work to hold what we have gained. Each new Christian and each quickened life should be given a real part in our church activities to the end that each may get the joy of service and fill his or her place to the utmost. If this is done the campaign has paid, and its effects will be felt for all time to come. It is incumbent upon Plainfield to see that this is done."

William D. Murray, chairman of the general executive committee:

"Did the Biederwolf campaign pay? This sounds like an idle question, for there is only one answer to it. But often times it is helpful to put down the reasons for the answer in black and white.

"I believe that it paid in dollars and cents. Taking into consideration the money spent by our people on transportation and incidentals, the campaign will have cost over $25,000, and I do not hesitate to express the belief that many times that sum will be saved through the abandonment of costly bad habits.

"But this is a very poor reason for saying that the campaign paid. It paid because Christians were reconsecrated, because the moral atmosphere is sweeter, because our church life has been reinvigorated

"It paid in the great joy and satisfaction which fills the hearts of everyone who had anything to do with the Tabernacle meetings, and in the supreme joy which has come to many mothers' hearts because of the new life begun by their boys and girls. It paid a thousand times over."

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church: "The Biederwolf campaign has brought a great awakening into our city. It has made church members more thoughtful of their Christian profession and more anxious to save souls.

"It has impressed us with the fact of the ages, that whether we are poor or rich, every soul needs Christ.

"It has made young men and women think of what they were going to do with their lives. It has pointed out to them the pitfalls and has held before them the necessity of clean lives.

"It has drawn families closer together. It has made entire households professing Christians and has established family altars.

"It has created a delightful spirit of unity among the churches and has renewed old fellowships.

"It has developed hundreds of Christian men and women as religious workers.

"It has brought a tremendous moral and spiritual uplift to our city. It will be comparatively easy now to drive 'booze' out of Plainfield.

"It has given an impetus to church work that will long be felt. All the churches will reap a rich harvest of souls.

"It has sent the city to its knees in prayer and quickened the prayer life.

"Eternity itself will only be able to measure the results. God be praised for His mighty working."

The Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church: "The campaign which has just closed will make a definite mark in the life of our city and in the life of hundreds of individuals. It has been a needed revelation to multitudes of Christians who were living their Christian lives within well-settled lines of how much more their faith and service might mean to them than ever before. For years to come we shall be referring back to the date of the Biederwolf meetings. They mark an advance in the Christian life in this community from which we shall not dare to fall back. A multitude of professing Christians have been made to squarely face the situation that their Christian life has not been to them the commanding, glowing thing that it ought to be. Many who has ceased to be an influence for Christianity and who have not taken pains to express their faith have found again that men around them respond afresh when the professing Christian puts himself on record as caring about other men's souls.

"Among many rememberable words of Dr. Biederwolf will stand out these words to church people, 'Do not think that people are indifferent to your interests in their spiritual welfare.' Often it looks as if efforts went for nothing, but now we know that, though slowly, the life around us does answer to all earnest prayer and effort.

"I cannot take space for all the results which I rejoice in, but I must say a word of the wonderful opening of the hearts of Christian workers to each other. The enrichment of our Christian fellowship is greater than can be expressed. We could never speak to each other with the same certainty of response before. The hearts of the church will be a more united heart from this day forth.

"Long after the immediate activities are over, we shall find this great work of God's spirit amongst us reappearing in homes and churches, in individuals and in public life."

Miss Lillian Leighton Lamson, supervisor of Public Recreation:

"Solidarity is the keynote of the twentieth century. The Get-to-Gether spirit is the trend of the times.

"Dr. Biederwolf has aroused that spirit in Plainfield. He has come to us as a stranger and has accomplished what no organization or combination of organizations already in the city could possibly have done in bringing souls to Christ."

Miss Harriet O. Mattison, president Plainfield Association of Business Women:

"Did it pay? From the standpoint of a Christian, the answer cannot be otherwise than in the affirmative. The religious awakening must necessarily result in better living and a more definite consciousness of our responsibility toward others. Without question, this means that the community will be a better place in every way in which to live.

"One of the most important results of the evangelistic campign is the organization of the business women—a consummation for which many of us have long wished. I believe this to be of great importance because these women and girls touch the lives, either directly or indirectly, of practically all the people, and what they are is revealed in their work. One had only to attend the luncheons and noon-tide meetings where there were assembled two hundred or more girls, representing many branches of business, industry and the professions, to be impressed with the fact that in their hands lay the power to uphold in a large measure, the high ideals of living being set before them in such definite terms and to which they gave such earnest heed.

"Women have already demonstrated their ability to accomplish that which they purpose to do. If this is true of women in general, how much more true it is of business women whose training and experience has taught them how to work. How much greater then, will be their influence in an association in which their individual interests are united in a common standard. Great possibilities for mutual and community good have thus been presented and as they unfold and the lives of the girls grow richer and deeper as they develop them, the community will richly share in the bene- the standpoint of a 'professional busi- the standpoint of a "professional business' women, interested in the new Association of Business Women, which resulted directly from the evangelistic campaign, that the time, money and effort invested in the work will pay the biggest kind of returns to all concerned."

C. W. McCutchen, capitalist: "The series of religious meetings conducted by Dr. Biederwolf in Plainfield during the past six weeks have unquestionably resulted in great good to thousands of our citizens, and benefit to the community as a whole. There are two outstanding features which command the attention of all who are familiar with this wonderful movement. I refer

"First, to the opportunity which these great meetings have offered to individuals of all classes to declare in the presence of thousands of sympathizing witnesses their espousal of the cause of the Christian religion, and their acceptance of Jesus Christ as their personal Savior. To them it has been the occasion (which perhaps may not come again in their time) when, as it were, the doors of the Kingdom of Heaven were opened, and they have heard the voice of the messenger inviting them to enter, and they have gladly entered to find pardon for sin, solace in sorrow, strength in weakness, and hope, not only for this life, but for that which is to come.

"The advance which the Christian religion has attained in the past has come in great periodical awakenings, of which this one is a type, when the voices of the prophets—John the Baptist, St. Francis of Assisi, Martin Luther, John Knox, Dwight L. Moody, Major Whipple, and others have caused the world to pause, and commanded the attention of the peoples to the message of Heaven to men.

"'Almost every believer in Plainfield can hark back to some such occasion in his or her life when, with others, they pressed their way into the Kingdom. It has been a blessed opportunity for our people of Plainfield of all classes, and there are thousands who will date their spiritual birth from the Biederwolf meetings. To them it has been the occasion of their lives.

"The second outstanding feature is the marvelous unity of Christians of all sects and names who have, for the time at least, forgotten the things which separate them, and have concentrated their thoughts upon and been absorbed with the essential faith in which they all believe and agree.

"The beneficent influence of this marvelous unity of heart and mind among the people of the various churches, and of no church, has been irresistible. It has presented an object picture of the ideal church, which must have been in the mind of the Divine Head of the Church when in His prayer He said: 'That they all may be one.'

"One cannot avoid the impression that a great volume of beneficent spiritual energy is lost to the church, and to the world, by the divisions which have so long characterized the church. The obliteration not only of the sectarian differences, but of so-called social separations, has been a feature of these meetings which appeals to and satisfies the soul of the ardent Christian, and accounts in a large measure psychologically for the 'power' which has distinguished the great gatherings in the Tabernacle. It leads one to hope for the coming of the day when there shall be one church, 'one Lord, one faith, one baptism.'

"These have been great weeks for Plainfield, and I am much mistaken if the spiritual and moral atmosphere of our community will not from now on be distinctly better because of them."

A. C. Estes, secretary Y. M. C. A.: "Rich in the richness of Christ, Plainfield stands today favored among the cities of New Jersey.

"The very voice of God has spoken through the lips of his servant who for the past six weeks has labored so willingly, so loyally and so lovingly and because of whose ministry thousands today rise up and call him blessed.

"The great campaign is over. Dr. Biederwolf and his associates have gone from among us and the question is asked, 'What has it meant to our city? What is the result?' Back comes the answer strong and clear, 'Plainfield is nearer Christ today than it has ever been before.' Individual lives have been transformed and glorified, new hopes, new desires, new purposes have been born. 'Old things have passed away, all things have become new.'

"As it is with the individual, so will it be with the community, civic righteousness will prevail, the forces of evil will be overthrown and the Kingdom of the Eternal Son of God will be the Commonwealth in which citizenship will be further sought.

"These are the fruits of the labors and privileges of the campaign. What are the results? Eternity alone can tell. Christ alone can guage what it shall be in its fullness. But Plainfield thanks God today for the wonderful things it beholds!"

Charles E. Herring, pastor First Presbyterian church:

"Has the investment of so large a sum of money in the evangelistic campaign just finished paid?

"It is very evident to me that this self-confident, self-satisfied, conservative town of ours has been stirred as it has never been stirred before. A great mass of the people have today a new vision of moral and spiritual verities.

"I sat in the dining room of the Queen City last week and at the large table next to me where some of the leading men of the city were gathered, the topic of conversation was not about the political campaign but the evangelistic campaign. Not one was knocking it. All were agreed. There is a great undertone of religious interest in the city and the men who determined to stay away from the meetings and did stay away missed something. The meeting on Sunday night and the meeting of last night were simply wonderful. I am glad I did not miss them. I have seen people come down the trail I never expected would make such an open declaration of their faith.

"These meetings revealed the beautiful spirit of fellowship which existed among Christian ministers and Christian workers and the spirit has been intensified by the campaign.

"The white and the black, the rich and the poor, the cultured and the ignorant met together in front of the platform to confess that Jesus Christ was their Lord and Redeemer.

"'I happen to live next door to the clubhouse of the Knights of Columbus, and every night as the various processions passed I noticed that they turned on their great light to do honor to the marchers, and when Dr. Biederwolf passed, they cheered him.

"I don't wonder that they cheered him. To know Dr. Biederwolf better is to be conscious that the one great purpose of his life is to glorify Christ and point men to Him.

"I believe the investment paid."

Ernest R. Ackerman, former State Senator:

"In the words of Dr. Biederwolf uttered on the night of the Civico-Religious Parade, 'Will you ever forget it,' it does not seem that it would be possible for memory's photograph of the scene in the Tabernacle on Sunday night to become so dim that inspiration could not be drawn from the recollection of that memorable and wonderful occasion.

"Indeed the experiences of the last six weeks have all been wonderful. Surely the Spirit of God has been among us and the sight of His mighty power on Sunday and Monday evenings as evidenced by the great throngs surging down the sawdust aisles in the presence of many, many people was a sight seldom to be witnessed and never to be forgotten. The public confession of many hundreds of persons on those occasions, that they had decided for Christ or had pledged themselves anew to increased zeal on his behalf was memorable, and the vast throng on Sunday evening, exceeding seven thousand people and extending away out into the street, hundreds of them standing and with almost the stillness of death prevailing, while they listened almost breathlessly for the words to fall from the preacher's lips, fearing to move or almost to breathe, lest some word be lost, was a spectacle seldom witnessed, and when once seen, it became indelibly impressed on memory's page.

"Yes, Dr. Biederwolf's coming was a providential occurrence for from the lips of more than one non-professing Christian have I heard it stated that, if one man who had wandered far afield had been brought to himself and faced about in the right path, it was well worth what it cost; or as a woman recently proclaimed, if the result of Dr. Biederwolf's coming was only to provide Christian thought and conversation amid the family circle where there was none before, it was worth all it cost and his coming was not in vain. And these are but minor instances in the chorus of delight that will sound the praises of the evangelist in the many hundreds of homes, where new vows of decision and consecration have been made, and where the thoughts of purer and imperishable things have been established.

"For years to come Plainfield and vicinity will profit by this awakening and the great benefits to accure therefrom will be increasingly evident and in the words of the familiar hymn, 'Sweeter as the days go by.'"

Samuel Rothberg, merchant "I know that the Biederwolf campaign has already paid Plainfield and that its results will never be counted by mortal man. Solidarity is the keynote of twentieth century progress. The get-together spirit which has touched so many thousands of people in Plainfield shows the tendency of the times. Even though many may not agree in all respects with the teachings of a reformer, if any are brought to a better way of living a campaign of this sort is worth many times the time, effort and money expended. The beautifully trained chorus choir was in itself worth much more than Plainfield people can ever hope to realize. It brought so many people together in a cause the object of which was good. Dr. Biederwolf is a man of strong personal magnetism and in himself is an attraction, but his personality will have faded long before the good of his work will begin to be fully appreciated."

BIEDERWOLF PARTY BREAKS UP FOR SUMMER
MRS. BRAKE WILL BE MARRIED EARLY IN JUNE

Mr. Roberts and Mr. McEwan are the only two members of the Biederwolf party who will remain in Plainfield after this evening, and they leave tomorrow morning. Dr. Biederwolf and wife leave this afternoon for New York. They will spend a few days at Atlantic City, attending a conference of ministers, after which Mrs. Biederwolf will go to her home in Monticello, Indiana, and the evangelist will begin a tour of the States of New York Pennsylvania and Maryland. He will visit more than twenty cities where he has held evangelistic campiagns such as the one that closed here last night. Dr. Biederwolf will then go to Winona Lake for the Bible conference and Ctautauqua, where he will spend the months of July and August.

Mrs. Brake left this morning for Pittsburg. Rumor has it that the popular "Second Mother" of the party is to be married in June. The lucky man is D. F. Fuller, formerly shop work director with the Biederwolf party. The wedding will take place within a few weeks.

Mr. Heaton left today for Winona Lake, where he is platform manager during the Bible conference and Chautauqua. Mr. Sluyter will join him there after a few weeks spent with relatives in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Miss Boals goes to her home in Alton, Ill., where she will spend the summer at home.

Mr. Bachemeyer is already in Hahneman Homeopathic Hospital in Philadelphia, where he will undergo a serious operation, probably tomorrow. He will spend the summer recuperating.

It is home for Mr. McEwan. "Mac" lives in Binghamton, N. Y., and he always spends his summers there with his family. He leaves immediately after tonight's concert.

The only member of the party who will not be with Dr. Biederwolf next year is Mr. Roberts, who will sing in a Philadelphia church. He leaves tomorrow morning for Philadelphia to be with Mr. Bachemeyer. Dr. Biederwolf opens next September in San Jose, Cal. He then goes to Sacramento, then jumps to Wilkensburg, Pa., from there to Lawrence, Mass., and his last campaign will be either in Birmingham, Alabama, or in the Oranges.

TIME TO ALASKA'S GOLD CAMPS NOW IS REDUCED BY THREE DAYS

Three days have been cut off the travel time from Washington to the government railroad camps and to the argonauts' and tourists' gateways to Alaska by a short cut through Canada.

Steamer service from Prince Rupert to historic Wrangell and Skagway and other Alaska ports has been established by means of which, through the great wilderness of mountains in British Columbia, the tourist can reach Alaska in record time. The Grand Trunk Pacific steamers are to be sent to Alaska after reaching Prince Rupert from Vancouver with a "courier" to name the mountain passes and to point out the halibut fisheries on the way.

"This makes a direct route from the coast of Maine to the remote glaciers on the coast of Alaska," said W. P. Hinton, traffic manager, "by way of Prince Rupert, the Pacific port which was 'built to order,' where is one of the finest natural harbors in the world."

FORMER MAYOR BUCKLE IS CHOSEN FREEHOLDER

Former Mayor James F. Buckle was chosen by the City Council at last night's meeting as the successor of the late Freeholder J. Hervey Doane, who died a month ago, and he will fill the unexpired term. Mr. Buckle was nominated for the position by Councilman Sminck, who took occasion to comment on his especial fitness for the office. He said that Mr. Buckle had served the city as a councilman and Mayor and also as a member of the Board of Education and was thoroughly conversant with the city's needs. Mr. Buckle was the unanimous choice of the Council.

PRAYER MEETING NIGHT IN ALL LOCAL CHURCHES

All of the Plainfield churches have issued special invitations for converts at the Biederwolf meetings to attend the weekday prayer services tomorrow evening, and it will be prayer-meeting night everywhere in the city. Large crowds are expected at each church. Most of the pastors have made arrangements to receive the converts desirous of joining the church, at 7:30, a half-hour before the regular meeting. This will be done at the Park Avenue Baptist and other churches, and at all churches the ones who made decisions and reconsecrations are expected to attend.

EUCHRE AND RECEPTION AT THE COLUMBUS CLUB

McCaffrey, Edward Harding, Sr., J. Wilson, A. E. Kenney, Fred Pettingil, J. Brandt, A. Keenan, T. Coffey, Thos. SMALL BOARD A GOOD THING.

Union county voters will soon have to decide whether or not they wish a small Board of Freeholders to run the county, in keeping with the government of nearly every other county in the State. It is to be regretted that the matter is to be decided at a special election, at much expense to the taxpayers. The very manner in which the vote is to be submitted to the people, may, in fact, be the cause of the plan being again defeated here. That it has been successful in the majority of the counties of the State seems to be the impression of fair-minded judges of conditions before and after the adoption of the so-called Strong law, which makes the smaller board possible. While the Daily Press believes in the small board idea, it is also of the opinion that it would have been better to have waited until it could be selected by districts, instead of by the county at large, but now that the election is on us, the people would do well to adopt the act, and then strive to have districts created by the next Legislature.

"The argument has been advanced that the small board is more economical, but there is absolutely no proof in experience to substantiate this," says the Westfield Standard, in a broadside against making the change. The statement may be true, but it is rather remarkable that no charges of extravagance have been made in any of the counties where it has been adopted, such as are being continuously made where the old method of having a representative from every pocket-borough is still in force.

It is our belief, based on opinions given by residents of counties where there are small boards (Union is the only large county in the State that has not adopted the method), that the government has been better under them than under the large bodies. We have no statistics before us to prove this statement, but base it almost entirely upon the fact that no one has proposed that any county change back to the antique method, still in use in Union county. If the small boards are wrong in principle, there would be some other method suggested by the introduction of a bill in the Legislature.

The Standard assumes that if the act is adopted Westfield will be without a representative, because Elizabeth and Plainfield, by their larger number of votes would gobble up all the seven places on the Board. There is about as much sense in this argument as there would be in a similar argument regarding the three Assemblymen from this county. These have never come from any one community, and at the present time are from Elizabeth, Westfield and Plainfield. The small Board idea is a good one, and Union county can do no better than to adopt it next month. Whether the voters will do so remains to be seen, for up to date the only interest that has been stirred up has been created by the opponents, who are led by the members of the present large Board. These men, naturally, do not want to lose their jobs.

WHY?

Why is it that Plainfield cannot buy a fire engine without a lot of bickering on the part of the members of the Council, the fire chief and others? The situation which developed last night at the Council meeting is disgusting to every resident who wants additional protection, and wants it quick. It is now two years or more since Netherwood people were promised an engine, and during that time one piece of apparatus has been sent back, after being given months of test, and the Council has advertised for bids for another. The Daily Press has the highest regard for Chief Doane and his opinion, but the councilmen were elected to attend the city's affairs, and if they are satisfied after thorough investigation as to the make of engine wanted, it is up to them, and they are the ones to be criticised if it is a failure, not the Chief.

Councilman Hamilton, a member of the fire committee, and one who is familiar with all the steps that have been taken in the matter, makes some pretty frank statements in another column of tonight's Daily Press. And there is not a man in Plainfield that disputes that Mr. Hamilton has been a successful business man, used to dealing with big men, and of unquestioned integrity. We believe that he expresses the opinion of hundreds of citizens when he states that he is disgusted with the management of the fire department.

City Counsel Reed says that the La France bid should be thrown out because it is not exactly regular in that the price was reduced after the bids were opened. If that is irreguar, how does Mr. Reed reconcile his position in advocating the purchase of the Nott engine some months ago at a reduced figure, after the engine was delivered here, and was found to run a little short of specifications?

The American La France firm is one of the largest engaged in manufacturing fire appartus in the United States. Their machines are in use all over the country, and it is probable that they can point to forty communities where the engines are giving entire satisfaction, to one where there is trouble, and that is a pretty good proportion for any kind of a motor driven vehicle. The fire committee unofficially placed the order a month ago, although there is some question as to their authority, and the La France company acknowledged the order in writing, as is admitted by Chairman Cose, although he has lost the letter. Now some one has stirred up a lot of trouble, and virtually forced the city to go back on its contract.

The people want additional fire fighting apparatus. They believe in the members of the Common Council, or they would not have elected them. The average citizen knows nothing about the merits of one machine over another, but is satisfied to leave the question to the councilmen who have weighed the advantages and disadvantages of every make. It is time that the matter was settled and an engine purchased.

"The Sunday Times" of New Brunswick made its bow in the journalistic field in New Jersey this week. It is a lusty youngster of twenty-four pages, full of local news about the Middlesex county seat, and containing several interesting special articles and a four-page comic supplement. The Sunday newspaper field in New Jersey is somewhat restricted, and other newspapermen will watch the experiment with more than passing interest. Editor Boyd and his staff are to be congratulated upon their first issue. If the people of New Brunswick do not appreciate it, they do not know a good thing when they see it.

He didn't have a fortune of swollen stocks and bonds; he never was a plutocrat of which the land abounds; he never set the world on fire with eloquence or wit, for as a public speaker he never made a hit; he couldn't give a library or hospital to the poor; he hadn't change for things like that to help his fame to soar; he was but a humble citizen, the humblest of the lot, who never stole a single cent or growled at what he got. He passed away the other day and left to those behind no fortune great to speak of, to thrill the public mind. But when they held his funeral, 'twas a sight well worth to see, the way the folks all gathered round to show their sympathy. They gathered there in great big crowds, they came from far and near, and all to say a word of praise while standing at his bier; and the secret of this great respect, the charm of his renown, was just because he boosted for the things of his home town.

- Proctor's Theatre -

One of the most pretentious photoplay entertainments ever presented in ths city is on view at Proctor's today, when Edna Goodrich makes her debut as a screen star in "Armstrong's Wife," a powerful dramatic play written especially to suit her talents, and Miss Goodrich acts with a skill that is made more enjoyable by her beauty and charming personality. The other colossal picture today serves to introduce De Wolf Hopper in "Sunshine Dad," a wonderful comedy drama that brings all the sterling funmaking of this popular comedian to the fore with marked vividness. Ford Sterling provides an abundance of hearty laughs by his funny antics in "The Snow Cure," and the twelfth epsode of "Mary Page" is also shown. On Wednesday William Farnum will be seen in a typical Farnum role in "A Man of Sorrow," which was adapted to the screen by the William Fox forces from the famous stage success "Hoodman Blind," and in which Mr Farnum is assisted by a specially selected cast of talented artists. On Thursday a big double show will be presented, and includes one of the biggest Paramount favorites, Pauline Frederick, in "Bella Donna," conceded to be one of her greatest characterizations; William H. Thompson, the famous dramatic heavy, who will co-star with little Anna Lehr, in "Civilization's Child," one of the most intensely interesting Triangle pictures released, while Shorty Hamilton will take care of the funmaking by his comic capers in "A Rough Knight," the latest Keystone comedy. Among the features soon to be seen at Proctor's are Dustin Farnum in "A Gentleman from Indiana;" Charlie Chaplin in his last Essanay comedy entitled, "Police! Police!" which will be presented before any other theatre in this city. "The Secret of the Submarine," the new patriotic serial production, will soon commence a lengthy run, while toward the middle of next month Anna Pavlowa, the famous dancer, who had the whole of New York worshipping at her feet, will be seen in "The Dumb Girl of Portici," the wonderful photoplay which recently created a furore at the Globe Theatre, in that city.

--Astor Theatre--

J. Warren Kerrigan, moving picture favorite of theatre-going millions, has joined Bluebird photoplays, and will appear at the Astor Theatre today in the stirring, romantic drama, "The Gay Lord Waring." There is a thrill almost every moment in the five acts, the complications of intrigue and collusion, all for the possession of elusive dollars, keeps the spectator tensely interested.. Mr. Kerrigan has the support of a capable company of Bluebird artists, including Lois Wilson and other noted film stars in working out the intensely engaging situatons to a happy and logical conclusion. Tomorrow Blanche Sweet, the beautiful and popular star of the Lasky Company, will be seen at this theatre in the Lasky production of the thrilling drama, "The Black List," by Marion Fairfax, and William C. DeMille, the two noted dramatists, who wrote this production especially for Miss Sweet. The thoughts of "The Black List" struck terror to every miner's heart, for once his name was placed in its columns, it meant no more employment with a mining company. How Blanche Sweet, as a school teacher in a small mining town, forced the big corporation to abandon this procedure is presented in the story, which is as thrilling as it is unusual. That lessons may be taught from the screen as well as from the stage, pulpit or school, is shown in this daring indictment of labor conditions as they exist in certain mining States ever written by an American. How Vera (Blanche Sweet) wins over the president of the big corporation and secures equitable treatment for her people must be seen to be appreciated. To secure realistic scenes of a miner's strike and an attack upon a mine office, William C. DeMille, the director of this picture, took his company to a small mining town in Nevada. There the superintendent of a mine was induced to give his men a holiday and permit them to take part in the scenes. The miners enjoyed every moment they worked for the camera and carried out their respective roles in a most realistic manner. In fact, the attack upon the door of the mine office of the superintendent was so realistic that that gentleman stuck his head out of the window during the middle of a scene to make sure that all was well. At the conclusion of the day the Lasky Company gave a huge barbecue to the entire town, men women and children. In this production Miss Sweet is the American-born daughter of a Russian anarchist, and it is necessary for her to show in her mannerisms and dress that she is of foreign extraction. Miss Sweet searched for two weeks before finding a coat that had the proper character. She finally came across the one she wears in the foreign district of Los Angeles. In addition to this wonderful production, we will show the Paramount pictographs, which are meeting with great approval among the theatre-goers of Plainfield, also other interesting photoplays. Always a good show at the Astor Theatre, the theatre for Plainfielders to enjoy a pleasant afternoon or evening and see a "quality" show at "quantity" prices.

.· Plainfield Theatre. ·.

Fully one hour of delightful entertainment, composed mostly of singing, dancing and comedy, was provided Plainfield Theatre patrons yesterday by the "Broadway Follies," the latest Joe Woods' miniature musical comedy. Sixteen people are in the cast, most of them young and shapely girls, and with the addition of strikingly handsome costumes and a background of elaborate scenery, the offering proved to be one of the most acceptable of the season. "The Broadway Follies" will remain as the feature act of the Plainfield Theatre bill for the first half of the week, appearing at all performances afternoon and night.

Other numbers on the new bill include the comedy playlet, "Mr. Q Pidd—Matrimonial Agent," presented by Edward Hawley and company; Willie Field, eccentric comedian, and Townsend and Walsh, vocalizers and dancers.

Special photoplays will be included in the programs today and tomorrow, and the big special feature tomorrow night is the weekly appearance of the amateurs. Six entries have been received from "ambitious actros" who want a chance to show what they can do, and are willing to brave the "hook," the deluge of bundles from the flies and the garden hose to put their respective numbers across the footlights. Those wishing to compete for the prizes are requested to hand their names to Treasurer Dave Rogers at the box office before tomorrow night at 7 o'clock.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

In answer to F. W. Birds's communication, No. 23 (?), I wish to state that my letter of May 5, 1916, was written in juvenile language so that its meaning could be grasped by the young Birds. It seems too bad that Mr. Bird, upon retiring from the building business, cannot find a better use for his faithful hammer than knocking—why not retire it, too? A man who has the time that Mr. Bird has ought to be helping rather than standing aside and hurling ancient rotten fruit at those who are trying to do something that counts for the public good.

He ought to come into the Council and give us the benefit of his valuable services.

In locating the City Hall at Sixth street and Watchung avenue I do not think it is far enough from the business centre to cause great inconvenience to anyone.

Those who have served in the Council know the disadvantage of a location like the present one, namely, noise of traffic on the railroad, particularly so in the summer, when the windows are open, and should we have purchased a site in the business centre we would have been troubled by traffic and other street noises.

Supposing a good round sum were paid for the site would Mr. Bird, if he were the owner of the place, have been willing to sell it at its assessed value; wouldn't he have wanted, and been entitled to, a reasonable profit for the trouble of breaking up his home and locating elsewhere? Then why should not Mrs. Brooks be treated in like manner?

If Mr. Bird will investigate, in reference to the city park, he will find it was dedicated for park purposes only, and that some years ago a portion of it was set aside and two houses erected thereon that had to be removed before they were ever completed. The same rule applies to the city as to a private individual in that case.

For Mr. Bird's information I will state that I was a member of the Council at the time the amount paid for the Darling farm was decided upon, but not when that particular site was chosen.

As I understood it at that time the State Board of Health had given the city notice to discontinue using the present sewer beds and forced us to seek another place, and gave permission to go to the Darling farm and nowhere else.

Such being the case, what was the city to do? Go she must, whether she liked it or not, and she had to locate somewhere and had to take what she could get.

The buildings on the Darling farm when we bought it were worth in the neighborhood of ten thousand alone. Supposing we have paid too much for the Darling farm, well I am sorry; but I am much more concerned about the people in my particular neighborhood who have been paying for upkeep of sewers that they could not use and have had to keep on paying for cleaning cesspools for the past twenty years. Relieve them of that burden and they will willingly pay the interest on a few paltry thousands that might be saved by condemnation proceedings that would have delayed matters indefinitely.

The people that I represent, or misrepresent, if you will, want action, and want it now.

Procrastination is what troubles us. If former Councils had done some of the things they neglected instead of fearing the criticism of Mr. Bird's brand of citizens, we would be better off. A City Hall, site included, could have been built twenty years ago for $80,000. We have been paying about ($3,000) three thousand dollars per year for rent for the last twelve years, and probably ($1,500) fifteen hundred per year before that, a total nearing fifty thousand dollars, so say nothing of extra expenses because of the different offices being segregated, and do not own a keyhole—more than half paid for a City Hall and have none.

Are we to continue that kind of business indefinitely?

Not if I remain in the Council with men of the kind we now have.

It seems that Mr. Bird has flown to Detroit. I could forgive "them few unkind words" were he in Milwaukee.

Peck us again, Mr. Bird.

CHARLES C. GRAVES.

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

Religious controversies and adverse criticism of religious leaders does no good, and they furnish your subscribers very disagreeable and uninteresting readying. What do we care what A. or B. thinks about Mr. Biederwolf or Mrs. Eddy, or thinks about Mr. Biederwolf's opinion of Mrs. Eddy and Christian Science?

If I were the editor I would admit no such matter to the columns of the Press; it does not further righteousness.

"No matter what he said. You are not the funny man on this paper. Cut that out."—Richmond Times-Dispatch

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant, and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How a Mouse, A Bird and a Sausage Kept House.

And Fetched the Water From the Spring.

[Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales.]

"OH, daddy, it's such a long time since we've had a story!" cried Evelyn.

"Only since last night," said Jack. "Begin, daddy."

So daddy told them: "Once upon a time, quite a long, long while ago, a mouse, a bird and a sausage started to keep house together. All went well with them for a long time. They lived in great comfort and prosperity, and each one was able to put some money in the bank for a rainy day. The bird's duty was to fly into the woods each day and bring back wood to burn in the kitchen stove. The mouse fetched water, and the sausage saw to the cooking.

"Now, when people are very well off they always begin to long for something new, and so it came to pass that one day when the bird flew off to get the fagots he met a fellow swallow. The first thing he did was to begin boasting about how fine his household ran. But the other swallow sneered at him for being such a simpleton, who did all the hard work, while the other two stayed at home and had a good time."

"Wasn't it fun to fly through the woods, daddy?" asked Jack.

"Yes, but you see when the mouse had made the fire and fetched the water from the spring she could go to her little room and rest till it was time to set the table. The sausage had only to watch the pot and see that the food was cooked enough, and then when it was near dinner time he just threw himself into the pot, rolled in and out among the vegetables three or four times, and there they were, all seasoned, salted and buttered, ready to serve.

"Then when the swallow came home and laid his little bundle of fagots down on the hearth they all sat down and enjoyed a good meal. Often they told each other stories till bedtime. Then, full of good food, happy in friendship and ready for bed, they all slept as snug and tight as a bug in a rug.

"But after his swallow friend had told the bird what a simpleton he was the bird lay awake all that night and wondered if it was true that he was doing the biggest part of the work. You see, children, that terrible thing we call selfishness was getting a hold of him.

"So the next morning, when the mouse and the sausage woke up happy as anything, the bird refused to go to the wood and bring in his little bundle of fagots. He told the mouse and the sausage that he had been their servant long enough, that he had been a great fool to work so hard and that it was now time to make a change and arrange the work in some other way."

"What did the mouse and the sausage say, daddy?" Jack asked when daddy stopped. But daddy looked at the clock and kissed the children good night.

Marrying a Butterfly

Ralph Gives Up His Fall Overcoat in Order that His Wife May Have an Opportunity to Wear Her Finery.

"Oh, Ralph, there is the loveliest plan afoot!" exclaimed Ethel Gordon, fairly dancing with her delight, as she ran to meet her husband. "There is to be a special train to Kansas City to hear a Shakespearean play—I forget which one—on Thursday of next week."

"Why, I thought you did not care for Shakespeare," Ralph stopped with his coat in his hand to look at her in his surprise.

"No more I do, stupid," retorted Ethel, pinching his ear, "but it will take me out of this hole for a few hours, and I can wear an evening dress——"

"Oh, that's it!" interrupted Ralph, turning to hang up his coat.

"We can go, can't we?" asked Ethel, a note of anxiety in her voice

"What'll it cost, fare and all?" He uttered a low whistle when she named the sum.

"Every one of the Neighborhood Club is going, and I told Mrs. Morton that I was sure you would want to be included, as you are crazy about Shakespeare." Ethel was hovering around her husband like a restless bird.

"You know it is only the money that makes me hesitate," he answered. "It is dreadful not to have a bit of a reserve; to be afraid to spend a dollar." Ralph's tone was hardly audible, for he was speaking more to himself than to the little woman whom he had learned by experience would do nothing but scatter the money in hand without regard for the future. His mother's warning sounded in his ears, "Ethel has never faced responsibility; therefore there is the more need for a reserve fund for emergency."

"You are such an old tightwad," chaffed Ethel, raising his face to look in his eyes. "Surely you will not disappoint me."

"No, dear, I will try to arrange it so we can go. I was planning to buy a fall overcoat this month. That can go; I can get along without one." Ralph's tone was cheerful.

"Oh, good!" Ethel stooped and kissed her husband. Ralph was hurt that she was willing that he should sacrifice so much for her pleasure. The truth was she had not even heard what his plan was to raise the money. All she comprehended was that he had consented to go.

"And you will wear your evening clothes. I have not seen you in them since we were married."

"I will see whether the other men are going in regalia. You know this will not be a box party." Ralph drew his wife to his knee, and she commenced rearranging his necktie with her deft little fingers, and drawing away as far as possible without rising to observe the effect of her efforts. Suddenly she threw her arms around his neck and kissed him.

"Oh, I am so glad we are going," she exclaimed rapturously. All her delight seemed to pass over into his heart and a great happiness possessed him: happiness in her joy.

"Oh, that I could make her happy all the time. My little butterfly was made for the bright weather of prosperity, not to buffet against adverse winds," he sighed inaudibly. "It is up to me to keep the weather warm and bright."

NEWS AND VIEWS
Conducted by
THE W. C. T. U.

"I am writing now particularly to you mothers of the country who are bringing up boys. Your boy should be taught the truth about alcohol. He ought to know how alluring its taste is when once acquired, and how hard it is to break the habit when once it has fastened upon him. He should be taught that for his own happiness and welfare and for his efficiency and ability to serve, for the prosperity of his business and the solidarity of his family, he should cultivate total abstinence as the only safe and proper way to avoid a catastrophe. Today nearly all business men, from the farmer to the munition-maker, are asking applicants for jobs whether they drink. The excessive and the 'temperate' drinker as well is turned away. Great railways, like the Pennsylvania and other trunk lines, refuse to employ anyone addicted to this habit in even the mildest degree. The Pennsylvania further refuses to sell alcoholic beverages to its patrons, taking the risk of losing them rather than assuming the responsibility of injuring them. The street railways and all great industries either refuse employment to drinkers absolutely or take them only when total abstainers are not to be had.

A victory which forecasts the end of the wide-open town policy for Atlantic City was the defeat of Mayor Riddle for re-election. His whole ticket also received the same treatment at the hands of the voters. An organized crusade is in progress to wipe out the segregated district, and many arrests of proprietors and inmates have been made.

In a speech at the May Day celebration of people from all parts of the Olympic peninsular, gathered at Sequim, Wash., Mayor Gill, of Seattle, was warmly applauded when he dwelt upon the wonderful change for the better in Seattle since the dry law went into effect, and declared that he is now a firm believer in prohibition.

The prosecuting attorney of Kittitas county, Washington, recently stated that crime in that county had been reduced 75 per cent. since the dry law went into effect. Last year, in May, there were twenty-two prisoners in the county jail, this year at the same time only one, and he a hold-over from the last session of court. Practically all the crime in the county comes from bootlegging to the Indians.

"Smash everything, including the fixtures, in all so-called drug stores which are really saloons," is the order of Mayor Gill, of Seattle, to the police.

"I am willing to take my chance with any jury if those fellows go into court and claim damages," continued the Mayor. "No sensible man believes that a drug store that carries $2,000 worth of liquor stock is conducting a legitimate business. My directions to the police are to make it plain to the bootleggers that this is not a kid glove campaign.

"The bootleggers' plan is to take their chances with fines in court, thinking to make big profits between arrests. By appeals they propose to stave off convictions that would be sufficient to close their places of business. There is only one way to beat this, and that is to emphasize our views that these men are violators by smashing up their sham drug stores."

Such a campaign should prove rather discouraging to the lawless element.

That financial ruin does not inevitably follow upon the heels of prohibition is evidenced by reports from various sections of the country. In Washington, the press declares, there is little unemployment, wages are good and getting better, retail business is improving, lumber is moving, people are building homes and repainting old ones, the banks are full of money, and prosperity may be said to have arrived. The Spokane Chronicle remarks:

"There are no applications for county charity now from any family which has an able-bodied man at its head.

"It cost the county 20 per cent. less to take care of the needy this month than during April of last year. Fuel orders were fewer, and there was a marked decrease in the number of requests for groceries.

"There is plenty of work to be done, and Spokane men are doing it, the report shows. The number of prisoners at the county jail is only a fifth of what it was last year. The expense of running the poor farm is decreasing and the number of indigents there is 25 per cent. less than in April, 1915."

In Seattle, Washington, numerous discarded silver whiskey flasks were among the articles contributed to the "melting pot fund" for the Children's Orthopedic Hospital.

The Associated Press reports that the largest demonstration by women ever held in Scotland occurred May 13, in Glasgow, when, as a protest against the manufacture and sale of liquor during the war, 30,000 women, headed by bands, marched to the green, where speeches were made demanding prohibition.

Leaders of the Michigan dry campaign committee are organizing college students in every educational institution of the State for the fight against the liquor traffic. Nine-tenths of the students and faculty at the State University of Michigan are already on the dry side, according to a statement of Harry G. McCain, who is in charge of the intercollegiate movement.

"Opinion and practice at Ann Arbor as to drinking," said Mr. McCain, "have been steadily changing for the better in the last three years. I believe the State University alone will furnish 500 workers for this campaign, and we may get 300 at Ypsilanti.

"Every educational institution in Michigan is being organized for the campaign. An army of 5,000 students from the various colleges will be busy during the summer vacation distributing literature, canvassing communities and making speeches. Debates will be a feature of the campaign."

WHEN VERDUN WAS ENGLISH.

It was in the city of Verdun that Napoleon, in 1803 interned the greater portion of the English tourists in France, who were suddenly arrested on May 23 of that year, on the rupture of the treaty of Amiens, as a reprisal for the seizure by the British of all the French ships in British ports. For a dozen years some thousands of British tourists lived in compulsory exile at Verdun. Many of them were people of wealth and title, who had taken their wives and children, their horses, carriages and servants with them to France. Verdun became, temporarily, an English town. English shops sprang up. The exiles established their own clubs, including a jockey club, and regular race meetings and a pack of harriers were organized. There was also an English church at Verdun during the long wait for peace.

SOLITAIRE BASEBALL THE LATEST IN JERSEY; AT LEAST THEY TELL US SO

Remember a short time ago, the story was told of Rupert Mills, a Newark Federal leaguer of last year; how his contract calling for $3,000 per year was ignored by Pat Powers; how he intended complying with all conditions of his contract, that he would be able through law to gather his money, and how Pat Powers denied most vehemently such a tale? Well, Rupert is on the job, working just as hard as though the old Feds were in the game, for he wants that $3,000 which his contract called for! And the story of Rupert's daily toil on the old Fed grounds in Newark causes to be introduced the game of "Solitaire aBseball."

But listen to this story that is told by the sporting editor of the Newark News:

"Yes, I've played ten games since the season started, and won them all," said Rupe Mills, the Peps' first baseman, just as he reached the Newark bench after scoring from second on his own single to left field," writes the News man.

"Playing the whole game single-handed has whipped me into good shape," said Rupe, "and with the hot weather coming on you can expect to see great things of me. It is kind of hard to slam 'em out, beat the ball down to the bag and then have to call myself out. All I'm sorry about is that I'm my own umpire and I can't go back at myself, for the first thing I know I'll be chasing myself to the club house and Pat Powers is liable to fine me ten. When I get through in this league I ought to be a valuable utility player.

"If I don't lead the league in everything but errors, it won't be my fault. So far I have knocked the cover off the ball every time. That's no joke! All of my slams were hits, for I ought to know. Rupe Mills is official scorekeeper. And how can I help hitting the ball safe every time when I pitch to myself? It's very simple, very simple! Besides, I know just what I ask myself to pitch. Don't I have to beat the ball to the plate, catch it, and then throw myself out?

"I'm up against it sometimes. For instance, yesterday, when I slid into third base, I wrenched my ankle and had to put myself in to run for me. Then there is one play I cannot pull. That is the double steal. Everything else is easy.

"I report every morning at 9:30 o'clock for morning practice and work until 12 o'clock. I do mostly pitching in the morning to get wise to my curves in the afternoon game, and when the umpire—that's me, too—calls "Play!" I just go in and bang the ball all around the lot.

"You'll have to excuse me now, for it's my turn at bat next. I'll see you later. Goodby!"

And with that Rupe started in to score runs for the Mills nine against the Laborers' Club, which happened to be on the grounds to fix up the pitching box. When Rupe consulted with Official Scorer Mills he found that he had scored a total of 346 runs for the season and bids fair to equal the record made by Mulligan of Casey's Mudville team.

"After quitting practice at noon Rupe goes home and comes back at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and plays until 6 o'clock. Luck has been with Rupe, for he hasn't had to play an extra inning game as yet. He keeps in good shape and works conscientiously, even though he isn't compelled to work harder than just report and get in uniform. There are generally a few fellows who play with Mills, but more often Willie, the lone ground keeper, is Mills' crowd of spectators.

The line-up for today's game follows: Mills, 1b; Mills, 2b; Mills, 3b; Mills, ss; the same, lf; some more of the same, cf; ditto, rf; again, pitcher; once more, catcher.

Here is some news for Coach Ralph S. Patch. Joseph Newell, at present a pupil in the eighth grade at St. Mary's and recognized as the best juvenile pitcher in this city, announced yesterday that he would enter High School this fall. He also stated that he would try to land a berth on the baseball team. Should he succeed, the Canadians have cause for worry. Joe's latest feat was pulled off Saturday when he fanned sixteen of the Inner Triangles. Newell is the hurler for the P. A. N. S., a club that numbers among its members many other diamond lights.

Henny Alberts insists that, as a pinch hitter, he never did amount to anything. Those who saw him perform in that capacity on Saturday are anxious to dispute his assertion. Henny is "all to the mustard" when it comes to relieving the suspense of an anxious moment.

Joe Clark is a member of Poling's Braves and is having a big season at the first station. Joe is employed in New York City and plays baseball on Saturdays. With the big stick, Joseph is a past master, and as a fielder he has few equals. Manager Poling is willing to admit that the big boy is a tower of strength to the Pan forces.

We believe that a prediction was made, a few days ago, in regards to Sammie Semer's chances of success on the diamond. Are we right? According to the latest reports, the prediction, if it were made, as as accurate a one as has ever been recorded. Keep at it, Sam.

"Shakey" Clarke is a regular Heine Zimmerman. Shake discussed a little matter with "Ump." Hansen on Saturday and as a result had to leave the fray. The umpire was perfectly right in banishing Clarke but, on the other hand, "Shakey' was not guilty of any abusive talk during the mixup. Fortunately, matters were quickly settled and the reserves did not get that expected call.

Tone Denny is of the opinion that he is through as a pitcher. Tone is willing to admit that his brother, Jack, is the pitcher of the family. But there are a few hundred fans who insist that Anthony is by no means a "back number," and while he may or may not be better than Jack, he has got the goods.

Teeling, who for some reason or other, is hiding under the name of Smith, is a great addition to the T. A. B. team, inasmuch as he is a great hitter. It seems rather unusual that the Abstainers should have three catchers on their roster. Did we say three? Beg pardon, that should have been four. Arthur Kyle is also a T. A. B. man.

The first four men on the Netherwood batting order form a combination that is rightly called the "Ironsides." When that quartet is given the free rein, things begin to hum.

Seen and Heard on the Street

Courteous conductor on Fourth street trolley trying to help woman and young child up the steps of his car, only to get this hot sally from the indignant woman: "Look here, young man, what do you think I've been getting on trolley cars these past eighteen years for? When I need assistance I'll ask for it."

Big gray horse cheating lawn-mower out of a job by nibbling on the front lawn grass of a house at Sycamore and East Fifth streets.

Man walking down North avenue this morning during rain carrying closed umbrella in his hand.

Stranger carrying overcoat and grip on West Front street this morning, asking several persons where the nearest pawnshop was located.

Rod and Reel

New Jersey's pickerel season opened Saturday and the indications are that the angling for that variety of fish will be unusually good. The long hard winter has had a good effect on the fish and from all sections of the State come words highly encouraging to those who are awaiting the lighting of the legal ban. Trout anglers claim that the pickerel are so plentiful that they are a nuisance to them.

During the latter part of last season many large pickerel were taken from the upper water of Deal Lake and many of the local trollers are planning to make Deal their fishing grounds. Taylor's pond will also be visited by many.

Each year the best catches are reported from the Forge pond, which is located at Laurelton (formerly Burrsville), between Point Pleasant and Lakewood. A. C. Clayton, who has charge of the fishing boats at that place, reports that the pickerel are more plentiful this season than they have been for 25 years. These fishing grounds are sought each year by many anglers from this vicinity.

The bass season does not open until June 15.

GLICK WILL COACH.

Princeton, May 23.—Frank Glick, captain of the Tiger eleven last Fall, will have full control of football at Mercersburg Academy this fall. The Pennsylvania institution has been anxious to secure Glick for some time, and just recently induced him to sign a one-year contract.

RALPH RUNYON WILL OPPOSE CLASSY LOT

Plainfield Boy Due to Meet Country's Best Vaulters Saturday Next.

The greatest number of athletes ever entered for the annual track and field championships of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America will compete in the titular meet, which takes place Friday and Saturday in the Harvard stadium. More than 1,200 entries, including that of Ralph Runyon, the former Plainfield High School athlete, now attending Penn State College, were received for the championships from twenty-four institutions, scattered from one end of the country to the other. The Plainfielder is entered in the pole vault against the best vaulters in the country. For the first time in the history of the sports, Leland Stanford, Jr., University will send on a team of athletes from California, while the University of California will again be represented by a strong squad.

If in numbers there is strength, Yale should be a powerful factor against the field, for the New Haven institution has nominated the limit number of contestants in every event, with a total entry of 146. Cornell, the present intercollegiate championship holder, has the second largest entry, naming 122 men, and Princeton is third, with 111. Michigan is well up in the list, with 81 names, while Leland Stanford has 32 and California 19.

ONE PLAINFIELD WOMAN ENTERED IN BIG EVENT

Some of the foremost women tennis players in the country will compete in the annual invitation tournament of the Pelham Country Club today. Among the entries are Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the national champion, and Miss Martha Guthrie, whom Miss Bjurstedt defeated in the final round of the metropolitan singles at Forest Hills last Saturday.

It is possible that Mrs. George Wightman and Mrs. Tom Bundy, who, as Miss Hazel Hotchkiss and Miss May Sutton, respectively, were national champions, will take part in the tournament.

Miss Bjurstedt was the winner in last year's tournament. The runner-up was Mrs. Marshall McLean. It is believed that Mrs. McLean will again compete. Mrs. Rawson Wood and Mrs. Spencer Fullerton Weaver, formerly of Plainfield, the metropolitan doubles champions, will probably play in both the singles and doubles.

"WALTER JOHNSON NOT ON THE MARKET"--GRIFF

Cleveland, O., May 23.—President James C. Dunn yeserday refused o deny the rumor current here that the Cleveland American League Baseball Club is in the market for Walter Johnson, star pitcher of the Washington Club.

"Of course we would buy Johnson," said Dunn. "However, we wouldn't go stark, raving mad in the price we would pay. We are willing to pay big money, but the price must be fair."

Washington, May 23.—Clark Griffith, manager of the Washington club, said last night that the rumor of Walter Johnson's sale to the Cleveland club was absurd. He denied emphatically that any negotiations were on.

CONGRESSMAN IN FAVOR OF NATIONAL STADIUM

The Congressional Committee on Appropriations has reported favorably on the Hulbert Stadium bill, which provides for the construction of a national playground to include a stadium in which national and international games can be conducted in East Potomac Park, Washington, D. C.

This information was received yesterday by Frederick W. Rubien, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union, in a telegram from Congressman Murray Hulbert, who introduced the bill.

NEW SCHOOL CHAMP.

Filmore K. Robeson, of Pawling School, former North and South amateur champion and holder of the Eastern interscholastic championship, has started well in his attempt to retain this last title for the coming year by winning the golf medal for the best score in the qualifying round of the Eastern interscholastic golf championship, played at Apawamis yesterday. He turned in a card of 41, 39—80, which was three strokes above that of his nearest competitor, Thomas Worden Hunter, Jr., of Lawrenceville, who went out well in 39, but returned at a slower gait in 45, for a total of 84.

MAY TIE THE "CAN" TO "BILL" DONOVAN

"BILL" DONOVAN.

The rumor will not down that Bill Donovan's job as manager of the Yankees is in jeopardy.

The story is that a certain baseball manager of promise is paving the way to work the entering wedge into the American league club. Every time Donovan loses a game this individual laughs up his sleeve, for he expects next winter that the can will be tied to the former Tiger pitching star and that then will come the announcement of the appointment of the man in question, who now is managing one of the National League teams.

This rumored prospective change of management would be a pleasant surprise to New York fans, for the manager referred to is extremely popular there and his acquisition may cause the belief that the Yankees are cut out to win pennants from the time he takes charge.

NETHERWOODS CARRY OFF A JUNIOR CHAMPIONSHIP

The Netherwood A. A. baseball team won a rubber match from the Putnam A. C. combine yesterday by an 8 to 7 score. The first game went to Netherwood by a score of 20 to 4, and the Putnams came back with a 14 to 8 victory. Yesterday's game gives the Netherwoods the title.

The winners made twelve hits against their opponents' eight and two errors, while the losing side was recording five. R. McDonald did the best work with the bat, getting three singles, while Henry and Renni each got a singe and a double.

GLEN RIDGE TURNED TABLES ON LOCALS

Westfield Also Lost Metropolitan Golf Series Yesterday Afternoon at Cranford.

By defeating the Forest Hill players in the team competition of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, the Englewood team continues in the lead of the New Jersey section with four victories and no defeats. The Englewood women have scored wins from Forest Hill and Glen Ridge, an earned victory and a default from each team. Baltusrol and Cranford also won yesterday, making three victories and a tie contest for their records. Baltusrol defeated Norwood at Baltusrol 9 points to 3, and the Cranford team journeyed to Westfield for its triumph, 8 points to 3.

The other two contests played yesterday resulted in reversals of the verdicts the last time these teams met. Montclair sprang a surprise by defeating the hitherto invincible Hackensack team, 8 to 3, and Glen Ridge turned the tables on the Plainfield contingent, winning by a single point, 6 to 5, in a closely contested match. Queries--Comment--Answers

Query—Have the umpires for the remaining two interscholastic league games been chosen? Is it planned to engage local talent or to go outside for an official?—F. T.

Answer—Umpires are picked up as they are needed by the city and borough High Schools. The system is a poor one, but nevertheless the managers of the series generally make eleventh-hour selections and the talent employed is not always the best. Whether they will "shop in Plainfield" or go outside is a matter that is up to them. There are plenty of good baseball umpires in Plainfield, but the high school officials as a rule ignore home talent and go elsewhere.

Query—What is the weight per bushel for the following commodities—wheat, sweet potatoes, grass and bran?—N. J.

Answer—Wheat, sixty pounds; sweet potatoes, fifty-five pounds; grass, fifty pounds; and bran, twenty pounds.

Query—What are good salmon flies, and what is the usual length of a salmon rod?—V. H.

Answer—The following are good salmon flies: Silver Doctor, Jock Scott, Silver Gray, Durham Ranger, Dusty Miller and Black Fairy. Salmon rods are generally fifteen feet in length, are built with double-hand grips, as both hands are used in casting.

Query—How many square miles has China proper? How about the population?—H. T.

Answer—China proper has 1,582,420 square miles and the population is 302,110,000.

Query—Will you tell me who won the Vanderbilt Cup races in 1909 and 1910?—V. B.

Answer—Grant won the cup races in 1909 and 1910 in an Alco car.

ODD FELLOWS HOLD FIRST OF GROUP MEETINGS HERE

Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., acted as host last night for the first of a series of group meetings to be held by lodges under the supervision of District Grand Master George H. Newton, of Rahway. The gathering was in Odd Fellows' Hall in the Babcock building and was well attended despite the inclement weather. Delegations were present from East County Lodge, No. 27, of Rahway; Westfield Lodge, No. 169, and Queen City Lodge, No. 226, of Plainfield. Noble Grand Herbert Perry, of Plainfield Lodge, had charge of the meeting.

The purpose of the group meetings is to bring the lodges of the district into closer touch with each other and from the success of last night's gathering this idea will be fully carried out. Most of the visitors last night made addresses and the plan of action for the future was discussed. A smoker was enjoyed in conclusion. The next meeting will be held at Perth Amboy Thursday night and a third will take place at Elizabeth, Friday night.

SPECIAL PRAYER SERVICE.

Special attention is called to the midweek prayer meeting to be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow night. It will be a testimony and prayer service, and it is expected that many persons who have been attending the Biederwolf meetings will be present and have a part. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested. "Go to Church" Sunday will be observed at this church on Sunday in conjunction with all the other churches in the city and borough.

FUNERAL OF R. O. STEWART.

In the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends, a simple funeral service was held this morning over the body of Robert O. Stewart, whose death occurred Sunday at his home on West Seventh street after a long illness. It was conducted by the Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel, assisted by Rev. J. S. Zelie, of Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. Burial will be made this afternoon in the West Nottingham church-yard, Maryland.

TEN DAYS OR $10.

Arrested last evening by Patrolman Keller, of the borough police, on the double charge of being under the influence of liquor and acting suspiciously, Jack Jones, who gave his address as 469 West Front street, was given a sentence of ten days or $10 when arraigned before Recorder Hand this morning. He didn't have the ten so he was taken to Somerville.

HUGHES PLURALITY IN OREGON 30,000

Women Voted Heavily For Associate Justice.

Portland, Ore., May 23. — Justice Hughes probably has carried Oregon by a plurality of more than 30,000 over Senator Albert B. Cummins. Incomplete returns representing approximately 60 per cent of the vote in the state outside Multnomah, the most densely populated county, give him a total of 29,384, with 15,491 for Cummins. Former Senator Burton has 5,711 votes.

These figures give Hughes a plurality, outside Multnomah, of nearly 14,000 over his nearest opponent. If this same ratio is maintained in the remainder of the vote Hughes will have a clear plurality over Cummins of about 30,000. With the complete vote in Multnomah county tabulated Justice Hughes has 20,873 votes to 8,713 for the Iowa senator, a plurality of nearly 15,000. Justice Hughes likewise has received a clear majority of more than 20,000 over all Republican presidential candidates combined.

Colonel Roosevelt, whose name was not on the ballot, received only scattering votes from various parts of the state.

The primary campaign just closed has been regarded here as one of the most important held this year in the United States. Oregon was the only state in which the name of Charles E Hughes appeared for the presidency. In other words, it was the first real test before the voters of the United states as to his popularity.

The returns so far received indicate that the women voted for him in a ratio of almost 2 to 1. The German American sentiment seems to have cut but little figure. One of the most numerous German societies in the state made an official appeal to its members to vote for Senator Cummins of Iowa, but this seems to have had little or no effect in the result.

BRITISH DRIVEN BACK.

Germans Inflict Serious Blow at Vimy Ridge.

London, May 23.—The German left wing on the Anglo-Teuton line in the west dealt a serious blow to the solidarity of the British front by penetrating, according to official admission by the British war office, the British first line trenches on a front of about 1,500 yards (a little less than a mile) to a depth varying between 100 and 300 yards at the north end of Vimy ridge, about halfway between Loos and Arras.

The German war office reports the capture of several lines of British positions over a front of two kilometers (one and one-quarter miles) near Givenchyen-Gohelle, which lies slightly to the northwest of the Vimy ridge.

$15,000 BUILDING FUND STARTED WITH $2,900

Announcement was made at another meeting of the Hebrew Community Home Building Fund Committee, held last night, that up to date $2,800 has been subscribed to the $15,000 fund which will be collected in this city to erect such a building. The announcement was an auspicious start for the fund, for which a ten-day campaign will be conducted here beginning Thursday night, June 1, when a mass meeting will be held in Columbus Auditorium. The committee have secured a number of well-known speakers for the occasion, among whom are Herbert M. Straus, of New York; Faulks Younkers, of New York; ev. H. Masliansky, the noted Jewish orator, and Max Levy, the State president of the Young Men's Hebrew Association. A number of prominent city officials will occupy positions on the platform.

Plans for the structure, which will cost approximately $25,000, are now in the hands of architects, and details will be given out shortly. The proposed building will be erected on a lot donated for the purpose on Washington avenue, directly across from the Berfelden Mills site.

EVERY LITTLE BONNET HAS A STORY ALL ITS OWN

BY BURTON HOLMES

Permission Paramount Pictures Corporation.

IF one has spent the greater part of his life,—as I have,—in the study of his fellow man as he is to be found, each in his own peculiar and particular scenic environment, his costumes, manners and modes of life,—his palaces, houses, hovels or huts,—his means of transportation and methods of war-fare,—his religion, his politics and his pleasures, one does not of necessity have to be a "man-milliner" also to take a huge amount of interest in what his fellow-man wears and how and why he wears it. Some sage has remarked "Clothes make the Man"; while I cannot subscribe to this sentiment in toto,—having seen a large number of Men (with a capital "M") in many parts of the world who were strangers to any form of sartorial adornment whatsoever,—I must say that what a man wears on his head, body or feet and how he wears it, cuts a very important figure to the photographer and to those for whom he is taking the pictures. So, naturally, it has become a fad of mine to pick up unusual hats and characteristic types of native garb while collecting the material for the Travelogues and the Paramount-Burton Holmes Travel Pictures.

In the days when Japan was a fighting nation, the women of the upper classes were perpetually dueling, and this was carried on to such a fatal extent that the male population became decidedly diminished in numbers. As this threatened danger to the State, in case of an attack from without, the Emperor issued a decree that the nobles must wear hats made of pottery, and made it an offence against the State if any gentleman should be seen without a hat, on the assumption that no gentleman could carry on a bona fide duel without getting his hat broken, and so, by inference, it would be taken for granted he had been fighting if his hat was not in evidence. The present light hat worn by Korean gentlemen still retains the shape of its great-great-grandfather, the porcelain hat. The mourner's costume in Korea is also a result of queer customs; it is of crash, with an enormous basket-like hat and a face-shield of crash on two sticks, to be held in either hand. No gentleman who wishes to retain the respect of the community will permit himself to be seen on the street without his face being shielded during the period of mourning. In the case of a father, I believe a dutiful and loving son wears this garb of mourning for three years; in the case of a brother, I think it is two years; for a mother or wife, one year and for a mother-in-law I regret to say that I have never found any record of this costume being worn.

There is probably no more peculiar or useless hat in all the world than the hats worn by the Parsees in India and certainly no form of headgear so intimately associated with the very history of a race of people. This hat of the Parsees is a brimless, stiff, oil-cloth "creation", black and shiny and dotted with gold spots; it is the very last style of hat one would choose to wear as a protection against the broiling sun of India. This shadeless, homely, black hat, made in the shape of the hoof of the sacred cow of India, was forced upon the Parsees by the Hindoos, when some 1200 years ago the Parsees fled from the persecutions of the Mohammedan Persians into India, because they themselves were followers of Zoroaster. The ruling race in India, being followers of Brahma, permitted them to remain only under certain conditions, one of which was the obligatory donning of the great-great ancestor of the modern Parsee hat, shaped like the hoof of the holy cow of India, to indicate that the wearer had placed his head beneath the feet of the animal held sacred by the dominant race which gave asylum to the exiled Parsees.

The delightful custom of decorating the heads, necks and shoulders of arriving and departing guests probably obtained in the hospitable islands of the Hawaiian group for many hundreds of years before the "original" Captain Cook—not the arctic explorer discovered this paradise of the Pacific. Even today wonderful garlands of flowers intertwined into solid ropes of floral beauty called "leis" are wound around the hats or necks of guests to typify the all enveloping welcome of Hawaiian hospitality. Even more beautiful and far more lasting are the wreaths or leis made from the plumage of marvelously beautiful tropic birds, sometimes from the feathers of a peacock. These are often worn permanently on the hats of native gentlemen or resident Americans.

The toilet of a gentleman from Java is even more quaint. This costume consists of a white shirt and collar, a funny, tight fitting little bob tailed jacket, with many buttons up to the chin, and a wonderful skirt, reaching from waist to ankles, fastened with a good stout belt, which also supports one or two apparently dangerous but really very harmless kriesses or daggers.

WHAT DO YOU know about the printing of that most wonderful book—the Bible? Read the interesting facts and figures about it given below, and perhaps you will know more!

PLAINFIELD DAILY PRESS

offers the very best edition ever printed for popular use, to its readers, in what might be called a "gift distribution:"

The Big Print Red Letter Bible

This illustration shows exact size

Fascinating Figures About The Bible

Over 200 million copies of the Bible have been printed. Touching end to end, they would go 'round the world —25000 miles. Piled one on another, it would take 4000 mountains like Mt. Everest, the highest in the world, to reach the topmost book. But this is not all. The public libraries of the entire world could not contain them. It would take two of the largest ships ever built, loaded to the deck, or a hundred freight trains, with 25 cars to the train, to transport them. Stacked in columns, they would make 100,000 Eiffel Towers, the tallest structure ever built by human hands. To print them would require at least 100 billions of pages of type.

The mere physical facts about the Bible stagger the imagination. All the other books ever printed seem microscopic by comparison. The Bible has been read by more people than any ten thousand other books. Today it forms the basis of religion for several hundred millions of the most enlightened peoples of the earth. The greatest war in history began in 1914. and shook the world from center to circumference. As a result, untold millions of people, startled out of their lethargy, took to the Bible to save their sanity and restore their mental vision. The first year of the war saw more Bibles sold than in any other year since it was printed.

It was the consideration of these facts that led this newspaper, in conjunction with all the leading newspapers of the country, to seize upon the psychological moment in which to inaugurate a nation-wide revival of Bible-reading. The edition now offered in these columns is the same as is being offered by the leading papers everywhere—not for profit to themselves—but for the benefit of their readers.

We invite comparison with any other edition of the Bible. We challenge competitive examination; secure in the knowledge that the Famous Red Letter Edition we offer, is easily first —and beyond any ordinary offering by publishers who seek only profit.

"Out of the Way" For the Catskill Water System

The new water system for the city of New York, known as the Catskill Mountain System, has involved a variety of most interesting and intricate problems in its construction, and will stand not only as the final answer to the question of the water supply for New York, but as a high testimony to American engineering skill.

The great Ashokan reservoir, formed by the Olive Bridge Dam and several dikes, twelve miles west of Kingston, N. Y., impounds the water from the Esopus watershed, which is 250 square miles in extent. Other available watersheds will add approximately 400 square miles to the system. The reservoir itself is thirteen miles long, and about one mile wide, with a maximum depth of 190 feet. Once full, it would be able without any replenishing, to supply New York's requirement of 500,000,000 gallons a day for six months.

From the Ashokan reservoir, the Catskill Aqueduct conveys the water to a storage reservoir at Kensico, and thence to a distributing reservoir at Hillview near Yonkers, N. Y., a total distance of about ninety miles.

In crossing the Hudson River, the engineers found it necessary to cut through solid rock 1,100 feet below the surface.

In connection with the building of the reservoir at Kensico, a telephone problem of some difficulty was encountered, the solution of which is described in The Telephone Review, N. Y., giving a rather interesting idea of some of the by-products of the great enterprise of building New York's new water system. Not all of the difficulties were encountered by the engineers of the project itself. Much which called for engineering skill and resourcefulness was involved in "clearing the way."

About five years ago, when the work of closing roads and demolishing houses began at Kensico, the New York-Boston Central telephone line of seventy-one wires was located on one of the roads about to be closed. It was rebuilt on the side hills for over two miles, but owing to the general direction of the line it was necessary to cross the basin at some point. At the time it was impossible to determine how the permanent crossing would be made and poles were set through the basin.

Before the water should be admitted to the reservoir, these poles of course would have to be removed. In the late summer of 1915 the telephone company was notified that the water would be turned on in November,—over a year sooner than the big dam forming the southerly wall of the reservoir had been expected to be completed.

The plan finally worked out for carrying the wires across the reservoir was ingenious and rather daring. Two fixtures were erected, one at each side of the "lake." Each consists of three sixty-foot square creosoted yellow pine poles, with special creosoted cross-arms measuring 19 feet 6 inches long. On these the seventy-one wires are strung, hanging in a long sweep over the reservoir, between the two fixtures.

The place on which the fixtures had to be erected was found to be ledge rock covered with only a few inches of earth, and all the poles and guys had to be drilled for, in fact nine hundred and ninety-eight feet of 1-inch holes were drilled and blown. Some of the trenches for the guys were 20 feet long, so an observer might have inferred that nothing less than an invasion was expected.

Owing to freight congestion there was considerable delay in the arrival of the pine poles, which were on their way from the South; and the water was turned into the basin before the telephone fixtures were in place. It then became a race against time.

Day by day, hour by hour, the water could be seen creeping closer and closer to the old line in the basin. At night a rock, or mound of earth, would be seen clear of the water. In the morning it would be covered by the slowly creeping flow.

"The harder we worked the faster the water seemed to rise," says one of the men on the job, "until finally it got so high we prepared to remove some of the poles in the bottom of the basin, and let the wires swing in long sections.

"Fortunately this was not necessary, as the poles arrived and we were able to complete the cut over just two days ahead of the time the water reached the location of the old line—which you can rest assured was not allowed to stand very long after the new line was working."

New Work Completed; Old Line Removed; Water Covering Location of Old Line.

Looking Across the Span. When the Basin Is Full, Water Will Reach to Within a Few Feet of the Poles on Both Sides.

CITY TAKES STEPS TO PROTECT ITSELF

Joins Movement to Defend Possible Suits for Use of Cameron Patents.

Upon the advice of Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed, the City Council at its adjourned meeting last night appropriated $30 to become a member of the National Process Septic League which was organized by large municipalities to defend itself against suits that might be brought through the use of the Cameron patent in the construction of sewage disposal works.

Mr. Reed stated that $4,000 had been paid for a license to use the patent process and he believed that this would include its use under the present conditions here where a joint system is being built, however, as a protection he advised co-operation with other municipalities.

Through a resolution offered by Mr. Hylan and adopted, the sum of $50,000 was borrowed in connection with the purchase of land for the proposed city hall. Another resolution by Mr. Hylan authorized contracts with Lawrence Peck, architect for the city hall, and W. M. Bottomly, associate.

All members are requested to attend so that Plainfield can present a large delegation.

CAREY MAY RUN.

Jersey City Judge Would Like to Be Governor.

Jersey City, May 23.—Former Judge Robert Carey of this city confirmed a report that he might become a candidate for the Republican nomination for the governorship. A conference of Mr. Carey's friends will be held shortly to determine a course of action. Many of them believe that the contest between Senators Walter Edge and Austen Colgate for governor will become so keen, if it is not already at that stage, that the situation will be peculiarly attractive to the ambitions of still another candidate. The Carey supporters, boosting their favorite as a Progressive, say that he would pull from both Edge and Colgate.

Mr. Carey said that he would probably not make up his mind what to do till after the Chicago conventions. He expressed the belief that if Hughes or Roosevelt were nominated by the Republicans the party candidate in this state would simply be swept into the governorship, but if Root were the choice the situation might be different.

GANG FREES PRISONER.

Later Two Wounded Men Are Arrested at Hospital.

North Bergen, May 23.—A gang of men tried to rescue two alleged thieves from Patrolman Henry Schneble at Krotel's park, and a pistol battle followed. Hours later two men applied at the North Hudson hospital, Weehawken, and St. Mary's hospital, Hoboken, suffering from gun wounds. They were placed under arrest.

They are Charles Laur, twenty-two years old, of 206 Jackson street, Hoboken, who is at the North Hudson hospital with a bullet in his side, and Joseph Pantolino, nineteen, of 327 Madison street, Hoboken, who was brought to the police station here after he had been treated at St. Mary's hospital for a bullet wound in his right arm.

Own Gun Kills Cop.

Jersey City, May 23.—John Gallagher of 8 Bishop street, this city, a patrolman attached to the Communipaw avenue station, was shot and killed in his home. The police say Gallagher was changing his revolver from the pocket of a light coat to a heavier one when it was accidentally discharged, and the bullet entered his head.

DISCUSS CHILD WELFARE PLANS

Motion Pictures, Baby Exhibit and Summer School Considered at Conference.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Educational Campaign to Be Inaugurated—New Jersey Mothers' Association to Be Invited to Meet Here in 1917 or 1918.

Motion pictures, the baby welfare exhibit, together with plans for the coming year, were some of the more important topics discussed at the annual meeting of the Child Welfare Council held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William M. Sandford, the president, at Crescent Court Apartments. There were present upon invitation retiring and present officers of all the parent-teacher associations with the principals of schools in Plainfield and vicinity, and practically the whole afternoon was devoted to a discussion of matters which were referred to the various associations to be worked out. The meeting was considered more in the nature of an "acquaintance party" and many helpful suggestions were offered during the afternoon. The reports of the various officers were encouraging and showed that considerable had been done during the past year. These officers were then elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. William M. Sandford; vice president, Mrs. James E. Kimball; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Frank Rowley.

Following the election there was the discussion of the topics suggested, perhaps, more time being devoted to that of motion pictures. It is proposed to have a motion picture committee, the duty of which will be to educate public opinion as to what the people want in this way of entertainment. It is not in any sense to be a censor committee, although the members will have their eyes on the kind of pictures shown at the local theatres. It is also proposed to bring well-known speakers to Plainfield to talk on this subject and through a co-operative plan the council hopes to be able to prevent the showing of any pictures of a questionable nature. This work was undertaken quite largely because of suggestions made on the subject by Mayor Leighton Calkins and it is hoped to accomplish much good.

There was an interesting discussion regarding the success of the baby welfare exhibit which has been in progress in this city and vicinity for some time. This exhibit will close on June 8 at the North Plainfield High School. It was the unanimous opinion that the exhibit had done much in educating people on the care of babies, and considerable time will be given to the matter the coming year.

The plans for the Summer School at Ocean City were presented and it was announced that the Mothers' Congress is to meet there for three days, July 17, 18 and 19, in conjunction with the conference of public school teachers, the members of both organizations attending each other's sessions for co-operative purposes. The teachers will be at Ocean City for one week.

The council also proposes to take up during the coming year as a definite plan of work, the higher standard of home living, and already Miss A. M. Hauser, of the domestic science department of the State Agriculture College at New Brunswick, has been engaged to address a meeting here early in the fall, which will be in the nature of opening this particular line of work.

The question of entertaining the New Jersey Mothers' Congress in Plainfield was discussed, and it was definitely decided to invite the State association to Plainfield. The time has been left open until after the officers of the Congress are consulted. The conference will not be held here before 1917 and it may be a year later. The Congress is obliged to make its plans far ahead and as they are practically made for the coming year the chances are that it will be 1918 before the New Jersey body comes to Plainfield. In the meantime it will give the local association plenty of time to prepare for the big gathering which will bring about 300 women to Plainfield.

FOUR HUNDRED SINGERS JOIN CHORUS CHOIR

Mr. Braider has prepared a program consisting of a professional soloist and eloclutionist, and particularly invites all members of the Recreation Committee to attend.

JOSEPH L. TWEEDY WEDS MISS BROWNE

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie Performs Ceremony at Cresent Avenue Church.

Miss Eva Gregg Browne, daughter of Mrs. Josiah Browne, of Kensington avenue, became the bride of Joseph Lord Tweedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tweedy, of Knickerbocker, Texas, at the wedding solemnized yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John S. Zelie, pastor of the church, and was witnessed by a capacity number of relatives and friends of the bride and groom. The church was beautifully decorated for the event, haytrees, Easter lilies, dogwood, palms and ferns being used in large numbers in the arrangement.

The bride, who was gowned in white, wore a veil and carried a shower bride's bouquet. She was attended by her sister, Miss Katherine M. Browne, as maid of honor. The latter and the two bridesmaids, the Misses Elizabeth B. Browne and Edith Mellick, wore lavender and blue gowns with hats to match and each carried an arm bouquet of spring flowers. Raymond Miller, of this city, was the best man. J. Hartley Mellick and Roger D. Mellick, of this city, and Dr. Kenneth Bulkley and John Payne, of New York, were the ushers.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's mother on Kensington avenue, where the couple received congratulations. The home was attractively decorated by Stanley, the florist, green and white predominating in the color scheme. Last night, Mr. and Mrs. Tweedy left for a wedding trip at the conclusion of which they will make their home in Knickerbocker, Texas, where the bridegroom has a ranch. The bride was the recipient of a large collection of wedding gifts.

REV. E. V. STEVENSON ON "CHURCH FINANCE"

Rector of Grace Church Addresses New Brunswick Convention.

The New Brunswick Convocation of the New Jersey Diocese held its meeting yesterday in St. Luke's Episcopal church, Roselle, and it was largely attended by ministers from all parts of the State.

The convocation opened with celebration of Holy Communion at 10 o'clock, the Venerable R. Bowden Shepherd being the celebrant. At 11:30 o'clock the business session took place, which was followed by a discussion on missionary work. Luncheon was served at the rectory at 1 o'clock by the women of St. Luke's parish. At 2 o'clock Samuel G. Welles, diocesan institutional chaplain, of Trenton, delivered an address on the institutional work being done in the diocese. Among those present were the following: Rev. C. H. Mallery, Rev. E. V. Stevenson, of Plainfield; Rev. Harris C. Rush and Rev. James A. Smith, of Westfield.

Rev. Mr. Stevenson was among those who addressed the meeting, his subject being "Church Finances," in which he said that every member of the church should give and give systematically to the cause of religion and that it was the duty of every Christian to give to the extension of the Kingdom of God.

T. A. B. SOCIETY PLANS AN ANNIVERSARY DANCE

St. Mary's T. A. B. Society has arranged to give a reception and dance in the clubhouse on West Fourth street, Friday night, May 26, to commemorate the forty-fourth anniversary of the organization. Music will be furnished by Allen Squier's orchestra and refreshments will be served throughout the evening. The committee in charge has planned a number of original features which will make the affair one of the most pretentious the society has conducted this season. Indications point to a very large attendance as in addition to those from this city there will be delegations from Elizabeth, Perth Amboy and other places.

ANNUAL CHURCH MEETING.
The annual meeting of Park Avenue Baptist church congregation, which was postponed because of the Biederwolf meetings, will be held in the church parlors tonight, beginning at 8 o'clock. Trustees will be elected, reports received and read and other items of business transacted.

—Until you have canvassed the readers of this newspaper on the matter, do not decide whether or not this may be a "poor time to sell" that property.

LINE OF MARCH FOR BIG PARADE

Plans Being Completed for State Letter Carriers' Convention Memorial Day.

GEN. COLLINS MARSHAL

Committee of Women on Entertainment Meet and Organize Under Direction of Mayor W. L. Smalley—Concert to Be a Feature.

Plans are rapidly being completed for the State letter-carriers' convention to be held in this city on Memorial Day. True to the promise made by Mayor William L. Smalley at the Biederwolf revival in the Tabernacle, the women of North Plainfield will take charge of the entertainment of the carriers at the Tabernacle, where refreshments will be served by them. The borough women are now to have the assistance of the women of Plainfield in this work.

The women who have enlisted their services in this work met at the home of Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen yesterday and took up preliminary details. William Wilcox, an aged inmate of the Industrial Home, left that institution on May 22 and those in charge fear that he may meet with some mishap while trying to get to his home in Cambridge, Mass. He came to the institution on April 25. He said he was deaf, but in unguarded moments those who watched him learned that he could talk and probably hear well. An outfit of new clothing was given him but a short time ago, but he left these when he left, wearing the old ones that he had when he became an inmate.

Demonstrator Being Sent for Inspection by Local People.

A demonstrator of the Fergus Motor Company will be in Plainfield on Friday, May 26, for the purpose of giving local people an opportunity of seeing what the proposed new plant for Plainfield is to manufacture. The car will also be on the streets of Plainfield on Thursday of this week, but will be on exhibition in Laing's garage on Sycamore street, during all of Friday, and officials of the company will be there to answer questions.

Syracuse, Paterson and Newark are also after the new manufacturing plant, and in a letter to Mr. Van Arsdale, chairman of the committee which has invited the plant here, the secretary says that Plainfield must give evidence of its desire to have the plant. The inducements suggested are cheap land, power and subscriptions to the stock of the company.

W. H. Campbell, vice president of the Fergus Company, and Sydney T. Perrin, treasurer, are residents of Plainfield.

LOCAL WITNESSES CALLED IN CASE

Grandchildren Seek to Break Will of Mrs. Mary VanOrden Parker, of Oak Tree.

The will case of Howard R. Van Orden and Mrs. Florence Cochran, grandchildren, against Victor Merrill, executor and chief beneficiary of the will of Mrs. Mary Van Orden Parker, of Oak Tree, is being continued today before Judge Daly in the Middlesex county court, New Brunswick. Among the witnesses called yesterday afternoon were Miss Adele Kirby and De Witt Hubbell, officers of the Plainfield Trust Company, who told of business transactions the company had had with Mrs. Parker and Mr. Merrill.

Mr. Hubbell said among other things that Mr. Merrill at one time tried to get a $16,000 loan on a mortgage, but the request was refused. Miss Kirby told of conversations she had had with both Mrs. Parker and Mr. Merrill.

An amusing incident occurred this morning while Mrs. Jane Dougherty was on the stand. She was being cross examined by Francis J. Blatz, of counsel for the defendant, and was telling how long it would take her to walk from the Parker place to her farm, which was fifteen minutes, when Mr. Blatz said to the witness, "Why, you are a middle aged woman are you not?" Whereupon, Mrs. Dougherty replied in snappy fashion: "I am not as old as you are and beside I have more hair on my head than you have." This little bit of repartee convulsed the court with laughter.

THOUSANDS AT SACRED CONCERT

"Mac" is Given Gold Coins by Members of the Big Choir.

PROGRAM IS PLEASING

Mrs. Coddington, Miss Raybert, Judge Runyon and Irving Manley Are Soloists—Dr. Biederwolf Offers Prayer for Plainfield People.

A crowd that filled the Tabernacle heard the sacred concert directed by William McEwan last night, and many were turned away before the first note was sounded. It was "Mac's" night, and in addition to the applause that was his there was plentiful evidence of the love that Plainfield holds for the little Scotch Gospel singer in the presentation of a gift of gold, expressions of goodwill and a big delegation to the train to bid him good-bye.

The big chorus-choir of almost 1,000 voices appeared at its best, and, with the assistance of Mrs. W. A. Coddington, Miss Etta Raybert, Judge William N. Runyon, Irving Manley and Mr. McEwan, as soloists, rendered a pleasing program of sacred songs. The campaign orchestra and the Dutch Arms Band also had prominent parts in the program.

A silver offering was taken at the door, all of which will go to the Family Altar League. A goodly sum of money was donated by the 6,750 people who attended, and several young men spent many hours counting it so that a check might be sent to Chicago this morning.

Dr. and Mrs. Biederwolf attended the concert and sat on the platform. It was their last appearance in Plainfield for some time, at least, and they left at 9:28 this morning for New York city. Dr. Biederwolf closed the concert with a prayer of thanks to God for the work done here, and one of petition for Divine blessing upon the city in its awakening to Christ.

Judge William N. Runyon was delegated by the chorus-choir to present Mr. McEwan with a token of their love. He told of the wonderful work the "Little Scotch Giant" had done in Plainfield. "Mac," he said, "was the first member of the Biederwolf party to be known here," and the Judge said the little fellow was a hypnotist and a mesmerist who could do with Plainfield people as he willed. He thanked God that his will had been to do good. When Judge Runyon called "Mac" on the platform to receive the gift, he addressed him in a Scotch dialect that would have done credit to Harry Lauder, giving the pieces of gold with advice that "Mac" buy some new kilties, as he only has nineteen suits now. "Mac" turned his back on the audience and thanked the choir. "My heart is with you," he said. "I love every one of you—especially the ladies—but I don't know how to thank you. Plainfield is the greatest place I have ever struck, and I have traveled over this world a little, and this is the best choir I have ever directed. The beauty of this choir is that there is not a knocker in the bunch. You are all workers for the cause, and may God bless every one of you."

There was another member of the party who, though not quite as much in evidence as "Mac," had done a work equally as great, continued Judge Runyon, and he referred to her as the "Spirit of Harmony." The choir loved her also, and wanted to make a present to her. He called Miss Helen Boals to the platform and presented her with a package of gold pieces.

Evangelist Houston, of Scotland, a friend of Mr. McEwan, sang a song of old-fashioned Christianity that the audience liked so well it demanded an encore, but because of the long program "Mac" wouldn't permit.

In telling his audience what a good choir Plainfield had furnished for the meeting, "Mac" said they knew their favorite songs so well they could sing the chorus of No. 102 backwards. To prove this he ordered the choir to face the rear of the building and sing the chorus, and they did.

At the close of the musical program "Mac" told the story of his life before Christ came into it, how he traveled over the world as a vaudeville performer, and was finally led, through the love of a father who still lives in Glasgow, to become a Christian, to later find joy in singing his praises with Dr. Biederwolf.

The program rendered last night follows:
Selection—Dutch Arms Band.
Song—"All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name."
Prayer—The Rev. C. M. Anderson.
Song—"Master, the Tempest is Raging," choir.
Selection—Irving Manley, boy soprano.

FIRST CONTRIBUTION FOR NURSERY FUND

S. H. Patterson Gives $5 Toward the Support of King's Daughters' Charity.

A $5.00 check from S. H. Patterson is the first to be received this year for the Plainfield Daily Press Day Nursery Fund, which is conducted by this newspaper each summer in conjunction with the City Union of King's Daughters. This nursery is under heavy expense during the warm months of the summer providing necessities for the little children left to their care during the day. In previous years this problem of expense has been solved by the generous financial co-operation of the Plainfield public. In view of this an urgent appeal is made again this year. Send in your contribution, however small, to the Daily Press and it will be turned over to the treasurer of the King's Daughters to be applied where it is most needed.

The Day Nursery invites inspection on the part of the Plainfield people and the matron in charge is at all times willing to conduct visitors through the building and explain the splendid work the home is doing in caring for the mental and physical needs of the little tots who are brought there each day. A look at the scores of healthy faces is proof enough of the happy and contented life in their daily foster home. They are given substantial nourishing food and the hours are shortened in playing games and making various little articles. One of the features of the Nursery Bureau is a special milk station where pasteurized milk can be gotten by the mothers for the infants. A doctor visits the nursery and ascertains their physical health, and a nurse sees to it that orders are carried out at the home of the child during its absence from the nursery.

RULE IS CONTINUED IN CHANCERY CASE

Howard Huntington Wants a Receiver Named for the Opal Chemical Company.

Confronted before Vice-Chancellor Stevens in Newark, yesterday, with affidavits denying in toto practically all the averments on which he had based an application for the appointment of a receiver for the Opal Manufacturing Company, manufacturers of alkalies, chemicals, etc., in Kenilworth, William N. Runyon had a rule to show cause granted in the case continued until next Wednesday.

A bill filed by Mr. Runyon, as counsel for Howard Huntington, of this city, manager of the plant and owner of 1,140 of the company's 2,800 outstanding shares of capital stock, made it appear that the corporation was on its last legs, so to speak, and past saving. The answering affidavits, filed by Mathew J. Ready in behalf of the corporation, it was alleged that the concern was "absolutely solvent," and that whatever financial stress obtained was due to the fact that Mr. Huntingon gave only about an hour a day to the management of the business. The answering affiants denied all knowledge of the existence of outstanding notes aggregating $4,600, averring that if there are such notes, the directorate never authorized their issuances. Mr. Runyon did not have an opportunity of seeing the answering affidavits until the case was called, and when Mr. Ready had stated their contents the vice-chancellor readily granted him a week's time to obtain counter affidavits.

The bond was furnished by William G. Huenke.

New Providence

Ten pupils of the Lincoln School tonight will compete in an elocution contest for prizes in the chapel of the Presbyterian church. Those who will compete are Charles Rendall, Louis Ehrber, Jarvis Badgley, William Webster, Joseph Coccio, Graham Irving, Evelyn Reeves, Edith Adams, Alice Young and Kathleen Krayer. The proceeds will be used to purchase suits for the baseball team of the school.

John Flaherty yesterday returned to New York after visiting Fred Stahl, of Division avenue, West Summit.

Work on the Lincoln School has been delayed because of difficulties which the contractors are having. A consultation between officers of the company and members of the Borough Board of Education resulted in a renewed effort by the company to finish the building. There is still $8,000 owing the contractors, but there is less than that amount of work to be done. The bonding company is ready to proceed with the work if the contractors are unable to finish it.

Mrs. Thaddeus Lambertson, of Central avenue, West End, is in Keyport.

"HAIRLESS PIG DISEASE."

Helena, Mont., May 24.—Montana farmers lost one million pigs, valued at $2,500,000, last year, through the ravages of the mysterious and relentless "hairless pig disease," according to Dr. Welch, professor of veterinary science at Montana State College, who has been investigating the disease. The malady has become the terror of the farmers in eastern Montana and in western North and South Dakota. Dr. Welch arrives at the conclusion that a lack of iodine in the feed of the breeding stock is responsible for the birth of the pigs in a hairless condition.

Samuel Kriney and family, of 665 East Sixth street, have removed to 212 Stebbins place.

Mrs. J. P. Truitt, of Greenbrook road, is stopping at the Traymore Hotel, Atlantic City.

MARRIED WEEK AGO IN BOUND BROOK

Dr. Hendrick and Wife Are Now at Home on Fitzsimmons' Farm.

Dr. Charles C. Hendrick and Mrs. Laura A. Biggar-Bennett were married in Bound Brook on Thursday, May 11, by Recorder Stewart C. Crouse, of Middlesex borough. They are now living on the old Fitzsimmons farm near Dunellen.

It is the intention of Dr. and Mrs. Hendrick to establish a sanitorium for invalids, and to that end they have been remodeling the house, installing improvements and generally making it attractive for patients.

Dr. Hendrick was a graduate of Seton Hall College, and while there was catcher on the ball team of which Father Westman, formerly of this city, was a member. He was graduated at Bellevue in 1894, and has seventeen diplomas as a medical practitioner and a lawyer.

He has medical diplomas from the State Medical Colleges of Vermont, New Mexico, New York and other places. As a lawyer he has a license as attorney, signed by John W. Griggs, as governor, and for counsellor, a license signed by Foster M. Voorhees, as governor, both of New Jersey. He has given most of his attention, however, to the work of a physician, and has kept a sanitarium a good part of the time.

Mrs. Hendrick is also a practitioner of chiropractic, having taken it up after her own experience with the treatment which she credits with having saved her life.

RECREATION NOTES

The swimming classes for men and women will meet in the High School this evening. Members of the public class for women should endeavor to be ready to go into the pool at 7:30. The men's class meets Mr. Keene in the gymnasium between 8:30 and 9:00, and goes into the swimming pool at 9 o'clock.

The Zephyrs are to hold their last reception of the season tonight in the High School Auditorium. This is an athletic club organized for the colored girls of the city and a very successful season is just coming to its close. Those who go to the reception tonight will have a thoroughly delightful team. Smiling Marie Wain's orchestra, of New York, has been engaged.

Comparatively few people in the West End realize as yet what is being done in the Washington School for the advancement of community interests. One of the most interesting groups is the class in dressmaking which meets each Thursday evening under the direction of Miss Scarborough. Those who have taken advantage of Miss Scarborough's most helpful work are most enthusiastic and faithful in attendance. There are many others who would certainly join the class if they but knew more intimately of the valuable work done there. Visitors are welcome any Thursday evening.

The West End Boys' Club, which holds its meetings each Thursday evening in the Washington School, promises to be one of the best and strongest clubs of the West End Community Center. Plans will be discussed tomorrow night for an entertainment to be held in the near future. Any boy between the ages of sixteen and eighteen will be welcomed in the club.

PROBE SHORTAGE IN OFFICE OF CALVERT

Grand Jury Calls Union County Officials in For Questioning.

Elizabeth, May 24.—Complying with the instructions of Supreme Court Justice Bergen, the May term grand jury of Union county yesterday began a probe into the circumstances surrounding the deficit of $20,000 in the accounts of the late County Clerk James C. Calvert, which was discovered after Mr. Calvert's sudden death last December. It is said around the court house that the investigation is to be a thorough one.

Although the deliberations of the grand jury are veiled in secrecy and the public can only speculate upon what transpires in the closely-guarded inquisitorial chamber, it is definitely known that various members of the Board of Freeholders and other officials of the county have been subpoenaed and interrogated concerning their knowledge of the methods employed in the conduct of public business in the court house.

County Collector Nathan R. Leavitt, who also was a bondman for County Clerk Calvert, was among the witnesses before the grand jury today. County Auditor Benjamin King, of Rahway, and County Clerk Abram P. Morris, Mr. Calvert's successor, also were called today. Dr. J. Edward Rowe, of Summit, clerk of the Board of Freeholders, and John N. Cady, also of Summit, director of the board, were examined yesterday. It was rumored today that another batch of witnesses are to be subpoenaed for examination tomorrow.

RUNYON GOES TO ATTEND FUNERAL OF DALRYMPLE

CLINTON WILL PLAY ON DUNELLEN FIELD

West End Ball Nine Also Takes in Warry McLaughin and Lou Dixon.

Dunellen will have baseball this summer. At least that's what the City League guiding lights decided at a meeting held in the Daily Press offices last night and the first exhibition will be staged on the "hustling suburb's" ball diamond Saturday Saturday afternoon by the Clinton avenue club. Scarcity of suitable playing fields in this city led the Clinton athletes to accept the invitation extended by Dunellen baseball enthusiasts to pastime in the municipality and during the remainder of the present season the home games of the Clinton avenue outfit will be "exported" to Dunellen.

The newly acquired diamond will make one of the best on the circuit. A finely appointed grandstand is included in the invitation and this is one asset none of the other clubs can boast of. The Clintons, besides taking up the proposition of performing on foreign terra firma last night absorbed some Dunellen talent of note into their playing ranks.

Warry McLaughlin, the husky hurler who has been "accused" of gracing a Pittsburgh National League uniform on some occasion in his youth, will take up the Clinton pitching burden beginning Saturday, and he will be caught by Lou Dixon, the first edition of the Dixon family, a clan that has become noted in local baseball. Dixon and Warry have worked together for several years and will no doubt make one of the most formidable "troops" on the loop.

In order that McLaughlin, Dixon, Harney, Truss and Penrose, the last three also having been prospective talent for the formation of a Dunellen independent club if this move was deemed advisable, the Clinton avenue management last night issued "escape papers" to Dilts, Linke, Apgar and Pierce. Taken as a whole the Clinton avenue combine now presents the appearance of a first class combination and should mount from the present cellar berth to a more worthy place in the near future.

At last night's meeting Hope Chapel announced that Allen Snyder had been let out and Henry Alberts, a Scotch Plains pillar, will perform in his stead beginning Saturday. This coming week Hope Chapel will pastime on the West End avenue diamond in order that a carnival troupe might have a site to present a show Saturday afternoon. The Hope diamond has been selected for the spot to pitch the "big tent" and as a consequence the Chapelites will establish temporary headquarters on the Baptist lot.

URGE INTELLIGENT CHOICE OF STUDIES

Principal Best and B. Ralph Starry Address Parent-Teacher Association.

An enthusiastic and largely attended meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Garmmar School was held at the Plainfield High School yesterday afternoon, when two interesting papers were presented by Lindsey Best, principal of the High School, and B. Ralph Starry, principal of the Grammar School.

Mr. Best's talk was on the subject of "Courses of Study," it being his aim to offer helpful suggestions to parents who have children going into the High School next year. He urged them to make an intelligent choice of subjects for the children after first studying the latter and determining which studies would be best for them. Mr. Best said that so often a child's course was mapped out in infancy and afterward failed to be suitable in any respect. The principal's remarks were greatly enjoyed.

Mr. Starry's paper was on "Summer Camps For Boys and Girls," with the idea of showing the importance of having children live close to nature during the summer at some suitable place and under proper supervision.

The point was emphasized that whether a child is at play or work, the need of proper supervisison was apparent at all times and thus it would be trained into ways of right thinking and acting and would be just that much stronger to meet the battles of life.

Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of schools, who was also present, made a few remarks to the audience which were enjoyed. Other features of the program were musical selections by the Misses Nathanson, who played the violin and piano. Edward McCarthy rendered piano solos and the afternoon was concluded with a social hour during which refreshments were served. The association will not meet again until fall.

SCIENCE DEMONSTRATION AT MEETING OF P. T. ASS'N

The Plainfield High School Parent-Teacher Association will hold its last meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the High School Auditorium. All parents and other persons interested in the school are cordially invited to be present to witness a demonstration to be given by the scence department. Practical experiments in biology, chemistry, physics and general science will be performed on the stage with a view to showing actual class work. A general idea of the class work done in these subjects can be gotten in an evening which would require a much longer time if a person were to visit the classes separately.

The first few minutes of the evening wll be devoted to the election of officers for the coming year. It is hoped that a large number of parents will avail themselves of this opportunity of seeing a demonstration of actual school work, and become acquainted with the aims and methods of the science department of the school.

LOCAL GIRL GRADUATED FROM BROOKLYN HOSPITAL

Miss Anna Monica Callahan, daughter of Thomas Callahan, of East Second street, was one of the fourteen young women composing the class of 1916, of the Long Island College Hospital Training School for Nurses, of Brooklyn, which was graduated last night. The exercises took place in the Dudley Memorial building at Henry and Amity street, connected with the institution, and the large audience present included a party of relatives and friends of Miss Callahan from Plainfield, Elizabeth and Jersey City. The young woman was remembered with numerous floral bouquets and other gifts in honor of her graduation. The exercises were followed by a reception and dance.

Miss Callahan is the second daughter of Thomas Callahan to be graduated from a Brooklyn Hospital, Miss Helen Callahan, her sister, having completed the full training course in the Brooklyn City Hospital two years ago. The latter is now practicing her profession in Brooklyn, where Miss Anna Callahan will remain after serving several more months to complete her course.

MAY RUN BRYAN AS PROHIBITION CANDIDATE

Chicago, May 24—William Jennings Bryan may be selected as the candidate for President of the Prohibition party. Recent statements of Mr. Bryan before the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church at Saratoga Springs, in which he was quoted as declaring that he had about reached the point where he could no longer follow a political party which refused to indorse national Prohibition, were discussed by the "Dry" leaders today.

EXCUSED FROM THE MEETING.

While the vote on several resolutions pertaining to the purchase of a fire engine was being taken at the City Council meeting Monday night, Councilman Elias H. Bird was obliged to leave the meeting to keep another engagement, and was therefore excused by President Blatz. Some people had the idea that he was excused from voting on the resolutions and the explanation is made in justice to Mr. Bird.

ZEPHYR CLUB WILL GIVE RECEPTION TONIGHT

The Zephyrs, a club composed of colored girls, is to hold its last big reception in the High School Auditorium this evening. An orchestra from New York is coming out to furnish the music and a large crowd is expected to help the girls celebrate at the close of a most successful season. Those who are intimately acquainted with what these girls have done during the past two years are full of praise for the club as a whole and for its individual members. The club started with just a few girls as a gymnasium class, which was given the privilege of using one of the rooms in the Stillman School one evening a week. The membership grew and activities increased. The young men became interested in the work, also, and when the class was given the privileges of the High School gymnasium, a club for the colored men of the town was formed at the same time, as a direct outcome of what the girls had done.

The gym. class organized itself into a self-governing club, and has since not only paid its own way, but has turned over a substantial sum to the Recreation Committee for the furtherance of the work of weaker clubs. Many activities have grown out of life of this club, beside the regular weekly meetings and gym. work. The club has arranged for many public basketball games this past winter, bringing teams from out of town and some times from great distances for the purposes. Large audiences have been able to enjoy these games—the more so, perhaps, because the home team has put up such a splendid showing, in many instances carrying off the honors. The club has also made trips to other cities where return games have been arranged. These games and trips have been managed and financed by the club itself and too much cannot be said for the colored girls who, by their loyalty to each other, by their enthusiasm and their hard work, have given pleasure to so many of their people this past year.

The reception will begin at 8:30. Large delegations are expected from Westfield, New Brunswick and many of the surrounding towns, where the word has been sent that Smiling Marie Wain's orchestra is to furnish the music. Miss Wain made a reputation for herself when one of the colored people's churches gave an entertainment at the Washington School some weeks ago. Her Plainfield friends will give her a royal welcome at the High School Auditorium.

TEMPLE BAPTIST SERVICE.

The meeting tonight at Temple Baptist church will be a prayer and fellowship service, and it is hoped that all members will be present to meet and welcome those who have signed cards, and who will be there, some perhaps for the first time. A meeting has been called for all who signed cards, preferring our church, at 7:45, in the Baraca Room. The regular service will be held in the church auditorium. The choir will be in its place, and a great meeting is anticipated.

SCHOOL ALL THE YEAR ROUND FAVORED

Specialist's Report Says it is Preventative Against Street Loafing.

The all-year schools of Newark are commended in a special report by W. S. Deffenbaugh, specialist in city school administration of the Bureau of Education, Department of the Interior. Mr. Deffenbaugh finds that time is saved, street loafing is largely prevented, and health is conserved by eliminating the long summer vacation.

The children in Newark who have attended school for the past year or two on the all-year school plan speak enthusiastically of it. The bureau investigator asked the pupils in the seventh and eighth grades to write compositions telling why they attended school during the summer. Nearly all the pupils stated that the schoolroom was much cooler than the streets and their rooms at home; that they were glad to have something to do besides running in the streets, and that they hoped to gain a grade or two by the time they were old enough for their work certificates. Parents who were interviewed favored the plan because their children were unable to get more schooling than otherwise. One parent said:

"If there were no summer schools we would not know where our children are. They would leave home early in the morning and run all over the city. Now we know that they are safe in the schoolhouse and in no danger of being run over by automobiles or street cars."

The attempt was made to find out how much time the children actually saved through the all-year schools. Of 271 pupils in the sixth, seventh and eight grades, 25 made no gain, 67 showed a gain of one-third of a year, 59 a gain of two-thirds of a year, 67 a gain of one year, and 53 a gain of one and one-third years.

It was found that the pupils in the all-year schools not only made more rapid progress through the grades, but maintained as good scholarship as the pupils in other schools. Many of the pupils were able to enter High School as a result of the time gained in the all-year school, and these pupils have had no difficulty in keeping up with their work. It is expected that many more pupils will now complete the elementary grades at 12 years of age, enter High School and attend for at least two years. Once in High School, they are likely to remain even after the compulsory age limit is passed.

One criticism that has been directed against the Newark all-year schools is that the pupils in these schools must do ten months' work in nine months in order to gain three months a year and thus complete the eight grades in six years. It should be understood, however, that the regular ten months' course has been modified so that a pupil may complete it in nine months, and all non-essentials have been omitted. Furthermore, less reviewing is needed in September for the children who have had only two weeks' vacation than for those who have had two months' vacation. The month that is usually taken at the beginning of the fall term to review pupils in the work of the preceding grade is not necessary for pupils who attend continuously, or with only short vacations.

In regard to the health of the children who are kept in school during the summer months, Mr. Deffenbaugh declares:

"The medical inspectors of Newark report that the health of the children who have attended school all year has not been impaired in the slightest degree. The regular school medical and nurse service continues in the summer, so that the health of the children in school is better cared for than that of those not in school. Good health habits acquired during the regular term are not broken up by a long summer vacation when the children not in school are beyond the influence of the school physician and the school nurse. The physician and nurse both report that the children who have been out of school during July and August come back in September in poorer physical condition than those who have attended these two months, and that even the children who have been away to a summer resort are in no better physical condition than those who have been in school, since their recreation is likely to have been of a dissipating nature. One school physician stated that if the children could go into the country and live a normal life, with plenty of exercise, he would favor this to keeping them in school; but since conditions are such that none of the children who are in the tenement districts can go to the country, the best place for them for four or five hours a day is in the schoolroom, on the school playgrounds, and in the school shops and gymnasiums."

Wide interest in the Newark plan has been aroused in other cities, and it is expected that many of the teachers and school officers who will attend the meeting of the National Education Association of New York in July will cross into New Jersey to see the Newark all-year schools in operation.

AID SOCIETY MEETING.

The Pastor's Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church will meet at the residence of Mrs. John Abbott, 413 West Front street, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. As all the activities have been laid aside during the Biederwolf campaign it is earnestly desired that the heads of all committees will be ready to report on this line of work at this meeting. All women of the church are urged to be present.

OFFER BIEDERWOLF A HOMESITE HERE

North Plainfield Citizens Want Him to Build in Their City.

If the Rev. William E. Biederwolf and his wife should decide to move to the Plainfields it will not be necessary for them to buy a new home site. In his farewell service Monday evening the evangelist said that he would like to buy a home in Plainfield and move here. Since the death of his father the old home in Monticello, Indiana, has lost much of its loveliness, and he and his wife are thinking of coming East. They will not make a change for some time, but when they do Plainfield will be one of the cities considered.

North Plainfield wants Dr. Biederwolf as a resident, and some of its citizens have decided to make him a present of a handsome home site there, should he ever decide to build. The offer has not been made to Dr. and Mrs. Biederwolf yet, but will be soon, and will be given consideration by the evangelist and his wife when they go to make a selection.

CADILLAC EIGHT SETS NEW COAST TO COAST RECORD

LOS ANGELES TO NEW YORK, 7 DAYS, 11 HOURS 52 MIN.

In Sensational Dash Cuts 3 Days, 19 Hours, 23 Min. From Previous Record.

New York city and Los Angeles were brought three days nineteen hours and twenty-three minutes nearer by automobile yesterday. F. G. Baker, accompanied by W. F. Sturm, an Indianapolis newspaperman, completed the cross-continent run in front of The Times Building, Times Square, at 2:53 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in seven days eleven hours and fifty-two minutes. The distance covered was 3,471 miles. Baker, who has made six trips across the continent, four times in automobiles and twice on motorcycles, broke his own record yesterday, made last year in eleven days, seven hours and fifteen minutes in a Stutz. The car used this year was a fully equipped standard eight-cylinder Cadillac roadster.

A special feeryboat transferred the car from Weehawken to West Forty-second street in close to three minutes. Three traffic policemen on motorcycles cleared the way along Forty-second street. The dust-covered car with its two travel-stained passengers riveted the eyes of pedestrians, and a crowd cheered the wind-up at The Times Building.

Baker, with eyes red from loss of sleep and the dust of the road, said of the trip:

"Our best day's run was 567 miles. We would have averaged over 500 miles a day if it hadn't been for the bad roads we struck in Missouri, from Kansas City to St. Louis. It took us eighteen hours to drive that distance, about 300 miles, and it was rain and mud all the way. It took two hours to do ten miles, and at one place I pulled out into the field around five autos stuck in the road."

A postal card was handed to Baker.

"We beat it here," he exclaimed. "That postal was mailed just after we passed through Emporia, Kan. We beat it by nearly an hour. This is the second time on the trip that we got in ahead of the United States mail. Six hours before we left Los Angeles a letter was mailed to me at Dodge City, Kansas. We arrived in Dodge City Wednesday two hours in advance of the letter, having covered about 1,900 miles. We left Los Angeles at 12:01 last Monday morning, and arrived in Kansas City, Mo., at 7:30 Thursday evening. We covered the distance from Kansas City to New York in 3 days 17 hours and 25 minutes. For several days our run was better than 550 miles. Our fastest time was between Los Angeles and San Bernardino, sixty-eight miles an hour."

"Did you stop to sleep on the trip?" asked one of the reporters.

Baker ran over his fingers. "Nineteen hours, all told," he answered. "I can't tell yet what our actual running time was. I'll have to figure it out after I get some sleep, but we did not waste much time by the way. All we did was to give the car 'gas' and oil and drive it to the limit.

"The engine didn't miss a shot, not even a spark plug needed cleaning. We never lifted the hood except for oil and once to adjust the carburetor.

"It takes twenty-two locomotives to make the trip we did in the car. I looked it up, and the distance by rail is shorter, 3,240 miles. The regular railroad schedule between Los Angeles and New York is approximately ninety hours. The train runs over smooth tracks, and as we had to contend with deserts, mountains, and boggy roads, we think the auto did pretty well against the locomotive. Our route from Los Angeles was through Flagstaff, Ari.; Albuquerque, N. M.; Trinidad, Col.; Dodge City and Emporia, Kan.; Kansas City, Mo.; St. Louis and thence to Indianapolis, Ind., through Columbus, O., and via Wheeling to Pittsburgh, and then to Philadelphia and through Trenton to Jersey City."

Mr. Baker drove the car himself all the way. In computing the new coast-to-coast record three hours in time was subtracted because of the difference between Eastern and Pacific time.

K. ADAMS WILL FACE DR. WAITE

Sender of Warning Telegram to Testify.

WIFE WILL CONFRONT HIM

Mrs. Margaret Horton, His "Studio" Companion, Is Also to Be a Witness. Chemists Give Evidence Death of Millionaire Peck Was Caused by Arsenic.

New York, May 24.—The sensational features of the Waite case will now be brought out in court in rapid succession, the state having quickly finished with its technical evidence to prove that John E. Peck was put to death by his son-in-law, Dr. Arthur Warren Waite.

The tall, slender, indifferent prisoner on trial for his life will find confronting him first his wife, Clara P. Waite; after her, Margaret Weaver Horton, the "other woman;" Percy Peck, his brother-in-law; perhaps his aunt-in-law, Miss Catherine Peck, and then the mysterious "K. Adams," whose telegram to Percy Peck inspired the investigation which resulted in the accusation.

The identity of "K. Adams" has been kept a closely guarded secret by District Attorney Swann because the woman has dreaded the publicity which would follow the disclosure, but it was reported that she will be found to be a member of the household of Dr. Jacob A. Cornell of Somerville, N. J., a life-long friend of the Peck family, whose visits to the Waite apartments immediately before and after Mr. Peck's death had made him suspicious that all was not right.

Testify Poison Caused Death.

That John E. Peck came to his death as the result of the heavy doses of arsenic found in his organs after death was the unqualified testimony of the experts who conducted the autopsies or analyzed the contents of those organs. The poison was found in large quantities every place in which it was sought, and there were further evidences of chloroform in the brain.

Dr. Victor E. Vaughn, dean of the medical school of Ann Arbor university; Dr. Otto H. Schultze, medical examiner for the district attorney; Dr. Stanley H. Benedict of Cornell University Medical school all made those points plain. Their testimony, summed up, said that about seven grains of arsenic had been indicated altogether and that two and one-half grains constitute a fatal dose.

Not only was the poison found, but there was testimony that Waite had prophesied a month before that Mr. Peck would soon die, as he was very ill. There were bacteriologists to tell of Waite's purchases of quantities of virulent cultures of diphtheria and typhoid germs, followed by the declaration that the state will show that the prisoner administered some of these to the victim.

Then came the testimony of the undertaker and embalmer, the latter of whom received $9,000 to insert a little arsenic in the embalming fluid.

The visits were related of Dr. Cornell and his nephew, Arthur Swinton, and their suspicious reception, the talks with the authorities, the gradual breaking down of the man accused as he recovered from the effects of the drugs Margaret Horton had purchased for him, concluding with the half regretful statement that a prison is a good place for a man to think over his mistakes, only for him there would be no such chance.

CAN CLOTHE 2,000,000 ARMY

Garment Makers Ready to Equip United States on Short Notice.

Chicago, May 24.—The clothing manufacturers of the country could produce enough hats, uniforms, leggings and shoes to outfit an army of 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 within ninety days after call. This estimate was made by the National Association of Garment Manufacturers, which opened a three day convention here. It was learned that clothing makers have received letters from the government asking information relative to their ability to fill rush orders. Blanks were furnished and these were filled out by the garment manufacturers and returned to Washington for file.

Dyes are coming back, clothing leaders say. Vegetable dyes from India, said to be fast as well as effulgent, are relieving the situation, it was declared.

SAY CHICAGO POLICE AID VICE

Commissioners Call Segregation "Delusion and a Snare."

Chicago, May 24.—Police collusion with vice is given as the reason for the existence of social evils in Chicago in the report of the "committee of fifteen," just made public. The committee, organized three years ago for the correction of municipal ills of a social nature, includes in its active membership Julius Rosenwald, Abram W. Harris, David R. Forgan and Miss Jane Addams.

"We say unequivocally that without police collusion commercialized vice could not flourish in Chicago, and we have evidence now in the hands of the state's attorney awaiting his action," says the report. Segregation of vice was called "delusion and a snare."

TRAIN ALL CITIZENS, IS PLEA OF BAKER

Senator Chamberlain Will Urge Universal Service.

Washington, May 24. — Secretary Baker in an interview has come out squarely for universal military training in the United States.

His statements, coming at a time when there is general dissatisfaction in official circles over the disinclination of the military organizations of New Mexico, Arizona and Texas to respond to the president's call for service on the border, are regarded as significant.

Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, part sponsor of the Chamberlain-Hay army bill, which has just passed congress, has already served notice that in view of the poor showing made by the national guard organizations of the three border states he will press for the passage of a supplementary bill providing for universal service.

Where the president stands on this proposition has not been disclosed The cabinet itself is divided on the question. In opposing the views of Secretary Baker, Secretary Daniels declared that he was decidedly not in favor of universal training except in time of actual emergency, when, he said, he would even favor conscription if conscription were necessary.

Defending the military departments of Texas, Arizona and New Mexico from the criticisms which have been directed against them, Lieutenant General F. B. M. Young, president of the Association of National Service, in a statement declared that it is not the proper function of the national guard to defend the Mexican border and insisted that this was a task which should be limited to the regular army.

CROPS SHORT IN HUNGARY.

Decreased Acreage Followed by Damage by Severe Weather.

Rome, May 24.—The International Institute of Agriculture reports that the winter crops of Hungary, which were reported some time ago to be favorable, are short in acreage and have suffered considerably from severe weather. Shortage in Austria was reported earlier in the year.

The institute's report showed a decrease in the wheat acreage throughout the world, the United States being 21.4 per cent below that of last year for winter wheat, Italy 5.9 per cent and British India 17.52 per cent.

BILL IN TO PREPARE INDUSTRY FOR WAR

National Council Proposed In Hay Measure.

Washington, May 24.—With the approval of the president Representative James Hay, chairman of the military affairs committee, introduced in the house a military defense bill creating a "council of executive information" to further the mobilization of the country's resources for possible war.

The council is to be composed of members of the cabinet, who shall have as an advisory committee seven persons who are recognized as experts in various lines of industry.

Representative Hay said the bill was an administration measure "upon which the president desires prompt action." It probably will be reported without delay by the committee on military affairs, and if necessary a special rule will be invoked to expedite its passage. Introduction of the bill was a surprise to the house.

Members of the proposed council and their advisers are to be named without confirmation by the senate. The body is to be largely an adjunct of the executive office, although it is provided that reports to congress shall be made of investigations conducted. Indicating the plans for an immediate formation of the council is the provision that $200,000 for expenses shall be "immediately available."

Authority is given for the creation by the council "of subordinate bodies for assistance in special investigations either by the employment of experts or by the creation of committees of specially qualified persons serving without compensation."

The bill appropriates $200,000 to be immediately available for the experimental work and the investigations to be undertaken by the council or its subordinate bodies and to pay the necessary expenses, clerical and otherwise, of the council and its subordinate committees.

MORE U-BOAT WAR.

German Liberals Would Disregard Pledge to United States.

London, May 24.—The central board of the German National Liberal party held a meeting in Berlin to consider the question of submarine warfare. A Central News dispatch from Amsterdam says the board adopted a resolution referring to "the great value of submarine warfare against England's supremacy on the sea" and called upon the National Liberal party in the reichstag to urge unlimited use of the submarine weapon in the event that the United States does not "yield to the condition set forth in the last German note."

The party was pledged as one man, the dispatch says, to stand firmly behind the government which strives for the fulfillment of these conditions.

WE'RE ON THE WAY.

Thoughtful men know we are living in a great period, however little the civically and ethically blind may see. As the Pittsburg Leader says, we are in a transition from the old order to—whatever a man's mind, steered strongly by his reading and his mental inheritances, open up to him. We are leaving the old behind, and we have not yet permanently anchored to the new landing. But—in the words of the slangist—"We're on our way."

The advance guard of the national committee of the Republican party is in Chicago, where the convention will be held early next month. The Coliseum, where the gathering will assemble, June 7, has been turned over to the committee and the preliminary arrangements are well under way. Because of the absence of the large number of contests, eliminated mainly through the State primary laws, the preliminary program will be even more routine than usual. The committee opened headquarters at the convention building and a hotel, and the greatest campaign in our history has begun.

The great business of the convention, of course, will be the naming of a candidate for President. Greater than that will be the effect of the nomination in the character of the man chosen. It is much more than mere personal success of a candidate, or even the victory of a great party.

The main thing is that the quality of the man nominated and the attitude of the party behind that candidate is to be a heavily responsible part in determining the future of the country for the next century. Parties have left their old anchorages, too, and their best thought is concentrated upon selecting a new landing place that will square with the forward and progressive march of the times.

We're on our way, and must be careful not to get lost.

William T. Hunt, editor of the Newark Sunday Call, died at his home in that city on Monday. He was one of the few remaining journalists in the State whose work was looked upon as personal, the editorial column of the Sunday Ceall being credited by all men in public life throughout the State to Mr. Hunt. He had a style all his own, and one that is possessed by few editorial writers in New Jersey at the present time, so that the columns which he directed in the Call were always looked for with more than passing interest by other editors all over the country. Mr. Hunt was a man of very positive convictions, and never hesitated to state these, and it went hard with the individual or official whom he took a fancy to oppose. In this age journalists of his type and ability are the exception, rather than the rule, and all of the younger generation are being brought up in a way that makes them but one of the parts of the machine who produces the great daily newspapers.

Now that the Biederwolf campaign is over the real work for the local ministers and church officials begins. The campaign has only half been finished by the signing of pledge cards by the five thousand or more who made decision or reconsecrated themselves to their Christ. That the local pastors will take up the work where it has left off goes without saying, and we expect to see lasting benefit from the campaign for many years to come. Plainfielders, according to Dr. Biederwolf, were not taking their religion seriously enough when he started his work here. But he has awakened them to a full realization of what they should do, and every local church will realize the benefit that has been gained by the campaign as time goes on.

Each day Justice Hughes looms up stronger as the Republican nominee for President. His dignified treatment of talk of his candidacy makes him a dangerous contender; but the prospects are that the 1916 convention will be the most exciting in many years. Not even those in control of the party know their own wishes, and there will be swapping and trading until the late minute. Whatever its results, the Chicago circus will be a highly interesting event.

Now that Dr. Biederwolf has gone Plainfield faces another important event in its history in the coming of 12,000 or more invited guests on May 30. Its people have brought the letter-carriers of New Jersey and New York here and they are hosts. Let this be handled in the "Plainfield way," which made the Biederwolf campaign such a notable success.

VICTORIA DAY.

Victoria Day, one of the big patriotic days on the British calendar, is being observed generally throughout the world. England's allies in the great death struggle in Europe are paying tribute to the famous Queen, who ruled so long and so gloriously. Canadians are especially loyal to the Queen, and the observances in Canada are marked by much ceremony and patriotic devotion. British-American societies are observing the day throughout the United States, and wherever Britons gather throughout the world there are exercises and salutes to the Union Jack.

On the Spur of the Moment

But How About the Pedestrians?

O, benzine car, to thee we sing!
Thou are indeed a glorious thing.
A faithful friend in time of need,
On hot nights with thy ripping speed,
When not a breath of summer breeze
Is stirring midst the wayside trees;
When luckless folks are scorching hot
And cursing their confounded lot;
We honk our merry way along
With motors humming their glad song;
Refreshing breezes whistling by,
We couldn't be warm should we try.
Pull on the last degree of power
And push her 90 miles an hour.
O, benzine car, to thee we sing,
Thou art indeed a glorious thing,
To those who own thee.

Hod Peters stole the clapper out'n the fire bell at the engine house and gave it to his wife for a birthday present for a potato masher. He says it being made of iron it will probably not be necessary for him to give her another potato masher for a number of years, and mebbe not then.

When a gal rides with Amry she has to put her arms around him and hang on, which beats cutter riding or buggy riding all holler. Amry lost Miss Pansy Tibbitts off'n the machine nine miles out on the Hickeyville road last Saturday evening and didn't find out that she was no longer with him until he pulled up in front of her house here in town.

Bill's Car.

Bill Reynolds bought himself a nice big seven-passenger touring car the other day and he and the missus started right out for a ride among the hills and vales that infest the beautiful country of Hubbardston. After they had been going for a while, Mrs. Reynolds happened to glance down at the speedometer and saw that it was registering near the 60-mile notch. "Don't you think 60 miles a pretty fast clip for a new driver, William?" she asked. "Hell," said Bill, who had been used to riding in Bob Kelly's 4d, "we ain't going 12 miles an hour yet; we can't be, my teeth ain't begun to rattle.—Pewamo News.

IS HE A BLONDE OR A BRUNETTE?

- Proctor's Theatre -

William Farnum, renowned as the greatest portrayer of powerful men shaken by emotion, appears in his latest film production at Proctor's

today. It is entitled "A Man of Sorrow," is presented in six massive parts, and was adapted to the screen by the Fox Company from the noted stage success, "Hoodman Blind." Mr. Farnum enacts a difficult part, indeed, and is called upon to use every ounce of strength and all his innate talents in this production. In addition to "A Man of Sorrow," the thirteenth episode of "The Iron Claw" is presented.

Tomorrow a wonderful array of talent and photoplay features has been arranged for the entertainment of patrons of Proctor's. By special request of numerous patrons Pauline Frederick, the inimitable screen star, appears in one of her most successful productions, "Bella Donna," a feature that appeals to all classes and all ages, and one that has been set down as one of the screen masterpieces of the season. In addition a strong Triangle offering is presented tomorrow entitled "Civilization's Child," and starring William H. Thompson and Anna Lehr. This picture abounds in pathetic and emotional situations, and will win the heart interest and sympathy of every spectator from the very beginning. Shorty Hamilton, the famous comedian of diminutive proportions, will also appear tomorrow in a funny Keystone comedy entitled "A Rough Knight." The feature attraction Friday will be Dustin Farnum in "A Gentleman from Indiana," a picture that has set the whole country agog with interest and enthusiasm, and in which Mr. Farnum appears in a typical Farnum role. Among coming attractions booked for Proctor's are Marguerite Clark, in "The Prince and the Pauper," which will appear on Monday, May 29; Charlie Chaplin in his latest comedy, "Police! Police," which will be presented for the first time in this section of the State on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 30 and 31; Norma Talmadge in "The Children in the House," a wonderful Triangle play, and many others equally as great.

--Astor Theatre--

Blanche Sweet, the beautiful and popular star of the Lasky Company, will be seen at the Astor Theatre today in the Jesse L. Lasky production of the thrilling drama, "The Black List," by Marion Fairfax and William C. DeMille, the two noted dramatists, who wrote this production especially for Miss Sweet. The thoughts of "The Black List" struck terror to every miner's heart, for once his name was placed in its columns it meant no more employment with a mining company. How Blanche Sweet, as a school teacher in a small mining town, forced the big corporation to abandon this procedure is presented in the story, which is as thrilling as it is unusual. In the cast supporting Miss Sweet are such well-known players as Charles Clary, Jane Wolf and other members of the all-star cast of the Lasky Company. Coming tomorrow, Howard Estabrook, the celebrated comedian, in the melodramatic farce, "Officer 666," from the play by Augustin Hugh, and by special arrangement with George Cohan and Sam H. Harris. Travers Gladwin, a young millionaire, returns incognito from abroad with his Jap servant, Bateato, after cabling his chum, Whitney Barnes, to meet him that evening at the Gladwin mansion. Al Wilson, a picture thief, arrives fro Europe, the same afternoon. He has obtained keys to the Gladwin mansion from a dismissed servant of the Gladwin's, and parading under the other's name, wins the love of romantic Helen Burton, with whom he plans to elope at 10:30 that night. Bateato goes to the mansion at once and excites the suspicions of Phelan, "Officer 666," whom he finally satisfies as to his identity. A few minutes later Whitney Barnes reaches the home, followed shortly after by Travers. This visit is interrupted by the arrival of Helen Burton and her friend, Sadie Small, and Helen explains that she intends that evening to elope with her sweetheart, Travers Gladwin. Amazed at first, Travers scents trouble, and then pretends an intimate friendship with Whitney Barnes. Under the influence of a brilliant idea he takes Sadie aside and advises that she tell her aunt of the elopement. Both girls leave, promising to return at 10:30. Gladwin at once determines upon a plan, brings in "Officer 666," borrows his uniform, and, sending Phelan to the kitchen with Bateato, goes into the street, where he purchases a false mustache and returns. Sadie and her aunt call and Gladwin hides, leaving Phelan and Barnes to face the music. After threatening to have them arrested, the two women leave in high dudgeon, the house is darkened and Barnes and Phelan go into the kitchen to entertain themselves in anticipation of Wilson's visit. Promptly at 10 Wilson slips into the house and begins cutting valuable oil paintings from their frames. He is surprised by the sudden appearance of Gladwin in Phelan's uniform, and immediately puts the pseudo-policeman to work helping him to pack the canvases. Helen arrives and does not recognize Gladwin in Phelan's uniform and false mustache, but when Wilson goes upstairs for a moment, Travers quickly explains the situation, advising Helen to be quiet to avoid scandal. In the meantime the excitable Jap, Bateato, alarmed at the strange doings, brings a captain and two patrolmen toward the house. Phelan entered the parlor and demands the return of his uniform, explaining the matter to Wilson. Travers dare not tell the truth for fear of implicating Helen, for whom he has already formed a strong attachment. Thus Wilson easily brands Gladwin as the real thief. Meantime, at Phelan's approach, Helen hides herself in the hallway clothes closet. The story is a laugh from start to finish, and must be seen to be appreciated. Howard Estabrook, being well known from coast to coast, will no doubt meet with great favor amng the Plainfield public as a laugh producer, being second to none. The Astor Theatre shows nothing but first run Paramount, Bluebird and other Broadway features; you see them here first. Starting June 5, matinee will begin at 3 p. m., excepting Saturdays and holidays; this is for the summer months only.

Plainfield Theatre.

Tonight is amateur night at the Plainfield Theatre, the big scream of the week. Six entries have been received from local performers anxious for a trial, and those who have attended the amateur performances before know what fun is ahead. Patrons are advised to come early, as seats are always at a premium by the time the regular performance commences. It is worth the price of admission alone to hear the announcements describing the artists soon to come to victory or defeat as the case may be. The bill for the first half of the week, headed by the tabloid musical comedy, "The Broadway Follies," will be repeated in its entirety tonight. "The Broadway Follies" has a complete cast of sixteen people, and features Floyd Williams, the funniest "fat man" comedian on the stage. All the other numbers on the program are in keeping with the headliner, and there is a good sprinkling of photoplays at performance, afternoon or night.

Manager Shannon is now making his preliminary announcements for his celebration of "Anniversary Week," which commences next Monday night. The length of the customary bill will be almost doubled in size, eight big star acts of vaudeville and feature pictures making up the program. Watch these columns for the details, as "Anniversary Week" will be the biggest thing in every performance, afternoon or night.

The picture feature for tomorrow will be the continuation of the thrilling serial, "The Iron Claw," which is now nearing its completon, and which grips the people tighter every week. On Friday the current episode of the Plainfield Theatre's other serial film, "The Strange Case of Mary Page," will be shown. Another complete change of vaudeville is also scheduled for the last half of the week, commencing tomorrow.

MANY ATTEND MEETING OF MAYFLOWER DESCENDANTS

The semi-annual meeting of the Society of Mayflower Descendants held in the Old Barracks, on Saturday, was largely attended by members from all parts of the State. Among those from Plainfield were Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, Mrs. Chapman Fisk, Mr. and Mrs. Lamar VanSyckel, Mrs. Leander N. Lovell, Miss Helen Lovell, Miss Laura Lovell, Arthur Lovell, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Bowen and Mrs. Elizabeth Bowen Foster.

Adjutant General Wilbur F. Sadler was the principal speaker and others who spoke were Robert M. Boyd, governor of the society; John Leonard Merrill, governor of the Society of Colonial Wars; Mrs. William Libbey, president of the Colonial Dames of New Jersey; Mrs. William Sherrard, State regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and Mrs. Mathias Steelman, president of the Daughters of 1812. Following the luncheon there was an interesting program, including vocal and instrumental selections.

LARGER POSTAL SAVINGS DEPOSITS TO BE RECEIVED

Larger postal savings deposits will now be accepted at the post office. This is made possible by an important amendment to the Postal Savings Act just approved by President Wilson. A postal savings depositor may now have an account amounting to $1,000 upon which interest will be paid. Formerly $500 was the maximum amount he could have to his credit. This enlargement of postal savings facilities will be very gratifying to thousands of depositors who have already reached the old $500 limit and are anxious to entrust more of their savings to Uncle Sam. Another feature of the amendment that will avoid further embarrassment to the public and to postal officials is the doing away with the limit on the amount that could be accepted from a depositor in a calendar month. The amendment abolishes this restriction. While the Postal Savings System has already proved a signal success as is shown by the fact that more than half-a-million depositors have over eighty million dollars standing to their credit, still it has fallen short of meeting the full demands of the public because of the restrictions which have been eliminated. Postmaster General Burleson and Third Assistant Postmaster General Dockery have been tireless in their efforts to secure a modification of the limitations and the new liberalizing legislation is particularly gratifying to them.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash the poisons and toxins from system before putting more food into stomach.

Says inside-bathing makes anyone look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside-bathing. Men and women who are accustomed to wake up with a dull, aching head or have furred tongue, bad taste nasty breath, sallow complexion, others who have bilious attacks, acid stomach or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.—Adv.

They Sat Upon the Floor.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

"'AREN'T we going to have any story tonight?' asked a little boy, Halmar, as soon as Ole Shuteyes lay down on his bed." This is the way daddy began the bedtime story for his own children, Jack and Evelyn.

"'How would you like to go to a wedding tonight?' asked the dustman. 'Your sister's big doll, Herman, is going to be married to a nice rag doll, Bertha. It's a good opportunity for your sister to get both her dolls some new clothes.'

"'My sister has done that a hundred times,' said Halmar.

"'Yes, but this is the hundred and first wedding and is sure to be grand,' Ole Lukoie, the dustman, answered. 'Just look!'

"Halmar glanced at the nursery table, and there stood a little pasteboard house with lights in its windows and all the tin soldiers presenting arms outside. Inside the bridal pair sat upon the floor leaning against a table leg. Then Ole Shuteyes, dressed in a black silk skirt, married Herman and Bertha, and when the wedding was over all the furniture joined in singing a pretty song written by the lead pencil.

"'Shall we go to the country or travel abroad?' asked the bridegroom. Then he and Bertha consulted the swallow, who is a great traveler, and old Mother Hen, who had reared five broods of chickens.

"The swallow told the bridal pair all about the delightful warm countries where grapes grow in big clusters and the mountains take on wonderful colors. 'But they haven't got our green cabbages!' cried the hen.

"'Once I was in the country with my chicks. There was a gravel pit that we scratched in all day, and then we got into a big garden where cabbages grew. Oh, how green it was! I can't imagine anything more beautiful.'

"'One cabbage looks just like another,' said the swallow. 'And the weather here is apt to be bad.'

"'But we're used to that,' said the hen. 'Cold is good for cabbages. Most all mountains have robbers in them, and any one who does not think ours the nicest country in the world doesn't deserve to live here. Once I traveled twelve miles in a barrel, and there was no pleasure in it.'

"'The hen is a wise woman,' said Bertha, the bride. 'I don't like traveling in mountains, either, for first you go up and then you go down. Herman, let us move out by the gravel pit, where we are safe, and take our walks in the cabbage garden.' And, like all loving bridegrooms, Herman did as his bride wished."

Ethel's Statement That Life for Her Is an Ugly Dream Does Not Flatter Ralph.

"It was great!" Ralph's tone was full of enthusiasm.

"Just splendid!" echoed Ethel, dropping her evening coat on a chair.

"The final scene in the third act——"

"Oh, you mean the play?" interrupted Ethel.

"Surely, what else could I mean?" Ralph stared.

"Oh, the whole thing; the lights, the music, the beautiful dresses. I felt as if I had waked up from a long, ugly dream."

"You are surely complimentary," said Ralph.

"You know what I mean. I went to the theatre or opera two or three times a week, and this is the first time we have been anywhere worth while in the five months since we were married." Ralph had not waited for her reply, but marched to the bedroom and began to prepare for bed. Ethel followed and began casting her garments indiscriminately about the room.

"You surely are not going to leave that lovely dress on a chair all night, are you?" he asked critically. His clothes were being put in their respective cases. Carelessness in the care of clothes was inexcusable to him.

"It is a pretty dress, isn't it?" Ethel lifted the garment and looked at it admiringly. "I had the prettiest dress of anybody in our party without any question." In the excess of enthusiasm over the dress she began putting it in its sheath.

"Did you notice the dress the blond actress wore?" she continued.

"No, I was thinking of the play, not the clothes." Ralph's tone was acid.

"Don't be disagreeable. I noticed the dress because I can have my pink silk made over into something like that."

"Your pink silk made over!" echoed Ralph. "Why, it is not six months since it was made in the first place; besides you have scarcely worn it at all."

"That is the beauty of living in a small town. Your clothes go out of style before you have a chance to wear them. However, I do not expect to wear old-fashioned clothes if I have to have them made over every time I wear them." Ethel's tone was defiant.

"Where is the money coming from for all this dressmaking, I should like to know," asked Ralph gloomily. "If we cannot keep our heads above water when we are getting nothing to wear I fail to see where many clothes are coming from."

"I guess we will manage as other people do. You have not planned on our going without, I hope." There was a touch of scorn in Ethel's voice.

"My life, Ethel, I wish you'd use your head. One would think you expected manna to fall to supply our wants. And it would have to for all the planning you do to make ends meet." Ralph climbed into bed and drew the bedclothes over his shoulders with a vicious jerk.

Ethel gave a contemptuous little snort and her reflection in the glass showed a face full of disdain.

"It is a pity someone had not told you before we were married that a wife had to have clothes," she said. "It must have been such a shock to you to learn it."

"It is a pity I had not been told that some women can never learn to manage so that a decent salary would cover their expenses," he retorted with growing heat. He had forgotten for the moment that his mother had told him this.

"Thank you for the compliment." Ethel's cheeks were flushed with anger as she snapped out the light and climbed into bed, turning her back to Ralph and not even saying good-night. It was well on toward morning before either of them fell asleep.

W. J. BURNS IS TO BE INDICTED

Detective Implicated In Telephone Tapping Case.

WAS HIRED BY MORGAN & CO.

District Attorney of New York City Declares There Is Evidence Against Well Known Sleuth For the Return of a True Bill.

New York, May 24.—Before Chief Magistrate McAdoo there has been commenced a John Doe investigation into the tapping of the telephone wires of Seymour & Seymour, lawyers, which District Attorney Swann said would result in the indictment of William J. Burns, the detective.

If the outcome of this inquiry justifies it the district attorney will go into the whole question of tapping of telephone wires by the police and will investigate all the 350 cases in which the police have listened in on telephone conversations since Jan. 1, 1915.

Chief Magistrate McAdoo, Judge Swann said, will inquire into "the case of Frederick Seymour versus William J. Burns and John Doe." All the witnesses who have been connected with the Seymour wiretapping case, including Martin Egan of J. P. Morgan & Co., who engaged Burns to detect suspected diverting of tips on munitions orders from the Morgan offices to the Seymour offices, is among those subpoenaed. Judge Swann will take personal charge of the inquiry.

"We will go into the whole situation and decide the best means to indict," said Judge Swann. "We will also decide whom to indict besides Burns."

"Then there are grounds for the indictment of Burns?" Judge Swann was asked.

"Unqualifiedly, yes," answered the district attorney.

Unlawful Entry Charge.

Chief Magistrate McAdoo intends at least to start the inquiry under section 405 of the penal code, regarding unlawful entry, a misdemeanor punishable by a year in the penitentiary and $500 fine. Testimony before the Thompson legislative committee has been that William J. Burns, his son, Sherman Burns, and a stenographer entered the Seymour office at night by means of a pass key.

Then, according to this testimony, not only was a detectaphone installed in the Seymour offices connecting with the Belgian relief fund's old office, next door, but William J. Burns himself went into Frederick Seymour's office, opened his desk and took out papers and cards, which he returned afterward.

Section 405 makes it a misdemeanor to enter a building or any part thereof with intention to commit a felony or a larceny or any malicious mischief. The questions arising are whether the taking of papers from a desk, which are later returned, is a felony or a larceny or whether boring through a wall and installing a detectaphone is malicious mischief.

Chief Magistrate McAdoo will decide as a result of the testimony adduced before him whether or not to take a complaint or issue a warrant or warrants. Judge Swann, however, says unqualifiedly that there is enough evidence to indict Burns. The district attorney would not say who is the "John Doe" against whom the inquiry is aimed and whether that generic term covers one suspect or several.

50,000 MINERS STRIKE.

Men In Pittsburgh District Have Repudiated Settlement.

Pittsburgh, May 24.—Fifty thousand miners of the Pittsburgh district are out on strike. Every mine is closed down. The recent wage agreement signed by officials representing the miners, which included a 5 per cent increase in rents and a 3 per cent increase in powder for the men, is the cause of the strike.

A convention of the miners will be held in the Labor Union temple here by the miners. Some of the more radical of the miners favor ousting the officials of the union who signed the new wage scale.

The miners accepted the scale as agreed to by the union officials, but the dissatisfaction arose after the first pay day, when the miners learned that their pays were smaller under the new scale than under the other scale.

If a new scale is drawn up it will not become effective until June 10, and not a mine in this district will be working until that time.

1 DEAD, 5 HURT IN MINE SHAFT

Miner Is Crushed by 600 Foot Fall.

LADDER BOLT GIVES WAY

Men Were Climbing Out After Day's Work When Iron Bolt Breaks and Whole System of Steps Falls—Eleven Others Escaped by Jumping Aside.

Oxford, May 24.—One man was killed and five were injured when a string of ladders, joined one on top of the other, from the bottom of the Empire Steel and Iron company's mine to the surface broke and clattered to the bothome of the shaft, 600 feet below.

Charles Erdle, who plunged from the top to the bottom, was instantly killed. His body, badly crushed, was found beneath the pile of ladders on the floor of the mine.

The injured are:

Henry Oliver, mine captain, badly cut about the head.

Joseph Zolnes, right arm injured.

Michael Stoyek, injured about the body.

Joseph Lutazky, hurt about the head.

John Dominsky, fingers broken and arm injured.

The accident happened at 3 o'clock, when the men were coming out of the mines at the close of their day's work. They usually come out on the skip hoist, but engineers were at work on that, so the seventeen miners of the shift that quits at 3 o'clock climbed out on the ladders.

Erdle was leading. Behind him, threading their way up out of the darkness like so many squirrels, were his companions. The men were shouting and laughing to one another and indulging in little races up the shaft. Suddenly there was a tearing noise and a sharp cry that echoed shrilly up and down the shaft. The iron bolt which had fastened the ladders to the top had broken, and the whole fabric of ladders crumbled and clattered to the bottom.

Eleven of the men who were nearer the bottom stepped off the ladders they were on and clung to timbers that lined the side of the shaft. Immediately after their ladders slid away in the darkness. These eleven escaped injury. Workmen from the main shaft came later and rescued them.

Dr. G. O. Tunison was called and dressed the hurts of the injured men. The victims were then taken to their homes. Oliver's condition is said to be serious.

Erdle was forty-two years old and leaves a wife and three children.

Coroner Charles N. Shrope of Washington, N. J., is investigating the accident.

PUBLIC SERVICE SUED.

Two Couples Ask Damages For Alleged Injuries Received.

Jersey City, May 24.—Judge Luther A. Campbell and a jury in the Hudson circuit court are considering the civil actions of Mrs. Mary H. Hardman and George Hardman, her husband, of 34 Maple street, and Mrs. Susie Adams and Thomas T. Adams, her husband, of 80 Maple street, all of Kearny, against the Public Service Railway company. Each woman sues to recover $10,000 for alleged personal injuries, and the husband in each case sues to recover $5,000 for medical care, nursing and loss of services alleged to have been a result of the accident which the women sustained.

The charge is that on June 30, 1915, the rear of one of the company's cars in rounding a curve at Eagle Rock and Harrison avenues, West Orange, struck the women and knocked them down. Injuries to her spine are complained of by Mrs. Hardman, while Mrs. Adams says her left leg was injured.

HURLED FROM AUTO.

Jamesburg Man Pitched Into Water and Nearly Drowned.

Jamesburg, May 24.—Pitched from an automobile into three feet of water in a ditch, William Gilleland of this place was rescued from drowning by Leroy Reid, who had been riding with him in a car that crashed through a fence when the steering gear broke. Gilleland was flung through the wind shield. His hand was gashed and some of his clothes torn off. He was stunned and helpless when Reid reached him.

The accident occurred in Pension road about a mile from Englishtown. Both victims are at their homes here, the wound in Gilleland's hand having been closed with seven stitches.

SETS HER HAIR AFIRE.

Girl Uses Alcohol Shampoo, Then Lights the Gas.

Passaic, May 24.—Miss Mary Deduc of 121 Outwater lane, Garfield, was badly burned on the head, face, hands and back when in lighting a match she set fire to fumes of alcohol with which she had been washing her hair.

Miss Deduc was preparing to attend a party and had followed the advice of friends in using alcohol on her hair, and when Miss Deduc used a match to light the gas the fumes ignited. Her cries attracted the attention of other members of the family, who sent for a physician.

Raking 'Em Over

KIND WORDS FOR JACK MARTIN IN THE WEST.

"Martin made a wonderful one-hand stab of Gossett's grounder in the fifth, getting the ball with one hand near second base and then tossing the big fellow out at first," says Manning Vaughan, the sport writer of the "Milwaukee Sentinel." But this is only a fair sample of the many kind words being said about Jack Martin these days in western sport chronicles. He has been setting the American Association afire with his fielding stunts and it was only yesterday that he cracked another pair of hits out for the Brewers. The biggest surprise to local fans comes in Jack's hitting. He is a natural fielder, but his stick work has never before come up to par. Now that he's going at top speed and playing the kind of baseball that puts his name in daily print we may expect to hear of his playing nearer to home before another year rolls by. He has made good at Milwaukee and in his present form is ripe for big league picking.

CITY LEAGUE CLUBS PLAYING SUNDAY BASEBALL.

Considerable comment has been passed around of late concerning the practice certain City Leaguers are making of staging Sunday baseball exhibits. No attempt has been made to conceal the fact that contests of this nature are being staged by the leaguers and to date the league management has taken no action regarding it. There are various loop-holes that will serve as excuses for the circuit clubs if they are ever brought up on the carpet to answer Sunday charges and one of the best of these will probably come in the form of the plea that the Saturday lineup is not being used in Sunday competition. Certain it is, however, that the league clubs are using at least a portion of their Saturday lineups in Sunday contests and these players are liable to prosecution and disbarrment from the loop, if we have been rightly informed. However, the muss hasn't been stirred up as yet and if the other circuit clubs haven't the back-bone to see that the aims of the league are lived up to we're not going to dabble in the affair.

PLAYGROUND BASEBALL AGAIN IN THE LIMELIGHT.

With the closing of school only a month distant interest in amateur baseball tends to center around the prospects for the development of the sport at Parker Field this year. It is safe to say that the national pastime will be promoted at the big playground as long as the playground is there and George W. Wriston, the director in charge, will see to it that the game gets the proper boosting and best supervision possible. We've been assured that we'll have a playground league this summer and this assurance takes a big load off the schoolboy's mind. The calibre of baseball played on the Randolph road lot has developed many a clever ballist and everything possible should be done to aid Mr. Wriston to promote the recreation on the highest possible plane.

SENSATIONAL DASH OF THE GIANTS.

The sensational dash of the Giants continues. Yesterday the Gotham crowd piled up its twelfth consecutive win. Going West with two victories out of 15 games played, they were the jokes of the circuit. So far they have made a clean sweep. When they come back to the Polo grounds it will be the finish of one of the most spectacular sprints ever made by a National League club. The class of the Giants is beginning to tell. Their pitching was bad at the beginning, but with encouragement given it by the team hitting well behind the heavers, New York will class with anything in the East. New York is in the first division today and it will be a bad guess and a big upset of the dope if they do not finish well up in the first division, being given just as much chance as any other club in the league for the pennant.

MORAL EFFECT ON ZIMMERMAN IS GOOD.

The moral effect of making Heinie Zimmerman captain of the Cubs will play a prominent part in his success and the attendant winning of games by the Tinker crowd. Zimmerman is one of the most temperamental ball players in the National League. A natural hitter and scrapper, he often steps over the bounds and is chased from the field or fined. Placing responsibility on a player of this sort will make him feel that his services are needed, that he can accomplish just as much by tempered argument as by the fiery kind he has been pulling. It will put his mind more on the game. Any baseball star likes to see his name spread before the fans as a hero. To see a sporting page where it chronicled the fact that "Captain Heinie Zimmerman" was chased off the field for disorderly conduct would not be nearly so nice as to read where "Captain Heinie Zimmerman" has hit for a home run with a couple of fellows on the sacks. Already the effect is noticed. Zimmerman is right around the top of the entire league in hitting, is fielding better and the pep and ginger in his makeup is taking hold on the balance of the team. Every other method has been tried to get Zim lined up as a peace loving citizen, and it begins to look like the solution has been found in making him captain of the guard.

INDIANS BEAR THE BRUNT OF LEAGUE.

Seven American League teams have one object in view—beat the Indians. To date Cleveland is still occupying first place and beating off the attack. This is the best test a club could get. Washington sent in their mainstay, Walter Johnson, in two of the games and the first time the big fellow was pushed off. When the other clubs play among themselves they use the strongest lineups, save their star hurlers for the series and do everything to drag down the league leaders. Men might be played against other clubs that would not even adorn the bench in a series with Cleveland. Managers would not think of sending youngsters in the box against the high-stepping pace-setters. If the Indians can maintain their present position another month it will be an odds-on bet that they will cop. By that time the other clubs will be worn down considerably and find their efforts to beat Fohl are useless. The Indian team is no flash in the pan, else it would have crumpled, instead of fighting back when the powerful attacks lodged against it recently were perpetrated.

NO MILBURN CLASSIC.

Orange, May 24.—By a vote of 2 to 1 in the negative, the South Orange (N. J.) Township Committee last night refused permission to hold the proposed Memorial Day road races of bicyclists on the old Irvington-Milburn course, killing the project which John M. Chapman sought to revive after ten years.

CONTRIBUTING SPORT "ED" EXPLODES JIM'S "REP"

"Bus" Donnelly is now champion on the T. A. B. S. alleys. Monday evening, after the regular tournament, he knocked 'em down to the tune of 289.

A short while ago on one lucky evening, Jim Scott made 268, which beat everything before that. He smiled and thought the last word was said. Now, when "Bus" meets Jim, he smiles and thinks the same. "Bus" and Bill Mahoney also hold the record for team bowling, having made 455.

ROWLAND WILL REMAIN AS WHITE SOX MANAGER

Chicago, May 24.—"The boys are too eager to win," said Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, yesterday, in denying the story that he proposed to change managers.

"There is nothing the matter with the team, as a team, and they will round into shape soon. Of course, if the team keeps on slumping, I shall have to make some changes. But I have not determined upon what they will be as yet.

"Manager Rowland is all right and present conditions are not his fault at all. The team is just over-anxious. They don't 'wait 'em out.' Naturally, if I can improve the team in any way, by trades or by buying players, I will do it. Any owner would."

SPORT NOTES

The Canadian lacrosse season opens today. Another big event of Victoria Day is the annual ten-mile run at St. Catherines, Ont., open to registered amateurs of the world.

Frank Moran and Jack Dillon will be on the receiving end of the next flurry of New York money for the benefit of mitt artists. Their mill is set for Ebbets' Field in Brooklyn, for July 4.

Ted Meredith, the Pennsylvania marvel, will wind up his college career next month, and is sure to shine in the intercollegiates at Cambridge on Friday and Saturday. He is counted on as a sure winner in the quarter and the half mile. Bingham and Wilcox of Harvard will give him a stiff brush in the former, while Windnagle, of Cornell, will force him in the half-mile.

The short race meet at Jamaica winds up today, and the steeds will be transferred to Belmont Park. A brilliant opening is on the cards for the Belmont circuit, for the Metropolitan Handicap and New York Steeplechase will be run on the opening day.

Christy Matthewson is using the "spit ball" as an effective adjunct to his famous "fadeaway." The old general of the pitcher's box is as effective as ever in the pinches, though he lacks some of the reserve strength of the earlier years.

Ted Lewis has a hard fight on his hands tonight, when he tackles Eddie Moha. The boys will go twelve rounds at Dayton, where Moha recently defeated Kid Graves, and is somewhat of a hero.

Leland Stanford has sent ten of its speedy performers to the intercollegiates at Harvard Stadium, and they ought to make things interesting in the sprints and hurdles. If they have the grit of the Stanford oarsmen, they will pull through somehow.

Tommy Dillon, himself a fighter, and brother of the more famous Mike Gibbons of St. Paul, has an important engagement on Saturday. The referee will be a clergyman, Tommy will wear white kid gloves, and he will be married. Miss Helen Mega of St. Paul is the bride. Mike will don a boiled shirt for the occasion.

The Detroit course for the Gold Challenge Cup for motor boats this year is a disappointment to the aspirants for a new record. The course as laid out will furnish a spectacular race, but the men at the wheels will be obliged to exert much care, for there are 24 sweeping turns.

George Moriarty, recently of the White Sox, has taken the management of the Memphis team in the Southern Association.

Lai Hipp, the Chinese sprinter of St. Mary's College, Dayton, did the hundred yards in ten seconds in a recent meet. He also captured three firsts and a second.

The trapshooters of Illinois are competing for the State championship this week at La Salle. The Nebraska gunmen are also out in force at the Grand Island traps.

The pick of Eastern women tennis experts are battling at Pelham Manor in the invitation tournament. As usual, it will be a Bjurstedt affair.

Rowing interest this week centers in the three-cornered race to be rowed at Ithaca on Saturday, Yale, Princeton and Cornell being the principals.

The Western track season for horses gets under way on Saturday, when a thirteen-day meet opens at Reno.

TO LOCATE SANITARIUM ON FITZSIMMONS' FARM

The farm once occupied by "Bob" Fitzsimmons, former champion heavyweight pugilist, at Dunellen, will be conducted as a chiropractic sanitarium by Laura Biggar, the actress, and Dr. Charles C. Hendrick. The couple were recently married. The work has begun on remodeling the buildings.

DR. EATON SAYS HE IS FOR ROOSEVELT

Asks Lord to Forgive Him for Voting for Wilson Four Years Ago.

Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of Plainfield, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, of New York, is for Roosevelt for President. In a lecture on "Pacifism or Militarism," in New York, last night, the English-American minister bitterly denounced the policies of Woodrow Wilson, saying he hoped the Lord would forgive him for voting for Wilson four years ago.

He declared himself in favor of military training for every boy in America, saying the United States Army ought to contain 250,000 regulars and 1,000,000 second line troops. He also asserted the United States should have a navy large enough to protect both coasts.

"We should prepare, and prepare so that when we backed a proposition along international lines we would be listened to with respect, so that our words would have some effect," he said. "If you first shake your fist at a fellow and then shake your finger, you are likely to wind up by winking your left eye and looking mighty sheepish."

Referring to Mr. Roosevelt's action in inducing Japan and Russia to stop fighting, Dr. Easton asked—"What would happen if Mr. Wilson were now to say to the nations of Europe, "Stop fighting?" Then Dr. Eaton answered his question by remarking, "They would say, 'Oh, hell!'"

Mr. Bryan and Mr. Ford came in for criticism for their "pacifism." He said Mr. Ford's mind was like a plate of jelly. "You touch it on one spot and the whole thing trembles."

"Even at that," said Dr. Eaton. "Mr. Ford is a beter type of pacifist than Mr. Bryan, because Mr. Bryan is better educated and should have learned something." Dr. Eaton said a man who couldn't fight for a good cause "ought to go home and change clothes with his wife."

Dr. Eaton said the course of the United States in Mexico is one of the sorriest spectacles in history. "We ought to back up our citizens engaged in legitimate business anywhere on earth, otherwise our citizenship is worthless," he declared. "Wilson is simply dodging bricks."

The speaker closed his remarks by saying: "Mr. Wilson will defend our citizens on every sea and in every clime as long as there is a typewriter left."

FINED $10 FOR CRUELTY TO HORSES HE WORKED

Walter Ford, colored, charged with cruelty to animals, was fined $10 by Judge De Meza in the police court yesterday. Ford was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Van Hoesen, agent for the S. P. C. A., and she had several witnesses present to testify that he did not properly feed his horses and that they were stabled in unsanitary barns. His defense was that the horses had bad teeth and could not chew their food. Judge De Meza told him to have them treated, and fined him $10 as a reminder to do this at once.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

PRAYER MEETINGS WELL ATTENDED

Every Church in the City Had Big Crowd Last Evening.

MANY NEW MEMBERS

Song and Prayer Gives Way to Testimony of Christian Awakening—All Denominations Show Results of Biederwolf Campaign.

In all of the churches of Plainfield last night there were big crowds out for the weekly prayer service and more of Plainfield people attended these mid-week services than at any other time in the history of the city. While not all church bodies received new members, hundreds expressed a desire to join and will be received as soon as the customs of the denomination selected will permit.

It was "testimony" night everywhere. Converts, church members who had been reconsecrated, and Christians of years of labor, all gave voluntary proof of the awakening that had been brought about through the recent Biederwolf campaign, and most all of the ministers joined in the expressions of determination to be more loyal to the church and that for which it stands.

Announcement was made of the big union service to be held in the Tabernacle next Sunday evening and all were urged to attend.

It will be some time before the converts who signed cards expressing their intention of joining local churches have been received and an accurate idea of the direct results of the evangelistic campaign in new Christians can be had, but reports from the prayer services of last night indicate that the total will exceed $1,000.

Crescent Avenue Church.

The Crescent Avenue Presbyterian service was attended by a larger number of people than for many years. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie led in the prayer service of the evening. About thirty told of their desire to affiliate with this church and they will be received at the first communion, which will be held early in June.

Overflow the Chapel.

The chapel of the First Presbyterian church was not large enough to hold those who attended the prayer services last night, and they overflowed into the Sunday-school rooms. Dr. Charles E. Herring led in the prayer and song service, and there were many testimonials to the wonderful effects of the Biederwolf campaign. A large number of cards asking for admittance to this church have been placed in the hands of the pastor and the applicants will be received at the communion service in July.

Four More Converted.

Four new converts were added to the thousands in Plainfield within the past six weeks at the First M. E. church last night. These people came down to the foot of the pulpit at the close of the talk of Dr. Charles M. Anderson and pledged a Christian life. The service was attended by a great crowd. Clifford Braider, who trained the Biederwolf chorus choir, had charge of the song service, and there were many responses to the call for "testimony." Dr. Anderson has already received several new members into his church and more will be taken in Sunday.

Temple Baptist Gets Twenty.

At least twenty new members were received by the congregation of the Temple Baptist at the mid-week service of last night. Some asked admittance by letter, and others admission of faith. The Rev. E. C. Conover was in charge of the hour of song and prayer. The candidates for baptism will be received at the Sunday morning service.

Eighteen for Grace M. E.

The biggest crowd that has attended a prayer service during the ministry of the Rev. Charles S. Gillespie was present when he called last night's service to order. Eighteen new members have been received and about forty, in all, have signified their intention of joining this congregation. It was announced that the Sunday-school service would be held at 9:45 next Sunday, instead of in the afternoon.

Crowd at Warren Chapel.

The crowd that attended prayer meeting at the Warren Chapel last night was so big that the Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey found it necessary to move his service to the main auditorium of the church. Biederwolf hymn books were used by the church and songs of the Tabernacle were sung. Several new members were received and others volunteered to give testimony of their awakening.

Tonight at Warren Chapel there will be a meeting of the Elizabeth Presbytery for the purpose of making this institution an independent church, and preparations are being made for a big attendance. Mrs. Joseph Edgar will render a solo and other features will be arranged. A meeting of the Missionary and Aid Society will be held at 3 p. m. Friday.

Service at Congregational.

Many applications for membership were received by the Congregational church from among the big attendance at the Wednesday evening prayer service, and the applicants will be received into the church Sunday morning.

Hundreds at Trinity.

More than three hundred men and

NEW RECTOR FOR HOLY CROSS PARISH

Rev. Harold St. George Burrill, of New York, Will Begin Work on Sunday.

Rev. Harold St. George Burrill, formerly senior curate of the staff of St. Agnes chapel, New York city, will begin his new work as rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, North

Rev. Harold St. George Burrill
Rector of Church of the Holy Cross.

Plainfield, on Sunday next. His coming to the borough parish is awaited with considerable interest as the parish has been without a rector for several months and the members are hopeful for the future.

Mr. Burrill received his early education in Canada and his theological training at the General Theological Seminary, New York city. He was graduated from that institution in the Class of 1907 and spent the first three years of his ministry in Boston.

He comes to North Plainfield after having spent nearly six years of service in Trinity parish, New York, where he is greatly beloved throughout that parish. Mr. Burrill has a wide acquaintance among the clergy of the Episcopal church in New York, as well as in New Jersey. He is a personal friend of the local Episcopal rectors, who have heard of his work in New York and that his work in the borough will be successful is the opinion of all who know him.

"THE OPPORTUNITY IN CHINA" DESCRIBED

Miss Margaret Mead Tells of the Religious Awakening in Far off Land.

The postponed meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room, was addressed by Miss Margaret Mead, of East Front street, on the subject, "The Opportunity In China." Few persons are better qualified to speak with authority on this subject than Miss Mead. Her brother, Lawrence Mead, is identified with the Y. M. C. A. work of China, her sister, Miss Frederika Mead, is a member of the faculty of the new Union Women's College at Nanking in Eastern China, and she with her mother, spent a part of the year 1914 in a visit to that country.

In a graphic manner she told of the interest and enthusiasm of the newly awakened China, the co-operation of the leading men, and the necessity for the education of girls and women, who for so many centuries have been neglected and deemed incapable of receiving knowledge. An interesting feature of her story was the possibility of purchasing land for the new Jin Sing College through the recent bequest of the late Mrs. John D. Rockafellow, of New York city. The present college, she stated, was located in the old home of "Li Hung Chang."

Her account of the Y. W. C. A. work, the Student Volunteer Movement and the medical work under the Rockafellar Foundation were full of absorbing interest and made her plea effective for remembrance and prayers for the workers in the great mission fields of the world.

Mrs. J. H. Buchanan presided at her initial service and the devotional service was led by Miss Alida White.

RECEPTION LARGELY ATTENDED

About one hundred couples enjoyed the reception given in the High School Auditorium under the auspices of the Zephyrs, an organization of colored girls allied with the Recreation Committee. Smiling Marie Wain's orchestra of New York provided the music for the dancing which continued until midnight. Beside the Plainfield friends present there were delegations attending from Westfield, New Brunswick and other cities. Refreshments were served during the evening.

PASTOR'S AID MEETING.

The Pastor's Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church will hold the regular monthly meeting at the home of Miss Abbott, 413 West Front street, tomorrow afternoon, at 3 o'clock. A full attendance of members is desired.

MRS. C. R. BANKS CHOSEN REGENT

Yearly Meeting of Continental Chapter, D. A. R., Marked by Increased Interest.

REPORTS PRESENTED

Annual Tea to Be Held at Washington Rock on Tuesday, June 13—Ten New Members Are Enrolled, Making a Total of Forty-eight.

Election of officers and submission of annual reports occupied the larger portion of the annual meeting of the Continental chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, on East Ninth street. The session was largely attended and keen interest was manifested in the splendid reports submitted by the regent, registrar, treasurer and secretary. In the absence of the regent, Mrs. C. R. Banks, the chapter's past regent and historian, Mrs. C. W. McCutchen presided.

Last year's officers were all reelected as follows: Regent, Mrs. C. R. Banks; first vice regent, Mrs. E. J. Read; second vice regent, Mrs. J. F. Harman; secretary, Mrs. H. M. Maxson; treasurer, Mrs. E. L. Finch; historian, Mrs. C. W. McCutchen; librarian, Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman; registrar, Mrs. George O. Stevens; board of management: Mrs. W. A. Conner, Mrs. E. H. Rowland, Mrs. E. W. Bulkley and Miss Addie Dietrich. Announcement was also made that ten new members were admitted during the past year, making a total membership in the chapter now of forty eight women. The committee on the revision of bylaws presented a long report which will be acted upon at the first fall meeting which is to be held in October.

On Tuesday, June 13, a special meeting of the chapter will be held at the tea house at Washington Rock. This gathering is an annual custom with the members since the erection of the home at that place, inasmuch as the organization was largely instrumental in getting the reservation and keeping the site in an attractive condition.

1 TO 2 ROOSEVELT WILL BE NOMINEE

Wall Street Begins to Bet on Action of Republican Convention.

New York, May 25.—Politics at last entered into Wall street gossip and discussion of possible developments at the Republican convention to begin on June 7 attracted more attention than stock market affairs. Most interest was devoted to discussing the Roosevelt outlook and in connection with this discussion there were the customary offerings of various wagers. It was said on the street that one bet of one to two had already been made that Roosevelt will be nominated, while the quoted odds on the other Republican possibilities will be one to three on Hughes and one to five on Root. The street seemed to favor Root in this discussion and there was a good deal of talk about it being more desirable that Hughes should remain in the Supreme Court than assume the executive chair. It is to be expected that until the nomination is made that politics will enter more largely into the daily discussion on the street at the cost of stock market activities.

BRANDEIS WILL WIN FIGHT IN THE SENATE

Washington, May 25.—The appointment of Louis D. Brandeis to the U. S. Supreme Court will be confirmed. A carefully taken poll of the Senate following the unanimous endorsement of Brandeis by the Democratic members of the Judiciary Committee makes possible this statement without qualification. Brandeis will have a margin of about a dozen votes in his favor. An effort will be made to force action on a motion to abolish the executive session in order that the Brandeis fight may be conducted in the open.

FALL OF CEILING DUE TO EXPLOSION

Experts Say Powder Works Concussion Caused Damage at Local High School.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

Third Floor Rooms and Auditorium of Structure to Be Vacated While Reinforcements Are Put In by Board of Education.

As a result of an investigation conducted the past week into the cause of the ceiling of the domestic science room of the Plainfield High School collapsing last Friday, it was asserted at a special meeting of the Board of Education last night that the fall was indirectly the result of the Powder Works explosion at Lake Hopatcong on May 2. The statement was made by Messrs. Wilder & White, architects for the Board on the High School addition, who have been making a thorough examination of the building at the request of the school authorities. Despite the fact that the Atlas Plant, where the explosion occurred, is forty miles from this city, the shock in some sections was unusually severe and while some scout the idea that the concussion could have had anything to do with the fall of the ceiling many others in a position to know corroborate the belief of the architects.

The High School building seems to be in a direct line with the area most affected by the tremendous explosion which Plainfielders will recall partially wrecked the plant, killing five men and injuring twenty. The domestic science room is located in the new addition in an extension to the west and this portion of the structure seemed to receive the full force of the reverberation. It was reported at the time that two window panes were smashed while throughout the department the shock could be distinctly felt. In other parts of the city and borough residences rocked perceptibly, much the same as when influenced by a seismic disturbance.

Those present at the meeting in addition to the school officials were: Messrs. Wilder, White and Building Inspector T. O. Doane.

The report of the architects was to the effect that the building had sustained a shock which had set up a vibratory action causing a shifting of the ceiling weight from a number of distributed hangers so that undue strain rested on individual supports. This increased weight caused the supports to break from the place where suspended and part of the ceiling in the domestic science department was carried to the floor as the result.

The engineers present contended that the form of construction involved was a proper one and that the remainder of the ceiling on the third floor of the new addition was perfectly safe, insofar as any danger of a similar accident occurring. However, the Board decided that, notwithstanding the expert opinion rendered, immediate action would be taken towards reinforcing the present supports in the entire area of the third floor. The emplated reinforcements are such that there will be absolutely no possibility from any cause shock or otherwise of the ceiling falling. The Board further authorized immediate repairs to be made to the damaged ceiling, the cost probably reaching $500.

Inasmuch as the area involved includes part of the auditorium, this part of the building will be closed until the contemplated reinforcements have been installed.

The science demonstration, which was scheduled to be held in the Auditorium tonight, will be held in the new gymnasium, and every arrangement will be made for the comfort and convenience of the members of the Parent-Teacher Association, under whose auspices the demonstration is being held.

DR. SAUNDERS WILL BE ORATOR FOR COMMENCEMENT

INTERESTED IN FERGUS MACHINE

Local People Want to See the Car That May Be Made Here.

SEEK A PLANT SITE

Officials of Company in Conference With Plainfield Business Men Today and Tomorrow—Mr. Ferguson is Now a U. S. Citizen.

Many local people are interested in the coming demonstration of the Fergus car which will be at Laing's garage on Sycamore street tomorrow. This is the machine that may be made in Plainfield and already there is a local pride in its makeup.

The designers, Messrs. J. B. Fergerson, Ltd., of Belfast, Ireland, have been engaged in the distribution of high class automobiles in Ireland for the past fifteen years and have maintained a large service station and repair department for the benefit of their large clientele. From the beginning they kept an accurate history in card index form of the troubles inherent in automobiles and their possible causes. About five years ago when they finally decided to begin the design and construction of their own car they naturally wished to avoid the mistakes made by other designers. A concensus of their data showed that dirt and dust getting into the mechanism was the inception of all ills of a motor car and as a consequence the chassis was designed with the primary object of being automatically clean. In keeping out the dirt they naturally kept in the oil which added an important feature from the selling standpoint, inasmuch as the oil is self-contained it becomes necessary to lubricate the chassis but once in six months, which is a decided boon to the owner driver.

All good engineering practice demands simplification and this feature was kept carefully in mind with the result that not only does the design require but two-thirds the parts of the ordinary chassis but in simplifying a number of the resultant features became patentable and are now covered in both the United States and foreign countries. Common sense and the

"ROSE DAY TAGGERS" WILL BE REWARDED

Theatre Tickets to Be Given Those Turning in Largest Amounts June 17.

The committee in charge of Rose Tag Day, on June 17, for the benefit of the Women's Auxiliary of Muhlenberg Hospital find that quite a bit of rivalry has been aroused among the young women of Plainfield as to who would collect the most number of pennies, nickels, dimes and dollars for this most worthy organization during her allotted time as a "tagger."

Therefore, in order to foster this friendly rivalry, the committee has decided to give rewards to these young women for the time and energy they have expended. To the "tagger" who, between the hours of 7:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., on June 17, turns into the committee the largest amount of money, there will be given, as a reward, four orchestra seats for any theatrical production she may choose now playing at any New York Theatre. To the "tagger" who makes the second best showing will be given two orchestra seats for any production she may choose now playing at any New York theatre.

The Tag Day Committee feels that by offering these rewards they will arouse greater interest among the workers, who will in turn be able to give a fine theatre party as a result of their own efforts. Arrangements have been completed for the establishing of headquarters at the former flower store of Mrs. Denton, on Park avenue, next to the Courier News building, from 7:30 a. m. to 7:30 p. m. on Saturday, June 17, where boxes will be received from "taggers," contents counted, and the amount collected put to the credit of the "tagger," whose name will be listed on a large sheet that all can see. This means that a "tagger" can always find out at any time during the day just how she and every other "tagger" stands, and she will know for which she will have to strive in order to be one of the two reward winners.

In order that there may be no favoritism as regards "tagging" positions, Plainfield is to be divided into a number of districts, and the captains of the various teams will draw, on the evening of June 16, for their positions, and the captain and her team can only solicit from the district they have drawn. By this means, everyone will have an equal and fair chance at the start.

It is to be hoped that every Plainfielder will help generously when "tagged," not only the Women's Auxiliary, but the "tagger" as well.

At the time Mr. Goodrich retired he was the dean of the Plainfield clergy and there was much regret on the part of his people that he felt called upon to give up the ministry.

Mr. Clarke comes here from Bernardsville, where for the past four years he has been the pastor of the Congregational church. It is said that during his ministry there he has been most successful in building up the church both financially and in membership. He is said to be a man of deep convictions, a student and thoroughly alive to the religious work of the day.

LABOR QUESTION HAS HIT ROAD CONRACTORS

Contractor Having Trouble Getting Men to Work on Springfield Road.

As nearly everywhere else, the labor question is beginning to trouble the contractors working on Springfield road, and indications are that there will be more before they are completed with the entire stretch from Scotch Plains to Springfield. Not only are the laborers scarce, but transportation facilities are far from good. Coming from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., the contractors have had to depend on getting their labor from this section, and with the factories and other trades going full swing, it is hard to get men and hold on to them.

However, work is proceeding fairly rapidly. Taking advantage of the land given for the purpose by David Kenney, the sharp turn at the Hunter avenue corner near "White Bridge" has been eliminated, and in several other places toward Springfield turns have been cut out. Actual work on the laying of the roadbed is being begun from the Springfield end, and at present the material is being carted from Westfield. The road is now closed to traffic through the section where it is being rebuilt and all of the traffic is diverted to South avenue.

COMMITTEE FOR PROGRAM.

The Township Committee has appointed a committee composed of William Guest and Samuel McCauley to make arrangements for the Decoration Day observance in Scotch Plains on Tuesday morning. Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, will arrive from Plainfield on the 7:45 trolley and will be met at the Park avenue corner by the two local fire companies, the Boy Scouts and school children. The column will parade down Park avenue to the Scotch Plains cemetery, where the graves of the departed veterans will be decorated and services held conducted by the local pastors.

FANWOOD AUTO RECORD.

Noticing an article in a newspaper several days ago which stated that Los Angeles has an automobile for every seventeen of its population, a Fanwood resident took the time the other day to count the number of machines in the borough. Fifty cars were included in the list, and that, divided into the seven hundred population, gives a car for every fourteen people—a better record than the California city has.

SCHOOL MEETING.

A meeting of the voters of Fanwood borough and all others interested in the local school question has been called for tomorrow night in the Fanwood firehouse at 8 o'clock. It is for a general discussion of the matter and will give a chance for everyone to express their views.

LOCAL SCHOOLS WILL NOT CLOSE UNTIL LATE

June 30 Selected as Closing Date in Fanwood and Scotch Plains

The local schools will remain open this year until June 30, and the graduation exercises for the eighth grade will be held on June 29. The graduates this year will attend High School next fall at Plainfield instead of Westfield.

The continuing of the schools this year longer than in the past has been made necessary so that the pupils will be enabled to cover their full term of work. The inclement weather and distance that a lot of the children have to come has tended to make the attendance poor, and it is to make up the back work that Supervising Principal Townsend has decided on the late date of closing.

It is expected that the graduating class this year will be composed of ten children, although the final examination may result in a change. As the assembly room of School No. 1 is partitioned, the commencement exercises will probably be held in the Baptist church, and, while no definite program has been made out, it is known that County Superintendent Johnson will be the principal speaker.

The announcement that the local graduates will be sent to Plainfield High School next fall instead of Westfield High School comes as a surprise to local parents, but in the opinion of the local Board of Education the results that have been obtained by students at Plainfield are better than those at Westfield. It has only been for the past two years that the Board has been sending the children to Westfield, and whether or not those now attending Westfield will be allowed to continue through the four years or will be transferred to Plainfield is not known.

Town Topics

What has become of the Community Picnic committees? Here it is getting warm weather and not a single meeting has been held as yet. With last year's success as an inspiration, the committees should be able to do even better this time.

Next Tuesday another Memorial Day rolls around and this place is preparing as usual to do honor to the veterans, both living and dead. Everyone should make it his business to do something toward honoring the remnants of the "boys in blue," if it is nothing more than to march in the parade that will escort the veterans from the trolley to the Baptist cemetery.

Anyone who is "muddled" over the school question as it now stands in the township and borough will have a chance to straighten out matters tomorrow night at the meeting in the Fanwood firehouse. Calling for the largest single expenditure of school money in a number of years and involving both the borough and township, as it does, it would be the wisest thing if all the voters were on hand at the meeting, if not to do more than join in the discussion.

Except in a few instances the roads in and around the borough and township are in excellent condition, but one of the few exceptions that should be repaired is on South avenue, just beyond the "Fanwood hill." Because it is a county road and direct route across the State, South avenue naturally has a great deal of traffic, and more so now than ever because Springfield road is closed. The traffic, coupled with the recent spring weather, however, has tended to put the road in that section in a nearly impassable condition. It seems that the county ought to put the thoroughfare in condition so as to allow pedestrians to go back and forth without thinking they are riding the "Rocky Road to Dublin" or fearing for a broken axle or punctured tire.

After thinking for a time that Westfield road would be repaired this year, the announcement comes forth that nothing can be done at present because the number of owners of teams have not backed up their promise of helping with the hauling. As we understand it, it was entirely a voluntary promise made by those owners of horses and wagons that travel on Westfield road and would be benefited by its being repaired. The borough and township will repair the road at a joint expense, and, with the extra cost of paying for carriage, the improvement will have to wait awhile. It seems too bad that the local authorities are not in a position to compel those individuals to fulfill their promises since they have made them.

IN "A NIGHT IN ETHIOPIA."

Rutgers Neilson, of Martine avenue, will be one of the sextet of endmen in the blackface production, "A Night in Ethiopia," which will be the major feature of the evening festivities of the great spring carnival of New York University at University Heights on Memorial Day. Mr. Neilson will sing the Irish comic character song, "Arrah Go On, I'm Gonna Go Back to Oregon." The jokes and comic patter which he will use are original matter written in collaboration with his sister, Miss Helen Neilson.

LOCAL STUDENTS ENTER COUNTY SPELLING MATCH

The annual Union county spelling contest will be held tomorrow night in the Roselle High School and among the contestants from all over the county will be eight students from School No. 1 that will represent the Fanwood township district. The winners of first, second and third will get medals and as Frank Weldon, one of the local pupils, has a second prize medal from last year, he intends to get a first for this year. The trip will be made by trolley and a number of pupils and parents will accompany the youngsters.

Those who will represent each grade are as follows: Eighth, Mary Seabon; seventh, Paul Tuzo and Ole Nelson; sixth, Warren Montross and Grace Farley; fifth, Rose Riester and William Horak; fourth, Margaret Weldon.

GATHERED AT RANDOM

The Union County Board of Freeholders have opened bids for the repairing of Terril road over its entire length. The spring thaws made that thoroughfare practically impassable.

Borough Street Commissioner Augustus Sheelen has sent in an order for the road oil to be put on the borough roads. If it arrives in time it will be applied next week.

Frederick G. Hubach, of Plainfield, will be the speaker at the special services in the Methodist church tonight.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church is making arrangements for the holding of a strawberry and parcel post social in Excelsior Hall on the night of June 20.

$241,000,000 IN NEW NAVAL BILL

No Authorization For Dreadnaught Construction.

REFER TO EUROPEAN WAR

Report Devoted to Discussion of Relative Merits of Cruisers and Great Battleships — Republican Members File Minority Opinion—$1,000,000 For Experimental Laboratory.

Washington, May 25.—There was reported to the house by Chairman Padgett of the committee on naval affairs a naval appropriation bill of unprecedented size and one unusual in that it contains no authorization for Dreadnaught construction.

The grand total of the bill is $241,449,151, approximately $91,700,000 more than the naval budget of last year.

The building program authorized calls for $169,000,000, not all of which, however, is for current expenditure. This program calls for five battle cruisers, four scout cruisers, ten destroyers, three fleet submarines, seventeen coast submarines, one fuel ship, one ammunition ship and one hospital ship.

Essential provisions of the bill were made public several days ago by the committee. Chief interest in the report filed centered in the explanation of the Democratic members of the committee regarding the temporary abandonment of the battleship as a fighting weapon. A considerable portion of the report, which contains references to the lessons of the European war, is devoted to a discussion of the relative merits of battle cruisers and Dreadnaughts.

Republican members of the committee will file a minority report, in which they will contend that the Democratic bill does not provide adequate preparedness, that a rapid building program to put the United States navy in second place should be undertaken and that it is a mistake not to authorize the construction of Dreadnaughts.

The naval budget embodies many recommendations of noteworthy importance, ranging from an appropriation of $1,000,000 to be used for "an experimental laboratory" desired by the naval consulting board, of which Thomas A. Edison is chairman, to enlarged allowances for drydocks, aviation and ammunition and an increase of 16,579 in the navy's enlisted personnel.

Among the authorizations and appropriations contained in the bill are:

Miscellaneous Provisions.

Provision that officers of the line of the navy may specialize in engineering and when so assigned shall retain their places with respect to other line officers in the grade they now or may hereafter occupy.

Authorization for the appointment from civil life of officers for a naval flying corps, this flying corps to consist of 150 officers and student fliers and 350 enlisted men.

Increase of the personnel of the navy by 13,500 men and the marine corps by 3,079 men.

There is recommended an additional appropriation of $387,000 for the development and training of the naval militia of the United States, to which shall be added the regular appropriation of $200,000. Existing reserve laws are amended and broadened to encourage the building up of a larger reserve.

The chief of naval operations is to have the rank of admiral and shall have conferred upon him broader powers, under the general supervision of the secretary of the navy, concerning fleet movements and war maneuvers. This officer will be at the head of a virtual "strategy board" of fifteen officers.

The sum of $2,000,000 is recommended for aviation, and authorization is made for the purchase of an aviation base near San Diego. The work of the advisory committee for aeronautics is praised, and an appropriation of $85,000 is made to permit the committee to continue its researches.

The $2,000,000 item for aviation is provided to purchase additional machines and motors and to put machines aboard the armored cruisers.

A total of seventy-five hydroaeroplanes is provided for.

The appropriation for ammunition for the navy is increased from $3,000,000 to $13,700,000. Approximately $3,000,000 is provided for major repairs to the ships of the navy to bring them "to the highest state of efficiency." Drydocks at the Philadelphia and Norfolk navy yards, to cost $1,500,000 each, are recommended.

One provision gives to Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger (retired), former commander of the Atlantic fleet, full pay and allowances as a rear admiral while he is performing duty as chairman of the executive committee of the general board. Although on the retired list, Admiral Badger has been retained in that position by the secretary of the navy.

A new appropriation of $480,000 is made for steel torpedo nets to be dropped from booms from the sides of battleships when at anchor.

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

San Francisco—Mrs. Dorothy Morgan Slingsby, who gave up her trip to London to be present when the House of Lords took up the question of the identity of little "Teddy" Slingsby, is living in retirement here. She had prepared to journey across the continent and to cross the ocean with the child who is the central figure in the celebrated fortune case, but at the last moment she received a cablegram from her husband, a commander in the British navy, advising her not to start. It is improbable that the Lords would allow her to present herself and the child, as she had hoped, to show the remarkable likeness that exists, and which is the principal argument for the legitimacy of the boy.

Detroit—Michigan women will have the principal part in the big venture for child beterment in this State, through which $20,000 a year will be raised for the next three years. The Michigan Child Welfare League is thus extending its work. In addition to this movement, another is afoot to obtain funds to establish supervised recreation on a uniform basis throughout the State. Although supervised recreation exists in some of the larger cities, there is as yet no united plan.

Minneapolis—If Hilda Muhlhauser, who came to Minneapolis to assist the Civic and Commerce Association in solving the labor problem and working out a plan for the more scientific management of city and State labor employment agencies, should ever write down the names of the organizations in which she holds membership, such a list would be formidable. She is vice-president of the American Association of Employment Bureaus, president of the Ohio branch of the Peace Party, member of the executive board of the Consumers' League, and holds office and membership in many other organizations that are active in modern American life. Her home is in Cleveland, which city she represented at the San Francisco Fair.

New York—The clubwomen are in complete possession of the metropolis, and the hospitality of old Father Knickerbocker is being taxed to the limit to accommodate the thousands of lively club leaders who have come from all section to the biennial of the National Federation. The entertainment extends into the Jersey resorts and up the beautiful Hudson. One of the big social features takes place today, the grand reception at the Metropolitan Art Museum. Mrs. John Hays Hammond arranged this affair, and it is hailed as the real democratic event of the convention. Woman greets woman in real American fashion, social and class distinctions evaporating under the rays of the mutual purpose of the clubwomen.

Boston—After an absence of seventeen years in England, her adopted country, Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, widow of the noted British statesman, is back in Boston with friends and relatives. She is the daughter of William C. Endicott, of Salem, Mass., who was Secretary of War in the Cleveland cabinet. Mrs. Chamberlain is impressed with the changes that have taken place on this side of the water, as well as the great changes brought about in Europe since the war began.

Dayton, O.—Mme. Schumann-Heinck, the famous contralto, has a new protege. She has made a special trip to this city to participate in a benefit tonight for a young singer of 19, Herbert Kratzer, who was discovered by John McCormack.

Philadelphia—That the number of women engaged in scientific work in America is increasing was the interesting statement of Dr. Welsh, of Bryn Mawr College, at a gathering of women leaders recently. Dr. Welsh has been tabulating American women in science. She finds that Maria Mitchell was the first woman member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Women in science lean heavily toward the natural sciences, she found. In physics they are rare, although it was pointed out that first-class men physicists likewise are not to be found in overwhelming numbers.

DR. HARRISON TO PREACH.

Dr. Paul W. Harrison, missionary to India from Trinity Reformed church, will preach at the church Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock service. Dr. Harrison returned to this country a short time ago and since then has been actively engaged in lecturing throughout the country. He will return to India in the near future.

RECEIVES FINAL PAPERS.

N. J. R. Chandler, of this city, today received from Chancellor Walker the final papers in his decree for divorce from his wife, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Chandler. The latter is now making her home in Philadelphia.

TALKS ON POWER, NO. 2

Let us supply

Auxiliary Power

for emergencies

One Firm's Experience

The Public Service Electric Co., Plainfield, N. J.

Gentlemen:

Complying with your request, we great pleasure in stating that we ha been using your electric power for the past five years with general success.

We began the installation as an auxiliary service, in extent only a fraction of that generated by our own power plant, and have since increased its extent so that now our Public Service current consumption is twice that of our own make.

We have recently rewired this entire factory to make your power available in all parts and are rapidly arranging to shift our lighting load to your power lines, operating through our own transformers.

Since the inauguration of our wholesale power contract we have been well pleased with the cost of power purchased of you.

We can also speak most highly of your uniformly satisfactory service and prompt attention to our requirements

Yours very trul;
International Motor Co.
(Sgd.) L. S. Ayer,
Superintendent.

Auxiliary power from Public Service lines will enable you to economically meet unusual demands for power.

—To pay for only the power required to operate the particular machines needed for overtime work.

—To have an abundant supply of reliable power at any time of the day or night,

—To have an elastic source of power that may be economically increased as your business grows.

The capital required to increase your present power plant might then be invested in your business where it will earn more profits.

If you were to use Public Service power exclusively you would then be free from the care connected with manufacturing a sufficient and reliable supply of power.

You could then concentrate your attention upon the profitable manufacture and sale of your goods.

You could largely overcome the reduction in profits caused by unavoidable friction losses of 27 per cent. to 50 per cent. (proved by numerous tests) of all the power produced in an engine-and-belt-driven factory, —And you could eliminate a possible underproduction in output of 10 per cent. to 19 per cent. due to belt slipping and insufficient power supply.

From its 22 generating stations and 61 sub-stations Public Service supplies power at uniform rates to more than 10,000 firms.

Some have a connected load of several thousand horse-power each; for instance:

Edison Storage Battery Co.,	3,953 H. P.
Louis Nixon,	3,884 H. P.
Manhattan Rubber Co.,	2,300 H. P.

Many letters from satisfied customers attest the "satisfactory service" and "prompt attention" they have received.

Let us make tests and submit estimated cost of op[illegible] factory with Public Service power.

MEXICAN SHOT BY U. S. TROOPS?

Claimed Civilian Was Killed by Americans.

WIFE ASKS INVESTIGATION

Troopers Say He Tried to Pass Patrol Line—Carranza Intends No Menace to Frontier—Force Moved North Solely to Protect Border Line.

El Paso, May 25.—Another investigation must now be conducted by the American army officers who have been probing the killing of an American soldier on Mexican soil.

Mexico this time demands the investigation and alleges that Mexican citizens were shot down by American soldiers on the American side without provocation. Andreas Garcia, Mexican consul in El Paso, placed the matter before General Bell and other American officials.

Maria Inez Reyse de Ruiz reported to Consul Garcia that her husband, Jesus Ruiz, a Mexican citizen, who, she said, was sent out by one of the local labor agencies several weeks ago to work on one of the railroad sections in New Mexico and who quit work and, with his wife and the family of another laborer, was walking to El Paso, was fired upon by a squad of United States soldiers near Noria, N. M. Ruiz was badly wounded and was brought to El Paso, where he died.

American reports of the killing of Ruiz said he had been shot by troopers of the Twelfth United States cavalry when he attempted to pass through the patrol line. The report said soldiers on patrol had challenged the Mexican, but he refused to stop and that they then fired.

Not Menacing Border.

That the Carranza government is making no effort to menace the American government in its movement of troops to the international line was asserted by General Gavira and by Consul Garcia in El Paso. General Gavira was notified that he had been designated as commander of all that section of Mexico along the border line east and west of El Paso for several hundred miles and was also informed that he would have a thousand re-enforcements under General Gonzales to aid him in the work of protecting the border

Other forces now being sent into the state of Chihuahua, General Gavira stated, were to garrison points which the American forces are evacuating. However, the pacifist statement of the Juarez commander did not square with messages from correspondents with General Pershing's army in Mexico, who wired that Carranza forces in the vicinity of Madera are outspoken in their opposition and antipathy to the Americans and are exerting themselves to arouse the hatred of the natives against the so called "invaders."

Carranza officials apparently have given up the theory that Villa is dead. Villa is hiding at Hacienda Mimbrera, about 125 miles from Juarez, while his wounds are healing, according to a report received by General Ignacio Ramos at Jimenez and sent here.

General Ramos says that his information comes from several apparently reliable sources, which state that the bandit has bands of followers in Lazarea and San Bernardino.

More than 1,200 of General Canuto Reyes' followers are now being disarmed in the Nazas district around Torreon, according to a further message to General Gavira.

SEEK'S PRESIDENT'S ARREST

Cleveland Crank Asks a Warrant For Mr. Wilson on "Treason" Charge.

Cleveland, May 25.—A warrant for the arrest of President Wilson was sought in Cleveland, the complainant charging the president with treason. He did not get the warrant, however, because District Attorney Wertz would not give it to him.

Wertz's visitor, who refused to give his name, said the president had committed treason by his attitude regarding the European war. When Wertz was obdurate about the warrant the visitor said the district attorney ought to be arrested himself. Wertz reached for the telephone to call the police, and the crank vanished.

NEWS FLASHES

Watertown, S. D., May 25.—Some hundreds of thousands of hens began their fight on old John Barleycorn today. They are to lay an entire week for prohibition and the raising of campaign funds. The State Prohibition Committee sent organizers through the State to secure the big "egg drive." Local "egg week" organizations were formed in many places, and the prohibition leaders believe that hundreds of thousands of dozens will be collected to make South Dakota dry.

New York.— Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman, of Illinois, is one of the speakers at the banquet here tonight to celebrate the semi-centennial of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. Senator Vardaman, of Mississippi, is also expected as a speaker.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Governor Brumbaugh will again pitch in today and put in a day's work on the State's highways. This is good roads day in Pennsylvania, and the Governor will follow the example he set last year by pulling off his coat and heading some 75,000 men in bettering the big and little roadways of the State.

Minneapolis.—The Northwest Congress of Life Underwriters opened here today, bringing together the insurance commissioners, the officials of many big companies and all the leading underwriters of Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Wisconsin.

Philadelphia.—A conference called by the National Shoe Retailers' Association to consider abnormal conditions in the shoe and leather trade that have arisen as a result of the European War, opened here today. The scarcity of material has become acute, it is claimed, and higher prices on shoes are predicted unless the situation is relieved.

SERVICE TO BE OMITTED.

Regular services of the Christian and Missionary Alliance are held at the German church, Duer street, and Craig place, one block from postoffice, Friday, 3:30 and 7:30 p. m. The Sunday service will be omitted this week. F. Y. Lininger is the pastor.

SUFFRAGE EUCHRE PARTY A SUCCESS

More Than Fifty People Attend Annual Affair at the Park Club.

The euchre given in the Park Club auditorium yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield proved to be a decided success both from a financial and social standpoint. Fourteen tables were used by the players and many handsome donations were awarded as prizes to the winners. Fruit punch was served throughout the afternoon.

The large hall was attractively decorated for the occasion, purple and white being the prevailing color scheme. Palms, ferns, purple lilacs and tulips were used in large numbers.

Mrs. C. E. Lipscomb was the general chairman in charge of the arrangements and she was assisted by the following committee of women: Mrs. H. C. White, Mrs. A. B. Jones, Mrs. I. Schwed, Mrs. C. R. Goldsmith, and Mrs. R. D. Williams.

"PLAINFIELD DAY" AT "ALLIED BAZAAR"

Local Members of War Relief Societies Plan to Aid Cause in Raising Funds.

Plainfield women who are interested in the various movements for war relief abroad will be represented at the "Allied Bazaar" to be held at the Grand Central Palace, New York, June 3-14, and arrangements are being made for a "Plainfield Day" at the bazaar. Through the three war relief societies the members are soliciting goods to be sold at that time, and any manufacturer willing to contribute can signify their intention through the Plainfield Daily Press.

The local women who are interested in the matter are especially desirous of securing all kinds of auto fixtures, Victor records, new bicycles, any first-class jewelry which can be sold. The idea is to raise money quickly, as practically all of the funds are depleted and money is needed to carry on the relief work during the summer. President John Grier Hibben, of Princeton University, is chairman of the New Jersey booth at the bazaar.

VIOLATED TRAFFIC LAWS.

Henry Fay was fined $5 by Judge William De Meza in police court this morning on a charge of having violated the traffic ordinance in driving his automobile over local streets.

LOUIS D. BRANDEIS.

Will Probably Be Named Justice of Supreme Court.

The senate judiciary committee voted, 10 to 3, to report favorably to the senate the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis to be associate judge of the supreme court. It was a strict party vote. The nomination was sent to the senate on Jan. 28 and weeks were spent by a subcommittee taking testimony on charges made against Mr. Brandeis.

GERMANS RETAKE DOUAUMONT FORT

Suffer Heavy Losses In Successful Attack.

Paris, May 25.—As the result of a practically continuous attack on both sides of the Meuse the Germans have won two notable successes at the expenditure of a great number of men.

In the fighting east of Le Mort Homme, on the left bank of the river, they occupied the village of Cumieres and took a trench between the village and Le Mort Homme. Fort Douaumont, on the east bank, which the French recaptured on Monday, was retaken by the Germans.

The retaking of the fort was the result of the concentration of repeated attacks of the most desperate character against this one point. Two Bavarian divisions which had been brought to the Verdun front only recently were employed against the fort.

The bombardment of this sector had continued without interruption since the French took the position and had increased in violence, and then the already tremendous expenditure of ammunition was redoubled. The first attacks, made without counting the cost in men, broke down under the French fire, but the effort was repeated until at last the Germans again occupied the fort, long since only a mass of ruins, but valuable because of the high position on which it stands.

While the bulk of the German attacking troops were conducting these attacks on the front other forces were attempting to flank the French positions in the Caillette wood, immediately southwest of the fort. These attempts broke down under the French fire, and the French still hold the terrain adjoining the ruins of the fort and all of their positions in the wood.

While the terrific fighting was in progress on the east bank of the river both Germans and French simultaneously took the offensive on the west bank in the sector of Cumieres and Le Mort Homme, the Germans attempting to continue their advance from the village of Cumieres and the French attempting to regain the village. The Germans failed to carry lines beyond the positions occupied, and the French counter attacks were successful to the extent of recovering a trench on the very edge of the village

FORD READY FOR LIBEL SUIT

Demands Navy League Produce Its Records In $100,000 Action.

Detroit, May 25.—Henry Ford has replied by letter to a telegram from Robert M. Thompson, president of the Navy league, to which Colonel Thompson notified him that the league has begun suit for $100,000 against Ford for libel. The charges are based on statements Ford made in the advertisements which were part of his campaign against national preparedness.

Ford agrees to have his appearance in the suit as defendant entered on condition that the Navy league will agree to produce in court all of its records and place on the witness stand for examination its officers and "such of its contributing members as we may designate."

Methodists Hear Taft.

Saratoga, N. Y., May 25.—The Methodist general conference received a report proposing a reorganization of the entire home missions department, which has always had three secretaries. Only one is provided under the new plan, which will probably arouse opposition. Former President Taft addressed the conference.

FORGOT LICENSE TAG.

Timothy Abrams, charged with a violation of the health laws in hauling swill through the streets without a license, proved in police court this morning that he had a license and had forgotten to put his tag on the wagon. Judge De Meza released him on a suspended sentence.

INTERESTED IN MACHINE

elimination of any thing tending to freakishness are the principles around which the chassis is built and in this direction the Fergus car gives the chief joy to the confirmed owner-driver.

Up to and for some time after the war began the firm of J. B. Fergerson, Ltd., engaged in the construction of the chassis in their Belfast works, meeting with a gratifying success and a consequent inability to supply the demand for the car. But their plant, which is equipped with the highest class of American tool machines, soon attracted the attention of the British Government and they commandeered part of the factory for the making of special tools and guages to be used in the manufacture of munitions. For a time the Fergerson plant was not entirely engaged in the government work and they continued the manufacture of their car together with their other business of selling cars, but the increasing demand from every part of the world compelled them to seek a more extensive plant for manufacturing and their attention naturally was directed to the United States.

J. B. Fergerson, the managing director, brought an exhibition chassis to this country in the beginning of the year and put it on exhibition in the show at Grand Central Palace. Instantly it was spotted not only by the automobile fraternity but the public at large and the booth was continually filled with inquirers as to when a delivery could be obtained and the prospective selling price. Mr. Fergerson, noting the wonderful reception the chassis received, immediately set about the formation of a company for the manufacture of the car and having in mind the advice of Charles M. Schwab first fixed on a working organization of men who had a long and successful experience in their individual lines in the automobile business in this country. A company was incorporated under the New York State laws under the caption of Fergus Motors of America, Ltd., and the present object of that company is to secure a location for their plant together with the co-operation of the prominent men of the city of their selection.

Plainfield is being considered in conjunction with Cranford, Newark, Syracuse, Paterson and other towns and the gentlemen composing the company will meet with local representative citizens today and Friday of this week for a further discussion of their plans.

Unlike many automobile projects the Fergus has passed the experimental stage. It is a successful, satisfactory motor car and were it not for the conditions made necessary by the war—incidentally the J. B. Fergerson plant in Belfast has now been entirely taken over under the Controlled Establishment act of the British Government—the building of the car would still be going on in Belfast, with no thought of removal. However, the American company has entire control of all patents, etc., in this country and the construction of the car will be under the personal supervision and control of J. B. Fergerson, who has taken up his residence in this country for that purpose, thus insuring the same high quality of workmanship and close attention to detail which has already made the success of the car.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, MAY 25, 1916.

WHEN IT'S HARD TO STUDY.

These are the days when the youngsters find it hard to stick to their desks in school; when the call of the outdoors becomes so strong that lessons come hard, and there is a tendency to play hookey. Baseball has many attractions and the warm weather, which will no doubt be upon us before we know it, will make certain water holes more inviting than sitting at a desk looking at the back of the boy or girl ahead. The Paterson Call has pointed out a lot of things for these youngsters to think about that are well worth considering by every Plainfield school boy and girl.

The life that stretches ahead of you is like a long road. You cannot see the obstacles in it, nor to where it leads; but you must travel it. No man, no woman, travels the same road. Each life is different from all others. But the roads that all travel are pretty much alike, and, in a general way, we know what obstacles each of you will have to overcome. The sum of the experience for all who have journeyed the road you must travel is that education is the best equipment you can have for it. And knowing this, the people have arranged that every boy and girl in this State may get an education absolutely free. For this the State spends millions of dollars a year. That you may have a chance for free education the city has spent millions in school buildings, books and other equipment. All invested for you, that you may have the chance to fit yourself to travel the road ahead, sensibly, logically, easy—the chance so many boys and girls in other lands do not have.

What would Abraham Lincoln have given for your chance, as he lay upon the hearthstone of his log cabin learning to form the letters of the alphabet with a burnt stick upon the stones? Think of the striving of David Livingstone for an education. Working in a cotton mill in Scotland from daylight to dark from the age of ten years until he was a man. Standing at a loom with a worn book in one hand, without even a teacher, fitting himself to travel the road, and becoming the greatest explorer of the age. Go to the library and get books on these two men. They will inspire you to act on the advice to remain at school and get a good education.

ONLY THE PLAINFIELD WAY.

It is remarkable that the city of Plainfield with a population of 25,000 has only eight saloons. It is the more remarkable that the residents of that city are not grumbling at all because more thirst parlors are not maintained. The saloons are so well regulated, moreover, that the streets of Plainfield are quite entirely free from drunkenness or other public disorder.—Elizabeth Journal.

If former Judge Robert Carey, of Jersey City, decides to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, he will give thousands of Republicans in New Jersey an opportunity for which they have been waiting. It is undisputed that a large number of members of that party are not satisfied with any of the men now seeking the nomination, and have been waiting for some progressive and clean-cut man to declare himself. Judge Carey has a large following in Hudson, his home county, and he has made untold numbers of friends throughout the State when speaking at many public functions. He has been frequently called to Plainfield to address our people at all kinds of meetings, political and otherwise, and it is the belief of the Daily Press that he would receive a substantial vote here, in spite of the effort of the machine politicians to make it appear that all the sentiment in this city is for Walter E. Edge. Roosevelt and Carey would make a great combination to head the ticket, and would undoubtedly sweep the State.

It is said that Motor Vehicle Commissioner William L. Dill has decided to make every automobilist place a "see back" mirror on his or her car, under the provisions of an act which was passed last year, and will have inspectors in Plainfield within a few days to see that machines are so equipped. The idea is a good one, and will tend to prevent accidents in the future. But the general public knows little or nothing about the ruling of the Commissioner, and much publicity should be given to the fact that such mirrors are necessary. Before arrests are made for not having them, it would be well for inspectors to stop motorists who do not have them, and call their attention to the requirement, and then a few days later come back and begin to prosecute all who fail to add the equipment.

There is a movement on foot, under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee, to form a permanent chorus choir of 400 or more voices. This is undoubtedly an outgrowth of the splendid choir which made such a great reputation at the Tabernacle services. There is nothing more inspiring than the singing of a large trained group, and Clifford A. Braider is deserving of congratulation for endeavoring to bring about a permanent organization from the splendid musical body which was formed for the Tabernacle services.

Dr. Charles A. Eaton is mixing his religion with politics enough to say that he hopes the Lord will forgive him for voting for Wilson four years ago. That's a pretty frank statement, but the Watchung resident is the kind of a man who does not hesitate to say what he thinks, and we are inclined to believe that there are a lot of people who will say "them's my sentiments."

North Plainfield certainly did not take second place to the city in its welcome to Dr. Biederwolf. Before the evangelist left here a borough resident told him that he thought so much of him that he would give him a building site, if he would erect a home "over the brook." Well, this vicinity would have to look far to secure a more desirable resident.

Skinny's Essay Against Slang.

If there is apything that gets our nanny it is the use of slang. Some guys spill so much of that kind of dope that it is hard to get wise to their spiel. Kids should be put next by their parents that slang is on the Fritz and should be cut out. If I had a kid that couldn't put over straight stuff, I would wallop the lining out of the lobster. Skirts are shines, proper, when it comes to slang. They think that "Mercy" and "I should say not" are real touch. The boss is a dish of prunes when it comes to slang. He bawls me out to a fare ye well and I am in Dutch from the time I come on the job to hay-ing time in the evening. This is the first thing I have ever wrote, and if it don't show up in the colyum, I will know it is a flivver proper.

When we observe the baby's brow,
As only dippy parents can,
We know that he is going to be
A scientist when he's a man.

But when we hear the baby sing
In dead of night and reach high C,
We know beyond the slightest doubt,
An opera star he'll be.

Then when we note his pudgy fist,
We figure that the little scamp
Is going to grow up with a punch
And be a pugilistic champ.

But when we look upon his face,
And note expressions lurking there,
We know for sure he's going to be
An actor quite beyond compare.

But still you cannot always tell

He may turn out an auctioneer,
Or he, alas, may peddle books.

GRADUATION PAPERS

- Proctor's Theatre -

Three big photoplay features are presented for the entertainment of the patrons of Proctor's today, and include Pauline Frederick, the inimitable screen star in one of her greatest characterizations, "Bella Donna." Miss Frederick is one star who does not attempt to "grab" scenes, and this is one reason why Julian Johnson calls her "Frederick the Great;" but this trait has allowed other actors of sterling ability to register a high quality of work in "Bella Donna." Julian L'Estrange's Baroudi is artistic from make-up to manners, and stands out as a piece of screen acting, and Thomas Holding, gives an excellent portrayal of the husband. In its general settings, brilliant photograph, elaborate costuming and faithfulness in details of atmosphere, the production is fully up to the Paramount standard, which is excellence and nothing more or less. In addition today William H. Thompson and Anna Lehr are seen in a Thomas H. Ince Triangle drama entitled "Civilization's Child," which throughout its entirety will hold the spectator rigid with intense interest, for it tells a story close to everyone's heart, and will appeal to all classes of amusement-seekers. The comedy part of the program will be taken care of by Shorty Hamilton, who appears in a funny Keystone comedy entitled "A Rough Knight." Tomorrow Paramount presents an adaptation in five reels from the Indiana story which made Booth Tarkington famous, "The Gentleman from Indiana," with Dustin Farnum playing the leading role, that of John Harkless, the University hero who bought and conducted a small town newspaper with such success that the voters of the district sent him to the lower House of Congress as their representative. On Saturday the headline feature will be Olga Petrova, the renowned emotional actress in "The Soul Market," while on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week Charlie Chaplin will be seen in his latest comedy, "Police! Police!" in three uproarious parts, which is presented at Proctor's ahead of any other theater in this section of the State.

--Astor Theatre--

The big attraction at the Astor Theatre today will be "Officer 666," presenting the celebrated comedian, Howard Estabrook, from the play by Augustin McHugh, and by special arrangement with George Cohan and Sam H. Harris, a melodramatic farce in five parts. As a laugh producer this has them all beat, being second to none as comedy; a scream a minute; opens with a laugh and closes with a roar. This screen production as a play, which was shown here a short while ago, met with all-around applause, it was then that it was adapted for photoplays by the George Kleine Company, and will be shown here for the first time. Tomorrow Charles Frohman presents Marie Doro in a magnificent picturization of Sardou's international drama, "Diplomacy," a Paramount Picture Produced by the Famous Players Company.

The name of Marie Doro is pleasantly linked with that of "Diplomacy," for it was in this great play that the beautiful actress made her last stage appearance when she appeared at the Empire Theatre last year as co-star with Blanche Bates and William Gillette in a revival of the play. It is of especial interest that Mr. Dexter plays the same part in the photoplay which he assumed upon the stage—the first time that he and his bride have appeared together since their marriage. The distinction of the characters, the bright touches of comedy and the unflagging interest of the play mark it as an exceptional production, which will always be good to see because of the ingeniousness of the story. To the charm of the star of the play there is added the scenic beauty of the exterior settings of the piece. Besides Miss Doro and Elliott Dexter the cast includes Russell Bassett and Frank Losee, well known to the public by reason of their notable performances on the stage and screen. In addition to this wonderful photoplay, we will show the Bray Cartoons, another interesting screen production. Saturday the topic of the day, "On the Mexican Border," and the fifth episode of "The Girl and the Game." Something for the children. Always a good show at the Astor Theatre. Starting June 5 matinee will begin at 3 p. m., excepting Saturdays and holidays, when performances will start at 2 p. m., until 10:45 p. m.

.· Plainfield Theatre. ·.

Plainfield Theatre patrons have a distinct treat in store for them by the appearance on the new bill opening today of Coakley, McBride and Carroll, presenting their latest comedy song and dance novelty, "The Town Hall Minstrels." All three artists are well known locally, especially Coakley and McBride, who have appeared here previously on a number of occasions. They were the stars of the road production of "The Red Mill," which tested the capacity of the Plainfield Theatre, and the team was also the feature act of the professional portion of the Plainfield Elks' minstrel show in 1908. With the assistance of Mr. Carroll, Messrs Coakley and McBride do the best work of their career in "The Town Hall Minstrels." Their local admirers will undoubtedly be out in large numbers to see them during the present stay. Five other splendid acts are on the new bill commencing this afternoon. They are the Althea Twins, the singing and dancing acrobats; Paul Allen, the singer of songs of the day; Russel and company, six clever people, presenting the comedy playlet, "Mr. Pipp," and the Flying Russells, trapeze artists par excellence. Picture features are on the program every day at the popular Second street playhouse, and specialties are announced as follows: Thursday, the thirteenth episode of the "Iron Claw;" Friday, the fourteenth episode of "The Strange Case of Mary Page;" Saturday, Pathe's weekly and comedies. Anniversary week will be commenced at the theatre next Monday, when eight big-time acts will be offered without any advance in price.

THE FORUM

AFTERTHOUGHT OF CAMPAIGN.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

To the ministers of Plainfield: Let me suggest in the spirit of brotherly love that you furnish the public through the Saturday issue of the local newspapers the subjects of your Sunday sermons. This is done in all New York dailies; why not in Plainfield? Shall I go to church or stay at home—may be the thought of many people. The stay-at-homes, would often go if they knew what they would receive when they attended church.

E. CLEVELAND HOWARD.
955 Union street.
May 25, 1916.

And this is the feature of militarism-gone-mad that strikes home—the fact that the wasted millions did not come from an income tax or inheritance tax levied on those best able to bear the burden, none of it having been collected by a direct tax, but that practically every penny of the $2,000,000,000 expended on the Army and Navy in the last 10 years came through the customhouses and the internal revenue offices. Since customhouses and internal revenue offices do not levy taxes on men according to their wealth or ability to pay, but solely upon things the people eat, wear, and use, it means that the people pay the armor-plate makers' bills in the increased cost of living. Therefore it is but logical that the cost of living must increase in proportion to the cost of militarism—and it does, as the table heretofore shows beyond successful contradiction. The people may as well know that as the cost of militarism increases in the future so will the cost of living.—From speech of Clyde H. Tavenner, of Illinois, in "World Wide War Trust," February 15, 1915.

The huge burden, heretofore unheard of, which this fabulous increase of appropriations for the Army and Navy will place upon the taxpayers can and will have to be borne in spite of their murmurs and protests which will surely come in the future. This of itself to me is a cruel wrong.—Claude Kitchin, of North Carolina, Cong. Record, December 14, 1915.

The fact is that we have, built and building, the strongest and most powerful Navy in the world, except that of Great Britain. Our Navy is stronger than that of Germany, far superior to that of France, more than twice as strong as that of Japan, or of any of the other nations. Admiral Fletcher, the highest active officer in the Navy, commander of the Atlantic Fleet, the man who will have to do the fighting if any is to be done—whose judgment on naval subjects the Secretary of the Navy, before the Naval Committee, declared he had sooner take than that of any man in the world—expressly declared at the naval hearings during the last session of Congress that we had a Navy "superior to that of Germany or any other nation except Great Britain."—Claude Kitchin, of North Carolina.

Less than one year ago, when the armies of Europe were most powerful, more formidable than now by at least 5,000,000 soldiers, the President and the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy all took strong grounds, in public interviews and proclamations, that we were fully prepared for any emergency.—General Isaac Sherwood, of Ohio.

With the proposed "preparedness" program enacted into law the U. S. will be expending over 70 per cent. of its total revenues; that is, out of every $100 collected from the people over $70 will go into militarism and navalism and vampireism.—General Isaac Sherwood, Ohio.

BOY SCOUTS WILL ESCORT VETERANS

Plans for Observance of Memorial Day Announced by Commissioner Searing.

Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., of the Boy Scout Council, has issued orders for all scouts to be present at 9 o'clock on Memorial Day morning preparatory to escorting the members of the Grand Army of the Republic to the various cemeteries. Scouts will appear in line without staffs or any other equipment except music and American and scout flags. Patrol flags will not be required and will not appear in line.

On Saturday afternoon, June 1, Troop D will give a demonstration of its work at the Horse Show grounds for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital. A call has been issued for fifty of the older boy scouts in uniform to serve as ticket takers and ushers. Scouts wishing to participate in this demonstration will report to Commissioner Searing.

Captain I. L. McVoy will meet a detachment of scouts from Troop 8 at the Soldiers' Monument at Hillside cemetery tomorrow morning to help decorate the graves of veterans. H. Douglas Davis is scout master of that troop, which has its headquarters in Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

Field Secretary Allen E. Beals will be director of the scout rally at New Brunswick on June 3. The rally of the Elizabeth scouts will take place tomorrow at Elizabeth.

MEN OF 1ST M. E. CHURCH ORGANIZE BIBLE CLASS

The men of the First Methodist Episcopal church have organized a large Bible class which meets every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock in the main church building. It was considered advisable by the pastor, Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, and some of the officials of the church to start this movement in the midst of the great Biederwolf campaign, while the interest of men both in and out of the church was being so thoroughly aroused.

A committee of five consisting of James R. Joy, George M. Rittenhouse, L. D. Albin, Harry Gee and Geo. A. Horne was appointed to perfect the plans of organization and over fifty men have been enrolled already with prospects of many others in the near future. The attendance for the first two Sundays averaged between forty and fifty.

A constitution has been drafted by a committee appointed for the purpose and will be submitted for complete adoption at an early date. A section of the proposed constitution relating to the officers has been adopted and the following officers have been elected by the class:

President, Arthur T. Goodenough; vice president, R. F. Fenno; secretary-treasurer, Arthur H. Osmun; teacher, George A. Horne. It is the express purpose of the class to invite every man in Plainfield who is not a member of any other church of Bible class to join the organization.

MY TIRED FEET ACHED FOR "TIZ"

Let your sorefi, swollen, aching feet spread out in a bath of "Tiz."

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.—Adv.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. A easier way is to get a 50 cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

A Big Fellow in a Hussar's Uniform.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Little Halmar Meets the Dustman's Brother.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

WHEN Jack and Evelyn teased for a story daddy told them: "One night just before he jumped into bed a little boy, Halmar, turned his great-grandfather's picture with its face to the wall so that it could not interrupt in case Ole Shuteyes should come to tell a story.

"And sure enough! He had hardly shut his eyes when 'Good evening' Ole whispered in his ear.

" 'Tell me about the five peas that lived in a pod or about the darning needle that imagined he was just a common needle,' Halmar begged Ole.

" 'You may get too much of a good thing,' said Ole. 'I would rather show you my brother. He is also Ole Shuteyes, only people call him Ole Senior. He never comes to anybody but once, and then he takes them off on horseback and tells them nice stories. He only knows two stories. One is so beautiful that nobody on earth can imagine it, and the other is horrible.'

"Then Ole Shuteyes carried little Halmar to the window. 'Now you can see my big brother,' he said.

"Halmar looked out the window and saw a great big fellow in a Hussar's uniform, with silver embroidery running around his coat. A big black velvet cloak streamed out over his horse's back. How they were galloping!

"So Halmar stood there watching Ole's brother riding off with old people and young people on his horse. Some he put in front of him and some in back, and to all he said, 'What kind of a mark have you in your book?'

"Those who had 'very good' or 'excellent' in their books he put in front of him and told them stories. Those who had 'only fair' had to sit behind him and got no stories. They squirmed and cried and tried to get off the horse.

"Sometimes the people tried to fool Ole Senior when he asked what mark they had in their books. But he always said, 'Let me see myself.' And then they had to show him their marks. This meant what kind of a life they had led, you see, so he had to be very particular about it.

"As little Halmar stood there before the window clasped in Ole's arms and watching lots of little children galloping away with the big Hussar he lost all fear of the man on horseback. 'Ole Shuteyes,' he said, 'I am not a bit afraid of your big brother.'

" 'So you needn't be,' said Ole Shuteyes, 'if only you have good marks.'

" 'Now, that is instructive,' mumbled little Halmar's great-grandfather's portrait on the wall. 'I don't a bit mind having my small heir taught things useful like that.' And he turned himself back in his right position on the wall. Then little Halmar slept so soundly he forgot to dream," daddy finished.

Marrying a Butterfly

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

Ralph Makes a Suggestion Which is Not Joyously Received.

"It looks as if it would be a nice day. What do you say to a picnic supper in the woods tonight?" asked Ralph Gordon the morning after the theatre party. The two had bitter words the night before over Ethel's extravagance and had gone to sleep without saying good-night for the first time. Perhaps it would be nearer the truth to say they had tried to sleep, for both had lain awake hours nursing their separate wrongs, and Ralph had been able to sleep only after resolving to be unusually considerate to his wife the following morning.

"Why can I not keep my resolve to never use a hard, fault finding tone to her," he had thought remorsefully. "She is only a child and I must be more patient." The picnic therefore suggested itself as a means of giving her pleasure. Manlike, he had forgotten that she did not like the woods. He had only suggested what would have pleased him in like circumstances. This doing unto others as you would be done by does not prove successful unless one has imagination enough to really put himself in the other's place. He realized his mistake when Ethel said coldly:

"How did you propose to get to the woods?"

"Why, is it too far to walk?" asked Ralph, casting about in his mind for a means of conveyance.

"My head aches and I do not feel like walking," was the dismal response.

"You are tired after the hard jaunt. You are not used to being up so late." Ralph took her in his arms and kissed her cheek. She had averted her face.

Ethel laughed a bitter little laugh. "Yes, I go so rarely that it makes me sick to break the monotony of the days." Her tone nettled him and he withdrew his arm.

"Small pay I get," he thought bitterly, "for going without a fall overcoat to give her pleasure." Aloud he said, "I wonder if breakfast is ready. I must not be late. I have a big day's work ahead of me."

He went into the dining room and rang for the maid to bring in the breakfast. Ethel had long since ceased to take even that responsibility. She frequently did not get up at all until he had gone to work.

"What is the use of my getting up?" she had asked when he protested. "Julia gets your breakfast on all right." She had been pleased when he said he missed her pretty face opposite him, so pleased that she had gotten up every morning for a week afterward. Ralph was surprised that she rose this morning when she had been up so late. He did not realize that she did what she considered the hardest things when she was attempting to play the martyr role. She looked pale and drooping as she sat opposite him in pretty breakfast cap and silk kimona.

Ralph wondered irritably what he ought to do to "get her back on the track," as he called it.

"As if it was not enough to have all the financial worry. Here I have to be harrowed up with her moping moods every time a thing goes wrong. She has nothing to do but nurse her injuries. If she would do something every tone and tactless word of mine couldn't be made into a mountain." He gulped his coffee down as these thoughts went through his mind and tried to swallow his wrath with it.

When he rose to go he went around to her chair to kiss her goodby. She did not look up. He was strongly tempted to turn on his heel and leave her, but he controlled himself, turned her face upward with his hand and kissed her, a constrained, meaningless kiss, and said:

"You must lie down and try to sleep this morning. I want my little wife to be bright and happy when I come home. You must be my sunshine, you know." Ethel did not answer except with a sigh. Ralph turned and walked away briskly, giving his shoulders a shake to get rid of the gloom of his home, and bracing himself for the long day's struggle.

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.

Mrs. Joseph Smith and Mrs. J. C. Evans.

The pageant and exhibition of folk dances and physical training work, which was to have been given May 26, has been postponed until fall.

The High School Parent-Teacher Association will hold a meeting tonight, at which the annual election of officers will take place. A fine demonstration of the science department will be given under the direction of Mr. Hubbard.

Mrs. Josephine Dodge Bacon, an author, and a practical housewife as well, being the mother of four children, gave the following decided opinions on the subject of the care of children, when interviewed by Joyce Kilmer, for the New York Times:

"Once upon a time," she said, "America was notorious for its spoiled children. Well, the children aren't spoiled nowadays in the old sense of the term; they aren't especially mischievous and impudent. But they are spoiled in another sense of the word; they are over-trained, over-dieted, over-Montissoried.

"The modern American child is appallingly lacking in initiative. These modern American children can't do the simplest thing for themselves. They can't think for themselves. They haven't the slightest idea of amusing themselves. Everything is done for them by nurses, governesses, tutors and scout masters, and as a result they become absolutely incapable of independent thought and action. A normal child can make up his own games and it is better for him to do so.

"The modern American woman has a fatal fondness for analogy. Some one tells her that her child's mind is like a garden in which she must plant beautiful flowers, and she seizes the idea with tremendous enthusiasm. Many modern theorists claim that a child's mind is an empty space which they must constantly try to fill. What dangerous nonsense that is!

"The modern child is too much of a laboratory product. He is studied and supervised and directed until he can't call his soul his own."

She says, too, that children have the same right to go away somewhere and yell; that grown-ups have to play bridge or read Chambers' novels.

Some time ago the directors of the public library published a list of books which all children should read. As the list is long I shall only give part of it this week, and the remainder next week. And, mothers, cut out this list and preserve it for future use, if you did not do so when it was previously published. The children should become acquainted with these heros and heroines:

Aeneas the Wandered.
Aladdin of the Lamp.
Alexander the Great.
Alfred the Founder.
Apollo the Charioteer.
Arthur of the Round Table.
Bruce the Undismayed.
Cadmus the Alphabet Maker
Castor and Pollux, the Twin Stars.
Cinderella of the Slipper.
Columbus the Discoverer.
Cook the Navigator.
Cortez the Dauntless.
Cromwell the Protector.
Crusoe the Solitary.

Drake the Sea King.
Edison the Inventor.
Edward the Black Prince.
Elizabeth the Great Queen.
Franklin the Wise.
Frederick the Great Ruler.
Fremont the Pathfinder.
Fulton of the Steamboat.

PLAINFIELD'S SHARE OF STATE FUNDS

$105,041.87 Will Be Received by Local Schools From Tax Apportionment.

Union county's share of the various appropriations of State funds for educational purposes in the public schools amounts to $671,953.58. This represents a per capita allowance of .099 cents per day per pupil, according to notice just received by Union County School Superintendent A. L. Johnson in Elizabeth, who is to apportion these funds among the nineteen school districts of the county.

Elizabeth, having the largest school population of any district in the county, will receive the largest apportionment, with Plainfield second, Rahway third and Westfield fourth. The funds available consists of apportionments due Union county from the State appropriation of $250,000, amounting to $13,922.21; from the State appropriation of $100,000, amounting to $5,568.89; from the 90 per cent. State school tax, $415,525.37; from the 10 per cent. reserve fund, $37,169.49, and from the railroad tax, $199,767.62.

The share of this city from each of these funds will be from State appropriation of $250,000, $2,054.92; from State appropriation of $100,000, $821.97; from 90 per cent. State tax, $67,192.78; from 10 per cent. reserve fund, $5,486.26, and from railroad tax fund, $29,485.94, making the total of $105,041.87.

The total sums due to each of the other school districts of the county, as apportioned by County Superintendent Johnson, are as follows:

Clark township, $2,325.68; Cranford, $25,023.65; Fanwood, $11,011.69; Garwood, $10,048.52; Hillside, $13,000.13; Kenilworth, $5,821.44; Linden, $26,713.96; Mountainside, $1,476.89; New Providence borough, $7,154.49; New Providence township, $4,292.88; Rahway, $43,656.50; Roselle, $21,553.63; Roselle Park, $25,532.79; Springfield, $7,429.99; Summit, $38,336.65; Union township, $15,315.67 and Westfield, $43,245.25.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST GETS TWENTY-FIVE NEW MEMBERS

Twenty-five new members were received into the church at the weekly prayer service of the Park Avenue Baptist, last evening. The Rev. B. S. Hudson was in charge of the service and it was preceded by a meeting of the deacons, before which the applicants appeared. The church parlors were crowded. In a business session of the church and society which preceded the prayer service the following trustees were elected for a term of two years: George S. Hall, Willard M. Maxim, William N. Runyon, Alfred Spangenberg and A. D. Thompson. All were re-elections except that of Judge Runyon, who succeeded E. Frank Vail, Mr. Vail having asked that his name not be considered for another term on the board. Enthusiastic and inspiring testimony was given by many of the new members in their declarations before the church and the prayer service lasted until almost 10 p. m.

"ESCAPE PAPERS" BEING HANDED TO THE WEAKER LOT.

Further evidence that the City League's claim to being a "regular ball loop" is qualified came to light at the Tuesday night meeting when "escape papers" were dealt out to a half dozen would-be leaguers. This means that an aspirant to city circuit berths must be at least a half-way creditable performer or he will find himself relegated to the scrap-heap. Here the race is only four weeks old and nearly a score of first-timers have already been cut off. The weeding out process is now at its heighth and the pace being set by the Netherwood leaders makes it imperative that each manager get the best possible battle front lined up before summer weather comes around. The title fight is getting warmer each week and the speed at which the leading combines are travelling has caused some of the left-behinds to begin figuring on how to bolster up the weak spots.

TWO MORE OUTLAWS CONVINCED.

The league has at last corralled Warry McLaughlin and Lou Dixon, thus setting aside the muss that was created over the first semi-official announcement to the effect that these "vets" were contemplating getting back in the good graces of local baseballdom by lining up with the circuit. "Mac" and Dixon both held out until they found that there was no other way around the question and now that they have tossed their lot with the organized element we may expect to hear of them once more on local ball lots. Both have been familiar figures in days gone by and will add strength to the team with which they have become affiliated.

NEW CLUB TITLE WILL SERVE TWO-FOLD PURPOSE.

When the Park Golf Club members meet in special session tonight the name of the organization will be changed to the Hydewood Golf Club, as exclusively told in the Daily Press of last night. This will not only prove of value in distinguishing between two borough organizations that have heretofore borne the same title but it will also serve to do credit to a North Plainfield man who has for years held an active interest in the club. He is Louis K. Hyde, for whom the organization has been named, and his unwaning interest in the affairs of the club from year to year makes the honor a fitting and well placed one. He has probably done more for the Park Golf Club than any other individual and whenever an event of importance has been attempted by the club his name has always been linked with the movement.

ONCE MORE PREPARING FOR Y. M. C. A. CAMP.

Plainfield Y. M. C. A. boys are once more planning for the summer camp at Lake Wawayanda. During the past five years the local delegation of campers has made itself the most prominent at the popular northern New Jersey lake and has won laurels in all branches of camp endeavor. Each year since 1910 the number in attendance from Plainfield has been swelling and indications at the present are that this year's representation will keep up the record. The camp first came to be an important feature in the local association's boys' work when C. William Bingaman assumed the boys' secretaryship in 1909 and to him must be given a lion's share of the credit for its popularity at the present time. For the first time in seven years he will probably not be at the camp during the coming summer, but the usual excellent leader corps has been secured and the summer program will contain new features that will make it one of the best offered for the younger generation in the country.

JOHNSON RUMOR EXCITES THE FANS.

The rumor from Cleveland, not denied, that there is a deal on to shift Walter Johnson to the Indians, has created a furore in baseball circles. With Washington in the lead of the American League, to take away their main support now would just about kill baseball in the capital city. The fans at Washington have not been supporting the club and at the beginning of the year there was talk of playing part of their games in Baltimore, as Washington is not a big money making city. The team must depend very largely on their drawing power on the road, and Walter Johnson is the biggest drawing card away from his home lot. Baseball experts do not believe Washington is strong enough to hold to the lead of the league and that the club will slip back to third or fourth by the time the season has closed. Cleveland has a very good chance to win the American League pennant. With Walter Johnson in the lineup these chances would be increased. Johnson deserves to participate in a world series fracas, but it does not look like he will ever be able to realize this ambition as long as he is a member of the Washington club. Cleveland undoubtedly stands ready to pay a big price for Johnson. Dunn paid out $57,500 in cash and players, mostly cash, to Boston in order to land Tris Speaker. The quick return of his money has spurred him on to further speculating with big figures and prominent men. He would undoubtedly pay as much, probably more, for Johnson as he did for Speaker. Boston fans raved when Speaker was let out, but the bugs up that way are still paying to see games, and although they feel the loss of Speaker, the sting has left. The Washington fans would probably howl for awhile, but the club owners would have their pocketbooks fattened and would not worry much. Anything is liable to happen in these frenzied days of commercialism in baseball.

"LUD" VAN DEVENTER IN COUNTY TOURNEY

Plainfield Boy, Formerly With P. H. S. and Princeton University Teams, Enters.

Ludlow Van Deventer, of Woodland avenue, is teamed with Mason Kirkland to compete in the Elizabeth Town and Country Club's men's doubles next week. There will be few available leaders performing in the metropolitan district missing when the draw is made Friday night.

A decided favorite in the classy field is the Country Club's prize entry, Harold Throckmorton and "Lin" Murray. Both of these youngsters are playing in remarkable form, but it is a foregone conclusion that they will need all of it to win over teams like Lindsay Dunham and Walter Merrill Hall and Airick Major and Cedric Mann. Theodore Roosevelt Pell, who lost to Throckmorton in Maryland recently, has about decided to send in his entry, while practically all of the players who have been competing in the Sleepy Hollow tournament will also be on hand.

Although the Throckmorton-Murray team is easily the best of the Elizabeth entries, there will be plenty of other local combinations in the hunt for the cups. George Throckmorton, for instance, will likely be teamed with "Chuck" Garland, the former Pittsburgh schoolboy, who has had several slashing bouts with Harold Throckmorton. Then there will be the ever-dangerous team of Littell and Thomas, Ross and Schinzel and "Lud" Van Deventer and Mason Kirkland, Prendergast and Stockton and two more prospective Country Club starters, who have yet to pick their partners.

The tournament will get under way Saturday afternoon and will be concluded on the following Saturday instead of Memorial Day, as was originally planned. The extra day was added to the tournament so that the crack players now competing at Sleepy Hollow and other important tournaments which will not be concluded until Saturday, will be able to play here.

PLAINFIELD PLAYER IN BIG METROPOLITAN EVENT

Miss Edna Wildey, of Plainfield, teamed with Mrs. Edward Raymond, defeated Miss Florence Sheldon and Mrs. John Jacob Astor, 6—4, 5—7, 6—2, in the doubles round yesterday afternoon of the annual invitation tournament of the Pelham Country Club. Two rounds of the singles events were completed, and the event, even thus early, was not without its upsets. Miss Florence Sheldon succeeded in putting out Miss Marion Fenno, of Boston, in a three-set match of the first round, the score being 3—6, 6—4, 7—5.

Miss Molla Bjurstedt also had quite a surprise in her match with Miss Ballin. After the former had taken the first set without the flicker of excitement, Miss Ballin suddenly got under way and before Miss Bjurstedt could rally her reserve strength the set was at deuce, and it went to 8—6 before the Norwegian could force the victory.

FAMOUS HORSES RACE.

New York, May 25.—The twenty-third running of the Metropolitan Handicap, which is the main event today in the opening of the Westchester spring meeting at Belmont Park, brings together some of the notable horses of America. Last year's winner, Stromboli, owned by August Belmont, is again entered, and George Smith, which recently won the Kentucky Derby for John Sanford, is one of the favorites. Andrew Miller's champion four-year-old Roamer is also entered, and Schuyler Parsons' Sharpshooter, which came in second last year, will make the race again. The great racing mare, Flying Fairy, which came in third last year, is again entered.

ONE LEAGUE COMBINE HAS A PRESS AGENT

Here's What He Has to Say About That Game Next Saturday Afternoon.

Those baseball rooters who desire to see a good game on Saturday should take a trip on the Netherwood car, get off at the end of the line, and walk one block east to the Netherwood baseball grounds.

There they can see the T. A. B S. and Netherwood teams in action. Those who saw the first game these two teams played on the West End avenue grounds saw one of the best games played in the City League.

The T. A. B. S. team started off with two defeats this season, but won their last two games easily, and hope to continue, but they will have a hard time in stopping the hard-hitting Netherwood team.

P. H. S. BROKE THE ICE AND BEAT RAHWAY

Strong Union County Rivals Soundly Spanked on Parker Field Yesterday.

After tasting defeat for their last six starts, the Plainfield High School baseball tossers won on Parker Field yesterday afternoon from the Rahway High School bunch by a 6 to 3 score. The victory was all the sweeter because it was the first time that the Red and Blue has trimmed a Rahway team in several years.

The visitors drew first blood by getting one run in the initial frame, but the locals evened matters in the third inning when they got to Lukens for two counters while Davidson was being touched for one run. Each team added one more run apiece up to the eighth, when with the help of Noonan's hearty willow two runs and a victory came over for P. H. S. Noonan was the first man up in that session and waded into the first ball for a three-sacker and came home when Lewis, pinch hitting for Mills, drove a neat hit to deep center. Lewis might have stretched it into an extra base blow but in rounding first base took a high dive in the mud and had all he could do to crawl back to the bag in time. The fall strained his leg so that he had to retire in favor of Dealman. Dealman came home with the last run of the game when W. Dunn fumbled Davidson's grounder.

The sloppy condition of the diamond caused several misplays, with P. H. S. getting the better of the breaks and that coupled with better playing was enough to win the pastime. "Sammy" Davidson's pitching was a pleasant surprise to all. He showed the best brand of stuff that has graced the High School mound this year and also did some fanning, making eleven visitors take the count. It looks also as if the Red and Blue batters had at last regained some of their batting eye as although it was not very heavy yesterday the wallops came when they counted. Noonan showed the best return to form with the stick. Out of four times up he got a three-bagger and two singles.

Queries--Comment--Answers

Query—Are hackmen in Plainfield allowed to charge the same fare rates as taxi drivers? Is it not compulsory for hackmen to have the card showing the rates posted in their vehicles where passengers may read them?—B. F.

Answer—The hack and taxi fares are the same in Plainfield. The rate card should be posted. The same ordinance that governs hacking covers the taxi service.

Query—A says that prisoners sent from Plainfield to the county jail are compelled to work. B says not. Who is right? What is the limit term in the county jail?—K. H.

Answer—They are not compelled to work, but if you are thinking of spending the summer there you had better reconsider it. There has been a movement on foot for some time past, fostered by City Judge William G. De Mets, to put the prisoners to work, but nothing has been settled definitely up to now. Six months is the limit term in the Union county jail and prisoners sentenced for over that period are transferred to Trenton.

Query — With first, second and third occupied the batter hits a grounder to short-stop and while he fumbles the ball the man on third scores and the batter reaches first but the ball is thrown to second, forcing out the runner who was on first. The umpire declared that the run did not count, as the force-out at second made three outs. I claim that, as the batter reached first safely, therefore the run counts, as he scored before the forceout at second. —J. McDolan.

Answer—The run does not count. It was scored on the same play that retired the man at second, inasmuch as play is considered to be continuous from the time the ball is hit until it returns to the pitcher's box.

SOME BATTING FEATS WORTHY OF MENTION

What Was the Greatest Record Ever Hung up by An Individual Player?

What was the greatest batting record ever hung up by an individual player in a single game? Most baseball authorities give the credit to Ed. Delehanty and Bobby Lowe, but neither of these major league home run kings quite equalled the mark set up 21 years ago by a minor leaguer, who answered to the name of Billy Bottenus. On the date in question Billy was wearing the uniform of the Buffalo club in the Eastern League. At that period the Eastern was composed of clubs in Buffalo, Providence, Rochester, Toronto, Syracuse, Springfield, Mass., Wilkes-Barre and Scranton. The Bisons were playing Wilkes-Barre and during the course of the pastime Bottenus got four home runs and a double.

The previous year Bobby Lowe, of the Boston Nationals, had connected with Pitcher Chamberlain, of the Reds, for four home runs and a single. This stands as the major league record, although it was equalled in 1896 by Ed. Delehanty, of the Phillies, whose victim was Pitcher Terry, of the Chicago Nationals. The nearest approach to this record was made by old Dan Brouthers, while with Detroit, Dannie getting four home runs in one game.

Billy Bottenus made another great Eastern League record in 1893, when he was playing with Springfield against Binghamton. He led off in one inning with a home run, came to bat a second time in the same chapter and pulled off another homer and in the succeeding inning got another drive for the complete circuit. The best batting record for one inning in the majors was that of Fred Merkle, of the Giants, five years ago. In a game with the Cardinals, Harmon and Loudermilk twirling, Fred made a home run and a double in one inning, scoring twice and bringing home five additional runs.

MARTIN'S PHILOSOPHY ACCEPTED BY FANDOM

Here's an item published in the Milwaukee Sentinel of yesterday, which will interest local baseball fans:

"The champion Millers didn't appear to be such a formidable aggregation against Harry Clark's Brewers on Monday, Milwaukee winning easily, 8 to 4. In fact, Jack Martin, fighting shortstop, said as much when he left the field 'We'd be in first place if we could play against this team every day' was the way Jack put it."

WHAT A WOPPER? BUT THEY SAY IT'S CORRECT

McGregor, a bustling city on the Iowa bank of the Mississippi, has submitted the season's best fish story—and it's true!

Charles and Emil Kurtz, brothers, pulled a female sturgeon measuring six feet in length from the river after ensnaring it in a trammel net. They had a terrific battle with the fish after bringing it ashore. Finally they tied it with four stout ropes and left it in shallow water for a day until it thrashed out its strength.

What a whopper it was! It weighed 125 pounds and one dressing yielded 19 pounds of eggs. These brought $1 a pound; the dressed fish $6.25. The brothers got $25.25 for their catch.

It is estimated that the sturgeon was at least 75 years of age.

ADVANCE IN PRICE OF COAL EXPECTED

Winter Rate Still in Force With Increase On and After July 1.

That there is to be an advance in the retail price of coal in this city in the near future is admited by the local dealers, but as yet they are not ready to announce the exact figures. Many of the dealers have sent notices to their patrons that at present they will take orders for coal at the following prices per ton: Egg, $7; stove, $7; nut, $7; pea, $5.50.

The terms are thirty days net, or 25 cents discount per ton for cash in ten days from date of completion of order. These figures are for present delivery only, and it is said do not apply to the refilling of bins.

One dealer, in conversation with a reporter for the Plainfield Daily Press today, said that he did not know what the advanced price would be, and indicated that his action would be independent of what any other dealer should do in this mater. However, it is expected that the price is likely to be uniform throughout the city.

Usually at this time of the year there is a drop in the price of coal, but there will be none this year. In Elizabeth there will be an advance of 25 cents a ton on and after July 1 next, and it is the belief that it will no be below that price in Plainfield.

The advance, the dealers say, is due to the increased wages granted the miners. The operators have increased the price to the retailers, and they in turn have been compelled to raise the price to the consumer.

MASONIC BRETHREN BEAR CALVIN RUGG TO GRAVE

Attended by representative delegations from the local Masonic fraternities and many relatives and friends the funeral of Calvin H. Rugg, whose death occurred Monday morning, after a long illness, was held this afternoon at his late home on Myrtle avenue, the borough. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First Methodist church, officiated at the customary family service, after which the fraters of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., assumed charge and performed the Masonic rites under the direction of Worshipful Master Samuel Hollingsworth. Musical numbers were rendered by the Masonic quartet.

The large gathering present included relatives from Newark, Phillipsburg, Easton and also the deceased's aged sister, Mrs. E. D. Cutting, of Lyme Center, N. H., who made the trip to this city alone. A great quantity of beautiful floral tributes attested to the esteem in which Mr. Rugg was held. Set pieces were contributed by Jerusalem Lodge, F. and A. M.; Jerusalem Chapter, R. A. M.; Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., and Queen City Lodge, I. O. O. F., of this city, and Salaam Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine of Newark, to all of which Mr. Rugg belonged.

Interment was made in Hillside cemetery, past worshipful masters of Jerusalem Lodge acting as pall bearers.

LOCAL BLACKSMITHS TO FORM A UNION

Realizing that they must get together and obtain better prices for their work owing to the advance of the price of stock since the outbreak of the war, the blacksmiths of this city and vicinity held a meeting in the blacksmith shop of Martin and Kearns on Somerset street last evening, to consider the question of forming a union. There was a large gathering of smiths; all recognized the truth of that saying, "In union there is strength," and it was unanimously voted to form a union. A meeting will be held tomorrow evening for the purpose of perfecting the organization. A fixed scale of prices will be decided upon, and there will be no more underhanded bidding. The smiths should thus share in the general prosperity. John Kliner was chairman of last evening's meeting and Horace J. Martin was secretary.

SAYS LAMBERT GIRL KILLED HERSELF

Talked of Suicide, Declares Marian's Chum.

Waukegan, Ill., May 25.—Dorothy Mason will take the witness stand in Will Orpet's defense and swear that she heard Marian Lambert, her intimate friend, threaten to kill herself.

This was assured as the Lake Bluff girl admitted having heard the death threat and the young university student's attorneys said she would be a witness in his behalf.

Love for Will Orpet and Will Orpet's waning love for her was Marian's motive for suicide, according to Miss Mason.

The testimony of Miss Mason is declared to be one of the strongest parts of the defense, built upon a theory that Miss Lambert killed herself by swallowing cyanide of potassium in Helms woods, Lake Forest, after learning that she had lost her sweetheart to another.

A remark about the hopelessness of life in general while the two girls were discussing a dance is the basis for the witness' suicide idea, and it was made when Miss Mason joked Marian because Orpet was to take Miss Celeste Youker instead of Miss Lambert to the University of Wisconsin ball.

Perley B. Burritt, a drug clerk, of Lake Forest was discovered to be another important witness for the defense. His testimony, it is said, will indicate the sale of cyanide of potassium, the poison that caused Marian's death, to the Lambert family.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

"JERSEYLAND."

Last Friday, while the schools of this State were celebrating New Jersey Day with appropriate exercises, including the singing of "Jerseyland," United States Senator Martine took occasion to speak of the advantages and attractions of the State, and incidentally to recite the words of the song which thousands of school children were singing. Many of the newspapers have the notion that the verses were original with the Senator, and the Jersey Journal refers to them as "his own fabrication."

Senator Martine is not the author of the words of "Jerseyland." They were written several years ago, anonymously, by some one connected with the New Jersey State Normal School in this city, and were first sung at an entertainment given in the State schools. As nearly every school boy knows, an old tune of Civil War days was used, "Maryland, My Maryland." There is scarcely an anniversary observed in the public schools of the State at which the song is not used, and the words are singularly appropriate for a New Jersey Day celebration.

Probably no one will accuse the senior Senator of plagiarism, but he is getting credit that belongs to another, and should at once disavow any claim to the authorship of the beautiful lines he quoted, "to the great delight of his colleagues," it is said. The evidence of appreciation was warmest [illegible] the words are said to have had the approval of Edna Dean Proctor and Henry Van Dyke, to whom they were submitted by the real author.—Jersey Journal.

LIGHTNING KILLS COW.

During the brief thunderstorm which passed over this section early this afternoon lightning struck and killed a registered Holstein cow belonging to former Sheriff Edward Cooper, of Warren township. The animal was grazing apart from the herd and was the only one affected by the bolt. The loss of $125, the value of the cow, will be paid by the Frederick A. Martin Company, of this city, which issued a policy to Mr. Cooper covering casualties of this kind.

"K. ADAMS," NEMESIS OF DR. WAITE, IS GRADUATE OF PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL

Elizabeth C. Hardwick, the "nemesis" of Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, whose trial for murder is the sensation of New York today, is a graduate of Plainfield High School, '11, and several times since her graduation has served as instructor in French in the local school for short periods. Miss Hardwick is well known in Plainfield and is extremely popular, especially among P. H. S. pupils and recent graduates.

Miss Hardwick is now teaching in New York city. Her home is in Somerville, but while a student at the local High School she lived in Plainfield. It was her telegram, signed "K. Adams," that prevented the body of John E. Peck from being cremated and which revealed the murder mystery.

Miss Hardwick's suspicions were aroused by the actions of Dr. Waite, following the death of Mr. Peck, and her detective instinct found full play in an armchair in her home in Somerville, where she thought over the conversations on the death of Mr. Peck that Waite had had with her uncle, Dr. Jacob Cornell, and her cousin, Arthur Swinton, neither of whom had entertained any suspicions of Waite.

Her imagination was stimulated by an unexplained aversion which she had felt for the young dentist, coupled with the fact that she had seen him on Feb. 22, 1915, in the Plaza Hotel in company with Mrs. Margaret Horton, whom Waite had represented to be a trained nurse.

Waite's explanation as to Mrs. Horton had been sufficient for Arthur Swinton and others with whom Miss Hardwick was dining at the time, but it had left doubt in her mind. This doubt was there to color other circumstances described by her unsuspecting cousin and uncle and create the conviction that Waite was a murderer.

After their return from their visit to the Waite apartment to pay their respects after Mr. Peck's death, Dr. Cornell and Mr. Swinton both commented on the fact that Waite, who had always before been a model of courtesy, had received them coldly. Later some one remarked that Waite's marriage of a few months before, followed by the sudden death of Mr. and Mrs. Peck in rapid succession, had apparently made Waite the master of half a million dollars which his wife would inherit.

The two men and others, who had these facts and many other strange ones concerning Waite and the two sudden deaths to make deductions from, either failed to construct any theories or recoiled from the suspicion as too horrible to be true or to be voiced.

Miss Hardwick said nothing about her thoughts to her relatives in Somerville, but after her intelligence had been at work for a day she came to a positive belief in Waite's guilt and decided to wire Percy Peck, the dead man's son, to make an investigation. She went to New York City the following day, and from the Grand Central Station sent the following telegram to Percy Peck:

"Suspicions aroused. Demand an autopsy."

She did not want to sign her own name because it would put her in an unpleasant position, should Waite be cleared, so she wrote "K. Adams" for the signature, using this because the first person she happened to think of was Katherine Adams, a young woman friend who had lately been married.

This telegram was a shock to the son, who had never dreamed of connecting Waite with the death of his father and mother; but he acted upon it at once. It resulted in thwarting Waite's plan to have the body cremated, which would have destroyed the evidence that the old man had died of poison. Except for the telegram, the probabilities are strong that Waite, with his elegant manners and social aspirations, would now be using the Peck wealth in a campaign to win a foothold in fashionable New York society. After the death of John E. Peck, one of the first things Waite did was to get his wife to make her will in his favor.

From her brief appearance at the trial it would not have been suspected that Miss Hardwick was the real motive power of the prosecution. Before she was called to the witness stand, Miss Hardwick, a tall, good-looking woman in her early twenties, dressed rather smartly in brown, sat in a corner of the courtroom among the relatives and friends of Mrs. Waite, keeping her eyes fixed on the defendant most of the time and turning ocasionally with a quick remark about him to those sitting near. There was a stir when Clerk Penny called her name, and she was on the stand only long enough to testify that she had sent the telegram and to identify it. She was not cross-examined.

If Waite had wondered who had sent the telegram which may send him to the electric chair, he did not show his curiosity. His eyes remained fixed on the table.

MEETINGS WELL ATTENDED

women took part in the service of prayer, song and testimony at Trinity church last night, which was led by the Rev. John Y. Brock, pastor. The regular church orchestra was augmented by several members who served at the Biederwolf meetings, and songs of the Tabernacle were sung. Applications for membership have been numerous, Dr. Brock reported.

Twenty-five for Park Ave. Baptist.

Twenty-five new members were received into the church at the weekly prayer service of the Park Avenue Baptist, last evening. The Rev. B. S. Hudson was in charge of the service and it was preceded by a meeting of the deacons, before which the applicants appeared. The church parlors were crowded. In a business session of the church and society which preceded the prayer service the following trustees were elected for a term of two years: George S. Hall, Willard M. Maxim, William N. Runyon, Alfred Spangenberg and A. D. Thompson. All were re-elections except that of Judge Runyon, who succeeded E. Frank Vail, Mr. Vail having asked that his name not be considered for another term on the board. Enthusiastic and inspiring testimony was given by many of the new members in their declarations before the church and the prayer service lasted until almost 10 p. m.

First Baptist is Filled.

The service last evening at the First Baptist church was all and more than had been expected, a service never to be forgotten by those present. The attendance was unusually large, the entire seating capacity being filled. So many are seeking admission into this church that special arrangements are being made to meet the candidates for baptism. Many of those were present last night and, conferred with the pastor and deacons and a number of others will come later.

The pastor and deacons will gladly meet other applications for membership also next Thursday evening at the same place and hour, while a similar opportunity will be afforded at the mid-week service Wednesday evening. Rev. Dr. Strong gave a short talk last night for the benefit of the new converts.

Mount Holly Defendant Not Guilty of Shooting Friend.

Mount Holly, May 25.—A verdict of not guilty was recorded in the trial of Alfred Haines, seventy years old, accused of shooting and attempting to kill William P. Bryan, sixty-seven years old, at the latter's home, near Woodmansie, on April 20. The trial continued for two days and attracted attention because of Bryan's prominence.

Bryan and Haines were in the house together, and while Bryan was looking over papers a shot was fired at such close range that powder marks were left on his neck. The bullet went through Bryan's cap and landed against the wall.

TWO CLEVER PLAYS TO BE PRESENTED

Publi cRecreation Committee Plans Entertainment for June 8.

Edward Owings Towne's famous comedy, "Other Peoples' Money," will be presented under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee on Thursday evening, June 8, at the new Evergreen Avenue School Auditorium. This comedy has been presented on the professional stage in all the large cities in this country and in England, and is still being played. A manuscript copy of the play was presented to Miss Lillian Lamson, the supervisor of recreation, by the author, some time ago, and by the permission of Mr. Towne, the comedy will be presented in Plainfield. The plot of the play deals with a tremendously wealthy banker who presents some wonderful views about "other peoples' money." He declares that money belongs not to the one who has it but to the one who has wits enough to get it. His young secretary by his cleverness proves the saying to be true. The play is screamingly funny from start to finish.

The "Silent System," a short comedy sketch, is to precede "Other Peoples' Money." A treat is in store for those who attend. The work of the Public Recreation Committee is well kown in Plainfield. This body of public spirited citizens has volunteered its services and has been active for the past three years in advancing the ideal of "better use of leisure time." More and more the different communities are awakening to the fact that neighborhood betterment demands cooperation—that it is necessary for all the people of the community to meet and work together. The school house is the common ground upon which all may meet without regard to class or creed and it is for the wider use of the school building that all the needs of the community may be met with efficiency and economy that the Recreation Committee was organized. The entertainment which is to be given at the Evregreen Avenue School on June 8 will be the last one of the season under the auspices of the Committee.

SYNOPSIS.

Stephen O'Mara, a homeless and friendless boy, starting from the wilderness to see the city, is welcomed to the home of Caleb Hunter and his sister Sarah. Stephen meets Barbara Allison, young and rich, and Caleb gives him a home. Barbara ridicules Stephen, who runs away, declaring that he'll come back when worthy of her. Caleb learns that Stephen was well born. Ten years later Stephen returns.

CHAPTER VI.

Harrigan, That's Me!

NEVER before had the air of that long, paneled room been so surcharged with half suppressed hilarity. At first her father merely scowled at Barbara's intermittent little gurgles, which refused to stay entirely pent up.

"What is the joke?" he demanded in a voice that set them all to rocking in their chairs. "Let me in on it, let me laugh, too, if there is anything worth laughing at. Cal, you're growing old—old and feeble witted."

Barbara bobbed her head meekly.

"Just before you and Uncle Cal came in we—we were talking about the weather," the girl gurgled. "Mr. O'Mara predicted it would rain soon, and I just wanted to ask him what made him think so."

It was very quiet for a moment. Steve sat, a little red of face himself, gazing across into the girl's starry eyes.

"Go ahead," she prompted him, with a gasp.

Then his lips began to curl until a smile overspread his face and half closed his eyes. He leaned back and raised obediently a quaintly solemn, quaintly boyish treble.

"I wa'n't guessin'," he averred soberly, "ner I wa'n't thinkin' it will. It'll jest be rainin' come sun up, and it'll be good fer till Wednesday fer sure."

At the beginning of that quavering statement Dexter Allison's lips fell apart. They remained open long after Steve had finished.

"You," he murmured weakly. "You! And Elliott said that you could outguess dear old Mother Nature herself! Well, I—I'm blanked! What I can't remember is just why you left us so suddenly. I know it was some sort of rumpus, with Barbara in it—there's always a woman, of course—but I can't recall"—

He paused to ponder—paused and became aware immediately of Barbara's swift silence and Steve's hint of self consciousness. Then it all returned to him with a rush. He had his turn.

"Oh, but I do remember," he drawled. "Why, of course—of course! It was a matter of knight errantry and ladies fair! But who was it whose choice conflicted with your own?"

He cocked his head on one side, mock thoughtful; then he fell to pounding his knee and roared with laughter.

"Archie Wickersham!" he shouted. "Archie Wickersham—oh, Lord! I never really appreciated that melee until this minute. And you promised that you'd be back, didn't you, and—well, b'gad, here you are! Shake hands again, Steve. And, if I may be pardoned the idiom, allow me to assure you that it was some battle!"

If it did nothing else, Allison's ponderous raillery served one end. It removed any sentimental awkwardness which might have attached to the episode, and yet the girl rather resented its being so completely reduced to terms of farce comedy. When the men rose, after breakfast, to go down into the town, she, too, declared her intention of accompanying them, as though it were the expected thing. She crossed the lawn at Steve's side, ahead of her father and Caleb, with Miss Sarah watching from the door. Both men walked for a short time in silence, their eyes upon the slender figure in short skirt and wooly sweater beside the taller one in blue flannel before them. And, as usual, Allison was the first to speak.

"Now I know what you meant when you referred to that trip up the west branch, Cal," he said. "And you were right. It does take stuff to make that sort of gentleman. Isn't there anything more to tell me? I am truly interested, Cal."

So Caleb told him then of "Old Tom's" tin box. And while he was explaining the man and girl ahead, all in one breath, skipped back to that day before yesterday, now many years gone. There was a quality of camaraderie in the girl's half parted lips and eager impulsiveness of tongue that morning that was entirely boyish. But when Steve finally asked for Devereau—Garry Devereau, who had followed him to the hedge gap that day and laid one hand upon his bowed, shamed shoulder—the light went from Barbara's eyes. And Stephen O'Mara, who did not understand at first the quick hurt which entered them, stopped smiling too.

"I liked him," Steve said simply. "I've always remembered and liked him. Thinking of him and—and—has often kept me from being too lonely nights, when I was lonely enough."

"Do you remember a little girl who was at our place the summer you were here?" Barbara then asked. "A pale, red lipped, very shy little thing named Mary Graves?"

Stephen nodded.

"And do you remember how even then Garry seemed to care for her? He was always supercilious with the rest of us; he tormented us or ignored us entirely, but never her."

Again the inclination of the head.

"Well, he grew up just that way," Barbara went on, thoughtfully. "One never could tell what was behind his indifference or—or flippancies. He mocked at things, customs and courses of action, which we have come to accept and—and recognize. But he was always gentle with her and very kind."

She was walking more slowly now, without knowing it.

"He loved her with his whole soul, Mr. O'Mara, and she married another man, almost without a word of explanation to him. Nobody ever cited Garry as a shining example, but he—that man whom Mary Graves married—had an unspeakable record! Her family made the match—the newspapers call it a union of America's fairest youth and powerful millions, don't they? Well, he had them—and she married him. And Garret Devereau dropped out of the world for a long time.

"It was a year before he came back. People had already begun to talk about the way his father had gone before him—he shot himself, Mr. O'Mara, when he became tired of waiting for Garry's mother to return—and when Garry reappeared they talked more. I never knew before that a change so terrible could take place in any one so much a man as I know Garry to be. It's not just his face and his rather dreadful silence. It's not the fact alone that he drinks too much and shows it pitifully. It's—oh, it's the pity that a brain so keen could so deliberately commit suicide.

"They've begun to drop him, Mr. O'Mara, and you know what that means. But I'll always care for him deeply. That's why I have asked him up this fall. Don't you think you could come down again Friday if you have to go back into the woods before then? I'm going to have a party for some week end guests, a masque dance. Garry needs his friends now more than he ever did, and—and when you meet him will you—will you, please, not let him see that you notice how much he has changed?"

They found the conversation somehow less easy after that. Morrison had grown inconceivably in those elapsed years. It was no longer a river village. Morrison was a city now.

Once when a squatly huge, red headed, red shirted riverman with a week's red stubble upon his cheeks lurched out of a doorway ahead of them and stood snarling malevolently at O'Mara the girl shrank against her companion and clutched his arm. The red shirted one fell to singing after they had passed. A maudlin rendition of "Harrigan, That's Me," followed them long after they had rounded a corner. Steve looked down and smiled casually into Barbara's wide and startled eyes.

"That's a river boss," he explained, "enjoying what he considers a roaring good time. His name is Harrigan. He works on the Reserve company's cut, which we are to move in the spring, and whenever he has had a trifle more than enough he always sings that song. He's willing to fight, too, to prove that it was written especially for him!"

"He's not exactly a friend of yours, is he?" she said.

"Well, not exactly," Steve admitted. "Not when he is in that frame of mind."

"Or in any other," the girl persisted, and she glanced down at her hand, still lying upon the blue flannel sleeve. "Did you know that your arm grew as hard as iron for an instant? I never knew that any one's arm could grow as hard as that. And is that the way you always prepare to receive your—friends?"

Steve colored a little.

"Perhaps I'm overcautious," he replied. "But it has to be hard. It constitutes what one of my men, Joe Morgan, calls 'accident insurance.'"

Then her face lighted up again. The delighted bob of her head with which she greeted that name astonished the man.

"Do you—why, you must have heard of Joe!" he exclaimed.

"Joe Morgan," she laughed. "'Fat Joe,' isn't it? And of course I have heard of him. You don't realize it, but I know more about this East Coast work and—and the men who are doing it than I had any idea myself. I want to know Joe, please! Can't I meet him, Mr. O'Mara?"

But the question was unnecessary. Joe Morgan—Fat Joe to the river front and the construction squad—was already hustling in their direction.

"Morning, chief," Fat Joe saluted, in that thin and reedy tenor which none but fat men have.

Steve managed the presentation with extreme punctility and left them. When he returned, almost an hour later, he heard them both laughing long before he came into view, and on the way back up the hill the girl detailed for him much of her conversation with Fat Joe.

"Why should there be any—any element of personal danger in this work you are doing, Mr. O'Mara?" she finally asked. "And did I do wrong in mentioning to Mr. Morgan how that man came out of that—place and glared so at you?"

His rejoinder should have been very reassuring.

"So Joe has been hinting at that mystery stuff again, has he? After listening to him one is compelled to believe that I run daily a veritable gauntlet of nameless perils."

Barbara stood, small fists buried in her sweater pockets, studying his smile of amusement.

"I shouldn't like to believe so," her voice was faintly diffident. "And you—you haven't accepted my invitation for Friday. May I expect you? I didn't tell you, but Archie—Archibald Wickersham—will be there, as well as Garry. So—so you won't be entirely unacquainted."

And then at those words his face changed. All in one fleet second, in spite of the whole morning's quick intimacy of mood and the spirit of companionship which to her had seemed a delightfully new yet time tried thing, Barbara found that she could not read an inch behind those grave gray eyes. She found his quiet countenance as unreadable as that of the utmost stranger might have been. And while she waited, not entirely certain how displeased she was at his deliberation, a blackest of black horses soared splendidly over a fence to the north and came cantering down the road. The rider, a tall, bareheaded girl, lifted her crop in salute as she caught sight of them.

"My friend, Miriam Burrell," the girl murmured in explanation to Steve, and something had gone from her voice and left it conventionally impersonal. "She's riding Ragtime, and isn't he a beauty—almost as much a beauty as she is herself?"

The horse came on, to be reined up at last directly in front of the two at the roadside. Stephen O'Mara met for a moment the level, measuring glance of its rider before Miriam Burrell turned to Barbara.

"I've enjoyed exceedingly our morning canter, Bobs," her alto voice drawled.

Then, before Barbara could reply, she threw one booted leg from the stirrup and dismounted. With the reins looped over her elbow she faced the man in blue flannel and corduroy, a tall, lithe figure with coppery red hair and whitest skin and doubly vivid lips.

"You're Stephen O'Mara," she said. "You're Stephen O'Mara, for a thousand!"

"I've just asked Mr. O'Mara to come to my dance, Miriam," Barbara said, "and how did you know him, pray? I've asked him, but he is unflatteringly long in accepting."

"Know him?" Miriam echoed. "Know him! Oh, Mr. O'Mara and I have met before. I think before the fall of the Roman empire, wasn't it, Mr. O'Mara? Weren't they dragging me in at the wheel of a chariot one afternoon when you were dealing out a gold piece to each of your legionaries?"

She laughed dryly, and Barbara felt smaller and more forlorn and lonelier still.

"No doubt Mr. O'Mara hasn't time to be flattering, Bobs," she commented. "But you will have time to come Friday for a little while, won't you?" she asked.

"I have to work day and night some weeks when things break badly," Steve told her simply. "If I can," and he turned to Barbara—"if I can I want to come."

Miriam nodded her head with brisk finality.

"If you can," she agreed. "Barbara no doubt has been telling you about Garret Devereau, hasn't she? Yes, come if you can. I have heard, Mr. O'Mara, that you have once or twice fought your way out of the dark when everybody else had lost hope. I want an opportunity to talk with a specialist in such campaigns."

Stephen O'Mara had read a meaning in the words of that contained, often abrupt, straightly tall girl of which Barbara Allison had not even dreamed. He stood watching them when they turned up the driveway, the horse Ragtime muzzling the woolly white sweater and following like a dog. But he wasn't thinking of Miriam Burrell or of Garry Devereau. He was wondering about Archie Wickersham—the Hon. Archie—thinking about that funny brawl of years before, which had not been so funny after all, wondering if—

Late that night, before she slept, Barbara asked Miriam this question, "Should I have told Mr. O'Mara that my engagement to Archibald Wickersham was to be announced at the party?"

"Why should you have?" Miriam crisply replied.

"BLESSINGS, MY CHILDREN," HE CALLED TO THE TWO IN THE SHADOW.

CHAPTER VII.

"I Mean to Marry Him."

IT turned much colder with nightfall on the day of the party. A sharp wind with the tang of autumn was blowing in off the river when Barbara, muffled from throat to ankle in a sapphire fur edged wrap, slipped in at the door of the Hunter home, having stolen away ostensibly to display to the inmates her costume. It was after the hour of 10, but the girl lingered a little after she had executed that mission.

"We are very sorry that Mr. O'Mara could not come," she hesitated. "I had promised both Garry and Archie Wickersham that he would be down."

"We haven't heard from him since he went back into camp," Sarah answered. "He, no doubt, has been unable to get away."

Barbara Allison recrossed the lawn very slowly that night. She retraced her steps with head bent, the fall of her slippered feet muffled by the carpet of thick, unfrosted grass. Vaguely troubled, vaguely disturbed at herself, she was within arm's length of a dark figure in the hedge gap through which she had just come before she was aware of its presence. Stephen O'Mara, weather beaten hat in hand, was standing there in her path, peering steadily at the stucco and timber lodge alight from end to end like a huge and sprawling glowworm.

An insistent desire again to meet the Honorable Archibald Wickersham had led him to request Fat Joe to hook up the team that day at noon for the long drive down the river. With Steve himself handling the reins they had rolled the thirty miles at a speed which might have mildly surprised Fat Joe had he not been accustomed to putting two and two together to make six or eight or more. And Fat Joe's thin tenor was just drifting faintly off down the hill—a mournful rendition of "Home, Sweet Home"—when the girl stepped noiselessly forward and put a hand, feather light, upon the man's arm.

Again she felt the swift tensing of the flesh beneath; she fell back a step before the startling abruptness with which Steve whirled. She even threw up one small hand, as if to shield her face. And then, the cloak falling open at her throat, a slender, swaying figure in blue and shimmering white, she stood and flung a little laugh at him—a laugh a little unsteady, a bit tinged with mockery and as untroubled as the spirit of youth itself.

"Is that the way you always prepare to greet your friends?" she asked.

The man just stood and stared at her—stared much as if he mistrusted his own ears and eyes.

"Not all my friends," his slow voice trawled at last, but even the words were tinged with doubt. "Not all my friends," he said. Silently the man reached out and found the hand which had lain for a moment upon his arm.

"So you are—you," he murmured, when his fingers touched hers. "I wasn't—just sure."

Archie was already searching with bravely concealed distraction for the fair daughter of the house. The hour has struck. It's masks off—masks off from eyes and hearts."

He laughed again. White face whiter still against the background of his somber vestments, debonair and drunkenly insecure in the saddle, Garret Devereau tore out into the main road and thundered off into the night.

"Is that true?" Steve asked quietly.

She made no move to answer.

"Is that true?" his low and gentle voice commanded this time. "You still mean to—marry—him?"

"What I have done tonight I can never hope to explain," she answered, recovering herself. "I can only hope that some day I may cease to despise myself as utterly as you have taught me to at this minute. And since you choose to regard it now as your right to ask that question I'll answer it for you. I mean to marry him. I shall be proud to be his wife."

The light that streamed over her [illegible] houlder fell full upon his face. She [illegible] w the blood pour up, staining throat [illegible] d cheek and brow, and then ebb [illegible] ay. He fell to whistling later, and almost immediately his thin tenor was rolling ahead of them through the black alley between the pines, to continue in soulful reiteration until the construction camp clearing loomed up ahead. Suddenly Fat Joe tightened the reins above the fagged team; then he shot forward and laid the whip across their tired flanks as they cleared the breastwork of trees.

Steve's head was jerked backward by the abruptness of their first plunge, and then he saw what Fat Joe had seen a second before. High up on the hillside there was a light glowing from the windows of the shack which served the chief engineer of the East Coast job as office and domicile too. While Fat Joe laid on the whip a man came hurtling past the outflung door, sprang to his feet and, running low to the ground, disappeared into the blackness of the brush. Joe swung the horses up in a galloping curve and with one catlike leap, incredibly light for a man of his chunky build, was down from the seat and crashing through the bushes on the trail of that fugitive whose noisy flight had already become a faint crackle in the distance.

Flame poured from Fat Joe's revolver. Two whiplike reports shattered the night quiet before Stephen O'Mara moved. Then he lifted himself heavily from the seat. Something nuzzled his shoulder while he stood listening to the diminishing tumult of the pursuit, and even before he turned he knew what it was. He paused a moment to stroke the soft nose of the black horse standing there with reins a-trail. It was Ragtime, wet with lather and caked with dust. But even then he was not prepared for the sight which met him when he entered the shack. Seconds must have passed while he stood staring from the threshold, for Fat Joe came puffing back from his fruitless chase in time to see him bend and lift a black robed, lifelessly limp body from the floor and stagger with it toward a bunk. Fat Joe's steady flow of profanity, oddly, double vicious in his thin, complaining voice, was checked short. He, too, stood and stared from the doorway—stood and lifted his nose and sniffed.

"Seems to be our night for callers," he remarked, with bad mildness, "and, say, this one's got a peach of a load."

Then Garry Devereau's head rolled over, ghastly loose and slack, and the plump one caught sight of a ragged gash in the senseless man's temple.

"So-o, that's it?" he droned, and his complaining voice was deadly again. "So that's it! But he wasn't so far gone that he couldn't put up a tidy little battle, was he? Funny about that, too, but I could always do my best little jobs of man handling when I was about half over myself."

His pale eyes swept the floor. He pounced forward and recovered a sheaf of blue prints from a corner.

"This, I take it," he muttered, "was what they was arguing about when we busted in. Steve, them's our bridge estimates—and there wa'n't no copies of 'em either. It wouldn't take us more'n two weeks to replace 'em neither—not more'n two precious, priceless weeks. I'm only hopin' now that when our other caller, who seems to want them more than we do, calls again, I'll be here myself to entertain him with tea or somethin'. I'd plumb hate to seem so inhospitable as not to be home, twice hand runnin', to visitors."

"Maybe that was a tidy little battle while it lasted," Fat Joe continued, "but it ain't deuce high alongside this fight we've got on our hands right now. For he's just as near over as I'd care to see a man, unless it was some one I'd a little prefer dead! It ain't that scratch on the head that's got him slippin', either." Joe paused and turned to address Garry Devereau's still white face itself. "You sat in an' backed my game like a gentleman born," he said, "and now I'm a-goin' to play yourn, blue chips and white and yello'."

And while he talked he worked, for it was Fat Joe who gave the orders that night. He called for ammonia, for brandy, for a half dozen drugs from the camp hospital chest, and each of them Steve brought in an automatic fashion that finally penetrated even Fat Joe's professional pleasure in the struggle.

"Friend of yourn?" he asked in an interval while they rested.

"A friend," Steve repeated with a tightening of his jaws, and Joe knew what that tone meant.

Before daybreak there came an hour when Garry Devereau lifted himself upon one elbow and opened his eyes to stare half wildly, but very sanely, about the room. His gaze flitted wonderingly from wall to wall before it rested, fearfully fixed, upon Steve's brown face.

"Then you—are you," he framed the words laboriously. "I wasn't sure—even when I knew it must be."

And Garry Devereau tried to smile his slow smile of sophistry.

"Greetings, Sir Galahad!" he faltered. "And how are you, Steve—and who might your—fat friend be?"

PLANNING TRIP TO CONVENTION

Special Train For Delegates From State.

IS HUGHES THE FAVORITE?

Special Meeting Called to Elect Member of National Committee—Franklin Murphy, Candidate For United States Senator, May Succeed Himself.

Trenton, May 25.—Chairman Bugbee of the Republican state committee has issued a call for a special meeting to be held here next Tuesday to elect a member of the national committee. This position has been held for a number of years by ex-Governor Franklin Murphy of Newark, now a candidate for United States senator, and present indications point to his re-election without opposition.

Plans have been completed for the trip of the New Jersey delegates to the Chicago convention. Among politicians who gathered at the statehouse the impression seemed general that Hughes sentiment is gaining ground in New Jersey, with a probability that a majority of the delegates will be favorable to Hughes before Chicago is reached.

Most of the New Jersey contingent will go to Chicago by a special train on the Pennsylvania railroad, leaving Jersey City Sunday afternoon, June 4. The train will consist of six private cars, one of which has been chartered by each of the four delegates at large, and two additional Pullmans. The train will stop at Newark, Elizabeth, Trenton and Philadelphia, the south Jersey contingent boarding it at the latter point.

Colonel William Barbour of Paterson, one of the delegates credited with being behind the Roosevelt boom, will go to Chicago on his own private car by the way of the Erie railroad. He will be accompanied by a party of friends, among whom will be a number of Roosevelt supporters.

The majority of the delegates will reach Chicago at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, and it is anticipated that the meeting for organization will be held that night. At that time will be determined the rival claims for the chairmanship in the contest now between Chairman Bugbee and David Baird of Camden.

PRESBYTERIANS WARN.

Say Tenets of Church Must Be Accepted by Candidates.

Atlantic City, May 25.—The general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America adopted without debate a report from the committee on bills and overtures warning the New York and all other presbyteries that the tenets of the church must be accepted by candidates for the ministry before they are ordained.

This action, it is believed, will end discussion in the present assembly of the alleged heresy question in which the New York presbytery and Union Theological seminary are involved.

The committee had before it more than two dozen overtures from presbyteries in many parts of the country dealing with the heresy controversy. The one to which serious consideration was given was that from the Cincinnati presbytery, which proposed that the New York presbytery be expelled because it licensed three young men who are alleged to hold views at variance with the doctrines of the church.

MINISTER GETS CLEAN BILL.

Pastor Accused of Lying Acquitted at Church Trial.

Atlantic City, May 25.—By unanimous vote the general assembly, sitting as a court, acquitted the Rev. Percival S. Barker of Neosha, Kan., of charges of lying, for which he was suspended from the Kansas presbytery in 1913 and deposed a year later. The case was reviewed, and the assembly decided he had not violated the book of discipline. This case has been up on several previous occasions. The Rev. Mr. Barker now has a Reformed church charge.

Don't Like Roosevelt.

Elizabeth, May 25.—German-Americans of this city, aroused by recent utterances of Theodore Roosevelt against hyphenates, have formed a Charles E. Hughes club. Its slogan is, "Any one to defeat Roosevelt." Permanent organization will be effected when the temporary officers, Gustave L. Heinemeyer, president of the Harmonie bank, and Harry Hobeler of Roselle, president and secretary, respectively, probably will be re-elected.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

ART OF SCIENCE IS DEMONSTRATED

Parent-Teacher Ass'n of High School Witness Experiments by Pupils.

INTERESTING PAPERS

Aims and Methods, with Practical Results, are Shown—Frank Holt is Elected President of the Association—Other Officers Chosen.

At the annual meeting of the Plainfield High School Parent-Teacher Association, held in the High School last night, the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Frank L. Holt; first vice-president, Lindsey Best; second vice-president, Mrs. W. C. O'Donnell; corresponding secretary, Miss Helen Biddle; recording secretary, Mrs. H. R. Moyer; treasurer, Mrs. J. Herbert Case. Reports from the various committees were read and received with much enthusiasm, each one bespeaking excellent work for the association, and particularly that of the school lunch committee. The complete report in detail of this phase of the work will be published in the Plainfield Daily Press at the close of the school term. Other routine business was transacted for a short time, after which the attention of the attendants was directed to a demonstration of the science department of the High School.

During the latter demonstration practical experiments in biology, chemistry, physics and general science were performed, with a view to show how the knowledge gained by the pupils may be applied to everyday use. The first series of demonstrations were given by pupils of the physics department as follows:

Allen Mogenson read a paper on "The Formation of the Ice Sheet and Its Extent Over this Portion of the Country." To illustrate his talk he showed lantern slides of pictures taken in Plainfield and vicinity, clearly showing the formation of rocks and stones, a result of the glacier overflow. A talk on "Wireless Telegraph" was cleverly given by Francis Pettit, who demonstrated his points with an instrument which he himself constructed.

Richard Borden gave an interesting Talk on "The Manufacture of Guncotton;" Harold Seals spoke of "The Uses of X-rays," and demonstrated the principles of the X-ray machine; Alfred Seal's talk on "Electric Bells and Other Simple Electrical Appliances," revealed an intimacy with his subject, and Clinton Berrian exhibited an electric furnace which he had made and explained its uses.

Miss Hazel Codington, of the chemistry department, gave some interesting household suggestions and demonstrated how silver can be cleaned by the use of a soda, salt and aluminum solution. The Misses Ruth Fuller, Ruth Thomas and Lois Loizeaux each gave an interesting talk on the following subjects respectively: "Fireproofing," "Baking Powders" and "The principles of blueing clothes."

Bacteria in all of its forms was illustrated by the pupils and instructor of the biology department. H. R. Hubbard, the instructor, told of the various plants containing bacteria, after which individual pupils took up the three forms—the mold bacteria, the yeast bacteria and the bacteria plant. Miss Stephana Shaw told of the process of sterilizing and pasteurizing milk and spoke of the actual results obtained through this precaution against the formation of bacteria. Clarence Eder exhibited the different forms of bacteria and, through the use of test tubes, showed how it is destroyed. Miss Catherine Endress and Horace Bunker each spoke on mold bacteria and yeast bacteria respectively.

At the conclusion of the demonstration both pupils and their instructors were warmly congratulated for the splendid work which they did. Through the exhibition many parents and friends were able to become better acquainted with the aims and methods of the science department of the Plainfield High School and the practical results obtained for use in every day life.

The marriage of Miss Winifred Rapalje, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Daniel Rapalje, of 724 Carlton avenue, and Frederick Martin Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Captains and teams were appointed to start the energetic campaign, after the great meeting which will start the campaign in full blast on June 1.

FERGUS CAR SEEN BY LOCAL AUTOISTS

Simplicity and Accessibility Are Principal Features of Irish Machine.

Plainfield automobile lovers this morning were given an opportunity of seeing the latest thing in car designs, the Fergus car, which may be made in Plainfield within a short time. This machine, including motor and chassis, is the result of years of experience and study on the part of J. B. Ferguson, of Ireland, and was made at his large factory there until the British government took over the plant for the making of munitions. Mr. Ferguson has organized an American company to manufacture the car and as several local people are interested in the company, they desire to locate the plant here. A complete car has been at Laing's garage all day, under the care of P. H. Robertson, and scores of interested callers have gone over it thoroughly. The Fergus car was made on the twin principles of simplicity and accessibility, and as one automobile expert in this country has said, is a reproach to American car manufacturers. It will be at Laing's garage for several days and interested persons are invited to inspect it there.

INCREASE TO BE GIVEN JULY 1

Firemen and Policemen Must Wait Until After June.

OFFCIALS RESENTFUL

Say "Wirepulling" by Members of Department has Become Obnoxious—Ten Per Cent. Raise for All Members.

Firemen and policemen of Plainfield will not get their promised increase in salary until July 1, according to announcement made by Mayor Calkins this morning. It had been believed that the increase would go into effect June 1, but at a meeting of the police committee held last night the ordinance was worked out for presentation to the Common Council at the regular June meeting. It calls for an increase in the wages of firemen and policemen, effective July 1. The ordinance has already been approved by the fire committee.

City officials resent the recent activity of members of the two departments on the salary increase. "Wirepulling" and gumshoe politics have angered them until there have been threats that if such work does not stop the salary increase will not be of benefit to some members of the departments because they will not be on the city's pay roll when it goes into effect. It is said that there has been unwarranted activity on the part of some employes, who thought to influence the distribution of more money for the two pay rolls.

All details of the increase have been worked out, although no official announcement has been made, and it is definitely fixed just what salary each member of the departments shall draw, beginning July 1. It is said that the increase amounts to approximately 10 per cent. for each branch of the service, so that a new man will share equally with those who have been in the service a lifetime, in proportion to his salary.

The ordinance will be introduced at the meeting of the Council, which will be held the first Monday in June.

MR. AND MRS. HERZOG RETURN FROM WEST

Plainfielder Suspected of Being German Spy is Released by St. Louis Police.

Albert Herzog, of West Second street, who several weeks ago was arrested in St. Louis on suspicion of being a German spy, returned to his home this week, accompanied by his wife, who was called to St. Louis because of her husband's illness. Following his release by the authorities, Mr. Herzog was taken seriously ill, his wife says, and was under treatment in a St. Louis hospital for two weeks. He has since fully recovered.

In speaking of the matter today, Mrs. Herzog said that her husband's arrest was all a mistake. Two strange men, she explained, tried to get him into trouble and after his arrest they disappeared and have not been seen since. She said that her confidence in Mr. Herzog was never shaken and she believed from the first that he would be able to clear himself of all charges without any trouble. It was Mr. Herzog's father that telegraphed to Mrs. Herzog to go West, owing to the illness of her husband. The authorities, she says, were never able to connect her husband with any Germon plot as suspected.

NO REFUND MADE TO LIQUOR DEALERS

Postal Employes Deny That They Ask for Return of Contributions.

No money has been returned to the local liquor dealers that contributed for the entertainment of the letter carriers' convention. Although it was recently reported that $300 would be given back, and this sum was asked for because of the deficit that would be created, a member of the committee this morning gave out the following statement:

"The article in the Daily Press of May 19, saying the liquor dealers had contributed to the letter carriers' convention in anticipation of receiving orders from them was entirely erroneous. These contributions were absolutely voluntary, without any strings on them, and without thought of influencing any order, and when their contributions were offered back to them when it had been decided to eliminate beer, all were hurt at the thought of having their contributions returned and refused absolutely to accept their return, saying, 'We gave this to the boys for their convention, we won't take it back.'"

MUHLENBERG HOLDS ANNUAL GRADUATION

Class of 1916 of Hospitals Training School Numbers Six Young Women.

Six young women who comprise the 1916 class of Muhlenberg Hospital's Training School for Nurses were graduated with appropriate exercises in the Hartridge Auditorium last night. The program was enjoyed by a large gathering, which included a large part of the membership of the hospital alumnae association, the members appearing in their nursing uniforms.

The graduates and their place of residence were as follows: Miss Adelia L. French, Miss Hazel Florence Greenleaf and Miss Gertrude Florence Murphy, of Plainfield; Miss Nellie L. Pickering, of South Plainfield; Miss Emma W. Rose, of Summit Hill, Pa., and Miss Mildred Sellery, of Napanee, Ontario, Canada.

Edward H. Ladd, Jr., who is president of the Muhlenberg Hospital Board of Governors, was in charge of the exercises and at the outset made a few introductory remarks relative to the occasion. Invocation was offered by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, after which the address of the evening was delivered by Rev. Dr. Allen Foster, of Brooklyn. Dr. Foster is an exceptionally able speaker and his remarks last night were among the most appropriate that have yet been given at te Muhlenberg graduations. His main thought was that a young woman could have excellent training at a hospital, be perfect in her memorizing of formulas and carrying out the doctor's instructions explicitly but if she did not put her entire self into the work she would not make a success of her profession. Nothing in this life, the speaker said, amounted to anything if it was not done with the whole heart and he besought the graduates beforehand to make their chosen calling a profession in reality and not merely an occupation.

The Training School emblematic pins were presented by A. M. Harris and each graduate was given her diploma by President Ladd. Several of the young women have already completed the three-year course while others have two or three months further to serve before taking up private nursing.

Following the conclusion of the program of exercises, dancing was enjoyed until midnight. Van Eps brothers' banjo orchestra furnished the music and also the incidental numbers during the early part of the evening. Refreshments were served during an intermission. The program for the graduation was arranged by the commencement committee of the Board of Governors of which E. H. Booth is chairman.

CHATHAM P.-T. ASS'N VISIT LOCAL SCHOOLS

Five members of the Chatham Parent-Teacher Association motored to this city yesterday to inspect the school lunches conducted under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Associations of the Franklin and High Schools. The women made their first stop at the former school and observed the serving of luncheon to the Whittier School children, after which they visited the opportunity classes in the Stillman building. At noon the delegation had luncheon at the Plainfield High School and took the opportunity to inspect the entire building. They lauded the different departments and will no doubt introduce some of Plainfield's school methods into the schools at Chatham.

LINEN SHOWER GIVEN TO MISS JESSIE HUMMER

Miss Jessie Hummer, of Grandview avenue, the borough, was the guest of honor at a delightful linen shower given in her honor last night, at the residence of Mrs. M. W. Bellis, 412 East Second street. Ten intimate friends of the bride-elect were present and an enjoyable evening was spent in a social way. A number of those present rendered musical selections during the evening. Mrs. Bellis was assisted in making the arrangements by Mrs. Russell Huston. Many handsome and useful pieces of linen were given Miss Hummer. The latter's wedding to Thomas Leacock, of this city, will take place in the near future.

TROOP D WITH U. S. REGULARS

Local Cavalrymen Make Fine Showing in Heavy Drills at Fort Myer.

CAMP LIFE INCIDENTS

Brown Rolston Appointed to Act as First Sergeant—Austin Andrews Gives Description of Daily Routine—Lecture by Major Hess.

Officers' Camp, Fort Myer, Va., May 25.—The members of the Watchung Troop attending the regular army instruction course here this week are making an excellent showing in the heavy drills which occupy each day.

The one hundred and fifty men, mostly officers and "non-coms," from the National Guard Cavalry of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland, were divided into three troops immediately upon their arrival, and these troops formed upon the parade ground at 7:15 a. m. Monday. The officers took positions in the ranks like regular troopers; each troop was divided into three platoons and the regular army officer in charge then read out the name of a captain to take command of each troop and a lieutenant to command each platoon. In this way various close order formations were run through and then the first set of officers were sent back to the ranks and others put in command. Captain Borden and Lieutenants Daniel Runkle and J. M. Charles had their turn along with the others. Sergeant Brown Rolston was appointed to act as first sergeant of one of these troops and continued to do so until Thursday, when he was called away by business.

Sergeant Austin Andrews gave this account of the first incidents of camp life:

"The outfit left on Sunday a. m. at 10:43 and arrived in Washington on time. Sunday was spent getting acquainted with our future quarters and with what other organizations there were present. Monday we arose at 5:30 after a sleepless night due to the cold,—and believe me it WAS cold! Mess followed at 6 and at 7:15 the real work with close order formations and instructions in the school of a trooper in which the finer points of the close formation were duly impressed upon us.

"We returned at 9:30 and spent some time grooming and caring for our mounts, and at 11 made inspections of the barracks of the regulars on duty here. We lunched at 12 and after we had had more or less time to digest, mostly less, we were divided into two sections, one for the school of equitation and the other for a tactical ride which lasted till 3:30, at which time we inspected the regulars' camp, learning much. At 5:30 mess was served and a good mess it was. This ended the day officially and we were free to do as we pleased till taps at 10. Some spent the time in "harmonizing," some in recounting the various incidents of the day, and others—a great majority—sought their welcome cots.

"On Monday night rain fell heavily but the troopers were far too tired not to sleep in their pyramidal tents. It rained all day Tuesday, but drills were nevertheless conducted. On Wednesday afternoon a lecture on sanitation was delivered by Major Hess, of the medical corps, and one on the cavalry horse was scheduled for this afternoon."

London, May 26.—Continued advances by the Austrians are reported in three sectors of the drive toward the Vicenza plain, in northeastern Italy. The column advancing through the Val Sugana occupied the Salubio ridge, the column in the Val Astico is nearing the Val d'Assa, and the forces which recently drove the Italians back from their positions on Monte Maggio and the Cima del Laghi are now nearing the Fosina Valley, a continuation of the Val Terragnolo, in Italian territory.

Germans Prepare for Peace.

New York, May 26.—A Berlin cable says Director Heinken, of the North German Lloyd, declares that they have no fear of any boycott being undertaken by Germany's present enemies after peace has been reached. The shipbuilding companies, apparently acting on the belief that the end of the war is within a measurable distance, are making preparations to handle large prospective orders. As an instance of this attitude, the Henry Koch ship works, a small plant in Luebeck, voted to increase its capital stock sixfold. At the same time, this company arranged for a big bond issue, the proceeds of which are to be used for the building and equipping of 12,000- to 15,000-ton steamers.

Paris, May 26.—The Committee on Fiscal Legislation and Agriculture Appropriations of the Chamber of Deputies, has pronounced against the new taxes proposed by Finance Minister Ribot. The Radical Socialist group also has rejected the proposal to double the existing direct taxes.

Germans Use Less Grain.

New York, May 26.—A despatch from Amsterdam says that in a discussion of the German grain supply in the Reichstag, the president of the Imperial Grain Board said that 80,000 tons must be added to Germany's reserve of 400,000 tons, due to the decreased consumption by the army.

Warned of Ireland Uprising.

Dublin, May 26.—That Major-General L. B. Friend, former British commander in Ireland, has been warned a number of times that the Germans would try to land arms and ammunition for the Irish rebels, was brought out today before the Royal Commission investigating the Dublin revolt. This testimony was given by Major-General Friend himself. He said: "I had frequent warnings and expected landing of German arms upon the west coast."

Austrian Submarines Active.

London, May 26.—The Italian steamer Ercole, of Genoa, has been sunk in the Mediterranean Sea by a submarine. The Ercole displaced 122 tons. His Big Load.

"How is Robert getting on at college?" asked the minister, who was being entertained at dinner.

"Splendidly," said the proud father, who then went on to tell of his son's various social, athletic and scholastic successes, and the minister said it was a fine thing to be college bred. That evening little James, who had been an interested listener, said, "Papa, what did Mr. Brown mean by college bred?"

"Oh, that," said papa, who had been looking over his son's bills, "is a four years' loaf!"—Exchange.

WAR NEWS

and Paris this morning. The Crown Prince is sending his best regiments against the fortified hill positions without counting cost, and French legions are fighting back desperately, organizing new assaults in retaliation.

The German War Office announced the recapture of the Haudromont quarries, west of the village of Douaumont and northeast of the village of Bras, as well as the taking of trenches southwest and south of Fort Douaumont.

On the west bank of the Meuse there was a lull in the German attack, but the artillery keeps up a constant bombardment. The Germans say they have repelled several French counter-attacks against the village of Cumieres.

ERNEST T. HAND, JR., WINS TEXTILE SCHOOL SCHOLARSHIP

At the annual commencement of the Philadelphia Textile School held in the Broad Street Theatre, Philadelphia, yesterday, it was announced that Ernest T. Hand, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Hand, of Netherwood avenue, had been awarded a three years' scolarship for the best general average in the first year class. The honor was declared to be all the more unusual because the winner is the youngest student in a class of seventy.

Mr. Hand was graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class of 1915 and his wonderful showing at the Textile School not only reflects credit on himself but also on the thorough teaching method in the local institution. The young Plainfielder began a general course in the Philadelphia School and will continue this with the scholarship awarded him. The Philadelphia Textile School is one of the largest and best known of the kind in the country and at the exercises yesterday there were many former graduates present who are now listed among the wealthiest textile manufacturers in America.

Available "Places to "Live" Have An Unfailing Interest for Most "People!"

The great majority of families are not "tied down," nor "tied up" to one particular place to live. "To move," now and then, is the privilege of renters—and their OPPORTUNITY!

The classified ads are of the most direct and practical USEFULNESS to all renters.

VISION OF THE CAPITAL.

Wonderful Foresight of Washington, Jefferson and L'Enfant.

Some time after the preliminary surveys for the future site of the city of Washington by L'Enfant, Washington and Jefferson arrived in Georgetown, staying for several days at the old Suters tavern. Each day, in company with Major L'Enfant, they rode over the country in order that every phase of the topography might be studied with relation to the great work they had in their minds. How splendid it is to think that we had a Washington and a Jefferson at such a moment! With their great vision, their knowledge of the past, their hope for the future, they looked out upon the wide Potomac and the woods and fields and saw the future capital rise like a mirage before their eyes.

That hill, which was later to be crowned by the dome of the capitol, seemed to L'Enfant to be like "a pedestal waiting for a monument." The gentle eminence from which the wide plain sloped down to the Potomac was marked for the site of the "president's palace," not only that it would be distant from the halls of congress nor yet that it might be approached by the "grand magnificent avenue" to be called Pennsylvania, but that, above all, it might forever look out over the broad expanse of the Potomac, with the far hillside rising as though to wall out the scene from desecration.

It was one of the splendid moments in the life of the new republic. Unhampered by years of haphazard development, by centuries of unforeseeable mistakes, by the power of vested interests, by the rapacity of private citizens, a nation's capital was to be planned and built, such a capital as the world had never seen. It was to be as spacious as the dream of democracy. As dignified as the spirit of the men who had founded it. As beautiful as the vision of freedom out of which it had been born.—Charles H. Whitaker in New York Times.

FREAKS OF A GENIUS.

The Man Who Smashed Glasses In a London Tavern.

One day a bulky, tall, pale faced gentleman with bushy, restless eyebrows entered a London tavern. The waiter did not ask him for his order, but immediately brought him a plate of bread and cheese and a glass of ale. Having consumed his lunch, the guest sat upright in his chair for awhile, leaning his hands on a heavy walking cane and staring blankly at the opposite wall as if in a dream.

Of a sudden he gave a start. He seized the empty glass and dashed it to the floor with all his might, smashing it to atoms. He then reflected for a moment, laid a coin on the table, got up and left the inn without a word to any one.

After his departure another guest had the curiosity to ask the waiter whether the gentleman who had just gone out was not wrong in his head. Quoth the waiter:

"Oh, no, sir! That's nothink unusual with 'im, sir. 'Ee's broke maybe a 'undred glasses since 'e's been a-comin' to this 'ouse. 'E don't seem to know it when 'e does it. 'E just gits a-thinkin' and seems to git hangry at somethink e's thinkin' about. It's the great Lord Macaulay, sir."—St. James' Gazette.

What Love Is.

Love is a journey into a new country, and, like any other journey, its length depends entirely on what the country has to show. There should be woods with silent undergrowth, where comfort lives; bright rivers of vitality, clean cities, built on foundations of fine tradition and splendid with the towers of learning and religion; green fields, where simple thought and senses play like young cattle, and mountains so high that as one climbs one breathes quickening air not known to ordinary men—so high that by day the earth lies clear beneath like an open map, and by night the stars are just beyond arms' length above. In such a country a man can live forever.—Rebecca West in New Republic.

A Museum Sensation.

There was a sensational incident in the British museum on Feb. 7, 1845—the disastrous attack by a visitor on the priceless Barberini vase, belonging to the Duke of Portland. As there was no law then for the punishment of such an act of vandalism, a fine of £5 (the value of the glass case) could only be imposed. But it led to the passing of an act for the protection of works of art from similar danger.—London Standard.

Man and the Mouse.

Did you ever see a mouse in a revolving cylindrical trap trying to climb up what it thought was an endless wire ladder? Well, that is a picture of man in the universe, and, like the mouse, it is his own active desire that keeps the whirling cylinder forever in motion.—New York Sun.

Easily Explained.

"Jones has been made manager of his company. How do you account for his good luck?"

"I don't know, but I presume the fact that he's been working eighteen hours a day for several years has had something to do with it."—Toledo Blade.

Wrong Diagnosis.

"Get my kit quick," excitedly boomed the doctor. "Some fellow telephones in a dying voice that he can't live without me."

"Just a moment," interposed his wife. "That call is for daughter, dear."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

STATE GATHERING OF KING'S DAUGHTERS

Large Representation From Plainfield at Annual Meeting in Elizabeth.

A large delegation of members from this city was in attendance at the fourth anaual gathering of the New Jersey State Association of King's Daughters and Sons, which began in the Park M. E. church at Elizabeth yesterday. Sessions were held morning, afternoon and evening, and wound up today with the election of officers and other important business matters. The fifth annual meeting will be held in Atlantic City in October, 1917, an invitation from that Union to this effect was accepted. October was selected as the month, although heretofore the conventions have been held in May.

Inn addition to the receiving of a large number of reports there were many addresses given by many King's Daughters, prominent in State work. One of the most important of these was delivered by Mrs. J. Leonard Wallace, State secretary, who spoke on "Leaders' Conferences," pointing out how much better work can be accomplished by circles when the members act in perfect unison with the leader. Another important address was made by Miss C. T. Strong, a member of the Central Union of New York, who spoke on "The King's Daughters' Cross." Here theme was "What it means to wear the little silver emblem," the same thought which was the most important one at the recent International King's Daughters' Convention held at Burlingon, Ia. Miss Strong gave a full and interesting account of the doings at this gathering, she having been sent as a delegate from New York.

The Plainfield City Union was represented at the meetings yesterday by the president, Mrs. J. A. Peterkin, and the following: Vice-president, Mrs A. E. Faber, Jr; treasurer, Mrs. A. M. Most; member of the executive committee of State board, Mrs. W. C. Hubbard; trustee, Mrs. F. W. Jones; Mrs. Charles Steiner, Mrs Allen Laing, Miss Ethel Most, Miss Holmes and Mrs. John Van Vliet.

GARDEN PARTY WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Proceeds From Affair Will Be Used to Educate Young Girl.

The unusual worthiness of an effort on the part of Plainfield women to raise a sufficient amount of money that a local girl might be given a busines college education to support herself, her mother and brothers and sisters, met with unusual success yesterday afternoon when a garden party for the purpose was conducted at "Wynwood," the home of Mrs. Thomas R. Van Boskerck, 1332 Prospect avenue. An attendance really larger than was anticipated was present and the generous patronage accorded every attraction resulted in a net profit of $200. This amount will be sufficient to give the deserving young woman the groundwork education for a fitting business career commensurate with the services she will be able to render.

For the most part the weather was ideal for an outdoor party and despite the heavy shower which broke early in the afternoon no one seemed to be kept away. While there were many original features to attract both young and old, the most popular pastime of the party proved to be a drove of cute little ponies intended for the especial use of the children. The little animals were kept busy the entire afternoon affording rides and drives all about the premises with a resultant influx of nickles and dimes to the committee in charge. The ponies were donated for the occasion by Mrs. J. B. King, who supervised their rental.

There were numerous other diversions in charge of the following: Mrs. L. B. Alling, general chairman; Mrs. H. K. Tetsuka and Miss Tennant, toys and surprise tulip garden, assisted by Miss Tutsuka and six girls; Mrs. W. B. Alling and Mrs. J. R. Evans, cake table; Mrs. Frank O. Herring and Miss Martin, flower table; Mrs. John B. Dumont, bird stick table; Mrs. Henry C. Irons, hat and garden accessories; Mrs. Frank C. Ard and Mrs. Bond Thomas, flower vases; Mrs John Tenney, Jr., baloons; Mrs. Arthur L. Otterson, Mrs. William S. Tyler, Mrs. Howard A. Colby, Mrs. Frederick W. Goddard and Mrs. William G. Cook, tea tables.

STRANGER ARRESTED ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Charged with a serious offense by the police of North Plainfield, Frank Nelson, a well-dressed white man, giving his age as thirty-nine, is being held a prisoner in the borough lockup awaiting the outcome of an investigation now in progress. He was taken into custody in the rear of Hand's express and storage plant on Somerset street this morning by Patrolman Swoody.

CHURCH WOMEN GIVE SUCCESSFUL EUCHRE

Delightful Affair Attracted Many People to St. Joseph's Hall Last Evening.

The euchre and "500" party given in St. Joseph's Hall last night, under the auspices of the women of St. Joseph's church, proved to be the most successful social affair ever conducted by any of the borough church's organizations. Over five hundred persons attended and the larger portion of this number played. To accommodate all of the latter one hundred and ten tables were necessary. Handsome and useful prizes were awarded at each table to the winners, the entire collection being exhibited beforehand on the spacious stage. Included in the number were cut glass, bric-a-brac, paintings, household furnishings, and women's and men's articles of wear.

Allen Squier's orchestra dispensed musical selections during the evening, while a large committee of women served refreshments. The refreshment committee consisted of Mrs. Catherine Ryan, Mrs. Cormick McDonough, Mrs. Annie Bennett, Mrs. John Carney, Mrs. J. J. Stahl, Mrs. John Whalen. R. A. Boice and Thomas Meaney presided at the door. The prize committee consisted of Mrs. J. E. Bailey, Mrs. A. E. Kenney, Miss Mary Jacot and Miss Catherine Conshay. Beside those mentioned a committee of seventy-five women assisted in the general arrangements. After the playing concluded a social time was enjoyed until midnight.

Cremation In Ancient Greece.

Cremation obtained among many ancient peoples. Especially did the Greeks find spiritual grandeur in the concept of the soul arising from the ashes of the dead—the natural body—into the empyrean, to dwell thenceforth with the stars. Cremation was, indeed, an honor denied the bodies of suicides, those who had been struck by lightning and others deemed to have forfeited the favor of the gods.—Scientific American.

A WONDERFUL CONVENTION.

Only within recent years has it been possible to have the country's largest city, concerned busily with big affairs, pause in its rush and hurry long enough to take a surprised, wondering survey of a convention of thousands of women gathered for one purpose from all parts of the land. It is only within recent years that it has been possible to get together for any single purpose such a wonderful concourse of women.

The convention of the thousands of delegates and visitors to the General Federation of Women's Clubs is not the only large sign of the advancement of women. It is only one of the many indications and not the greatest. New York is surprised at the quality of the convention and honestly admits the astonishment.

Whether the conservatives like it or not, the women of the world are moving into the strenuous places in world affairs, taking positions alongside men, talking sex, of course, but in the act forgetting sex.

The war, among other active causes, has given women the opportunity to set forward their movement and to establish a new identity for individual women. The sex has left its old position, never to return to it— the world never moves backward—and in spite of the innocent ignorance of many has not yet found a new social spot to put its feet down.

The convention in New York, with its 3,000 delegates and 20,000 visitors, is a compliment to the organizing talents of women higher than any of the most enthusiastic feminist ever put into words. Only those who have labored over the details of arrangement for an ordinary convention are able to properly appreciate what the women have done in this case.

But women who have made their way in the learned professions, who have matched their brains against the best brains of the ruling sex in business, in the sciences, would be expected to show executive capacity of the same order. It is not the mere shifting views of women as a sex that is worrying the standpatters of the conservative class, but the fact that women are actually forging their way to the front as competitors of men.

Great as has been the military spectacle of the last two years in Europe, the picture presented by the women of the warring countries in taking over the useful labor is more inspiring, except to those whose highest ideal is human slaughter. Without the effective work done by the women of Europe the war could not have been prolonged to the present.

But the shadow that disturbs the few but delights the many is the large fact that women have demonstrated their fitness to be men's economic and political peers. For only the most insanely partisan would deny that what the women of Europe have done in time of war they could do just as well in time of peace. And if the women of the warring countries could support the civil life during the stress of military campaigns they could do so much easier in peace when governmental machinery would be operating in their behalf.

The almost phenomenal gathering in New York, with its display of organizing skill, is only one incident of the world-wide progress made by women in all things.

AN UNUSUAL SUIT.

An echo of the Bacharach-Richards dispute over the Congressional nomination in the Second District last year, has recently been heard in the Supreme Court Circuit at Newark, before Judge Dungan and a jury. Former Attorney General Robert H. McCarter brought suit against Richards to recover $450 for his services as counsel in the attempt to have Bacharach's nominating petition thrown out because it had not been filed in time with the Secretary of State.

The effort failed and Bacharach was nominated and elected. The defense put up was that the charge was excessive for three days' services, though the former Attorney General was called home from his vacation in New England to take charge of the case. As the Trenton Times says, there would probably have been no dispute over the fairness of the charge, if Richards had won.

It is usually the experience that political promises and obligations are forgotten or repudiated as soon as the election has been decided. That has been the case when attempts have been made to prosecute ballotbox stuffers, repeaters and other election crooks, but it is a novelty for a candidate—and a lawyer—to question the claim made by another member of the bar for legal services rendered and to compel proceedings in court in order to recover payment.

The Public Service Corporation by advertising the advantages gained by the International Motor Truck Works since they started using the company's power, is advertising Plainfield at the same time it advertises itself. Using big space in last night's Daily Press appeared an announcement, with a picture of the Saurer Works of this city, and the same advertisement has been inserted in newspapers all over North Jersey. It shows manufacturers elsewhere that we have large industrial plants in this city, and may be the means of attracting others here.

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

The Phrenologist.

I went to a phrenologist
And had him rub my head;
He felt it over carefully,
And this is what he said:
"Combativeness is your main point,
That is as sure as sin."
He'd found the bump where I'd been hit
With our good rolling pin.

"You're happy, gay and well content,
But morbid, glum and sad;
You're hale and hearty, never sick,
Although your health is bad.
You're lucky as an old horseshoe,
But still unfortunate;
You'll live till ninety, but you may Pass out at thirty-eight."

Thus spoke the grave phrenologist,
And with the greatest ease
He very kindly shook my hand
And said: "Five dollars, please."
I said: "You're welcome to it all,
I've had my money's worth;
I'll start a fake bump shop myself,
And soon own half the earth."

WAITING FOR CUSTOMERS

--Astor Theatre--

If you had married the most beautiful girl that you had ever seen in all your life, after a romantic courtship in which you never stopped to ask her who she was or where she had come from, and if, after you had married only a short time, every bit of evidence that you could find pointed to the fact that she had betrayed you and stolen war plans with which you had been entrusted for a foreign spy—would you believe her guilty? That is the situation in "Diplomacy," the adaptation of the great Sardou drama in which Marie Doro is being starred by the Famous Players—Charles Frohman company on the Paramount program. It is the attraction at the Astor Theatre today. This is not the first time that the exquisite Miss Doro has played the role of the mysterious Dora, for she co-starred with William Gillette and Blanche Bates in the celebrated revival of the play at the Empire Theatre last year, when she was declared to be the star of all stars in the production. "Diplomacy" is a magnificent picturization of Sardou's international drama, and must be seen to be appreciated. Tomorrow we will show the most timely topic of the day, "On the Mexican Border," which is both entertaining and thrilling; it is a dramatic story of the boundary that is full of adventure and fascination. The unscrupulous and treacherous Mexican, whose wanton and cowardly crimes have forced the invasion of Mexico by our troops, is here shown in realism, together with the daring courage of the American frontiersman. Both Mexicans are shot and badly wounded in the fight which follows. Ralph and the Indian seize the Mexicans' horses and race to save the daughter and her lover, arriving just in time, but the battle is going against them when the engineer's employe with a club arrives on the scene. It proves more efficient than revolvers, and the culprits are placed in the hands of the law. "On the Mexican Border" has not only a vast number of dramatic and exciting situations, but also a number of comedy scenes that are not only brilliant but uproariously laughable. With "The Girl and the Game," fifth episode, this will make an excellent bill for Saturday. Starting Saturday, June 7, the first episode of "Who's Guilty?"

Ralph Jennings at Proctor's Today.

.· Plainfield Theatre.·.

The new bill opening at the Plainfield Theatre yesterday proved to be one of the best Manager Shannon has had in several months, and audiences both afternoon and night were more than pleased. Coakley, McBride and Carroll, the popular trio, presenting their latest comedy song and dance novelty, "The Town Hall Minstrels," registered an emphatic hit. Their number is full of action and encores are frequent throughout. The headline act was supplemented by a varied program composed of the Althea Twins, singing and dancing acrobats; Paul Allen, a singer of songs of the day; Russell and company in the humorous sketch entitled "Mr. Pipp;" Sammy Burke and Broderick Lillian, "The Lilac Domino" stars, and the Flying Russells, trapeze artists. In addition to the vaudeville acts, feature pictures were shown yesterday, and today the leading film will be the fourteenth episode of "The Strange Case of Mary Page." Patrons tomorrow will enjoy the Pathe semi-weekly and several new comedies. Manager Shannon and his assistants have completed arrangements for anniversary week, which will begin next Monday. The regular bill will be enlarged to eight monster big-time acts, as well as one and two-reel comedy and dramatic pictures.

- Proctor's Theatre -

Dustin Farnum, the renowned stage and screen star, appears in a Paramount production today at Proctor's entitled "The Gentleman from Indiana," the story which made Booth Tarkington famous, and one that is widely read by both the young and old folks. This story offers wonderful opportunity for filming, and Director Frank Lloyd has taken advantage of this fact and has produced as interesting and delightful a five-part feature as any seen here this season. Dustin Farnum, of course, gives his usual good performance, and especial mention should be made of Herbert Standing, who appears in the role of Joe Fisbee, the drunkard, whom Harkless reformed. The supporting cast is a strong one. There are a number of big mob scenes in this picture, one of which ends in the burning of a village following a hand-to-hand battle. In addition today the management provides a three-part L-KO comedy entitled "For the Love of Mike and Rosie," which is guaranteed to be one of the most laugh-provoking creations ever produced. Tomorrow's dramatic feature is the Metro offering "The Soul Market," with Olga Petrova in the stellar role. Madame Petrova has a congenial and appealing role in this story of the stage, and she easily dominates the picture, and gives an impersonation which holds attention throughout. The sets utilized in this production are rich and gorgeous and furnish exceedingly attractive backgrounds for this intensely interesting screen narrative. Another L-KO comedy is also presented tomorrow entitled "Scars and Stripes Forever," which will vie with its predecessor in furnishing an abundance of hilarity. On Monday little Marguerite Clark will appear in one of her most charming characterizations, "The Prince and the Pauper," which will prove a delight for both the young and the old folks, and parents are urged to bring the little ones to see little Marguerite in the famous picturization. On Tuesday and Wednesday Charlie Chaplin will appear in his latest comedy, "Police! Police!" presented in three uproarious parts, and show Charlie at his best. This is positively the first time that this comedy will be shown in this section of the State.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

COLUMBIA THEATRE.

The all-summer production of burlesque at the Columbia Theatre, New York, has made one of those solid successes that means packed houses until the opening of the fall season. "Hello, New York!" the new burlesque, in two acts and nineteen scenes, is a production that includes everything in the category of bright, lively and mirthful entertainment, and it has certainly taken New York by storm, a fact that is demonstrated in the literally enormous audiences that were drawn to the Columbia during the first week. The daily newspapers, without exception, have bestowed unmeasured praise upon the show. Following are some brief extracts that cannot fail to be of interest to all who contemplate visiting New York within the next few weeks:

"Plenty of gayety."—World.

"Amused the audience excessively."—Herald.

"No production the Columbia has ever housed was ever as satisfying as this one."—Times.

"One of the cleanest entertainments of its class that has visited New York."—Telegraph.

"Full of wonderful surprises"—Evening World.

"More snap and ginger than two or three ordinary musical comedies."—Evening Sun.

"Should enjoy a long summer of prosperity."—Sun.

"A round of laughs."—Press.

"Bristles with life and movement."—Telegram.

"One of the speediest musical revues the metropolis has had in some time."—American.

"Should keep the Columbia Theatre crowded for many weeks."—Journal of Commerce.

"Lively choruses, clever comedians, bright lines, exceedingly effective scenery."—Globe.

"A big success, a gem."—Journal.

"Columbia has a hit."—Mail.

The company is headed by Lew Kelly who made such a remarkable success at this house last summer, and he is supported by Lon Hascall, James Tenbrooke, Ernest Otto, Eileen Sheridan, Ameta Pynes, Nettie Nelson, Tom O'Brien, Charles O. Brien, Thomas Bell, Collie Lorella and Martelle, with incidental vaudeville that includes Bud Snyder and company, Four O'Brien Brothers, Pynes and McCarthy, the Great Martelle, and a one-act travesty called "The Submarine Drama." Daily matinees are given. Orders received by mail or 'phone will be given careful attention.

At the Cort Theatre, New York, John Cort is presenting a spring offering in the form of a new operetta, entitled, "Molly O'," book and lyrics by Harry B. and Robert B. Smith, music by Carl Woess, and staged by George Marion. The play is in two acts, the scene of the first being laid in Newport and that of the second in Vienna. The story concerns a title hunting mother who corrals a count for her daughter. When the count learns that he has been bought and paid for, he rebels, only to captiulate in the end when he learns that the girl really loves him for himself alone. The first act displays the scene of the wedding of Count Water. Piqued by the fact that one million dollars was the consideration involved, the count leaves his bride after the ceremony and hies away to Vienna, where, in the second act, at a ball given by art students, the two are reconciled. Opportunity is therefore given for beautiful costume display. The score by Mr. Woess includes some twenty numbers. The presentation introduces a new prima donna in the person of Katherine Hancock Galloway, and will also bring back to the legitimate stage Grace Field in one of the most important roles. The cast of principals includes Tom Lewis and John E. Young among its funmakers, and Thomas Conkey, Donald MacDonald, Mabel Josephine Harris, Dan Quinlan, Donald Crane, Rene Detling, Josie Intropidi, and many others among its singers and dancers.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

What the Moon Saw One Fine Night.

He Sat Before a Spinning Wheel.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

SOON as the children kept still daddy told them: "This is a story of what the moon saw one night when he looked down from his high place in the sky and told it to a little sleepy boy: 'Several years ago I happened to look into a poor little room in the city of Copenhagen. A father and a mother were both asleep, but their little son was wide awake. I saw the curtains around his bed flutter, and then I saw a merry little face peeping out. At first I thought he was looking at his grandfather's big clock, which had a red face and a green cuckoo sitting on top. "Tick-tack, tick-tack!" it said.

"'But what the little boy was looking at was his mother's spinning wheel, which stood under the clock. While his mother was spinning daytimes he would stand for hours watching her. But he dared not touch the wheel, because every time he did he always got a rap upon his knuckles. But now his father and mother were sound asleep. He looked at them to make sure, and he looked at the spinning wheel. He could almost hear it whizzing. Then he put one bare little foot out of bed and then another, and soon two legs followed the feet. Bump! there he stood upon the floor. He looked once more at his parents to make sure they were fast asleep, and then in his little white nightgown he softly stole over to the wheel and began to spin. The cord flew off the wheel, and it went faster and faster. He was a pretty picture sitting there in my moonbeams, and I kissed him on his yellow hair and blue eyes.

"'Just then his mother awoke. She pulled the curtains of her bed aside and looked out. She thought she saw a brownie or something sitting at her spinning wheel. "Wake up!" she cried to her husband.

"'He woke up, rubbed his eyes and looked at the busy little boy. "Why, it's our Bertel!" he said, going to sleep again.

"'Now, all this happened years ago. But yesterday I was looking down a beautiful river in Rome, and I saw a big boat coming with blazing torches all lit in it. More boats followed it, and there was a sound of music and singing. It was some kind of a festival. Soon I saw that in the first boat was the figure of a huge man with flowing white hair and blue eyes. He was wrapped in a greatcoat, but I soon saw he was only a statue. Then a cloud went over my face, and when it passed I saw again a poor little room in Copenhagen, with a little blue eyed boy sitting in my moonlight before a spinning wheel. The boat turned in the river and headed for a great temple, and all the people making festival shouted: "Hurrah! Hurrah for Bertel Thorwaldsen!"

"'Then I knew that the little boy who liked to spin had grown to be one of the greatest sculptors the world has ever known,' the moon finished his story."

Marrying a Butterfly

MRS. EVA LEONARD

The Gordons' Picnic Party Does Not Bid Fair to Be a Joyous Event.

When Ralph Gordon drove up to his home in a light buggy Ethel was sitting on the porch in a dainty lace trimmed dress.

"Hello, Ethel," he called. "Pack your lunch and we'll be off to the woods." He sprang out and ran up the walk. "I called up the livery and asked what they would charge for a horse and buggy to take us to the woods, and they named a sum so reasonable that I decided we could afford it, and I knew it would do you good to get out of doors. You do not have enough fresh air. It is a shame when the weather is so beautiful."

Ethel rose languidly. "Won't we feel awfully conspicuous in a buggy?" she asked. "No one rides in a buggy nowadays."

Ralph dropped his arms in despair. "As we live on the edge of town we won't have to run much of a gauntlet of criticism," he answered, trying not to show his irritation. "There is no taxi to be had here, and we could not afford to hire one if there was."

"To think of living in a place where there is no taxi," complained Ethel.

"Well, are you going or not?" queried Ralph.

"Oh, I suppose so, since you have the horse here." Ethel made it plain that she was not overjoyed at the prospect. Ralph compressed his lips and dropped into the hammock.

"What shall we take for lunch?" Ethel stood irresolutely in the door.

"Oh, anything; whatever you have. Let Julia put up a lunch while you change your dress." Ralph sat up with reviving interest.

"Change my dress," repeated Ethel.

"Yes, surely you do not want to go to the woods in gauze and lace. A picnic is no pleasure unless you are dressed to enjoy it. That would be all torn off of you before you got home."

"Oh, it is to much bother to change. I never go anywhere anyway. I may as well wear my things to the woods as to let them hang idle and go out of style." The fretfulness of the morning had not gone from Ethel's tone.

"Great Scott, Ethel. A man better stop before he begins, if he is trying to please you," exploded Ralph, pacing up and down the porch.

Ethel disappeared into the house and Ralph heard her telling the maid to put up a lunch to take to the woods. She soon appeared, her gauzy dress covered with a long silk coat and her slippers exchanged for expensive high-heeled shoes. Ralph eyed the shoes with disfavor, but said nothing. "What is the use," he thought. "If she skins them all up I'll have to buy more; that's all."

Julia soon appeared at the door with the hamper of lunch.

"All right," said Ralph cheerfully. "Now you will have a free evening, for there will be no supper to get." The maid smiled appreciatively as she handed over the basket.

"Come on," called Ralph gaily, determined to make the outing a success after all. The country was lovely in autumn dress and the warm dreamy air and drowsy fall sounds were very soothing to the tired young man's jaded nerves, for he loved the out of doors. Ethel said nothing and Ralph was too intent in his enjoyment of the scene to notice the discontented curl of the lips. Ethel was wondering what the girls in Milwaukee would say if they saw her riding down the road in a dingy livery rig.

SPORT TOPICS

NEW SUNDAY RULE AT COUNTRY CLUB

Members Want All Day Rights and the Demand Will Probably Be Met.

Meeting a demand that has presented itself forcibly in the last few years the golf meeting of the Plainfield Country Club will probably alter the rule permitting competition on the organization's links Sunday afternoons to read so that all day golf on Sundays will be permitted. This change will probably not take place until the remodeling of the links is completed, furnishing the extra nine-hole green for women. This will be ready by next spring, it is expected.

A number of golfers belonging to this club have made it a practice to use the links Sunday afternoons, but the demand for all day golf has been noticeably on the increase of late and the move, if taken, will no doubt prove a popular one.

PLAINFIELD DRIVERS IN BIG AUTO MEET

Newark, May 26.—The big automobile race meet which will be held on the Olympic Park half-mile track on Memorial Day afternoon will be the first of a series of high class meets that are scheduled for the season. Joe Jackson and Frank Frazee, of Plainfield, have entered a J. and F. Special.

The meets are being held under the auspices of the Olympic Park Auto Racing Association, an organization composed of local business men, which is an assurance to the public that everything will be first-class. All races will be held under the sanction of the American Automobile Association, the national governing body.

The entries already in hand include those of some of the fastest cars and most daring pilots in the country. Manager T. B. Shoemaker yesterday received the signed entry of Bert Watson, who finished in the money, in the big Metropolitan Cup 150-mile race on the Sheepshead Bay Speedway last Saturday. Next Tuesday at Newark, Watson will drive the same car, the J. J. R. Special, which is owned by Joseph J. Ryan, the millionaire sportsman, who is a son of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan.

Watson's entry means that there will be a speed duel between Joe Dickinson and him for the track supremacy, as Dickinson has already entered his speedy Stutz special. Last season Dickinson was the star of the Olympic Park meets, and at the present time holds the official track records at various distances. Watson's car was compelled to make better than 90 miles an hour in order to be eligible for the Sheepshead Bay race, so that it is capable of being driven much faster than the half-mile track will stand. This, then, brings the question of supremacy down to the ability of the drivers to negotiate the turns on the track and get all the speed possible out of their machines.

Several special Fords are being prepared for the small car class races and handicaps, the latest entries in this division being Bert Duryea, of Plainfield, and Dave Hall, of this city.

Thousands of dollars have been spent in putting the track and the big grandstand in first-class condition for the race meet, and a record-breaking crowd is assured. An innovation introduced by the management for the first time provides for the parking of automobiles in the infield in a favorable position along the finish stretch.

In response to the request of many out of town motorists who will make the trip to the park in their own cars, Manager Shoemaker will start the first race early in the afternoon, so that the visitors may have ample time to attend the anniversary pageant which starts Memorial Day night.

First Baptist vs. Hope Chapel (Parker Field).

Baseball will be plentiful in and about Plainfield tomorrow and Decoration Day, the City League alone having nine games to decide during this period. Tomorrow afternoon the Netherwood champs, with a clean slate of four games to their credit, will take on the strong T. A. B. outfit. Followers of the latter combine are firm in their belief that the league leader's colors will be lowered for the first time this year, and all interested in the circuit are willing to admit that the East Enders will have a hard proposition to battle with.

With a rejuvenated lineup, the Clinton Avenue team, now holding down the cellar berth with four straight reverses, will stack up against the First Baptist clan, second place holders. This will be another interesting fight, and it is predicted that the Clintons will yank themselves out of last place. The other match will be played between the Hopes and Farmers, the Baptist field being used for the occasion, inasmuch as the Hopes will be without a home field for a week or more.

Plenty of opportunity presents itself for a big shakeup over the week-end, and it is certain that the standing will not be the same when Wednesday morning rolls around. All of the teams have settled down for the season's race and the fighting in the future will be a good deal more keener than it has been to date.

WHICH IS THE BETTER EAST OR WEST END?

Tabs Will Stage Preliminary Fight to Decide This Sunday Afternoon.

On Sunday afternoon the strong Clinton Avenue team, of the City League, will clash with Jim Scott's fast-going T. A. B. S. nine on Avon Park. Both teams will present their strongest line-ups, several additions to both teams making their first appearance of the season before the fans.

Warry McLaughlin is expected to do the hurling for the Clinton Avenue boys, with Bergen on the receiving end. Dick Lawton, the cub twirler of the Abstainers' staff, with Teeling receiving him, will endeavor to administer the same dose he gave the Netherwoods last week. Although an extra large crowd turned out last Sunday an even larger attendance is expected this week. The game will start at 3:30.

NEW YORK BANKERS WILL SHOOT ON LOCAL RANGE

Ten employes of the Irving National Bank, New York city, will be the guests of the Climax Gun Club on the local range tomorrow afternoon. The Gothamites are planning to attend the Plattsburg military camp this summer and a majority of them have never before handled a gun. The shoot tomorrow will be in the nature of a "Preparedness" event and members of the organization are urged to be on hand so that they may act as instructors for the visitors.

543 ACRES FOR GOLF.

The bid of Massapequa Golf, Inc., for the lease of 543 acres of city property, adjoining the 562 acres recently purchased by the company for the development of the New York Golf Park, was granted yesterday by the City Controller. There was no competition. The lease is for a period of ten years. This gives the concern control of 1,105 acres, which is 262 acres more than are in Central Park, 571 acres more than are in Prospect Park, and 386 more than in Bronx Park.

COUNTRY CLUB TENNIS DOUBLES TOURNAMENT

Will Open Saturday—Planning for Night Play by Electric Light.

The lawn tennis competition season at the Plainfield Country Club will begin Saturday, with a doubles tournament. Entries may be made to any member of the tennis committee up to 8:30 tonight.

Contract has been made for the installation of electric lighting on one of the courts of the Plainfield Country Club. The work will be done as rapidly as possible, and it is expected to begin play on this lighted court within ten days. The court nearest the clubhouse has been selected for this purpose, and this will permit members watching matches from the terrace overlooking the court and also from the club piazza.

BIG SUNDAY GAME ON AVON DIAMOND

Tabs and Clinton Avenues Will Present Strongest Lineups for Contest.

Sunday afternoon on Avon Park, at 1 o'clock, the T. A. B. S. will decide which is the better part of town——the East or the West End. Alec MacDonald manages for the West Enders, and judging from his conversation around the club, he thinks the West Enders will make good.

Michael Montferrant will do the headwork for the Easterns, and he expects to do much. Each manager wants all his men to be on the field promptly at 1 o'clock, as there is another game scheduled for 3:30.

The lineup:

East—J. Gleason, c; D. Keegan, p; J. Force, 1b; P. Snyder, 2b; J. Roche, 3b; J. Carney, ss; J. Ramsey, lf; Montferrant, cf; F. Force, rf.

SOME SPICY SPORT CHATS

Dillon Too Small For Willard; Should Seek Moran.

BATTLE WOULD BE HUMMER

Owner Dunn of Cleveland Says Speaker Is Costliest Player—Looks as if It's Curtains For Lajoie After This Season—Other Notes.

Jack Dillon, the Indianapolis light-heavyweight, once more lifts his voice to remark that he has a contract to fight Jess Willard and intends to force the champion to go through with it.

Jack breaks the world's record for gameness if his insistence is on the level, for, as matters have shaped up regarding Willard, Dillon has less chance to fill the champion's shoes than a baby's head has to fill Benny Kauff's hat.

So forget it, Jack.

Now, if it were Moran whom Dillon desired to meet the situation would be altered. Moran is not so gigantic as Willard, although he's some baby boy himself. Dillon would be conceding him only thirty pounds, whereas Willard would be receiving something over ninety pounds in tonnage if he opposed Jack.

Dillon would not have much chance to hit Willard unless he mounted a couple of gas engines on either foot. Jack is fast, clever, game and strong. Moran might be in danger from this boy.

Owner Dunn of the Cleveland team is a new man in baseball, and things that he gives vent to must not always be taken seriously. He made a statement in Cincinnati recently that Tris Speaker had cost the Cleveland club more money than Comiskey paid for Eddie Collins and more than Ruppert and Huston paid for Frank Baker.

That may be true as far as Baker is concerned, but it hardly goes for the Collins deal, for it is reliably reported that Sir Charles Comiskey dug down in his jeans to the extent of $50,000 before the genial Mr. Mack would part with his greatest ball player. Now, Speaker could not expect to bring that much money, for Collins probably has many years more to play than the former center fielder of the Red Sox.

While no one can venture to predict when Hans Wagner of the Pittsburgh Pirates will play his last ball game, it is a pretty good guess that Nap Lajoie of the Philadelphia Americans will retire after the coming season, for his $9,000 contract will expire at the end of the 1916 campaign, and he will not be likely to accept a cut or take the management of some minor league club.

Lajoie is a player who has enjoyed a big salary for a long period of years. He has managed his income well and probably is better fixed than any other player now in harness.

Wagner, too, is a wealthy man, and it is doubtful if Lajoie has drawn more than Hans in the past ten years or so. But Hans is a more agile player than Larry, and there is no telling how many more years the Flying Dutchman will be cavorting around the Pittsburgh diamond.

The threatened suit of the Baltimore Fed league club has been filed. Organized baseball men are not disturbed by the suit.

Furthermore, the amount of the damages named as having been incurred by the Baltimore club is charged to be more money than the Baltimore club's receipts ever amounted to in its history. When the books of the concern are produced in court some very interesting facts will be brought to light.

ENDORSE NEW NAME FOR PARK GOLF CLUB

Borough Organization Will in the Future Be Known as the Hydewood Golf Club.

As exclusively told in the Daily Press of Wednesday, a meeting of the members of the Park Golf Club was held last night in the North Plainfield headquarters for the purpose of changing the name of the organization to Hydewood Golf Club. The move was made unanimously and the change will serve to do away with the confusion that has previously existed between the Park Club and Park Golf Club, both borough bodies. At the same time the new name will honor Louis K. Hyde, one of the club's most ardent supporters.

Since the Park Golf Club was founded, Mr. Hyde has been a leading spirit in all of its activities and the suggestion that the club be renamed in his honor was a popular one with the members.

It was also voted last night to reduce the number of committees from seven to five and the following classes were agreed upon: Sports (golf, tennis and caddies); grounds (links and tennis courts); house, membership and nominating. The financial end will be taken in charge by the trustees.

The official schedule, which was published in the Daily Press, Wednesday, will open tomorrow afternoon. A busy season is anticipated on both the greens and tennis courts, and many fine trophies have been donated as an incentive to keen competition.

POSTAL GUIDES NOW OFFERED TO PUBLIC

Book Contains All Necessary Information Concerning the Postal Service.

Better knowledge of postal conditions and requirements on the part of the public means improved service rendered by postal employes. It is the desire of the Postmaster General that copies of the Official Postal Guide be in the possession of all business houses. The Guide has heretofore been sold for $3.50 each, but is now offered for 40 cents with cloth covers and 30 cents with paper covers. The Guide contains instructions to postal employes, ruling of the department, lists of all postoffices arranged alphabetically, also by States and counties, discontinued postoffices, and postmasters' salaries, and other information all should know.

The Guides will be ready for distribution at the end of July. Orders with remittances should be sent to Distributing Clerk, Postoffice Department, Washington, D. C.

The Postal Savings Department may now accept deposits to the amount of $1,000 at one time, the prohibition to accept more than $100 per month having been removed. The attention of the public is called to the advantage of having a slot in the door for the receipt of mail, or the providing of a suitable receptacle for mail delivered by carriers. The Postmaster estimates the time necessary to deliver mail would be reduced one-half hour on each delivery if receptacles for mail were provided, and as especial attention to prompt and early delivery is now being given, the co-operation of the public is desired.

JAPS PLAN BIG BANK.

San Francisco, May 26.—The formation of a heavily-capitalized trust company controlled, financed and maintained for the benefit of Japanese, and the adoption of a comprehensive system of marketing for Japanese farmers, will probably result from an investigation made along the Coast by the Japanese Chamber of Commerce. The Japanese of this section claim their principal difficulties are in finance and marketing. Thirty thousand, approximately half of the Japanese in California, are dependent upon the land for a livelihood. A census taken by Japanese experts shows that about 1 per cent. are land owners, 10 per cent work farms under a lease or on shares, and the remainder work for these. It is estimated that 250,000 acres of land is under cultivation by Japanese in this State.

MISS WILDEY ONE STEP NEARER TITLE

With Partner She Advances to Third Round at Pelham Club.

Miss Edna Wildey, of Plainfield, and Mrs. Edward Raymond advanced one step nearer the women's doubles tennis title at the Pelham Country Club yesterday afternoon by defeating Miss Ina Kissel and Miss Helen Alexander, 5-7, 6-1 and 8-6 in the third round of play.

One of the prominent figures of the tournament, Miss Martha Guthrie, of Pittsburgh, who was runner up for the Metropolitan championship, was eliminated in the third round, Mrs. Edward Raymond winning by the one-sided score of 6-2, 6-0. The chop stroke of the Pittsburgh contestant held no terrors for the experience of Mrs. Raymond, who outguessed her rival at every turn and won with smashing passing strokes down the lines and to the corners.

The other interesting match was that in which Miss Molla Bjurstedt was pitted against Miss Marie Wagner. Heretofore Miss Wagner has been prone to lose the effectiveness of her play when opposed by the champion. There was another story to be told after yesterday's match, even though Miss Bjurstedt did gain the victory. Miss Wagner was in excellent stroke, and for a time it seemed that she might wrest at least one set from her rival. Miss Bjurstedt won, however, at 10-8, 6-2, but the score of the first set probably records the longest and hardest fought competition for the Norwegian in many a day.

POSTOFFICE LOBBY EXISTS, IS CHARGE

Effort Being Made to Expose Its Members.

Washington, May 26.—Action to expose the postmasters' lobby to defeat an important senate amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill is being pressed in both houses of congress. A few days ago Representative Good of Iowa, a Republican, introduced a resolution charging that the propaganda arose through orders issued by Postmaster General Burleson to postmasters all over the country asking them to flood their senators with letters of protest.

Mr. Good's resolution called for an investigation by a select committee of the house, and he said today that Republican members of the committee on rules would try to force a favorable report. If that fails Mr. Good at the end of five days will call up his resolution by privileged motion.

In the senate things have gone even further. Senator Bankhead of Alabama, chairman of the committee on postoffice and postroads, wrote to the postmaster general asking him to direct Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Blakslee to appear before his committee on Saturday to explain the orders. While Mr. Blakslee is not believed to have acted without instructions from his superior, it is understood that he was immediately responsible.

Mr. Bankhead's letter was written after an interesting conversation between Representative Cullop of Indiana, a Democrat, and Mr. Burleson. Mr. Cullop demanded the dismissal of Mr. Blakslee and the stopping of the propaganda. When his demand failed to produce results, he called on Mr. Bankhead. Mr. Bankhead then promptly asked that Mr. Blakslee appear before his committee.

The amendment against which the postmasters are directing their protest relates to the long disputed subject of railway pay for carrying the mails. The bill as it passed the house changed the standard from one of weight to one of space, along the lines recommended by the postmaster general. The railroads have contended that this standard would cause them unjust and serious reductions in revenue. The senate committee on postoffices and postroads reported an amendment restoring the standard of weight, but providing for a full investigation into the merits of the controversy.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

NEW JERSEY.

Conditions in New Jersey have been giving the President's friends much anxiety. Rows antedating 1912 have been revived. Rows post-dating that year have grown very ugly. Inquiries have come from democrats at a distance. Why not try some soothing syrup in the President's own State. Look at Indiana, where the Taggart organization, with Mr. Taggart in the forefront as a candidate for Senator, is bearing the administration's hallmark. Look at Illinois, where the Sullivan organization is approved, and Mr. Sullivan ready to go to St. Louis and cast the vote of the State for the President's renomination. Look at New York, where overtures are being made to Tammany to forgive and forget, and be good. Why not placate the Smith-Nugent machine, and insure its greatest activity this year?

The nudge has borne fruit. Overtures to the Jersey bosses are reported as under preparation. Patronage will be offered. Co-operation will be invited. Let the dead past bury its dead. Act in the living present, with November ahead. Will Mr. Smith and Mr. Nugent accept?

The New Jersey Senatorship is a stumbling-block. Mr. Martine wants a second term. He obtained the first through the favor of Mr. Wilson, then Governor, and over the opposition of the Smith-Nugent machine. He is still under the ban of the machine, but no longer enjoys the active favor of Mr. Wilson. If the President and the machine could agree upon a candidate for senator, much progress would probably follow.

As senator, Mr. Martine has been industrious and independent. Where able to give the administration support he has done so wholeheartedly. Where his convictions have led him into a different course he has taken it frankly and with courage. In the main he has been "a good Indian," and made himself at home on the reservation.

Although the President is not giving Mr. Martine his support for a second term, Mr. Martine is giving the President his support. The senator is in the forefront of the movement for a nomination by acclamation at St. Louis. He can see nothing but Wilson to the proposition there, and will return home to work hard for the ticket.

All in all, the New Jersey problem is the most difficult the President has yet encountered, and will test his

A SINGAPORE DISH

Ricetafel Is Not a Mere Meal; It Is a Whole Banquet.

A SORT OF CULINARY MARVEL.

It Contains About Everything From Fish to Dessert, but Its Great and Crowning Delight Seems to Be the Highly Odorous Bombay Duck.

On a trip around the world from New York, Singapore is just half way. The ships part here and flow both ways. Drop a letter in the postoffice for New York and it may come across the Pacific; drop another and it may cross the Atlantic.

More odds and ends of humanity are thrown together here in Singapore than in any other city in the world. Singapore is halfway between Arabia and Japan, halfway between India and China. On the street they stream past—Sikhs, Tamils, Parsees, Armenians, Arabs, Malays, Mohammedans, Filipinos, Chinese, Portuguese, Siamese, Japanese, Javanese—as if they were made up for a procession, some with no clothes and some swathed in them.

Every day at noon on the bill of fare in Singapore you find a dish called ricetafel, which will live long in my memory. It is the most fearfully and wonderfully made dish in the world. It staggers the imagination to think of what it is composed. An ordinary intellect stands appalled when it begins trying to figure out what the dish is made of. Only a Kelvin dare try to resolve it into its elements.

The first day I ordered it in a reckless, care free moment. I had never heard of it before and supposed that it was just an ordinary single dose dish, but in a few minutes I began to find out that it was a tafel of another color. An ordinary sized boy came up bearing a plate of rice and gave it to me. Hardly had the boy turned aside when another boy came up with some meat. I piled on the meat, but just as I was picking up my knife and fork a larger boy came up bearing a plate divided off into sections piled to the cargo line with spices, cinnamons and other tropical products. I looked to see if there hadn't been some mistake, but his confident manner and bearing showed plainly that I was to put them on too. I did, even though it looked as if I were going on a cruise, and had just leaned back to study the mound when another bun bearer came up. I began on his dish and worked my way around, helping myself to the more prominent articles, and after he had gone on I picked up my spoon and was just wondering which side to make my first encroachments on when another outrider came up with another dish of odds and ends. After him came others, some little and some old, some shy and some bold, the line forming at the left and rhythmically tramping by, while I threw on and rounded up until it began to look as if the mound builders had gone back into business again. After the tail of the procession had gone by, I located a favorable spot and went to work.

These are some of the actual things that were in the final draft: Rice, curried meat, mincemeat balls, fried onions, shredded onions, white onions, banana fritters, hard boiled eggs, sliced cucumbers, Chinese macaroni, peanuts, French beans, Indian chutney, cocoanut, red fish, shrimps, fried fish, fried chicken, goose liver, chili, limes and Bombay duck.

I'll take my word for it that every single one of these destroyers was in my rice tafel.

I put Bombay duck last, for I know that the other ingredients would rather not associate with it. You could readily understand their attitude if you had once tasted Bombay duck, for there is no other thing its size in the world that makes such an impression on you. It has the worst odor of anything I ever went up against, and without wishing to boast I have smelled some things that were highly praised in their line, but for hard, consistent smelling day in and day out Bombay duck has them all in the Yankee division. In comparison with it limburger cheese has a delicate perfume.

How it ever got that name is more than I know. It is really a dried fish, which, broken and powdered, lends a seasoning, but as for myself I would rather take my seasoning in some other form. Old residents and missionaries who have been in the country a long time say that after a time a person comes to be very fond of it, but personally I know that there could never be anything between us—unless it was distance. It is all that I can do to stay at the table where one of the parties is an old resident or a missionary a long time in the service.

The people in Singapore do not call ricetafel a dish. They consider it a meal. And that's what it is. It looks as if it had been meant for the noonday repast at a Woodmen log rolling. Many and many a person here has ricetafel at noon and nothing else. In fact, after eating a ricetafel there isn't room for anything else. A person then wants to crawl off and go to sleep. And that is what everybody does in the suburbs of the equator. The shops all close at noon for a couple of hours while everybody lies down and sleeps off the effect of the ricetafel.—Homer Croy in Leslie's.

4-PIECE CIRCASSIAN WALNUT BEDROOM SUITE

THERE'S something mighty attractive about this new "Adam" period design bedroom suite. It may be the design—or its neat ornamentation—or, perhaps, it's the beautifully matched flaking of the wood. But whatever it is, you will like this splendid suite the moment you see it. It is made of selected, high-class circassion walnut, richly polished, and consists of a large size plank-top effect dresser, chiffonier and triplicate mirror toilet table to match and a full size bed. RECORD ATTACKS LIQUOR INTERESTS

G. O. P. Gubernatorial Candidate Speaks at Hope Chapel on "Local Option."

TELLS OF ITS GROWTH

Declares That the Brewers See the "Handwriting on the Wall," and are Rallying their Forces throughout the State.

Under the auspices of the Men's Club of Hope chapel, George L. Record, of Jersey City, a candidate for the Republican Gubernatorial nomination, addressed a company of about fifty men at the chapel last night on the subject of "Local Option." John Slorah, as president of the club, was in charge of the meeting and G. W. V. Moy introduced Mr. Record, who gave a stirring talk, in which he attacked the brewers. He spoke of the hurried visit that National President Neil Bonner, of the liquor dealers, paid in Jersey City yesterday afternoon and referred to the presence in Jersey City of George T. Carroll, the State president, who went from Elizabeth to Jersey City to rally the liquor dealers of Hudson county against local option. In part, Mr. Record said:

"The fear of the liquor dealers at the growth of the local option sentiment, and their determination to perfect their organizations to influence the coming election is indicated by the rally of the Hudson county liquor dealers in Jersey City. They see the handwriting on the wall.

"I believe every community ought to have the right to handle its own local affairs according as the majority of the voters of the community may from time to time determine at elections. I think this is a fundamental principle, and that the wider we make its application the more rapid will be the development of civilization and of justice.

"As a practical politician of many years' experience, interested in public questions, and striving always to make politics mean the advancement of the public good, I am also interested in the principle of local option, because I think the passage of a local option law will greatly lessen the corruption of our State politics.

"Th importance of this point is not realized by the public generally. No civilization will ever perish because of robbers, or ordinary thieves, or the usual crimes. The thing that destroys liberty is privilege, that is to say, the power of the few to escape the common burden, or to direct the government in their interest, when their interest is contrary to the general interest. This is the thing that destroys government."

Toole and Reeves.

The English comedian, J. L. Toole, was a persistent joker, but on one occasion he was very nearly "hoist with his own petard." He was playing in "The Waterman" with Sims Reeves, who took the part of Tom Tug. When Toole asked, "What's the meaning of all this?" Sims Reeves yielded to an overwhelming temptation and replied, "The meaning of it is that you've been made a 'tool' of, and I'm a happy fellow!"

Toole racked his brain for a retort. "So it Sims," he said at last.

HOLD SELLER OF GERMAN NOTES

Missives Offered to British Naval Attache.

HE SUSPECTED A TRAP.

Letters From Dr. Albert's Secretary Were to Be Intrusted to Emigrant Hollander—Had Seal of Embassy. May Be Effort to Embarrass England.

New York, May 26.—The police of this city are seeking an explanation of how three letters bearing the official seal of the German embassy in Washington came into the possession of Adolph de Leeuw, a young Hollander, who for the last seven months has been in the cotton goods export business at 2 Rector street.

De Leeuw was put in a cell until he is arraigned in the Tombs police court charged with violation of the law which forbide the sale of letters without permission of their owner.

The capture of De Leeuw and his letters was due to Captain Guy Gaunt, British naval attache, to whom, the captain says, De Leeuw offered the letters for sale.

"I have been accused already by the German press," said Captain Gaunt last night, "of having trafficked in official German documents. I need not say the accusation was untrue, that such work is not my business and that I have never had a hand in it, and I certainly did not propose to be trapped if this invitation to purchase were really a ruse to catch me. As usual, I turned the matter over to the police."

The letters bearing the embassy seal were addressed to "Frau Ida Albert, Maximillian strasse, Berlin;" "Herrn K. Gallenback, Wilhelmstrasse 71, Berlin" and "Herrn Direktor Lubbert, Behrenstrasse, 21, Berlin."

Had Seal of Embassy.

The seal of the embassy was so prominent as to invite attention, and the belief was expressed by the police that the letters might have been intended for Captain Gaunt. The attache was of the same belief, as it seemed unreasonable to suppose any secret missive of the German embassy would be inclosed in such an official cover.

Two other letters included in the group Captain Gaunt says was offered to him, were addressed to "Herrn Heyman, Gothenberg, Sweden" and "Julius Pintsch, A. G., 71, 73 Andrea strasse, Berlin."

According to Captain Tuney at police headquarters, one of the letters had been opened by slitting the edge of the envelope in such a way that the seal was not disturbed. He would not admit, however, that the police had inspected this letter, so no notion of the contents of the five letters could be had.

De Leeuw, according to Captain Tunney, was quite ready to talk of the case and told this story:

He had come to this country seven months ago and obtained employment with Felix Malitz at 2 Rector street. Presently Malitz had taken him into partnership. Several weeks ago Malitz gave him the letters, asking him to deliver them to a passenger aboard a Holland-American liner which was about to sail and confiding to him that his man would in turn deliver them to an acquaintance in Holland, by whom they would be forwarded to the proper addresses. Malitz impressed on him the importance of the letters, and this fact suggested to De Leeuw the possibility of profiting by the documents. He was in financial straits and at once approached Captain Gaunt with the letters, believing they would be of value to the British intelligence bureau in this country. He asked $200 for the five.

Captain Gaunt refused to deal with De Leeuw at first, but when the latter insisted the naval attache went to the police. He was advised to get a friend to carry on negotiations with De Leeuw and obtained the co-operation of a newspaper man.

Took $200 For Letters.

A meeting was arranged with De Leeuw at the Hotel Biltmore, and when he quitted it he was followed by detectives to his home at 1286 Lexington avenue. By arrangement he afterward met Captain Gauntfs agent at the customs house, where Detective Busby of Captain Tunney's squad posed as a second British secret service agent. An appointment was made, and then, according to the police, De Leeuw turned the letters over to Captain Gaunt's agent, who handed them to Busby and paid De Leeuw $200. Busby arrested him as soon as he had taken the money.

De Leeuw's willingness to talk enabled the police to get on the trail of Malitz, and he was questioned as to his knowledge of the letters. According to Detective Barnetz, Malitz said he had been engaged in several businesses, among them the manufacture of war moving pictures, and the detective pointed out that only a man close to high German officials could have obtained permission for the making of such pictures.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.—Adv.

PEACE TALK IS PREMATURE

President Says Mediation Is Not Wanted.

ALLIES ARE CONFIDENT.

Germany Would Like to Have United States Make Overtures For Termination of War—Resolution Introduced In House Suggesting Arbitration by Belligerents.

Washington, May 26.—No offer to mediate in the European war at the present time would be opportune, President Wilson explained to callers at the White House.

To be effective, the president explained, an offer of mediation must come at a time when it is likely to be favorably considered by all the belligerents. That time, the president believes, has not yet arrived. It is said that the president may develop this idea in his address before the League to Enforce Peace, which meets here.

Although the president's attitude on the subject has been known to persons in his counsel, the direct statement coming from the president himself has added further emphasis to the hopelessness of persuading the belligerents to enter peace parleys. All the information from the entente now indicates that Germany's peace suggestions will not be entertained.

Sir Edward Grey's declaration in parliament that "peace talk is idle" is regarded in official circles as part of the entente campaign to check the pro-German peace propaganda in the United States.

Wants Wilson's Backing.

President Wilson is, of course, willing to communicate any peace proposal which Germany cares to make to the entente, but he is not willing to indorse the German proposal to the extent of advising the entente to accept or even consider it. The imperial government desires first to have the backing of President Wilson for peace proposals. Germany apparently is not willing to transmit a plea for peace through the United States or any other neutral government, but is willing to support any such plea made by a neutral government.

The reason for this, it is explained, is that Berlin fully realizes the moral effect which a German peace proposal would have on the fighting forces of her enemies. A refusal on the part of the entente would embarrass Germany at home and at the same time give added courage to the nations which are at war with the central powers.

The president is understood to have been closely following the trend of public opinion in all the belligerent countries with a view to ascertaining what peace prospects there may be.

Asks President to Act.

A resolution was introduced in the senate by Senator James Hamilton Lewis requesting President Wilson to tender peace overtures to the combatants looking toward the establishment of a board of arbitration composed of the neutral nations of the world, with the United States as referee, to bring about a speedy and lasting peace.

Each belligerent should have the privilege of choosing a neutral nation to represent it, according to the resolution. This arbitration commission should have the power to "settle upon such terms as in all the circumstances would appear equitable to all parties." Before this commission is formed it is stipulated that the warring nations "either declare a truce, withdraw their armies from the field or hold them in nonaction."

President Wilson is asked to act in this manner "unless to him such appears incompatible with the public interests of the United States."

COMPULSION BILL SIGNED.

5,041,000 Britons Have Already Enlisted Voluntarily.

London, May 26.—King George has signed the military service bill recently passed by the upper and lower houses. The king, after signing the measure which, generally speaking, means that every male Briton between eighteen and forty-one years of age henceforth must take his place in active or reserve duty in the military service, issued to the people a message in which he made public for the first time the exact figures of British enlistment since the beginning of the war.

Five million and forty-one thousand men have voluntarily enlisted.

PROF. NOYES TO ENTER WAR

Head of English Department Will Sail Monday.

Princeton, N. J., May 26. — Alfred Noyes, the British poet and professor of English at Princeton university, will sail in company with his wife for England Monday on the Neu Amsterdam, with a view to entering the war.

"I think probably I shall engage in ambulance work in England," said Professor Noyes. "If I cannot get into the regular army I want to do whatever will be of most use and go where my services will count for the most."

Christian Endeavor Convention.

Binghamton, N. Y., May 26.—The annual convention of Christian Endeavor units in this section opened in the First Presbyterian church here, with delegates present from all points in the southern states.

A Link With Earlier Ages.

Madagascar, the third largest island in the world, where the chameleons come from, is one of the most remarkable links with a former geological formation. Its fauna contains several exceptional and ancient forms of life, comprising many species known nowhere else. Even more remote, in point of age, than these are the remains of an immense bird of the ostrich tribe, whose eggs, which have also been found, are the largest known. They measure 12¼ by 9¼ inches—

Every Woman Will Want These Silk Stockings at 75c Pair

There are about 3,600 pairs in black, white and a very large range of colors; some in the mercerized tops and soles; some with silk tops and lisle soles.

One of our best hosiery manufacturers sold us his accumulation of irregulars from his $1 and $1.25 lines. We class them as "seconds" and shall sell them as such; however, the imperfection in most cases is only some slight irregularity in weave—nothing to impair the wear.

Considering present dye and silk conditions, prices advancing each day, this presents a big opportunity to lay in your supply of summer hosiery.

Another Group at 95c

These are also "seconds" but with very slight imperfections. In white, colors and some blacks.

Semi-Made Sports Skirts, $1.50

Made up from a surplus stock of imported cotton ratine in sports plaid designs of green, rose, brown and red. Three styles—patch and slashed pockets; two with shirred and belted backs; one with bias back and belt. All seams are taped.

Little trouble is required for finishing, and you have a good-looking outing skirt in time for the holiday at a very little cost—$1.50.

Coat Blouses for Sports Wear

A coat blouse of striped poplin in rose or Copenhagen, is $2.90.

Another style at $2.90 is of pongee with rose or Copenhagen collar and cuffs.

Voile Coat blouse in two becoming models at $3.25, one plain, the other striped, both of them belted.

Pongee in two different models, one trimmed with colored taffeta, $3.90.

For $1, there is a serviceable and becoming pique sports hat.

All Kinds of Silks, 58c to $1.38

They are being sold in remnants at these special prices—a quick disposal of all short lengths of silks which have accumulated here this spring. Our original prices were much higher. Practically all are double widths.

MR. MURRAY TALKS TO BIBLE STUDENTS

New Class Begins in Y. M. C. A. With a Membership of Thirty.

More than thirty young men attended the first meeting of the Bible class to be taught by W. D. Murray at the Y. M. C. A. last night, and each of them signed an agreement to attend once each week until July 1, except when prevented by sickness or absence from the city.

It is the intention of Mr. Murray to hold weekly meetings until July 1. Then the members will vote whether or not to continue during the hot months. The meeting night was changed to Monday, and the next meeting will be held Monday evening next week.

Mr. Murray's subject last night was "How We Got Our Bible," and he showed the course of original manuscripts of the Bible down to the latest American Revised edition. The lecture was extremely interesting and contained much information of value to Biblical students. Each authentic revision of the Bible brings it nearer the original, said Mr. Murray, because of the constant bringing to light of information not available to the former translators or revisors, and the new edition was prepared by scholars who had at their disposal more than 1,500 copies of manuscripts that were not known when the popular King James version was prepared.

The class is to take up the life of Christ next Monday night.

SALVATION ARMY TO USE TABERNACLE

National Officers and Band Will Be Here for Sunday Rally.

McIntyre, second in command in the United States, will have charge of the meeting, and he will bring with him a number of national officers from New York, also the National Staff Band, which has been favorably compared to Sousa's. The band also contains several vocal soloists, who will take part in the program.

The meeting will begin promptly at 3 p. m. After the musical program there will be addresses by a number of special speakers who have been miraculously converted. They are Envoy S. Reynolds White, captain, U. S. army, reserve list; Henry F. Milans, former managing editor of one of the big New York dailies; John Brokaw, formerly connected with a large New York commercial establishment, and William Walsh, formerly a railroad chief engineer.

RECREATION NOTES.

QUINLAN NOTE VOICES THREAT

Rose Pastor Says He Will Be Avenged.

PATERSON IS MENACED.

Letter to Imprisoned Socialist Leader Is Signed by Mrs. J. G. Phelps Stokes. Reprisals Promised if Judge Klenert Does Not Release Convict—"We Are Getting Ready."

Trenton, May 26.—Interception of a letter signed with the name, "Rose Pastor Stokes," to Patrick Quinlan, the Socialist leader now serving a two year term for inciting to riot, coupled with the recent letter supposed to have been sent by Quinlan to President Wilson, is accepted here as evidence of a determined effort to bring about Quinlan's release by whatever means may be necessary.

The prison authorities here have made public a copy of the letter. It never reached Quinlan, as jailers intercepted it.

Mrs. Stokes was seen at her home at 88 Grove street and acknowledged she had written the letter to Quinlan. She explained it, however, by saying that on April 13 she wrote "Pat," as she calls the prisoner, she had reason to believe she would be able to prove "grave corruption on the part of certain officials in New Jersey."

The letter read as follows:

88 Grove Street,
New York, April 13, 1916.

Dear Pat—I'm distressed beyond measure at the news of the pardons board action. It is now up to Klenert to recall and resentence you. If he does not act favorably in the matter and accord you such measure of justice as remains to the state of New Jersey to do in your behalf there will be nothing left to do but give Jersey—and Paterson in particular—the time of their lives, politically and industrially. When Mrs. Sloan comes again to see you she will tell you the plan we mean to carry into effect.

If they do not at present repent their sin of committing you to prison they shall repent before long and be sorry they waited.

I have been wanting for a long time past to go in and expose the rottenness, political and otherwise, particularly political, of those so called "public" officials, but we have hoped, of course, that they would realize the wrong they have done you. Now the time is coming to fight the devil with his own fire. And they'll get all that's coming to them, and the public in Jersey will learn so much they'll never be amenable to their manipulations in the future. We are getting ready. When we are thoroughly prepared we will do the work. If you must remain shut away you'll not stay in prison in vain.

I have just returned from a speaking tour in the middle western colleges and universities. I encountered a surprising amount of enthusiasm—for that part of the country. Let me hear from you some time.

HANDS DEAD WIFE LETTER.

Husband Gives Woman Note Promising to Be True Until Death.

Atlantic City, May 26.—W. Henry Willis, whose third wife's funeral was held here, performed a strange ceremony at her coffin when he placed in her hand a sealed letter containing his oath "to remain thy husband until death." The letter reads:

To God and Mankind: Oh, Lord, our Heavenly Father, in Thine eyes and those who have chosen to be present at this service to my beloved wife, Annie A. Willis, I desire to show my true devotion to the one thou hast joined so cleanly to me and hast taken away from me.

Annie, my beloved and devoted wife, I am here in the presence of God and thee to show my true and sincere devotion toward thee, to cast flowers of true love upon thee.

I have placed your wedding ring upon my finger as a binding tie to remain thy husband until death.

I pray I may be laid beside thee when God shall call me to that eternal rest with thee, my love. Kisses. Your devoted husband. W. HENRY WILLIS, Amen.

Hoboken Board of Education Delays Purchase of Geographies.

West Hoboken, N. J., May 26.—The board of education, according to Trustee Hensel, is not going to buy any more geographies, of which the schools are much in need, until the kaiser plays his last card. Evidently Mr. Hensel thinks that the last card will be played very shortly.

"There's no use in going to all this expense while this trouble is going on across the water. You can't tell what those fellows over there will do with the map when they get through," is the way that the members of the board reason.

Negress Held on Arson Charge.

Passaic, May 26.—Blanche Cook, colored, twenty-two years old, of 65 Main avenue, was held in bail in the police court on a charge of attempted arson made by Mrs. Ada W. Smith of 16 Grove street. It is charged that the negress attempted to set fire Tuesday to the three story tenement house owned by Mrs. Smith at 248 Chestnut street by saturating the floors and stairs with gasoline.

Cleared of Shooting Charge.

Mount Holly, May 26.—Alfred Haines, seventy years old, was acquitted of the charge of shooting at and attempting to kill his aged employer, William P. Bryan, at the latter's home near Woodmansie on April 20.

A Little Chat About Honesty

IN THIS little chat we want to talk particularly to the man who thinks the telephone operator sometimes "fibs" to him when she says "the line is busy."

In the first place, "Central" is a pretty busy girl. She's not apt to make useless work for herself. In learning that a line is "busy," she performs as many operations as she would in completing a call. It's easier for her to give you the connection you want at once than to put you off with the "busy" report.

Her report, "the line is busy," does not necessarily mean that the man you want is using his telephone. It may mean that we are trying to reach him for someone else who called before you did. If he's on a party line, it may mean that one of the other parties is using the line.

Next week we are going to tell you something you really ought to know about unanswered calls.

A Smart and Graceful White Satin Blouse

Blouse of Washable Net and Embroidery, with Threading of Blue Ribbon

Gull Wing Bows Poise Lightly on this Voile Blouse

Cape Collar and Cuffs are Piped to Match the Dots in a Batiste Blouse

Stocking up With SUMMER BLOUSES

by Hester Winthrop

Cape Collars Lend a Note To Seasonable Blouses—Tan Crash Middies of Exclusive Type for Sports—White Tub Satin Blouses for Wear With Tailored Suits – Becoming Pale Pink Models of Silk.

FANCY runs riot in the blouse department just now. Such dainty whimsies in collar shaping, front-closing, pin-tucks and hemstitching criss-crossed in elaborate mazes; such tricksy bows of black ribbon, pipings in pastel color and lavish ornamentation of buttons, was surely never seen! There is a distinct leaning toward the fluffily feminine in blousewear, these days; even the supposedly tailored models break out into scallops at collar and cuff, or compromise with fashion by decorations of hemstitching that break up plain spaces of material.

It is really marvelous though how little one need pay for a really charming blouse, if one shops at the ordinary counters. No woman would dream of buying silk by the yard and spending the time fashioning her own shirtwaists these days, when a dainty white silk blouse in smart and modern style may be obtained for three, four or five dollars. No woman, that is, except the ever unfortunate stout woman who invariably finds these modestly priced waists much too scant across the bust and too short in front to reach to the waistline.

Tucked Linen Models in Tailored Smartness.

There is a fascination about the filmy batiste and voile blouses, that is hard to resist as summer days draw on apace; but the linen blouse will give more satisfaction to the average woman for everyday wear, since it does not demand an elaborate, lacy brassiere beneath it. Nothing is more distressing than the sight of a sheer waist donned over an ordinary muslin corset-cover, or worse still, a corset cover or brassiere hastily and unfortunately adjusted. The linen waist is spic and span and reveals not what is beneath it, and linen is delightfully cool even on the hottest days. A particularly smart linen blouse of this season is pictured. Oyster white linen is the material used and crossed lines of hemstitching add a very effective trimming. This model closes at the front with a line of tiny buttons, and small tucks at front and back run up into the tall collar portion. An epaulet band, set in with hemstitching, runs down from the top of the collar to the sleeve, dividing the tucked sections. The cuffs are pleated to match the effect of the collar, and the latter is supposed to be worn up, as pictured, never turned down, since the tucks come on the outer side.

Another model matches its frilled cuffs to a ripple and also triple cape collar. These round collars give an unmistakable touch of modernity to the blouse they adorn, for they are distinctly of this season. One finds them on new blouses of every material from chiffon to heaviest linen and the style is very becoming to slender women with sloping shoulders—not so pleasing on short-necked, square-shouldered dames. Typical of the spring and summer season is the cape-collar blouse of polka dots of handkerchief linen in rose and white, with pipings of rose-colored batiste on the white linen collar, cuffs and vest. The fronts of the blouse are made softly full by tucks at the shoulder seam and each tuck is pressed into the sheer material all the way down to the belt—a notably smart detail. This idea of colored pipings is a favored one just now, color is introduced very prettily in this way into blouses, negligees and petticoats. The valentine blouse is a fetching instance. Heart-shaped pockets, piped all around with rose pink, are set on each side of the front; or there may be but one pocket on the left side—above the heart! Pink pipings set off collar, cuffs and jabot frill at the front also.

Bows Of All Sizes and Shapes.

Bows afford another means of adding telling touches of color to spring and summer blouses, and the bows are in all sizes from tiny, pert affairs fluttering on lace sleeve frills to spreading gull wing bows draped almost completely over a blouse front—as pictured on a new voile blouse which shows also the latest flare collar from which the head emerges like a teacup above its saucer. The gull wing bow is made of blue taffeta and matches blue embroidered motifs on the blouse front. Smaller bows in the same graceful shape are draped on the sleeves. You perceive that this smartly bloused maid has possessed herself of a hat to match her blouse-bows; a sailor hat of white straw, covered entirely over brim and crown with blue taffeta.

Net Blouses Distractingly Pretty.

One pays two prices for a net so much more for the brassiere to go under it, for one garment is quite as important as the other. Fetching indeed is a little net blouse illustrated and an interesting detail is the trimming of machine embroidery which outlines a V-shaped section at the front. Like many of the new models, this blouse fastens at the back. The sleeves are shirred and pintucked and are drawn in below the elbow with blue ribbons, and blue ribbon appears to draw up the neck, a tiny frill standing up daintily from the pinfucked edge. The brassiere which sets off this blouse is of white net and wide blue satin ribbon.

There seem to be innumerable blouses of pale pink color; and they are so becoming women refuse to discard them, though pink blouses are by no means new except in details of cut and trimming. The prettiest are of pink Georgette crepe, hand embroidered; then there are models of pink wash silk and satin and of pink batiste, the latter tucked or gathered to give an effect of great softness and grace.

Washable Satin Blouses in Demand.

Though the satin blouse, because of its high luster, makes the figure look larger than a blouse of less glossy silk fabric, it bears the palm in modishness this season. Tailored and sport waists of washable satin are in great demand for wear with both tailored suits and informal sport skirts. Two washable satin blouses are pictured, one a very simple model for sport wear and the other more elaborate as befits a blouse which will accompany formal tailored costumes. The sport blouse has becoming fullness, arranged in gathers at the shoulder line and neat cuffs which may be unbuttoned and turned back on the arm for golf, tennis or other active sports. Worn with a sport skirt of black and white striped panama cloth, it is very good style. The second blouse is also gracefully full over the bust and has a particularly pretty collar, turning back to form triangular revers. Loops of silk cord project from the edge of collar and sleeve and through buttonholed slashes in the revers, falling in overlapping loops. If you fancy the idea of the silk cord trimming, it can be accomplished on the home-built blouse with a little care. First of all cut all the loops you need in even length—about an inch to each loop. Then have ready shaped facings of the satin for each of the revers and sleeve edges. Next baste the loops in place, apply the facing and stitch on the machine so that the stitching holds the loop-ends firmly, and finally turn back the facing, leaving the loops projecting from the seam.

Middies of Tan Crash.

There are as many white duck middies as ever, and some new models with belts and collar facings of colored linen bring the stock up to 1916 style; but the middy of distinction, shown in the "high grade waist department," is of coarse tan crash with collar and cuffs of colored linen, and is called a Russian smock. There is no actual smocking, the main part of the blouse being attached by pleats to a shallow yoke. A very broad belt, loose enough to drop over the hips, holds the blouse in straight lines against the figure and the effect is very smart—if the figure is slim enough. These blouses have no regular opening; they slip on over the head and the front is slashed down several inches and piped with linen to match collar and belt, link buttons on cords holding the slashed edges together. The lower edge of the blouse is slashed at the sides and piped with the colored linen. These smart Russian smocks come in tan crash with trimming of yellow, rose or green linen, and by matching the blouse material for a separate sport skirt a very attractive costume for summer days may be evolved.

Blouses of shadow and chantilly lace over chiffon are shown for wear with tailleur skirts and separate skirts of taffeta. These blouses are lovely affairs, soft and infinitely graceful with their layers of sheer fabric and airy lace trimmings. Black chantilly lace blouses are mounted over white chiffon, and white net shirrings are inserted in blouses of black net; the black and white idea in dressy blouses seems much in favor.

A White Tub Silk Sport Blouse of Soft Daintiness

A Luxurious Bath for Dicky

THE modern canary is becoming used to his costly palace of a cage with its ivory wicker bars and tinted plaster roses. He sings in it all day long just as sweetly as ever he warbled in the old-fashioned brass domicile which used to be his home. In his new, palatial residence, are all the requirements for good grooming, and most important is his bathtub. This is a delightful affair, made of alabaster, no less—and modeled after the carved baths of the old Romans. The bath is raised slightly from the flat slab of alabaster which forms its base, on four carved feet, and carved heads of lions decorate the outside of the tub proper. This bath for Dicky-Bird costs almost five dollars, but of course that is a mere bagatelle compared with the price of his palatial wicker and tinted plaster cage.

THE DAY BED FOR THE SUMMER PORCH.

EVEN more attractive than the comfortable chaise longue, for an enclosed porch, is the day bed, long, low and made of wicker, with foot and head supports of wicker which give the long couch something the effect of a davenport when pushed up against a wall and piled with pillows. A tufted cushion covered with cretonne fits into the day bed and bolster rolls fit into each of the ends. One of these wicker day beds will be an ideal lounging place on the summer porch or in the summer bedroom, and there is a formality about the wicker-supported couch with its curved wicker ends that makes it suitable also for the bungalow living

Footwear for the Out-of-Door Season

THE dressing of the feet is so important, these days of short frocks, that the wrong kind of shoes, or badly matching stockings can very easily spoil the effect of a whole costume. Comes a rainy day, and for economy's sake—or other practical consideration—you don a second-best pair of heavy soled rough weather shoes with the dainty, modish tailleur that must be worn because some special occasion demands that you be "dressed up." Does not the consciousness of those clumsy shoes remain with you every minute of the afternoon? Do you not realize, unhappily, that your whole appearance is lacking in chic, just because your feet are all wrong? Yet the same shoes, worn with a tailored sport skirt and raincoat would fit the picture perfectly.

As one devoted little wife, figuring up her spring needs for the consideration of an indulgent husband, has put it: "Fifty dollars' ought to cover footwear expense for the summer"—and that, if you please, is a fairly moderate estimate, as shoe needs and shoe prices are at the moment. And what will the fifty dollars provide? It does seem a tidy sum, to be sure, to spend just on footcoverings for a season; but few women, planning a summer resort wardrobe, will be able to manage with less. A pair of very smart, very correct laced boots made of fawn or champagne kid, with the French heel and turned sole of fashion, will be needed for wear with tailored suits, silk frocks and other street costumes. These boots will cost at least seven dollars, if properly cut and built of fine, soft kid to show the lines of the foot. Fifteen dollars ought to buy three pairs of pumps, one pair of patent leather, one pair of white kid and an extra pair of bronze kid or some novelty combination of colored kid for special wear. Then there must be a pair of irreproachable sport shoes and these, in good style, will cost another five dollars. Two pairs of dancing slippers, one pair white satin, the other pair black satin will be a fair allowance; though some women will require pink and blue slippers and gold or silver brocade slippers also. By shopping around it may be possible to pick up the two pairs of satin slippers at three-fifty the pair, and this brings the total for boots and slippers up to thirty-four dollars. Almost certainly, silk stockings to match the various types of footwear, and a few extra pairs of strong silk for bathing use, will use up the remainder of the fifty dollar allowance. Yet one will not have provided lavishly, considering footwear necessities of the moment.

It must be remembered that bronze kid is extremely perishable and pumps or slippers of this kid should only be bought for special occasions, with more sturdy black or tan footgear to be depended upon for everyday wear. Painful indeed are the bronze boots long since turned a sickly purple which one meets every day—boots that say all too plainly: "She could have only one pair of expensive boots and selected bronze, pity her!"

This year's pumps are tricksy affairs, slender of line, pointed of toe and with high, French heels. They make the foot look adorably pretty, and really, unless one does a great deal of walking, these exquisite, turned sole footcoverings seem to endure as long as heavier-soled models—and are vastly cooler and more comfortable for warm weather wear. The woman who likes simple, tailored effects, will find smart looking, mannish oxfords in both patent leather and tan calf, with perforations and stitching to accentuate the trim lines. For such shoes, in smart style, one must pay from five to eight dollars the pair. It must be admitted, however, that the mannish type of oxford does not look well with a short, flaring skirt which, by its very character, demands something frivolous, gay and high-heeled in footwear. If a low-heeled oxford is worn at all, it must be a very smart model, so smart that its own exclusive style will be its unanswerable claim to distinction.

Sport shoes are a different matter. The sport shoe—or outing shoe—of in town with flaring tailleurs; and at the country club or in a sailboat it is not only correct but also admirable with short, flaring sport costumes. A good type of sport shoe is of white buckskin with sole of white rubber and the very slight lift of heel which most women prefer because the perfectly flat heel is trying to the foot, to the back—and be it whispered—agony to a bunion. This white sport shoe with its rubber heel may be worn anywhere in the country, on a yacht's polished deck or on the carefully graded tennis court. Some women wear these shoes on the golf links but better for tramping over leagues of turf is a low-heeled golf shoe of tan calf; such a shoe has also a more sporty look with a wool-woven golf skirt.

Stockings are a very important consideration and the summer girl will provide black hosiery only for wear with black frocks or bathing costumes—even here colored stockings are replacing black ones; white silk stockings accompany blue bathing dresses trimmed with white, and cream or flesh tinted stockings are worn with black or checked silk bathing suits. White pumps of course demand white stockings.

The clocked stockings, with dainty pumps of blue and bisque kid, are of blue silk with bisque embroidered clocks. The sport shoes are accompanied by correct sport stockings, of very fine white cotton, ribbed at the top, striped in color with colored clocks.

Clocked stockings with ribbed tops give the correct finish of style with sport shoes.

With two-tone kid slippers for veranda wear, one dons silk hose in the same fawn and coffee tones.

FOR LITTLE PEOPLE'S COATS.

EVERY mother knows how hard it is to coax, bribe or even punish children into hanging up their coats when they come into the house. Small garments are cast aside wherever they are taken off—for some patient grown-up person to hang up in the closet. One mother has achieved success by purchasing several of the decorated coat-hangers — attractive wooden ladies with outspread arms to receive the coat. Each hanger is named and the children carry their coats to "Sally—or Peggy" for safe-

ALL PARIS INTENT ON VERDUN BATTLE

Officials Marvel at Violence of Onslaught.

Paris, May 26.—The shadow of Verdun is over Paris as at the end of February. Throughout the city there is no other topic. That does not mean that confidence is weaker, but the events of the past few days have shaken the people from the comfortable feeling that the Verdun situation had reached a comparatively harmless deadlock and that the German drive had failed. The immensity of the new German effort compels recognition of the fact that the danger is not yet over.

The newspapers do not try to hide the struggle's importance. The Matin says: "In violence, continuity and above all extent the present phase dwarfs all those preceding. It is no isolated drive at one set of positions of one side of the Meuse, but a general pitched battle between two armies with alternatives of attack and defense." The Echo de Paris says, "The battle has developed prodigious desperation."

On the boulevards the kiosks are besieged by eager groups snatching the evening papers to read the communique. Near one three six-foot Australian officers paused to read the war news. Regarding their stalwart proportions a helmeted permissionaire said, "It would be fine if we had two army corps of them at Verdun." The words voice the feeling of Paris today.

Official circles are as confident as ever, though admitting surprise at the continued violence of the German attacks. They do not share the popular view that an ex tempore action by the British would ease Verdun, and the semiofficial press continually emphasizes the fact that a hurried move on the English front would be playing Germany's game and is neither necessary nor desirable.

The Temps suggests the German attack is not unconnected with President Wilson's remark that the war had reached an impasse. "The German general staff reckons that no sacrifice of lives is too dear," says the Temps. "If the American people can be brought to share the opinion of President Wilson, who appears to think the war has reached an impasse and that nothing is to be done save to take his advice."

BRANDEIS SURE TO WIN.

Opposition In Senate Admits Confirmation Can't Be Stopped.

Washington, May 26.—The nomination of Louis D. Brandeis as justice of the supreme court probably will be confirmed soon. Opponents of the nomination say that it cannot be defeated as the situation now stands. Only two or three Democratic senators will vote against it. Fully that many progressive Republicans will vote to confirm.

It was the opinion of one of the senators who had been opposing Brandeis' confirmation that he would receive the support of more Republicans than he would lose Democrats.

The fight, he said, would not be long drawn out. The disposition of the Republican senators who oppose the confirmation is not to obstruct unnecessarily.

Office Ornaments.

"Yes, ma'am," commented the office factotum whom long tenure of office had made a bit censorious, "some of these here young ladies about this office does precious little work. They seems to think they's intended for office ornaments."

Then, seeing a shade cross the lady manager's face, he hastened to add reassuringly, "But, ma'am, you ain't no ornament."

PUT LAST TOUCH ON PARADE PLANS

Final Instructions for Organizations That Contemplate Taking Part.

FUND IS SHORT $200

If This Sum is Not Contributed Before Monday Night the Carriers Will Have to Make up the Deficit —Revised Line of March.

Final plans for the twenty-sixth annual convention of the New Jersey State Association of Letters Carriers' convention, which will be held here on Decoration Day, were made at a meeting of the Citizens' Committee last night, reports presented by the various committee chairmen indicating that the program contemplated will be one of the most elaborate ever arranged for an occasion of this nature in New Jersey. The 7,000 visitors who come to Plainfield Tuesday will be entertained in royal style from the time they arrive in town until late in the evening many of Plainfield's best known citizens have pledged themselves to assume charge of the day's events.

The final reckoning last night showed that the carriers are still $200 short of the fund necessary to carry through all of the tentative plans and unless this is forthcoming between now and Monday night they will be compelled to "dig down" in their jeans and make up the deficit. Plainfielders have been liberal in their contributions toward the convention fund and it is hoped that additional donations will be sent to Treasurer William Floersch over the week-end that will swell the total to the amount needed.

The committee in charge of the parade, headed by George Apgar, has mapped out the revised line of march as follows: Formation at Watchung avenue and East Seventh street, then proceed to Crescent avenue to College place, to Arlington avenue, to West Sixth street, to Plainfield avenue, to West Seventh street, to Central avenue, to Front street, to Park avenue, to Watchung avenue, to Front street, to Somerset street, to Park place, to Grove street, to Rockview avenue, to Washington avenue, to Front street, to Geraud avenue, to tabernacle and disband. The parade will be due in the business section of Front street at about 3:15 o'clock.

General Dennis F. Collins, of Elizabeth, has accepted the carriers' invitation to act as grand marshal and with his staff he will be stationed at East Seventh street, between Watchung and Crescent avenues. All organizations taking part should be in their assigned positions at 2:15 o'clock as the parade will begin promptly at 2:30 o'clock.

Visiting delegations will be met at the Plainfield depot by members of the reception committee and escorted to their positions and as soon as each division is formed the aide in charge will report to the grand marshal. All divisions, as far as possible, except the second, will march in column squads or four abreast in order to insure uniformity.

The formation of parade follows:

First division will form on Watchung avenue, right resting on East Seventh street, as follows: Plainfield police, First Battalion N. G. N. J., Friends' Band, Co. H, Uniformed Rank, Jr. O. U. A. M.; degree team, Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.; Crescent Co., No. 13, Uniformed Rank, K. of P.; Freedom Commandery, No. 5, K. G. E.

Second division will form on East Ninth street, right resting on Watchung avenue, as follows: N. Y. Letter Carriers' Band, First Division N. Y. Letter Carriers, N. Y. Letter Carriers' Fife and Drum Corps, Second Division N. Y. Letter Carriers, N. Y. Military Band, Third Division N. Y. Letter Carriers, N. Y. Letter Carriers' Sons' Fife and Drum Corps, Fourth Division N. Y. Letter Carriers.

Third division will form on Franklin place, right resting on Watchung avenue, as follows: Newark Letter Carriers' Band, Newark Letter Carriers.

Fourth division will form on East Seventh street, right resting on Watchung avenue, as follows: Elizabeth Drum Corps, Elizabeth Letter Carriers.

Fifth division will form on East Sixth street, right resting on Watchung avenue, as follows: Jersey City Fife and Drum Corps, Jersey City Letter Carriers.

Sixth division will form on East Seventh street, right resting on Crescent avenue, as follows: Morristown Fife and Drum Corps, Letter Carriers from Morristown, Rutherford, Ridgewood.

Seventh division will form on First place, right resting on Crescent avenue, as follows: Bayonne Band, Letter Carriers from Bayonne, Montclair, Hoboken.

Eighth division will form on Second place, right resting on Crescent avenue, as follows: Orange Fife and Drum Corps, Letter Carriers from Orange, Summit, South Orange, Glen Ridge.

Ninth division will form on Third place, right resting on Crescent avenue, as follows: New Brunswick Fife and Drum Corps, Letter Carriers from New Brunswick, Princeton, Bound Brook, Red Bank.

Tenth division will form on Park avenue, right resting on Crescent avenue, as follows: Plainfield Band, Let-

MUST PAY $55,000 FOR HER HUSBAND

Court Refuses Application for New Trial Made by Laura Biggar.

Laura Biggar, or Mrs. Laura Biggar-Bennett-Hendrick, must pay the $55,000 judgment secured against her by Mrs. Agnes M. Hendrick, according to a decision of Supreme Court Justice Manning in Brooklyn yesterday. The decision was on application for a new trial of the case, which was denied. Mrs. Hendrick recently sued Miss Biggar for alienation of the affections of her husband, and secured a verdict for this amount. Since the case was decided, Dr. Hendrick and Miss Biggar have been married and are now living on the old Fitzsimmons farm near here. They will open a sanitorium there soon.

Steps will be taken at once to collect the amount of the verdict. Mrs. Hendrick's attorney said yesterday that he would attack Miss Biggar's property, which is believed to be ample to satisfy the judgment.

MISS KIRCH BRIDE OF WM. C. MESNER

Rev. J. O. McKelvey Performs Ceremony in Presence of Many Relatives.

Miss Viola Kirch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kirch of Clinton and Rockview avenue, the borough, became the bride of William Cyrus Mesner, of West Newton, Pa., at a home wedding performed at the residence of the pride's parents, at 6 o'clock last evening. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of the Watchung Avenue Presbyterian church, officiated at the ceremony, which was witnessed by a small gathering of relatives and friends, the wedding being a quiet one on account o, the recent illness of the bride's father.

The bride was attractively attired in a blue traveling suit and wore a white hat. She was attended by her sister, Miss Bertha Kirch, as maid of honor. The best man was George Kirch, a brother of the bride. Other attendants at the wedding beside the bride's parents were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haring and daughter, Miss Mabel Haring.

The couple left last evening for a wedding trip through the West, and will visit the former home of the bridegroom. On their return they will reside in this city. Both Mr. and Mrs. Mesner are well known here and hold a large circle of acquaintances in both Plainfields. Mr. Mesner is engaged as assistant to the superintendent of the International Motor Car Company of this city.

Issued by Albert LaRock for Distribution on Memorial Day

Plainfield's fifty-two page souvenir booklet, to be distributed among the 7,000 visitors expected in Plainfield, Decoration Day, has been completed, and is, without a doubt, the most creditable publication of its nature ever compiled for this city. WILL RID CITY OF BUGS.

The C. and C. Exterminating Company, a firm using a scientific process to rid houses of bed bugs, ants, vermin and others pests and to do fumigating after sickness, has established a headquarters in Plainfield and will carry on its particular line of work on an elaborate scale. The concern uses a scientific process that cleans out the pests in twelve hours' time with a lasting result. The method is a thoroughly modern one, and the work s done without inconveniencing the occupants of the dwellings in which it is tried.

DR. HERRING TO PREACH.

Rev. Charles E. Herring will preach in his pulpit tomorrow morning. In the evening the members of the First Presbyterian church will assemble in the Tabernacle for the final service to be held in that place.

LOOKS LIKE AN ELIZABETH MOVE

Petition to Change Board of Freeholders is Gone Over Carefully.

OF DEMOCRATIC HUE

Mayor of Westfield Invites Local Officials and Citizens to Discuss Proposition of Meeting There On Evening of June 1.

Mayor Calkins, President Blatz and other officials and councilmen of the city of Plainfield with citizens who are interested have been invited to attend a meeting to be held in the Westfield town hall on the evening of June 1, at 8 o'clock for the purpose of discussing the change in Union county from a large to a small board of Freeholders. The invitation is being sent out by Mayor Henry W. Evans, of Westfield.

To the Elizabeth Journal the proposed change in the Board of Freeholders seems to be mostly an Elizabeth move. It says:

"A careful scrutiny of the petition on file in the office of the county clerk, asking for an election of the Small Board of Freeholders' proposition, bears out the contention which has been raised in the smaller towns through the county that the move for the most part is one which has been conceived and executed by Elizabeth Democrats. Examination shows that a vast majority of the 1,500 signatures attached to the petition are names of Elizabeth men, many of them prominent in the councils of the Democratic party. A few, very few, names of men other than Democrats are sandwiched in between.

"The length of time which was consumed in making up the petitions and the frequent postponement of the time for filing gave rise to an impression which has since been strengthened that difficulty was being found in securing the necessary number of names from men out through the county to give "balance" to the petition and to support the contention that the movement was a county-wide, non-partisan expression of sentiment.

"The names which are attached to the petition from places outside of Elizabeth are for the most part those of Democratic workers and the petition, as a whole, resembles the petition of a popular Democratic candidate in the primary election.

"The complexion of the document is at once apparent to one who sees the names of General Dennis F. Collins, Prosecutor Alfred A. Stein, Judge Abe J. David, Robert H. McAdams, Lucius T. Russell, Michael O'Hanlon and Peter Egenolf attached to it.

Some of the more prominent men who signed the petitions are as follows:

Elizabeth: General Dennis F. Collins, Lucius T. Russell, Prosecutor Alfred A. Stein, Judge Abe J. David, Chancery Court Clerk Robert H. McAdams, Karl Schaffer, DeWitt C. Townley, License Sergeant George Rabig, Peter Egenolf, Walter C. Tenney, Michael O'Hanlon, Chief County Detective John A. Galatian, former Councilman Edward M. Neafsey, Councilman John P. Duffy, City Attorney Joseph T. Hague, Assistant City Attorney John J. Griffin.

"W. H. Ryan, Andrew J. Hughes, secretary of the Board of Education; Fred Zior, Street Commissioner William P. Neafsey, Richard T. Potts, Councilman James J. Manning, City Engineer Thomas E. Collins, former Councilman John T. Brady, Callahan J. McCarthy, former Assemblyman William A. Leonard, City Physician Thomas F. Higgins, Louis Quien, G. Bartram Woodruff and Charles A. Otto.

"Plainfield: L. J. Ellis, D. Foster Updike, James J. Scott, Daniel McAfee and James J. Kyle.

"Roselle: H. S. Schienenbeck.

"Westfield: E. R. Collins, Percy M. Lambert, E. C. McMahon and L. Raymond Lambert.

"Kenilworth: Andrew C. Ogden, Charles C. Boyd and John Hiller, Jr.

"Union: L. F. Townley, George Van Houten, W. D. Doolittle, John G. Price, C. E. Blanchard, D. H. Beach and Frank A. Sweezy.

"Hillside: C. T. Woodruff."

"GO-TO-CHURCH SUNDAY.

Tomorrow is to be "Go-to-Church Sunday" in Plainfield, and it will be observed by members of every congregation in the city. All Sunday-schools and morning church services will be held at the regular hour. Pastors are preparing strong sermons to welcome the crowds that are expected. All Protestant churches will unite tomorrow evening in a big union service at the Biederwolf Tabernacle, with music by the chorus choir. Tomorrow afternoon there will be a rally at the Tabernacle by national staff officers of the Salvation Army.

MRS. K. T. MORROW DIES IN WASHINGTON

Prominent Christian Worker Passes Away Suddenly After Brief Illness.

Mrs. Kathryn T. Morrow, whose home was at 110 Westervelt avenue, the borough, died suddenly yesterday morning in Washington, D. C., to which place she went about two weeks ago for a visit with friends. Word of her demise came by telegram to Mrs. Ida W. Hawkins, of Norwood avenue, an intimate friend, and the latter left for Washington immediately to make arrangements for the funeral. It is quite probable that the service will be held in Washington, but nothing is known at this time regarding interment.

Mrs. Morrow, who was fifty-five years old, came to Plainfield with Mrs. Hawkins from Sewaren, where she had made her home for some time previous, although she had resided for many years in Philadelphia. She was the widow of John Morrow and her only near relatives are cousins living in Washington. Mrs. Morrow was a woman of deep religious tendencies and on coming to this city joined the local Y. W. C. A. She was active in all its branches, particularly in the Bible-classes, where she acted as teacher. She attended the First Baptist church, but maintained her membership in a church in Philadelphia.

When Mrs. Morrow left for Washington she was enjoying her usual health, although she had been suffering from heart trouble for several years. It was this malady that caused her death. She had many friends in both the city and the borough, and news of her death will be received with deep regret.

DOOMED TO DIE TWO YEARS GO, BUT DIDN'T

From the shadow of the grave to health in two years is not an exceptionally unusual story in this day of medical miracles, but it is a very real one to John A. McIntyre just now. Mr. McIntyre is today celebrating the second anniversary of his scheduled death, which did not take place. Just two years ago he was pronounced doomed by many of the best physicians in Plainfield, as a result of a complication of stomach trobules, and this morning he went to the office of Dr. P. J. Zeglio—on his own motive power—to recall the dark days of two years ago, and thank the physician for having brought him back to health against such odds.

FORTY-FOURTH ANNIVERSARY DANCE GIVEN BY T. A. B. S.

The dance held by the T. A. B. S. at their clubhouse last night in honor of the forty-fourth anniversary of the founding of the society, was well attended by the younger set, who enjoyed dancing to the accompaniment of Allen Squires' orchestra. During the "Paul Jones" William Mahoney, he of minstrel fame, gave a few humorous suggestions and these were accepted gratefully. Refreshments were served during the evening and th affair broke up at a late hour.

On the alleys there was prize bowling, the object of attention being a box of Park & Tilford's candies. Joe Carrol and Jack Duffy were the high men in this affair and tied for the prize. At the play-off, Carrol was the more successful and spent the rest of the evening "eating things" up. After this match had been completed, the young women were given he use of the alleys for the rest of the evening.

CONCRETE FALLS AS MEN QUIT FOR DAY

Slight Accident at Building of Plainfield Storage Warehouse Co.

A small portion of the third story flooring of the new building being erected on Third street by the Plainfield Storage Warehouse Company, caved in yesterday afternoon a few minutes after workmen had quit for the day. The floors of this building are being put in of heavy steel-reinforced concrete. Concrete was poured for the third floor during yesterday. Shortly after the men quit at 4:30 a section in one corner of the building fell through. No one was injured. The accident was due to a defect in the supports at this particular point, it is thought. Workmen were busy during the entire night cleaning the fresh concrete from the second floor before it hardened. The accident will delay the completion of the building only a few days. Tallamy Brothers are the contractors.

GERMANY BIDS FOR PEACE MOVE

Inspired Stories Cause Diplomats to Believe Terms Will Be Offered.

ALLIES SCOUT IDEA

French Regain Lost Territory Before Verdun—Note to England on Mail Seizure Will Not Cause a Break With U. S.

Washington, May 27.—A despatch from Copenhagen says that Ambassador Gerard believes that peace proposals will assume definite form within a few months if not within a few weeks.

Germany now is openly bidding for peace, according to the views held by diplomatists here. The unofficial but apparently inspired despatches from Berlin regarding the terms which Germany would be willing to discuss peace are regarded as simply the opening moves in jockeying for a favorable position.

It is not believed here that the Allies will even consider accepting any such move as is now being made by Germany or consider any proposal for the ending of the war at this time, especially in view of the fact that it is believed in the Allied capitals that the German peace suggestions are inspired by the threat of famine conditions in the German Empire, and a desire that hostilities cease while Germany still holds a battle front outside her own frontiers.

The peace expressions to be heard from Germany are undoubtedly due to a desire to force the impression on neutrals that it is the Allies, and not Germany, who are responsible for the continuance of the conflict.

Neutrals Support Mail Note.

No diplomatic break between the American Government and the Entente Allied Powers is expected as a result of Secretary Lansings' note, absolutely demanding that interference with neutrals mails cease. The document is unprecedented in the sharpness of tone used by this Government in addressing the Allies and bitterness is expected to result.

No immediate answer is demanded and none is expected. The note contains no alternative or threat, such as was contained in the last letter to Berlin in the submarine controversy, but it does make plain that American patience is near exhaustion and that "only a radical change in the present British and French policy will satisfy this Government."

It is known that the United States has the support of Holland, Sweden and other neutral Europeans nations in this protest, which already have protested against the wrongs done their citizens.

Austrians Are Repulsed.

Rome, May 27.—In the Lagarina Valley the Austrians have suffered a severe check, the War Office announces, after launching impetuous attacks against the Italian line between the Adige River and the Arsa Valley. The masses of infantry which swept in close formation against the Coni Zugna and the Col de Buole positions were "exterminated by the cool and precise fire of our troops," says the official communication.

Between Posina and the Astico River the Italian troops have evacuated an advance position on the Astico. In the Asiago zone there has been furious fighting in which a decision has not yet been reached.

Scotch Plains, Fanwood

BOROUGH DISCUSSED SCHOOL PROBLEM

Decide to Prepare Facts of Existing Conditions and Rely on Township.

Fanwood borough's meeting to consider the school question as it now confronts the people of the township and borough was held in the Fanwood firehouse last night, and after a lengthy discussion that at times approached the heated point it was the general concensus of opinion among the sixty present that the matter ought to be put up to the voters of the entire district. As the first step in accomplishing that end, it was decided to appoint a committee of seven or eight to thoroughly canvass Fanwood to get all the possible data on the question preparatory to laying it before the voters of the township, asking them to back the proposition. A meeting will be held in the firehouse next Friday night, at which time the committee will make its report.

Realizing thhat something must be done to make School No. 1 at Scotch Plains conform with State regulations, the borough people and residents of the Willow Grove section of the township want a school located south of the C. R. R. of N. J. to accommodate their children. They are willing to vote for an appropriation for the improving of the old school, but want a separate building more conveniently located. Alfred D. Beeken, who was on the Board of Education for a decade, made an address in which he vividly recounted the dangers of the obsolete School No. 1 and said that he was in favor of abandoning the structure and erecting a modern plant on more centrally located grounds. Reginald M. Huse suggested the idea of appealing to the township voters. He said that if the township and borough both worked in opposite directions, nothing would be accomplished, but if they worked together, Scotch Plains would have School No. 1 repaired and an addition built, while Fanwood would have its school as well.

With figures giving the exact number of children in Fanwood and how large a school could be used, Fanwood will probably, after the next meeting, lay the facts before the Scotch Plains people and ask them when the election is held to vote the money that they vote for the separate school, as well as the other items. A prominent Plainfield resident has offered to give a site of 200x200, located on South Martine avenue, for a school, and the people of Fanwood and Willow Grove will use that as one of the best arguments for the school.

LOCAL STUDENTS WILL CONTINUE AT WESTFIELD

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Plainfield People Know How to Save It.

Many Plainfield people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health—the slightest delay is dangerous. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Plainfield citizen's recommendation.

Mrs. Anthony Wahl, R. F. D. No. 1, Plainfield, says: "I had such distressing pains in my back that I could hardly stand, and it was out of the question for me to stoop. I was all crippled up and I knew perfectly well that my kidneys were the cause of the trouble. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me almost immediate relief, and three boxes changed me from a chronic sufferer to a healthy woman. I still take Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally, when a cold settles on my kidneys, and they act as a preventive of any serious trouble."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Wahl had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

DEMAND MAIL SEIZURE END

Emphatic Note Sent France and Britain.

SOME CONCESSIONS MADE

United States Admits Right to Capture Stocks, Bonds and Other Securities—Many Instances Cited of Loss to Americans Through "Lawless Practices."

Washington, May 27.—The text of the new American note of protest against the Anglo-French policy of interference with neutral mails to and from this country was made public by Secretary Lansing.

The note, which is a vigorous statement of the attitude of the United States government, was delivered to the British and French ambassadors in Washington several days ago and has been forwarded by cable to their respective governments. It challenges the legality of the methods that have been followed by the British and French governments, describes the "improper methods employed by the British and French authorities in interrupting mails" as a "lawless practice," which can no longer be tolerated, and concludes with the declaration that "only a radical change in the present British and French policy, restoring to the United States its full rights as a neutral power, will satisfy this government."

After pointing out that American commercial interests are being injured, that rights of property are violated and rules of international law and custom are "palpably disregarded" by the Anglo-French policy of interference with neutral mails the note says:

"Improper Methods."

"The government of the United States in view of the improper methods employed by the British and French authorities in interrupting mails passing between the United States and other neutral countries and between the United States and the enemies of Great Britain can no longer tolerate the wrongs which citizens of the United States have suffered and continue to suffer through these methods. To submit to a lawless practice of this character would open the door to repeated violations of international law by the belligerent powers on the ground of military necessity, of which the violator would be the sole judge. Manifestly a neutral nation cannot permit its rights on the high seas to be determined by belligerents or the exercise of those rights to be permitted or denied arbitrarily.

"The government of the United States, confident in the regard for international law and the rights of neutrals, which the British and French governments have so often proclaimed, and the disregard of which they have urged so vigorously against their enemies in the present war, expects the present practice of the British and French authorities in the treatment of mails from or to the United States to cease and belligerent rights, as exercised, to conform to the principle governing the passage of mail matter and to the recognized practice of nations. Only a radical change in the present British and French policy, restoring to the United States its full rights as a neutral power, will satisfy this government."

Insists With Emphasis.

Secretary Lansing informs Great Britain and France that "the United States must insist again with emphasis" that these governments cannot obtain rightful jurisdiction over neutral mail ships by forcing them to visit British and French ports for the purpose of seizing their mails and thereby obtaining greater belligerent rights as to such ships than they could exercise on the high seas. He makes it plain that the United Staes is of the opinion that there can be no legal distinction between seizure of mails at sea, which practice the British announced their intention of abandoning, and their seizure from vessels voluntarily or involuntarily visiting British ports.

"The British and French practice amounts to an unwarranted limitation on the use by neutrals of the world's highway for the transmission of correspondence," is the way in which the note characterizes the British and French method of interference with American and other neutral mails. Secretary Lansing declares that the "arbitrary" methods employed by the British and French have resulted most disastrously to the citizens of the United States and notifies them that it is the purpose of the United States in the near future to press claims for full reparation from England and France for losses to American citizens through this "continuing offense" of interference with American mails.

As a result of this policy, he says, important papers which can never be duplicated, such as American patents for inventions, rare documents, legal papers relating to the settlement of estates, powers of attorney, fire insurance claims, income tax returns and similar matters have been lost. Secretary Lansing cites specific instances in which American citizens have sustained losses, among them that of the Standard Underground Cable company of Pittsburgh, which lost a contract in Christiania because its papers failed to arrive in Norway, the result being a British competitor got the contract.

"GO-TO-CHURCH."

"Go-to-Church" service at the Wilson Memorial chapel will be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. The pastor, Rev. Mebane Ramsay, will preach on the following subject, "The Path Before Us." All who signed cards at the Tabernacle services are especially invited to be present.

$1,000,000 FOR POLISH RELIEF

Rockefeller Foundation Offers Immense Aid.

AWAIT GERMAN REPLY.

Agreement With Great Britain Is Needed For Utilization of the Fund. Sum to Be Shared by Servia, Montenegro and Albania.

New York, May 27.—According to an announcement made by the Rockefeller foundation, that body has appropriated $1,000,000 for relief in Poland, Servia, Montenegro and Albania.

The execution of the plans for the relief of the suffering civil populations of those countries now depends solely upon the question whether an agreement will be reached between the German and British governments on the ways and means by which food is to be imported into the war stricken areas in question. Negotiations have been carried on between Germany and England for a year, with the commission for relief in Belgium, through its chairman, Robert C. Hoover, acting as the intermediary.

The German government has now under consideration some additional conditions stipulated recently by Great Britain, and the Rockefeller foundation is eagerly awaiting Germany's decision. From the statement issued it appears that the absence of an agreement between the two governments is the only obstacle to a materialization of the relief plans.

For Relief Supplies.

The $1,000,000 appropriation announced is to be extended at the discretion of the executive committee whenever satisfactory arrangements for the importation of relief supplies can be effected. "The appropriation," says the statement, "was made in the hope that arrangements for its effective expenditure in the countries mentioned might soon be consummated, although assurances of the successful outcome of negotiations to this end have not yet been received."

Investigation has disclosed, according to the Rockefeller foundation's statement, that about 3,500,000 people in the eastern portion of Russian Poland and that part of western Russia now occupied by the German armies are in a state of actual starvation. The mortality is reported to have risen greatly, especially among the youngest and oldest elements of the population.

"To the ravages of hunger," continues the statement, "are added those of disease, which inevitably accompany the extremes of physical exhaustion. The bones of hundreds of thousands of men, women and children, made homeless by the destruction incident to the retreat of the Russian armies at the time of the great German advance, lined the main highways which lead eastward into Russia."

The statement adds that large sums of money are expected to be added to the $1,000,000 appropriation. Polish relief agencies in different countries having raised funds ever since the war began.

If you are a student of the "ads" you KNOW WHAT IT OUGHT TO COST.

The spot-light of full publicity, turned on a store, reveals and places in that full light a store's defects—if it have defects. For example: If high prices prevail, or lines of goods are not kept up to date, the reader of the store advertisements knows it. It follows that advertising "pays" the store that renders real service—and would not pay the other kind of a store.

TEN COMMANDMENTS WRITTEN FOR GIRLS

Jersey City, May 27.—Rev. A. W. Wilson, pastor of the Lafayette Memorial Episcopal church here, made public yesterday these ten commandments prepared by him as warnings to young women:

Thou shalt not delude thy mother.

Thou shalt not surrender thy modesty for the favor of unprincipled men.

Thou shalt not run wild and fall into the whirlpool of fashion and plunge thy family folk into the hopper of the nerve grinding mill.

Thou shalt not allow the limber tongue of the flatterer to bewilder thy head and master thy strength.

Thou shalt not tattle.

Thou shalt not let frivolity of speech or manner unclothe thee of thy attractiveness and personal charm.

Thou shalt not think more of the clothing of thy feet than the culture of thy head.

Thou shalt not smoke; thou shalt not tamper with the liquor cup.

Thou shalt not be slothful while others in the home toil.

Thou shalt find real happiness in truthfulness, hopefulness, joyfulness, peacefulness and in serving others in the spirit of the Great Master.

Put Your Hand in Your Purse and Bring Joy to Some Sufferer

ROSE TAG DAY

Saturday, June 17

On that day you will be asked by one or many young women, dressed as nurses, to contribute something for the Women's Auxiliary Board of the Muhlenberg Hospital. Give what you can, whether it be 1c or $100. In exchange you will receive a rose as an acknowledgment that you are a contributor.

The Women's Auxiliary should appeal to every man, woman or child who has the instinct of humanity. It has no creed—except the creed of helping the suffering. Its duties are to assist in furnishing flowers, fruit, jellies and delicacies to the ward patients at the Hospital. It buys appointments for the children's ward. In addition, it purchases the materials from which over 5,000 articles, such as bandages, sleeping garments, towels, sheets, etc., were made by 175 women for the Hospital in 1915.

All of these materials, fruits, jellies, etc., cost money and this year, the Women's Auxiliary Board have decided to hold a Rose Tag Day in order that every person in Plainfield may contribute to this most worthy organization which does so much to relieve suffering and bring joy to the sick.

MOTOR PLANT TO BE REALITY SOON

Preliminary Plans of American Company's Factory Submitted This Week.

MEET WITH APPROVAL

Inspector Doane Makes Only Slight Changes in Tentative Designs—Three Separate Structures to Be Built.

While no plans have been filed with Building Inspector T. O. Doane as yet, it is quite probable that the work of constructing the factory buildings for the local plant of the American Motor Company will be commenced within the next few weeks. John E. Dunn, who sold the concern the site on West Front street, near Grant avenue, and who contracted with the motor people to have the factory put up, submitted his temporary drawings to Inspector Doane the past week. They were given a thorough scrutiny, and practically in every detail were found to conform with the local building code. What few changes were deemed necessary are now being made. The permanent plans will be completed within a few days, after which the necessary drawings will be filed and the permit granted.

According to the designs as submitted, the plant is to be composed of three buildings. All will be of brick, concrete and steel, and will be made as near fireproof as is possible. Wood will be eliminated in many instances, one of them being the substitution of metal for the ordinary wooden window frames seen elsewhere. There will also be an automatic sprinkling apparatus throughout, and water pressure pipes distributed about the yards.

The factory will consist of three buildings. The largest of these is to be a main factory sturcture measuring about 300 feet long and sixty feet wide and one story in height. The next largest will be the power house, located near the railroad side of the lot, wherein the engines and motors will be installed. The third structure will be the administration building, which will provide for the offices and clerical staff. The exterior appearance of each building will be made as attractive as possible in order to improve the general aspect of the entire place. A railroad spur will enter the plant from the New Jersey Central tracks, but it will be in a portion of the site far removed from Front street.

An estimate of the plant costs has not been forthcoming as yet, although Mr. Dunn has tentative figures. It will run into many thousands of dollars as can easily be seen from the plans already submitted, these showing that everything will be absolutely up-to-date and of the most lasting kind. Mr. Dunn will give out the contracts himself and will supervise the work in accordance with the agreement he made when the American Motor Company purchased his lot.

Either before the new factory is completed or shortly after it is quite likely that a large number of new homes of medium cost will have been erected within the vicinity of this land. Workmen's homes in that section of the city are already scarce and investors are making haste to take advantage of the golden opportunity.

IN THE SUBURBS

It is understood that Robert B. Partain, of Dunellen, will not have a house built at once on the lot of land on Dunellen avenue, next to the Kirby house, which he recently purchased, notwithstanding rumors to the contrary.

It is not likely that Mr. Partain will start building operations for at least a year, and possibly the time may be still longer.

Work has been started on the foundation of the new house to be erected for Leslie Latham, of Dunellen, on Prospect avenue on a portion of the land of his father, Mayor Ernest B. Latham. The foundation work is in charge of Contractor Firman H. Gise.

Among the real estate transactions reported this week is the sale of a lot of land situated on Front street, Dunellen, Equator Park, and Nos. 76 and 77 on the map of that property. It is sold by the National Land and Building Company to William Strull.

Improvements are in order at the front of the store in the Mesler building, Dunellen, occupied by Campbell & Bogardus. The front of the store is being screened, awnings are to be put in the place and the exterior treated with white enamel, making a very attractive and sanitary setting for their growing business.

FIVE PERMITS THE PAST WEEK'S TOTAL

Plans Approved by Inspector Doane Call for Expenditures of $3,610.

Building permits issued by Inspector T. O. Doane during the week ending yesterday showed a total of only five, one of which was for the installation of a gasoline tank. Of the four others, one was for two small frame factory buildings, one an extension and two for garages. The total estimated cost of the work for the five permits was $3,610, making a total for the month of May to date of $45,098, and for the year since January 1, $358,844.

The Crescent Color and Chemical Company has been granted a permit for the erection of two frame buildings at 1800 West Front street, the structures becoming necessary because of the increase in busines. One building will be 120 by 6 feet, and is to be used for storage purposes, while a 50-foot square building is to be erected as a shop. The work will cost $2,785. Charles H. Smith, of the borough, is the architect, and N. F. Nicolaysen, of Dunellen, the general contractor.

Henry Worner, of 433 East Seventh street, is to erect a 12 by 20-foot frame garage at a cost of $200. R. G. Bush is to do the mason work, the carpenter contract going to Ralph Bullman.

Miss Ella T. Manning, of 1309 East Randolph road, is to erect a similar structure, the same contractors caring for the work.

Frank Hedden is to install a sixty-five gallon tank for the storage of volatile liquids at 118 East Fourth street, at a cost of $25.

Edward F. Fiering, 441 Orchard place, extension of home over kitchen; estimated cost, $400. Contractor not given.

ST. MARK'S MISSION PLANNING TO BUILD

East End Episcopal Congregation Now Raising $5,000 for Church Edifice.

A plan on the part of the members of St. Mark's Mission, the East End colored Episcopal congregation, to raise sufficient funds for a fine church home, have recently taken a new lease of life with prospects of early development. Some time ago the vestrymen of the mission took title to a suitable plot of ground on East Third street, between Richmond and Berckman streets, and it is eventually hoped to erect a structure costing about $5,000.

The rector of St. Mark's, Rev. Mr. Sedgewick, has the aid of a committee, of which W. J. Douglas is chairman, on conducting the campaign for the building fund. A good-sized sum is already in hand, and the congregation believes that the full amount will be secured within the present year. While plans for the church structure itself are in an embryonic state at present, the edifice will probably be of stone construction, and of a size in keeping with the growth of the mission.

St. Mark's was originally started by Rev. E. Vicar Stevenson, rector of Grace church, but has recently assumed such large proportions that it has been placed in charge of the archbishop of the diocese. The services have been held for a long time in the Masonic headquarters on St. Mary's avenue, and for the past year the capacity of the auditorium has been frequently put to a severe test. For this reason, and for others equally as urgent the plan to secure a permanent church home was started.

A MODERN DUPLEX

DESIGNED BY CHAS S. SEDGWICK, ARCHITECT.

We are illustrating in this issue a "Modern Duplex," with six rooms in each flat, i. e., large living room, three bedrooms, dining room and kitchen, with the necessary clothes closets for each room and a coat closet off from the hall and a convenient bathroom for each flat.

The size is 25 ft. in width and 55 ft. in depth over the front glazed piazza. There is a good full basement with arrangement for two heating plants. The estimated cost is $5,500 to $6,500, exclusive of heating and plumbing.

The exterior is frame construction with cement stucco, the interior is finished in hardwood oak or birch and the floors of oak. The rear porch entrance for both flats is convenient and under the main roof and can be glazed in if desired. These rear stairs reach from basement to second story, being very convenient for both flats.

The floors should be conconstructed in such a manner as to keep out all sound between the flats. There are several ways to accomplish this, the best way costs the most, that is to furr the ceiling over the first story down, leaving a separate air space between and then use a thick felt or Cabot's Quilt or "Flaxlinum." There are several makes of similar materials that are about the same quality and serve the purpose of deadening.

The size and shape of this duplex makes it suitable to the ordinary city lot, but the more width and open air space on each side the better it is for the flat and the more desirable to

FOOD DICTATOR IS STRONGLY OPPOSED

Army to Be Fed First, Says Von Batocki.

London, May 27.—Referring to Food Dictator von Batocki's statement in the reichstag, as reported by Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent that "great difficulties are arising out of the relations of the federal states" and that "from Wurttemberg menacing letters reached me protesting against the sucking dry of Wurttemberg by Prussia," the Chronicle says:

"This plaint from Wurttemberg only expressed in drastic fashion what all other German states feel with regard to Prussia. In the Bavarian diet the other day the members complained of 'Prussian food egotism' and of the attempts which the Berlin government is making to induce the Bavarian food powers to send their stuff to Berlin.

"In Saxony the same feeling prevails, and it is clear that Von Batocki's main difficulty will be to persuade the Bavarian, the Hessian, the Badenser and others that their main duty now is to feed Prussia. In Eisenach the town council issued an order forbidding the exportation from the district of all kinds of meat, sausage, poultry, fish, fats and oils, groceries, soap and soap powder, cheese, eggs, baked wares, tarts, fruit cakes and vegetables.

"The Berlin Tageblatt, with some pertinence, comments on this as follows: 'The people speak of England's starvation war against us, but this German starvation war against large towns is at least worthy of condemnation.'"

Herr von Batocki said the task of provisioning would be more or less difficult, depending upon the outcome of the harvest. The army must first be provided for, he said, and only then could the civil population be considered. It should not be forgotten, he added, that the bad harvest of 1914 and the still worse one of 1915 were the causes of the present situation.

HALT DEBATE ON WATER SUPPLY

State Health Board to Discuss Sewage Question.

OBJECTION CAUSES DELAY

Resolution Before Body to Permit Effluent of Sewage Disposal Plants to Flow Into Potable Streams—Makes Municipalities Responsible For Purification.

Trenton, May 27.—Final consideration is to be given by the state department of health on June 20 next to a resolution introduced this week that would put the department on record in favor of permitting sewage disposal works to discharge their effluent into streams from which potable water is taken and making the municipalities using the water for drinking purposes responsible for its purification.

The resolution might have been passed this week had not objection been raised by one of the members, Dr. Henry Spence of Jersey City. He asked that the whole matter might lie over until the next regular meeting in order that full consideration might be given to the important subject. The resolution was prepared by Chester G. Wigley, chief of the bureau of engineering, and had the indorsement of Moses N. Baker and Clyde Potts, the two civil engineer members of the department. Both men were anxious to have their policy made the policy of the department.

The resolution as presented was as follows:

Whereas, The population resident on watersheds from which water is taken for potable purposes is rapidly increasing in certain sections in this state, and,

Whereas, the increased population on these watersheds necessitate the construction of sewerage works in the more densely populated districts, be it

Resolved, That it is opinion of this department that

First.—On all watersheds having an average population of 100 or over, that the use of water from such a stream is unwise and unsafe, due to the uncontrollable and intermittent sources of pollution, and therefore all persons, corporations, companies, and so forth, using water from such watersheds must provide the necessary treatment works to assure that the water supplied for potable purposes shall be proper, satisfactory and safe as regards its bacterial content.

Second.—That on watersheds having even smaller average population than 100 per square mile, if such population dwells in such vicinity as to be a menace to the quality, either due to location or topography, the same burden rests upon the persons supplying water to install necessary treatment works to assure the safety of the water supply.

Third.—That in any wateshed from which water is used for potable purposes, any sewage disposal works constructed shall deliver an effluent equal to that commonly known as a sand filter effluent in which the organic solid material is practically removed, the effluent well clarified and nonputreescible, showing a material reduction of the bacterial content, as shown by analyses of raw sewage and plant effluent. Except that under certain conditions where such sewage treatment plants are so situated as to be a particular menace to the quality of the supply, when special precautionary measures shall be taken as the department shall deem advisable.

Fourth.—That the diversion of sewage to a point without the watershed from which potable water is taken, unless the expense of such diversion does not greatly increase the cost of the works, or unless persons diverting water for potable purposes shall agree to an equitable distribution of the costs of such diversion, such costs being a measure of the benefits accruing to the persons diverting water for potable purposes.

ATTACK JERSEY JITNEY LAW.

Drivers In Suits Call Restrictions Unreasonable and Confiscatory.

Trenton, May 27.—The Kates jitney law is under attack in the supreme court. Proceedings were instituted by four Asbury Park jitney men to test the constitutionality of the law.

The jitney law requires bus operators to obtain a license from the municipal authorities, give a bond and return a certain part of their receipts to the city treasury. These restrictions, it is contended, are unreasonable and confiscatory.

Constable Quells Rioters.

New Brunswick, May 27.—Sheriff Edward F. Serious trouble was halted at the latter place by Constable Thomas Revolinski, who walked into a crowd of 100 strikers as they were hurling bricks at 200 men going to work and persuaded them to be peaceful. Two strikers were arrested as the result of a fight at the Sayre-

BOYS' WORK IN SUMMER.

In a daily newspaper a couple of years ago appeared a striking cartoon showing a church with a sign on the door reading, "Closed until first Sunday in October," while all around were wide open saloons and all kinds of commercial amusements.

The time has passed, however, when the coming of the summer was the signal for a general let-up in religious work, particularly in boys' work. Organized Sunday-school classes, church boys' clubs, scout troops and Young Men's Christian Associations look forward to summertime as an opportunity for even greater endeavor along character building lines. While the forces of evil are working overtime, the church and its allies dare not rest.

Thousands of boys every summer are spending from one to ten weeks in camps conducted by local or State Young Men's Christian Associations, scout councils, and churches, and thousands of other older boys who are busy during the week get away for week-end trips under similar auspices. These larger camps of which Camp Dudley, in New York State and Wawayanda and Kiamesha in New Jersey are examples, provide the very best times imaginable, all under careful direction and Christian leadership. Athletics, aquatics, forestry, nature study, first aid and life saving are all entered heartily into, yet the real aim of the camp is to send each boy home a little more like the Boy Jesus; and hundreds of boys every year, living out in the wilds, roaming through God's own forest temples and looking up at night into His jewel studded heavens, resolve to live their whole lives in accordance with their Heavenly Father's will.

What of the boys not so fortunate as to be able to get away for long periods? For such, wide-awake churches and Christian Associations conduct one-day outings, overnight-camps, baseball leagues, and for the working boys twilight athletic meets and socials, all of which may minister to the spiritual side of their nature if rightly conducted, and if the leaders are men of Christ-like character, for as has been truly said, "Character is caught, not taught."

Many Plainfield boys will be engaged in all these activities this year as conducted by the boys' division of the local Young Men's Christian Association, and other summer activities such as swimming lessons for boys who have not mastered that art, game tournaments and scouting trips.

The "boy problem," however, is the man problem, and boys' work is men's work, and some of the strong men who have been influenced by Dr. Biederwolf's presentation of the gospel to surrender their lives to God could begin to serve Him in no better way than by taking an active part in the boys' work of their church or the association.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES

RECENT FICTION.

Beach, Rex. Crimson Gardenia. "A collection of short stories, most of them concerned with romantic adventure in the tropics, the Far North, at sea and in mining regions."

Birmingham, G. A. Gossamer. "A more serious novel than are the most of this author's previous works. It deals with the wide-spreading system of finance which links the nations together, and its chief character is a mighty financier who from his London office directs the weaving of this far-flung web."

Brady, Cyrus Townsend and Son. Web of Steel. "A story of how a miscalculation ruined a great bridge and the reputation of a great engineer, and of how the man who carried the shame of another came out exonerated.'"

Bosher, Kate Langley. People Like That. "A picture of the 'other half' of the world and of the indifference to it of those more fortunately placed. The heroine, moved by the desire to see herself and those of her station in life as others see them, goes to live on the edge of slumdom, her action being also in part a test of her lover."

Chambers, Robert W. The Better Man. "A collection of fifteen stories of the out-of-doors in Florida and in the Adirondacks. They are all love stories and are all more or less humorous.

Conrad, Joseph. Within the Tides. "Four short stories of the sea."

Daviess, Maria Thompson. The dare-devil. "Miss Daviess lays the scenes of her new novel in Harpeth Valley, Tennessee, where she herself lives. The heroine is a French countess, who, having suffered much from the European war, comes to this country and drifts into the valley and into adventures in love."

Deeping, Warwick. Bridge of Desire. "A novel of contemporary life in England—before the war—which studies a crisis at the end of seven years in the life of a distinguished dramatist when, after he had crossed the bridge of desire to seat at the fleshpots of indulgence, he comes back weary and ashamed."

Garland, Hamlin. They of the High Trails. "A series of short stories dealing with the people of the western mountains—outlaws, cowboys, miners, womenfolk—picturesque figures of many different types. They are all, the author says, 'of the sort who take chances, and they can still be found on the high trails.'"

Grey, Zane. The Border Legion. "A romantic story of the border in Idaho fifty years ago, in which gold strikes, the lust for gold, the lawless spirit of the mining camp, the work of bandits, a woman's recklessness, and the power of her love combine to make a novel of similar character to those by which the author of 'Riders of the Purple Sage,' 'The Rainbow Trail,' and other western tales is well known."

Haggard, Sir Rider. The Ivory Child. "Another tale of wild, mysterious, and exciting adventures in South Africa with Allan Quatermain again figuring as narrator and chief actor."

Nicholson, Meredith. The Proof of the Pudding. "A tale of life in an Indiana community in which are mingled love affairs, business adventures, the tangles due to perversity, and willfulness, the sane influences of steady heads and loyal hearts."

Porter, Eleanor H. Just David. "A story of happiness, courage, and inspiration exemplified in the character and life of a boy who has lived in the mountains with his father, an invalid player on the violin."

Richmond, Grace S. Under the Country Sky. "A tender romance about an American girl whose characteristic traits are courage, optimism, and devotion. She struggles to keep up appearances and watch over her invalid father, but life is good to her later on."

Sidgwick, Ethel. The Accolade. "The author here presents a group of people whom she studies with her usual keenness and sense of humor, working out the story by means of their relations to one another and the development of their characters."

Tarkington, Booth. Seventeen. "As Mr. Tarkington portrayed the trials and joys of boyhood in 'Penrod,' so new he tells of the tragedies and the romances that encompass the lad who at 17 is just passing out of childhood and is not yet quite a man, although he feels in himself all the dignity and importance of the adult. The love affair, the wounded dignity, the family, the sweetheart, the tribulations of his 17-year-old hero, the author makes into a humorous story whose scene is laid in a typical mid-western town."

Speaking of Technique.

During the evening, says Brazee (Minn.) --Astor Theatre--

The big attraction at the Astor Theatre today will be "On the Mexican Border," a splendid motion picture production of the Mexican boundary. With the American troops on Mexican soil and the general ill-feeling between the two nations, this is a most timely topic, very entertaining and thrilling. See the great fight at the rock cabin, the race for life and the burning mine smelter dump devilitry and a number of other exciting features. Winifred Kingston plays the principal feminine role. The part of Florence Winthrop, who, after a girlhood in the West, deserts it for the gaieties of society in the East. The story is of his winning his boyhood sweetheart back to the glorious freedom of the cattle country. One of the chief features of this excellent production is the strength of the supporting cast, the co-workers being such well-known players as Herbert Standing, the well-known London actor who has been associated with the greatest players of the English stage. Lydia Yeamans Titus, who is well-known to Plainfielders, also appears in this photoplay, and others who were especially engaged because of appropriate talents make the support complete. On Wednesday and Thursday, Daniel Frohman presents Mary Pickford, in "Poor Little Peppina," in which she is superb as an Italian-American. This production, which is in six parts, and shows "Little Mary" in a very unusual characterization, is wonderful to behold, having played to standing room only at the Strand Theatre in New York. It is a far cry from the tender little Japanese Cho-Cho-San of "Madame Butterfly" to the heroic figure of "Poor Little Peppina," but the art of this wonderful star has enabled her to bridge that gap and to make of the near-Italian girl, who lives as a boy, one of the greatest of her long list of successes. Our prices for Wednesday and Thursday: Matinee 5c and 10c; evening prices, 15c all seats.

- Proctor's Theatre -

Mme. Olgo Petrova, one of the most renowned and talented of emotional screen stars, appears today at Proctor's under the direction of Francis J. Grandon in her latest Metro picture entitled, "The Soul Market," in which she is cast in an appealing and congenial role. Mme. Petrova's wonderful acting easily dominates the picture and she gives an impersonation that holds the rapt attention of the spectators throughout. In addition, today, one of the funniest comedies ever released appears at Proctor's, entitled "Stars and Stripes Forever," which is a product of the renowned L-KO studios. On Monday, charming Marguerite Clark appears in "The Prince and the Pauper," a picture that fully justifies the use of that over-worked descriptive "excellent," for, by way of the artistic treatment of its picturization, "The Prince and the Pauper" becomes an animated replica of Mark Twain's most delightful work. It has many merits and no appoying demerits, and Miss Clark appears in a dual role to good advantage, being a vivacious and delightful boy, whether she be dressed in rags or in silks and satins, whether she appears as the prince suffering the brutality of a band o fthieves, or as the pauper, suffering the weight of her restricted and undesirable life as the prince. In addition, on Monday, the fourth episode of "The Mysteries of Myra" will be shown, while on Tuesday and Wednesday, in addition to the regular program of distinctive features, Charlie Chaplin will be seen in his latest and what is conceded his funniest comedy, entitled "Police! Police!" in three screaming parts. This picture was obtained by the Proctor management in advance of all other theatres in this section of the State, and "Police!" will be seen at the Proctor local house before any other theatre in this vicinity. In addition, on Tuesday, Norma Talmadge, the dainty Triangle favorite, will appear in a gripping feature, entitled "The Children in the House"; Joe Jackson appears in an amusing Keystone comedy called "The Lion and the Girl," and the thirteenth episode of "Mary Page" is also shown. On Wednesday, Virginia Pearson will make her debut as a Fox star in "Blazing Love,' and the fourteenth episode of "The Iron Claw" will complete the bill.

All members, neighbors and friends are invited to attend. Rev. Edward S. Ralston, the pastor, will be in charge and there will be a special progrom.

The building that has been the worshipping place of the congregation, is a portable affair and is to be shipped from Plainfield to West Hoboken, where it will again be put into service. PRESBYTERIAN BAN ON WOMEN VOTERS

Equal Suffrage Resolution Tabled by Assembly.

Atlantic City, May 27.—Woman suffrage was banned by the Presbyterian general assembly at its closing session on the steel pier. A resolution placing the assembly on record as "believing in the justice and righteousness of giving the women equal suffrage" was laid on the table after the stated clerk at the direction of Moderator Marquis read from the manual a rule ordering synods and councils of the church "to handle nothing save that which is ecclesiastical," and to avoid "meddling in civil matters."

The woman suffrage resolution was held to be political and as such was rigorously opposed by commissioners from the South.

Mr. Spouts sought to have his resolution adopted without debate, but this was overruled. After one or two objectors had been heard the vote to lay the matter on the table was decisive, only a scattering of "noes" being heard.

Presbyterians want the Bible read in the public schools; they would like to see Bible history taught in the schools. A resolution urging presbyteries throughout the country to agitate the subject and endeavor to procure legislative action bearing upon it was unanimously adopted by the general assembly.

Dallas won the general assembly of 1917. The Texas city put up a brave fight and in the face of an adverse report from the committee represented by the Rev. Dr. William H. Roberts, which favored St. Louis, the assembly voted in favor of Dallas by 365 to 250.

The new general board of education will take over the work of the present board of education and college board as soon as it can be incorporated. The location of this board was left to the decision of the executive commission, which will be determined in conference with members of the new board.

An Interesting Insti

Strangers revisiting the Metropol absence of a dozen years or so, ma wonderful transformation which has in the appearance of the City since last. Skyscrapers now pierce the s places that were absent on the visits. Everywhere they go they fi houses have been torn down for the new buildings for office, business o houses. Old streets that were exclu class residential sections have given unrelenting pressure of business, a coach has been banished for the trolle road, the subway, and the automobile

Nowhere, perhaps, in the entire such changes be seen in a decade as of New York, yet, in the face of changes which have taken place in t the racial, the religious, the busines industrial life of the Metropolis, now world has there been shown so high a tion of deserving mercantile institut have grown with the growth of the have kept pace with it in its stead

This fact is brought home to us ve when we look around the City and strength and standing of a numb great retail stores which were esta the early part of the last century. have not only survived all the vicis time and change, but have waxed str each succeeding decade.

That these stores have survived and among our leading retail shops simpl the law of the survival of the fittest

There is not any more tangible or m illustration of this principle in New Y dom than is exemplified in the presen and popularity of the great store of Hearn & Son, in Fourteenth St., wes Ave.

The Hearn Store, occupying today of 375,000 square feet, began its mod 60 years ago in Canal St., near Broad the uppermost shopping limit of the c New York, in 1857, when the populat City amounted to 152,000 souls, or thirty-seventh of its present colossal about five and a half million.

At the inception of its career the He occupied a space of 25 feet by 100, square feet in all, in a two-story building, or, just—one-hundred-and-fif space it now occupies. By way of c it may be said that while the populati City of New York has grown to be ri times more than it was at the time of Behmer of the Hearn Store, this great occupies a space which is one-hundred times larger than it was when it fir its doors.

It can be seen, therefore, that, if th of the City of New York had kept p that of the Hearn Store, its populatio of being five and a half million as it would be nearly twenty-three million.

It may be asked why should the James A. Hearn & Son have shown steady growth during the nine decade career in a City in which there has many changes from the time of its estab and, during which, it has witnessed and fall of so many competitors.

Why does it stand stronger in popu today than at any time in its history pertinent queries are, we believe, v prehensively answered by the simple f the Hearn Store has constantly pract principle that, with it, the customers' must be considered first, last, and all t

Another thing which has contributed to the great popularity of the Hearn St be found in the dependability of its mer together with the low prices at which because of its tremendous outlet and th exercised in the buying of vast quantities bandise through its time-honored me paying cash for everything.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

What Happened to A Mouse, a Bird And a Sausage.

Once Flew Home With It.

[Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales.]

"A MOUSE, a bird and a sausage once kept house very happily," daddy began the bedtime story, "until one day when the bird told his friends that he was working too hard, bringing in all the wood they needed to cook the food.

"The mouse and the sausage begged him to go on and not to spoil the housekeeping. But the bird remained master of the home and made them draw lots for the work. So it came to pass that the sausage had to go into the wood and bring fagots, the mouse had to do the cooking, and the swallow had to fetch the water. Before this, you see, the bird fetched the wood, the sausage cooked, and the mouse went to the spring.

"And now what happened? The sausage waddled off to find the wood, the bird made the fire, and the mouse put on the pot for dinner. Then these two began to wait for the sausage to bring the fagots. But he was gone so long that they became worried about him, and the bird flew off to meet him. He had not gone far when he met a big dog who had come across the sausage and eaten him. The bird complained that this was nothing but thievery, but the dog said there was false stuff in the sausage which had forfeited his life.

"So the swallow sadly picked up the sausage's wood and flew home with it. The mouse and he were very unhappy to lose their good friend, the sausage, but they agreed to make the best of it and stand by each other.

"Now the bird had to set the table, and the mouse cooked the food. Wishing to cook it the same good way the sausage used to by rolling in and out among the vegetables and so seasoning and salting them, the mouse jumped into the pot. But before she reached the bottom of the pot she had parted not only with her skin and her hair, but also with her life.

"Soon the bird came in and wanted to serve the dinner, but he could not find the cook anywhere. In his distress he threw the wood on the floor and called and searched. He looked under the bed and in the jam jar, but no cook was to be found. Then some of the wood he had carelessly thrown down caught fire and began to blaze. He grabbed the mouse's little pail and dashed to the spring for some water to put out the blaze. But his pail slipped from his hill and fell into the water, and he after it. In his fright he was unable to recover himself. So he was drowned."

"Was that the end of the happy friendship, daddy?" asked Jack.

"Yes, and all because the bird was not willing to go on doing the part of the work he knew best how to do and leave the others to do their part well," daddy finished.

Marrying a Butterfly

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

Ethel Meets a Suitor of Other Years.

"Look, there is a big touring car drawn up by the side of the road," said Ethel Gordon, leaning forward in the buggy in which she was riding. "Don't stop near them. I am ashamed of this turnout."

"Well, I like that," snorted her husband. "Where shall we go? There are no more woods."

"Go right on, anywhere," answered Ethel. "A man of the party is coming to the automobile for something. We will decide where to go after we get by them."

Ralph was grumblingly preparing to follow her commands, when a resounding "Hello, there," caused him to draw in the reins.

"That must be Ethel Mertage," said the man, coming up to the buggy. "It couldn't be possible for two people to look so much alike."

Ethel flushed and extended her hand. "Why, Jack Forsyth, where did you drop from?" she asked in surprise. "This is my husband, Mr. Gordon," she continued, presenting Ralph.

"So you are married, too? It seems to me I did hear about it, but I had forgotten it. Come and meet my wife."

"Why," began Ethel lamely, "we——."

"No excuses now. This is too good a streak of luck to let slip. Where were you going? I hope you have nothing you must do for an hour or so," he continued enthusiastically. "We have just stopped here for a feed, and you simply must join us. Do you live around here?" He simply rained questions on the surprised pair.

"We were out for a breath of air and brought our lunch along," said Ralph coming to the rescue. "We live in Fairport, a short distance from here."

"Such luck!" joyously answered the traveler. "Let me help you out. We are on a short tour. As we live in Kansas City we may be said to be neighbors. I am mighty glad we ran across you." They were approaching the group seated around a generous lunch spread on the ground.

"This is an old friend of mine that I have found out here in the Kansas woods," said Jack Forsyth, presenting Ethel. "In fact, I may say a very particular friend, but as she has her husband along and I have my wife, we won't go into particulars." Jack laughed gaily at his own joke.

Ethel looked at the wife of this old beau of hers. She was very stylishly dressed, but her clothes were suitable for the trip she was taking, and Ethel felt that she was very conspicuous in her lace and gauze. She was constantly wondering what Mrs. Forsyth was thinking about the dingy buggy they came in, and the contrast between that and the elegant touring car filled her with fierce resentment at herself that she had allowed this prosperous man to slip through her fingers, and married a man who could give her nothing that she wanted.

Ralph and Jack were soon talking cheerfully together, but Ethel was too uncomfortable to be a very agreeable companion. After the lunch was disposed of Jack began packing the car for departure.

"As we have ten miles to go tonight before we reach our scheduled place to stop, I am afraid we shall have to be on the road. There is no moon, you know, but I am not going to lose sight of you. I can promise. When can you run down to the city to see us?"

"Ethel will be very glad to come, I am sure," answered Ralph. "She hates Fairport and a visit to the city will brighten her up, I know. I should think you could spend the night with us and go on in the morning," he continued hospitably. "Our house is large. That is the one advantage of a small town; you can spread out."

Ethel joined her invitation to Ralph's, for she wanted them to see their house, but they declined, saying that they would run down some time soon.

Raking 'Em Over

By "JINKS"

SUBSTITUTING COMMON-SENSE FOR FOXINESS BOTH HAVE IT ON THE WRITER.

"Bob Bogardus is as foxy as Dobbins any day in the week when it comes to baseball stuff," read a headline in our E. C. yesterday afternoon. All of which leads us to suspect that both men mentioned in that caption are possessed of about forty times as much good old-fashioned common-sense as the writer who takes credit for it, and he happens to be one of these individuals who claim to be blessed with an average amount of intelligence. The headline masterpiece refers to the complications which developed over the application the Dunellen baseball club made for a franchise in the Plainfield City Baseball League. Contrary to the trend of the story which followed the caption Dobbins and his fellow officials in the city loop DID KEEP DUNELLEN OUT. They fought for principle and WON OUT. Dunellen never made a formal demand on the league for admission rights; the baseball leaders in that town merely hinted at it. But even if they did go about the matter in a sensible course THEY WOULD HAVE BEEN REFUSED ADMISSION. The name City Baseball League does not mean Dunellen or any other town besides Plainfield. It doesn't take much brains to realize this. Granted that Dunellen did make application and did get it, which they didn't, Dobbins had nothing whatsoever to do with the issue. It was up to the league as a body and his word bears no more weight than that of the other twelve representatives who attend the meetings. If the truth were to be brought out those interested in baseball would be introduced to an underlying motive of the most contemptible brand which prompted the composition of this headline. The individual who is responsible for it is the one who condescends on frequent occasions to beg City Baseball League news from the president of the circuit and this is what he calls reciprocity. Other instances of the kind have been called to our attention on various occasions but we have heretofore sought to ignore the ignorace therein displayed.

BASEBALL WILL BE PLENTIFUL AROUND HERE THIS WEEK-END.

Fair weather is all that is needed to make this week-end one of the biggest of the year for baseball lovers. Games have been slated for today, tomorrow and Tuesday in the four quarters of the city and some classy exhibitions of the national nuisance are due to be served up. This is the one best opportunity to size up the City League material; get out and look it over while you have the chance. The six teams have just fallen into their stride and should perform in their best style over the holiday week-end. Morning and afternoon tussles have been carded for Decoration Day and it's a toss-up which looks the better. New faces will appear in some of the lineups this afternoon and in each case strength will be added. The tuning up period will be concluded today and the half dozen pennant fighters can be depended upon to settle down to a steady, hard grind for the remainder of the season. Get out and help to enthuse the ballists over the week-end and show the younger generation what baseball meant to the Plainfield citizen here a dozen years ago.

CYCLING GAME BEING WATCHED BY LOCAL ENTHUSIASTS.

Plainfield cycling enthusiasts are making weekly trips to the Newark Velodrome. The calibre of bicycle racing being staged there this year is the best ever shown and every program to date has brought out a lot of lively competition among the country's best known riders. Now that the "outlaws" have returned to the ranks of organized cycledom we may expect to see even keener fights for supremacy on the boarded track and it's a sure bet that Frank Kramer, the grand old man of the bike racing game, will have his work cut out for him in winning his sixteenth consecutive crown. The cream of the cycling talent is romping close on his heels this year and the wiseacres of this pastime are predicting a shifting of the laurels this fall. Plainfield is contributing weekly to the list of entries and this in itself has inspired a number of localites to journey to the Newark rendezvous for a Sunday afternoon outing.

GIANTS ACCOMPLISH REMARKABLE FEAT.

The Giants are traveling homeward after having established a record in major league history. When the New Yorkers left their home grounds they had won two games and lost 13. Their first stop was at Pittsburgh and there is where the rampage began. The Giants played 13 games in the West and won every one of them. It is the first time in history where a club in the major league has swept a trip clean. The old Orioles made the next best record when they copped 24 out of 25 games, but lost the last contest on their road trip, after sweeping the West. New York goes back home with the prospect of continuing its winning gait. The fellows are confident, the pitching has improved and conditions are such that there should be no chance of the Giants getting out of the first division now. If New York is not in the pennant race it will be one of the biggest upsets in baseball dope. Even when the Giants were getting away to such a bad start baseball experts picked them to brace and be in at the finish. Just now, talking of pennant stuff, the McGraw crew seems to have the inside track.

Announcement made today that A. Clinton Wilmerding has seen fit to retire as president of the Plainfield Kennel Club will be received with keen regret by not only those connected with the organization but all interested in dogs or dog shows. He has been the moving spirit of the club since its formation and his untiring efforts devoted to the promotion of its interests has placed it on a plane of excellence equal to that of any club of its nature in the country. Few persons, not even the members of the club which he presided over, are familiar with the hard work he performed faithfully in behalf of the last bench show held in Plainfield and the newly elected president, Edmund L. MacKenzie, although well acquainted with this particular branch of American sport, will have his work cut out for him in attempting to carry out the program of activity mapped out by the retiring head. Mr. Wilmerding during his long association with the club was the active head of every feature attempted and it is to be hoped that he will at least maintain the interest of a member in the organization after retiring as an officer.

Sometimes a store will decide to perform a real "stunt" in value-giving on some special line. You may be sure that in all such instances the ad readers will have earliest knowledge of the details.

WILMERDING QUITS AS CLUB PRESIDENT

Well Known Dog Fancier Resigns Because of Pressure of Business.

Considerable surprise and keen regret was occasioned at the meeting of the Plainfield Kennel Club last night by the announcement of A. Clinton Wilmerding's retirement from the presidency. Pressure of business affairs and the amount of work that would be attached to the American Kennel Club show to be held here on September 23 are given as the reasons for the resignation. Edmund L. MacKenzie was elected to fill the unexpired term, having served in a similar capacity in 1911, 1913 and 1914.

The American Kennel Club has granted the local organization the date of September 23 for the annual bench show and the preliminary details made up to this time indicate that one of the greatest array of prizes and dogs ever arranged in this State will be put on exhibition at that time.

The smoker committee last night decided that the time was not ripe for any form of special entertainment and advised postponing the contemplated affair until a future date. This was done and arrangements will be made later for a suitable event.

Secretary John J. O'Donohue's official statement concerning Mr. Wilmerding's withdrawal follows:

"Owing to the pressure of business affairs and the unusual activities necessitated by a large American Kennel Club show on September 23, our esteemed friend, A. Clinton Wilmerding, was obliged to relinquish the presidency of the Plainfield Kennel Club, much to the regret of the Board of Governors. Edmund L. Mackenzie was elected to fill his unexpired term. As you probably know, Mr. Mackenzie has served this organization in like capacity during 1911, 1913 and 1914, when the most successful shows in the history of the Plainfield Kennel Club were given."

The college athletes are busy in track and field in many meets. Besides the intercollegiates at Harvard today, there are big meets at Huron, S. D., New Orleans, Minneapolis, Dubuque, Burlington, Vt., and Hamilton, N. Y.

Two national championships, the five and ten mile races, are included in the card at the Hawthorne track at Chicago for the motorcycle bugs who will be in action Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Some of the speediest horses along the Pacific Coast are entered in the Reno race meet, which opens today. The meet is under the State Racing Commission, and so popular was the one last spring that another was demanded.

"DOC" WINTER HAS ENTRY IN HORSE RACE

Local Steed Will Run at Waverly Track in Newark Today.

One Plainfield horse is entered in the Waverly trotting matinee which will be run off at Weequahic Park, Newark, this afternoon. The meet is one of many that will be held during the celebration season, and is under the auspices of the Road Horse Association, of which several local horse fanciers are members. The only local horse entered in this afternoon's classic is the "Baron," owned by Dr. H. E. Winter. This horse is entered in the Class B (trot to carts).

Baboo, an Elizabeth entry, is the favorite in the race in which the "Baron" is entered, although those who ought to know say that the local horse has as good a chance as any of running off with the honors.

THE REASON WHY.

Al Timme, president of the Milwaukee American Association baseball team, of which Jack Martin is a member, announced yesterday that he believes that the reason for his team's poor showing centers about the unfortunate fact that both Joe Hovlik and Red Shakelford are not delivering the goods. In addition to this, President Timme says that he does not intend carrying these men any longer unless they can supply the goods when needed.

TITLE MEET DATES FIXED.

Boston, May 27.—The national junior championship track and field games will be held at Newark, N. J., on September 8, and the senior championships at the same place on September 9, the executive committee of the National Amateur Athletic Union announced last night. The national all-around championship will be held on September 16. All the events will form a part of Newark's 250th anniversary celebration.

ROYALS TUNING UP FOR OPENING GAME

"Midge" Kline's Proteges Making Ready for an Active Season.

According to his annual custom, William "Midge" Kline is beginning to get really interested in baseball. He has quite a reputation both here and elsewhere as a manager of ability, but has been idle, as far as that kind of work is concerned, for the past two or three years. Therefore, it is with mingled joy and surprise that his return to the fold is announced to the fans.

The team that Kline will lead will not interfere in any way with any plans formulated by H. G. Hobson, inasmuch as the Kline outfit will spend most of its time out of town. In fact, it is the intention of the manager to book only out-of-town games unless some good team is anxious to visit this city. Whether the team will prefix the name "Plainfield" to its already adopted title of "Royal A. C." has not been announced, but it is hoped that this idea will be followed out inasmuch as it means much for the Queen City in the line of advertising.

Speaking of the roster of his club, Manager Kline said this morning that he will have only the best boys in the business. On the pitching staff will be Elmer Brown, now of the Jersey City Giants, and McDonald, late of the Philly Giants. Other moundsmen with the Kline forces will be Hall, Valentine and "Tune" Kline. Tommy Washington, of the Newark Colored Giants, will handle the receiving work, and he will be asisted in that department by Banks, the former Baltimore Giants' star. At short Sisco will get a chance, but if it is thought that he is not fast enough for the other lads, he may not stick at the job. Sisco's work with the Philadelphia Giants earned him a good reputation as a fielder, but still, he is young, and has a lot to learn. At least that is the way the leading colored managers look at the situation.

As far as could be learned the official opening of the Royal season will take place next Sunday, when the club makes a visit to Passaic to take on the Blue Sox, of that place. At least, that is the arrangement effected by Tommy Washington.

The executive offices of the club are in this city, and the men who are behind the movement are William Kline and Paul Coleman. By the fact that so many Philly Giants are joining the team, one is lead to believe that Sam Houston, leader of the Quaker City forces, may have a hand in the pie.

By the way, Manager Kline is anxious to book an attraction with the Annandale baseball team, and would like to hear from the up-State manager in regards to the matter.

TABS WANT GAMES FOR SUNDAY SCHEDULE

Clinton Avenue Will Be the Opponent on Avon Oval Tomorrow Afternoon.

Through his press agent, James Scott, manager of the Plainfield T. A. B. S., has announced that he is desirous of booking some stellar attractions for Sundays. Although he desires to book mostly home games, Manager Scott will not frown upon any suitable traveling inducement and is particularly anxious to take his charges to Elizabeth to do battle with the Abstainers of that place.

Although the local team has been in the game for the past three years it has never had an opportunity to try conclusions with the Burns Boys of Betsytown. Last year, Jim Monihan, then leader of the Tab forces, consulted the Union county oracles in regards to the mater and found that he could do no business. The present manager is anxious to avoid another happening of this nature and for this reason is going to send in his challenge in plenty of time for action.

It might be well to state here for the benefit of those who manage semi-professional baseball teams in this vicinity that Manager James Scott can be reached at the T. A. B. clubhouse on West Fourth street at almost any time. The local boys would certainly appreciate a communication from Joseph Burns inasmuch as they have an intimation that they would just "eat up" Sheridan's offerings.

On Avon Oval tomorrow, the Clinton Avenue baseball team will oppose the Tabs. The Clintonians, who bear the alias "Dunellen," will probably have Warry McLaughlin or Percy Harney on the hillock with Eddie Bergen behind the bat. The Abstainers' batery will consist of Jack Denny and Teeling. In the "prelim" Alexandrer McDonald will lead his demon West Enders against Michael Montferrant's ambitious East Enders. Both managers have been assured of victory by the Delphian Oracle.

Seen and Heard on the Street

Buyer of sandwich in a local restaurant mistaking cheese for tissue paper wrapping, because it was sliced so thin.

Prospective buyer on Front street getting all "het up" when he saw produce dealer placing decayed tomato at bottom of crate.

Red-and-white cat astonishing residents of West Seventh street (one time white animal having come in contast with red paint).

Italian residents of the East End buying macaroni in wholesale quantities because they had read in newspapers sent over from "that dear Italia" that the crop would be extremely short this year on account of the war.

Meat wagon driver losing his cap in branches of overhanging Grove street trees turning his team and driving directly under the headgear to recover it.

Vaudeville actors, who had done a late turn at the Plainfield Theatre, rushing down Park avenue last night dressing themselves as they went in an effort to catch the 10:36 train. One vocalizer was in his shirtsleeves at Second street, but, with the assistance of a running mate had donned vest, coat, collar and tie by the time he reached the station steps. Inquisitive persons who followed the would-be passengers up saw them miss the train by about fifteen seconds.

PLAINFIELDERS TO PLAY AGAINST PENN. COMBINE

The Washington "Steel" League team, with which Tommy Mullen, Frank Hand and Red Grimes pastime, will go to Bangor, Pa., today to tackle the representative team of that place. Piper, who played second base for the club during the early part of the season, has been released and it was announced yesterday that his place would be taken by Jimmy Emery, of this city. This fact brings the total of local stars on the Washington team up to four.

According to reports received all along the line, the Steel League is doing very well and unlike the Pennsylvania State League, is making money. The Atlantic League teams are going along at a brisk rate although Easton seems unable to get out of the cellar, into which place they were more forcibly pushed by the Paterson team yesterday. It was not Mullin's fault that his team failed to come out on the upper deck as he tried his best to turn the tide of defeat to that of victory by clouting out two safeties, one of them a double, and by registering two runs out of the five scored by his team. The Silk City artists gathered in 7 tallies and nosed out the Keystone warriors.

The fact that Tommy is still performing with the Pennsylvania team indicates that his program for the season, as outlined in this paper some time ago and which through an awful scare into Billy Pfau, manager of the Perth Amboy Pacers, will be carried out to the leter. When the Pacers meet the Rahway team tomorrow, the Mullin, Hand, Grimes trio will be on hand to attend to business.

POSTAL PENSIONS BILL SAVED

They Are Rescued From Hostile Civil Service Reform Committee.

Washington, May 27.—The Tague and Griffin bills providing for the retirement and pensioning of superannuated employees of the postoffice department were rescued from the civil service reform committee, where they were doomed to defeat, and referred by the house back to the postoffice committee, where favorable action will probably be taken on them.

The two measures, which were introduced by Representatives Tague of Massachusetts and Griffin of New York, had been considered by the postoffice committee and were about to be reported when on motion of Representative Cox of Indiana they were transferred to the civil service reform committee. The transfer was virtually a defeat, as no action was contemplated by the latter committee. The friends of the measure, after a preliminary wrangle, succeeded in having them sent back to the postoffice committee.

FIX NAVAL VOTE BILL.

Drastic Rule Adopted Providing for Final Action.

Washington, May 27.—By a vote of 158 to 20, with nineteen members voting present, the house adopted a special rule which provides for a final vote on the naval bill next Friday. The measure was formally taken up and will constitute the order of business from now until its passage.

The rule, which is of a drastic character, met with passive resistance by Republican members of the house, many of whom desire to attend the national convention in Chicago. What objection there was to it came from Democrats, some desiring more opportunity to offer amendments. The nineteen voting present were Republicans.

GREEK CABINET RESIGNS.

Strong Demand In Evidence For Eleutherios Venizelos.

Athens, via London, May 27.—As a result of growing political unrest over conditions imposed upon Greece by the war and the intervention of Anglo-French forces in Greek territory, the Skouloudis cabinet has resigned, after lasting six and a half months, an unusual length of time for Greek cabinets since the outbreak of the war.

Immediately upon the resignation of the cabinet a strong campaign was set on foot for the return to power of Eleutherios Venizelos, leader of the pro-ally sections of Greece, who last year lost the premiership because of his insistence upon intervention on the side of the entente powers.

M. Skouloudis was generally regarded as a "neutrality staesman," although his political enemies charged him with being pro-German and against intervention in behalf of the allies.

—That funny fellow scoop is on the classified page.

NOTICE.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

BID FAREWELL TO THE TABERNACLE

Members of All Churches Sing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" as They Part.

5,000 ATTEND SERVICE

McEwan and Sluyter Could Not Stay Away — Rev. William Hiram Foulkes Brings Message of Cheer and Courage to New Christians.

More than 5,000 people bid a reverent farewell to the pine tabernacle of the Biederwolf campaign that has been a burial ground for sin and a birthplace of christian lives for the past seven weeks, in a big union service last night.

All protestant churches in Plainfield united in the service and, despite the threatening showers, the tabernacle was almost filled when Clifford Braider led the chorus choir in the first song. Still loyal, as it was through the weeks that Dr. Biederwolf was here, the chorus choir was on hand 800 strong, and it never sang better. Mr. McEwan himself said so, for "Mac" was there. He couldn't stay away, he explained, and neither could Mr. Sluyter.

Mrs. McEwan and her daughter also attended the services. They were on their way to Philadelphia to see Mr. Bachemeyer, and "Mac" reported that he had come out of the operation well and was on the road to complete recovery. When he went on his way to Philadelphia he carried with him the expressed wishes of 5,000 Plainfield men and women for the speedy recovery of Mr. Bachemeyer. Both Mr. McEwan and Mr. Sluyter were given a rousing welcome when they walked into the tabernacle unannounced, and each was made to sing. Mr. McEwan sang "Christ Returneth," and Mr. Sluyter sang "Make Me to See."

By a rising vote the entire congregation authorized Arthur M. Harris, who was in charge of the meeting, to send to Dr. Biederwolf and Mrs. Biederwolf an invitation to make their home in Plainfield. Mr. Harris explained that it had been hinted to him that the evangelist was seeking a home site in the East. He will forward the invitation at once.

The Rev. J. Y. Broek read the scripture lesson, and the Rev. B. S. Hudson offered the opening prayer. The Rev. C. S. Gillespie offered the invocation.

After the chorus choir sang a number of songs that tabernacle audiences have learned to love, under the direction of Mr. Braider, Miss Etta Raybert sang by request. Mr. Harris announced that pulpit furniture, electric light globes, stoves and other articles in the tabernacle would be sold at public auction there at 2:30, Wesdesday afternoon.

A meeting for men only in the Y. M. C. A., Sunday, June 11, was announced. It will be addressed by a prominent speaker from New York.

The Rev. William Hiram Foulkes, of Philadelphia, formerly of the Rutgers Presbyterian church of New York, delivered the evening sermon. Dr. Foulkes' text was, "He is Able to Keep." His sermon was a lesson of courage and cheer for those recently converted at the tabernacle. The text was from the letters of Paul to his son Timothy and was written in the last years of this wonderful christian. The minister said that Paul was referring to God when he said, "He is Able to Keep," and he warned those new in the Christian faith against trusting in their own strength. He is able to keep not only the past and the future, but to keep that combination of both, the soul. It is not the business of the Christian to keep from falling, the minister said. He or she has but to keep faith with God and he will strengthen and make the life pure against world temptations. This keeping that God promised is for time, but also for eternity; but first God must be trusted with the heart and with the life before he can take it into his keeping.

After the sermon, Mr. Harris gave the invitation for those who desired to accept Jesus Christ for the first time or to reconsecrate themselves to sign cards that were distributed by ushers.

The congregation arose and sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds"; after which the Rev. J. O. McKelvey dismissed the service with prayer.

BOYS' CHAPTER TO GIVE GARDEN PARTY

Affair at W. S. Tyler's Home on West Eighth Street to Be for Worthy Cause.

A sale and moving picture entertainment will be held Thursday afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock at the residence of W. S. Tyler, 520 West Eighth street, for the benefit of one of the inmates of the Berkshire Industrial School, of which Mr. Tyler is president. The affair will be given by nine boys of the school, all under thirteen years of age, who organized themselves into a chapter, and their purpose is to ge sufficient funds to educate one of their fellow-members so that he will be properly fitted for his life work. The affair, which is called "A Chapter, and their purpose is to get sufficnature of a garden party, and the beautiful lawns of the Tyler residence will be converted into a pretty wonderland of many surprises for young and old. Garden accessories of every description will be on sale such as hats, aprons, tools, bird houses, birdsticks, etc. Refreshments will be on sale during the entire afternoon. Especial attention will be given the children attendants; children's hats and novelties tempting to the youthful will be plentiful, as well as many other amusing attractions. Three donkeys have been donated for the occasion and will furnish rides to all youthful equestrians. Should the weather be stormy the entertainment will be postponed to the first clear afternoon following.

Twenty-one years ago the Berkshire Industrial Farm was founded in the belief that other methods with "bad" boys than those in vogue would be both more Christian and more efficacious. The work grew. The farm is now a large place—1,000 acres—nestled in the beautiful hills three miles from the station at Canaan, N. Y.—on the New York-Massachusetts State line, thirty miles east of Albany. The Berkshire farm takes boys from six to sixteen years of age. They are surrendered by parents or guardians who cannot control them, or they are committed by magistrates for infractions of the law. They come for four years. There are no bars to keep the boys in—they do not need any. The boys learn to love the place as the children of some sturdy old farmer love the old homestead.

CHORUS CHOIR TO PERFECT ORGANIZATION

First Meeting Will Be Held on Thursday When Officers Will Be Chosen.

Under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee of Plainfield a permanent organization to be known as the Plainfield Community Chorus and Orchestra will be formed in the auditorium of the Washington School, Darrow avenue, on Thursday evening, June 1. The tentative plans call for two concerts to be given each season, rehearsals for the first one to begin about the middle of September with the concert following about the middle of November. A rest will then be taken over the holiday season and rehearsals for the second concert will follow about the middle of March. The organization will adopt its own constitution and by-laws and elect its own officers. Judge Runyon is to act as temporary chairman until officers have been elected. It is proposed to have an attractive social feature in connection with the work, and the week following each concert the members will be entertained by outside talent and refreshments will be served. All who can sing or play a musical instrument, fifteen years of age or over, are invited to join in this effort to have a great community organization, and trained singers will be especially welcome, as the plans of the director call for all incidental solos to be taken by members of the organization. Other detailed plans will be worked out after the organization is under way, such as organizing a women's chorus, and the forming of a male chorus and a class in sight-reading will be formed for those who care to become more proficient. The organization is to be absolutely non-sectarian, and regardless of creed, all will be welcome to join. If you have not sent your application in you may present yourself at the meeting on Thursday evening and be assigned a place. A special program has been prepared for Thursday evening, when the soloist will be Edgar A. Cole, the popular baritone of the choir of the First Methodist church, and Miss Josephine M. Giglio will entertain with readings. This meeting is for members and prospective members only, and the public will not be admitted. Clifford A. Braider is to be the director of this new organization.

NAMES THOSE WHO WILL VIEW SHOWS

Mayor Sends Out Invitations to Serve on Volunteer Committee.

GIVEN NO AUTHORITY

Will Act Only When Request Comes From Theatre Manager—Policy of Local Government is Again Clearly Stated.

Plainfield's volunteer censorship committee, to serve only on request of local theatre managers and without authority from the municipality, has been appointed by Mayor Leighton Calkins. This morning the Mayor sent letters asking the following local citizens to serve on the committee: William N. Runyon, Rev. P. J. Hart, Samuel Rothberg, Rev. Charles E. Herring, Richard A. Claybrook, Andrew J. Gavett, Allen B. Laing, Miss Mabelle C. Phillips, Mrs. Alexander Milne, Mrs. J. M. Charles, Mrs. Arthur L. Otterson, Mrs. Henry D. Hibbard.

No acceptances have as yet been received because the letters were only mailed today, but Mayor Calkins carefully considered each of the names and he believes that the committee will serve as a whole because of the service it can render the community.

The committee will act only on request from theatre managers, and at no other times, and will merely state its opinion as to whether the proposed exhibition is of an immoral nature or tendency. The committee will have no authority to forbid the exhibition; and therefore will not act as a board of censors. The manager will accept the opinion of the committee or not as he pleases. The committee will, however, report its finding to the city authorities which will exercise their powers under the law according to their judgment.

The policy of Mayor Calkins, unanimously indorsed by the Common Council, on the censorship of shows of all kinds is, briefly, as follows:

"The city will not undertake to watch out for advertised performances, or to investigate them and make objection in advance. Exhibitors will be held to the responsibility placed upon them by law, not to exhibit anything of an immoral nature or tendency. The last empowers the Mayor, if satisfied on complaint and after hearing that such an exhibition has been given, to revoke the license. It is up to the managers to censor their own shows and satisfy themselves in advance that they are within the law.

"But, appreciating the fact that people differ in their views in such matters and in order to co-operate with an honest intent by the managers to avoid objectionable shows, I have advised them that, while they will be held to their responsibility under the law, and may not avoid it by making contracts with outside parties for the production of exhibitions here on circuit schedule, nevertheless if they entertain any doubt as to the character of a picture or show which they purpose to exhibit and wish to have it viewed in advance, they will be accommodated."

HORSESHOEING PRICES TO ADVANCE 25 PER CENT

At a conference of the recently-organized horseshoers' association Friday night, it was agreed that the price on all kinds of horseshoeing should be advanced 25 per cent. beginning June 1. The increase has been made necessary through the high cost of materials brought about by shortages in the various mills.

It was decided at the conference also, that all shops in Plainfield and North Plainfield would be closed Saturday afternoons during the summer months, commencing June 3.

HILL IS SINKING; WILL DIE TODAY

Empire Builder Has No Chance for Life, Says Doctor's Bulletin.

St. Paul, May 29.—At 9 a. m. today, Dr. Briggs, of New York, issued the following bulletin on the condition of James J. Hill:

"Mr. Hill passed an extremely bad night. He is failing rapidly; his condition is extremely critical, and his death can be expected at any moment."

A special train brought Walter Hill, his wife and daughter to St. Paul from Hallock, Minn., last night. Walter Hill was hurt in an automobile accident several days ago, but left his bed to come to his father. All the absent members of the family have been summoned.

Mr. Hill was operated on Saturday by the Mayo brothers, noted surgeons, for an abscess on the thigh. It was said then that he had stood the operation well and the outlook was favorable, but he failed to rally as expected, and late in the day it became apparent that his condition had become extremely grave.

One of the doctors intimated that a certain sedative might prove of benefit to the patient, and when it was found that none of it could be obtained here or at any point near Chicago, Louis W. Hill ordered a special train on the Burlington to bring the medicine here.

Passenger and freight traffic on the road between Chicago and this city was sidetracked to give right of way to the special.

All speed records between the two cities were broken, the 431 miles being made in eight hours and three minutes, or an average of fifty-four miles an hour.

When the sedative was delivered at the Hill residence, the surgeons decided not to avail themselves of it.

JOURNEYMEN BARBERS CONFER WITH BOSSES

Reply as to Request for Increased Wages Will Be Made on June 15.

Ninety per cent. of all the boss barbers in the city and borough were present in the Trades Council rooms yesterday afternoon when a committee from the journeymen barbers presented their claims for an advance in wages. While there were numerous details to consider the essential request was that fourteen dollars a week be set as the minimum scale for journeymen, this being an increase of two dollars. It was stated by the committee that the cost of living had advanced steadily for many years, while the pay given journeymen barbers has remained practically the same. In many instances bosses pay employes more than fourteen dollars a week and these men will not be especially effected by the new schedule. June 15 was fixed as the date on which bosses will submit their reply.

During the conference yesterday the question of what resort the employers would have in meeting the requested raise was discussed thoroughly. The concensus of opinion was that prices on all tonsorial work with the exception of shaves would have to be raised. This detail will be definitely decided upon before any reply is made. There is a well defined rumor that the bosses are willing to make the minimum scale thirteen dollars a week but this could not be confirmed today. While the journeymen have made no public statement it is generally understood that unless some agreement is reached a walk-out will be ordered by the local union.

Local Committee Fixes June 12 as "Plainfield Day" at Big Fair to Be Held in New York City Next Month.

The local committees for the Allied Bazaar in Grand Central Palace, New York, held a special meeting this morning to arrange the work and collect material for the New Jersey section. The Plainfield day will be June 12.

Through the Mercy Committee, Mrs. J. K. Myers, chairman, there have been donated a painting by Jonas Lie, flour to the value of $100 by C. W. McCutchen, a Singer Sewing Machine, a barrel of lubricating oil, bicycle, a quantity of Peter chocolate and Pond's Extract.

The Prince of Wales Society, Mrs. Rufus Delafield, chairman, has made a specialty of porch and sofa cushions, and 250 of these have been promised. Those donating cushions are asked to put their names and telephone addresses on each bundle before sending them to Mrs. Rufus Delafield, 343 East Fourth street, by Monday, June 5.

The Belgian Society, Mrs. F. W. Wallace, chairman, is accepting a miscellaneous assortment of gifts for sale. It is especially desired that phonograph records be sent, as these always find a ready sale. A pedigreed dog has already been donated, as well as a lively young pig. There will be much amusement when these two animals are offered for sale on Plainfield day. A beautiful ginger jar of Chinese porcelain of exceptional value have bee given by Mrs. S. S. Carvalho and by Miss Helen Carvalho. The committe hopes that these very handsome gifts will find purchasers in Plainfield.

Any interested in these can obtain information from Miss F. W. Wallace, Hillside avenue, the King's Daughters' Circle, Mrs. F W Yates, 1112 Watchung avenue, and Mrs Peterkin, chairman, are making a specialty of garden and sport hats and fancy bags

Any persons who are not members of these organizations but who wish to contribute to the beneficent work being undertaken for the needy and starving peoples of Europe, can send contributions of money or articles for sale to any member of the committees mentioned here.

It is hoped that the Plainfield booth will receive a generous support from Plainfield people and that its day's receipts will pass the $1,500 mark, which is desired from each booth, daily. Much must be done for the starving, wounded and helpless peoples of the warring countries and generous Americans will miss the opportunity of doing their share to save these unfortunate people who, through no fault of theirs, are now driven out of their homes.

FIRST OF SHAKESPEARE COURSE OF LECTURE RECITALS

The Shakespeare Tercentenary course of lecture-recitals to be delivered by Edgar C. Abbott, of Boston, for the benefit of the Arthur Home for Blind Babies at Summit, will be opened with the initial one, Wednesday afternoon at 3:45 at the residence of Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, 139 East Seventh street. Miss Adra Cunningham, of 134 Crescent avenue, is in charge of the arrangements.

The Arthur Home for Blind Babies at Summit is the largest institution of the kind in the world. Since its establishment in 1910 it has cared for many blind babies. It has the best physicians, the best nurses, the best graduated kindergarten teachers who are used to the methods developed in the education of Laura Bridgman and Helen Keller. Without seeing the school, witnessing the daily progress, feeling the arms of these blind children around your neck and hearing the prattle of their cheerful voices, no one can quite understand the present need of giving these children special care.

SUCCESS OF "ROSE TAG DAY" IS ASSURED

Unusual Interest Being Shown in Affair for Benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital.

From the interest that is being aroused, there should be no doubt whatsoever of the success of Rose Tag Day for the Women's Auxiliary of Muhlenberg Hospital from sunrise to sunset on June 17. All Plainfielders have always been generously inclined towards their hospital, which is recognized as one of the best in this part of the country. This community should be most thankful to have such an institution in its midst to care for its sick and suffering.

It takes a great amount of money, however, to run a first class hospital and as the Women's Auxiliary feel confident that this Rose Tag Day this year is going to be very successful at no great cost to anyone it will no doubt become an annual affair during the month of roses.

The sum of $5,000 that they desire to raise should be a very easy matter in a city of this size. It only means a few cents from everyone but everyone must give their share. This is to be a community day for a community institution.

The young women "taggers" are already trying to figure out how they can win the rewards of 4 and 2 orchestra seats, respectively, at any New York theatre they may choose.

The publicity being given to Rose Tag Day is most thorough. It consists of posters on billboards, posters in merchants' windows, announcements on the screen at all moving picture theatres, newspaper advertisements and article twice a week in the city's newspapers.

Headquarters will be established in Mrs. Denton's former florist's shop on Park avenue, a week before Rose Tag Day, where any questions will be cheerfully answered.

It is planned to have a large thermometer outside of these headquarters on Rose Tag Day where at 7:30 a. m. the mercury will rest at zero but will gradually rise hour by hour as the "taggers" turn in their receipts until at 7:30 p. m., thanks to the "taggers" tireless efforts and the noted generosity of all Plainfielders, it is to be hoped that the mercury will have reached and even passed the $5,000 mark on the thermometer.

WILL NOT MARRY DIVORCED PEOPLE

Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong Makes Public Announcement at First Baptist.

Prior to his sermon at the First Baptist church yesterday morning, Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong publicly announced that in the future he would not marry divorced people. The statement was significant in view of the very recent action of the Methodist church at its General Conference at Saratoga, went on record as approving such action on the part of its ministers. The question was also discussed at the Baptist convention held at Minneapolis last week, it being the unanimous opinion that Baptist ministers should not officiate at the wedding of divorced people.

Dr. Strong took the stand that inasmuch as it is the courts that alone separate married couples they should be responsible and if divorced people wish to remarry they should have the ceremony performed by the court. So far as known this is the only pastor of an evangelical church in this city who has taken this stand and made public announcement of the fact.

LOCAL HOLIDAY OBSERVANCE.

The annual Memorial Day parade in which the Winfield Scott Post, 73, G. A. R., of Plainfield, will hold the honor position, will be held tomorrow morning. The veterans will come from Plainfield on a special trolley, arriving at the Park avenue corner at 7:45, where they will be met by the two Scotch Plain volunteer fire companies, the Boy Scouts and the school children. The line of march will be down Park avenue to the cemetery, where the local pastors will conduct short services and the graves of the departed veterans will be decorated.

EXERCISES IN LOCAL SCHOOL.

On account of the assembly room not being in use, the students of School No. 1 could not unite for the holiday exercises today, but programs were rendered in the various classrooms. Robert Walpole and Edward Willis, two of the local Civil War veterans, made short addresses to the pupils, and songs and recitations of a patriotic nature were rendered by the pupils.

FREE FOR ALL ENDS IN TRIAL IN POLICE COURT

Patrick Honan was fined $5 in police court this morning as the result of a free-for-all fight at the corner of Front and Liberty streets, Saturday afternoon. He was arrested with William Fitzgerald, Edward Murphy and Thomas Connaught. The four young men were all mixed up in the fray, but the others were released by Judge De Meza with suspended sentences.

MRS. CHARLES SWIFT DIES IN SIOUX CITY

Mrs. Charles Swift, aged 65 years, formerly of Plainfield, died Saturday at her home in Sioux City, Iowa, following a short illness. Word concerning her death came in a telegram to her cousin, Andrew Vanderbeek, of North Plainfield.

Mrs. Swift was born in New York, but spent her girlhood days in Plainfield, where she attended the public schools. She was married twice, but at the time of her death was a widow. Three years ago she visited Plainfield, after which she returned West. She leaves beside Mr. Vanderbeek, one son, Russell, of Sioux City.

WILLIAM B. VAN NEST DIES IN NINETEENTH YEAR

William B. Van Nest, son of the late George W. and Amelia Kriney Van Nest, died early yesterday morning at the home of his grandmather, Mrs. Elizabeth Kriney, of 336 East Fifth street. The young man had been ailing for the past year with acute diabetes, but had continued working until a short time ago. He went to Easton recently to take a position and while there his condition became serious. He was brought home from Easton by automobile Friday and although given every medical attention sank rapidly until the end.

Mr. Van Nest was born in this city nineteen years ago and resided here practically all his life. He held clerical positions at the Bosch Magneto Works, the International Motor Works and other local manufacturers. Previous to going to Easton he had been located at Atlantic City for a short time, believing the change would be beneficial to his health. He was a member of Trinity Reformed church and until recently was connected with the Dutch Arms Band, playing the bass drum and cymbals. The young man possessed a genial disposition and had a wide circle of friends in the city and borough.

Beside his grandmother, who is the widow of Jacob Kriney, Mr. Van Nest is survived only by one brother, Geo. Derwood Van Nest, several years his junior. The funeral will be held at Mrs. Kriney's home on East Fifth street tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and will be in charge of Rev. J. Y. Brook. Interment will be in Bound Brook.

NEW RECTOR GIVEN CORDIAL RECEPTION

Rev. Harold St. George Burrill Greeted by Large Congregations at Holy Cross.

Rev. Harold St. George Burrill, the new rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, the borough, officiated at the services yesterday for the first time and was greeted by large congregations. He was given a cordial reception by his parishioners, who thoroughly enjoyed his morning and evening discourses. Prior to the morning sermon, Mr. Burrill remarked about the large attendance and congratulated his people for patiently awaiting his coming. His subject for the discourse was "Art thou he that should come or do we look for another."

The sermon was chiefly on the church, explaining what one has a right to expect from such an institution, and he expressed the hope that he and his people would join hands in the work of the Kingdom of Christ.

In the evening, Mr. Burrill spoke on "Christian Joy," in which he recited many of the things which combine to make the Christian happy and of use in the service of the Lord. At the close of both services the worshippers accepted the opportunity to meet the new rector.

Mr. Burrill has made arrangements to stop on Prospect place, the borough, for the present and he will take his meals at The Homestead on Washington avenue. Those wishing to consult with him can do so by communicating with The Homestead.

REHEARSALS FOR CLEVER COMEDIES PROGRESSING

Rehearsals of the comedy, "Other People's Money," gives promise of a splendid performance on June 8. Those who have been privileged to see any of the rehearsals pronounce it one of the cleverest and most unusual plays ever produced in Plainfield. Each of the parts in the play is a great character study and is being presented in a finished and artistic style. The comedy is given here by special permission of the author, Edward Owings Towne. Because the play is still being used on the professional stage it has never been printed, and manuscript copies can only be secured from the author. A real treat is in store for those who attend the entertainment which the Recreation Committee is preparing for Thursday evening, June 8, in the auditorium of the new and beautiful Evergreen Avenue School, where "Other People's Money" will be presented. There are to be several other numbers on the program, which will be announced later. This is the last effort of the committee for this season, and all friends of the recreation movement will no doubt make an extra effort to be present to honor the Recreation Committee, and lend their enthusiasm and support to their work.

WENT TO POLICE STATION TO ARGUE, COST HIM $10

They are quite accommodating at the police station, as Henry Palmer will admit. Henry knows. He will also bear witness to the fact that a night's lodging under the roof of the city is rather expensive; one can get a very good room elsewhere with more privileges for $10 a night. Henry, who is colored and obstinate, had some trouble at a house where he was working, and Lieut. Morris Higgins was called in to arbitrate the difficulty. He settled matters peacefully and told Henry to pack his tools and leave, thus preventing a breaking-out afresh of hostilities. Henry left, but he thought the matter over and later decided that he had not been fairly treated by the officer, so he went to police headquarters to start an argument. When Lieut. Higgins and Chief Kiely ordered him to leave the station, he refused. He kinda liked the place, he said, and anyway, he had something to say and he was going to stay there until he had said it. They let him stay. Gave him a nice little private room all to himself, in which he was secure from interference from outsiders, and let him talk to his heart's content. Henry was still there when Judge De Meza called court to order this morning, but he had changed his talk considerable. In fact, he could not talk fast enough to explain all his actions to the satisfaction of the judge, and he was ordered to pay a fine of $10.

FOUGHT OVER FIFTY CENTS.

John Green and Luther Jackson, colored, had an argument over a debt of fifty cents Saturday afternoon and settled it with their fists. They got their wives mixed up in the battle and aroused the whole neighborhood. When tried in police court this morning, Judge De Meza let them off with suspended sentences because of good records, and before they left the courtroom the fifty cents was paid and all belligerents had signed a peace treaty.

The Misses Lillian and Hattie Berse, of New York, are visiting their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. George Berse, of East Fifth street.

Miss Julia Leiss, of Newark, has returned home, after spending the week-end with Miss Isabel Conover, of Jackson avenue, the borough.

7,000 WILL VISIT PLAINFIELD FOR PARTICIPATION IN CARRIERS' CONVENTION

All Day Program Mapped Out by Citizens' Committee—Street Demonstration Will Be Chief Feature—Nearly 3,500 Will March.

Fair weather is the one remaining essential needed to make the New Jersey State Letter Carriers' Association convention program the greatest of its nature ever held in this section of the State here tomorrow, a full day's card of events having been mapped out by the local committee in charge. From the time the 7,000 visitors land in Plainfield tomorrow morning until late in the evening they will be the guests of the Plainfield carriers who will hold the "keys" to the city.

City officials, prominent and influential Plainfield citizens and those particularly interested in the postoffice will unite to make May 30, 1916, one of the greatest days in the history of the town and it is safe to conclude that a favorable impression of New Jersey's Queen City will be created for the benefit of the outsiders. The usual Decoration Day events will be given their usual prominent place on the day's program, especially the ceremonies of the G. A. R. veterans, but the postmen have laid plans for an observance that is bound to attract the attention of the general public and provide entertainment for every individual who lives in or visits the city tomorrow.

The monster street demonstration tomorrow afternoon, in which nearly 3,500 uniformed letter carriers from all parts of New Jersey and New York city will participate, will probably be the most brilliant spot in the day's festivities. General Dennis F. Collins, well known political leader in Union county, will act as grand marshal of the street parade, which will form at the intersection of Watchung and Crescent avenues at 2:15 tomorrow afternoon. The parade will start on its four-mile route at 2:30 and will appear in the business section about 3:15 o'clock.

The line of march follows: Formation at Watchung avenue and East Seventh street, then to proceed to Crescent avenue, to College place, to Arlington avenue, to West Sixth street, to Plainfield avenue, to West Seventh street, to Central avenue, to Front street, to Park avenue, to Watchung avenue, to Front street, to Somerset street, to Park place, to Grove street, to Rockview avenue, to Washington avenue, to Front street, to Geraud avenue, to tabernacle and disband.

Wagner, electrical superintendent for the Parline Powder Works at South River, whose home is in this city, and Miss Helen Van Doren, of New Brunswick, acted as attendants.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Strayer gave a wedding supper to the bridal party at the Robert Treat Hotel, after which the bride and bridegroom left for a brief trip to Atlantic City. On returning they will make their home on Lincoln place, the borough, where a furnished home awaits them.

A Little Chat About Unanswered Calls

"MANY are called, but some don't answer" must have been said first by a telephone operator.

When your operator says "Main 546 does not answer," it does not necessarily mean that the man whose ear you're trying to reach is indifferent to your call.

"Central" gives him a reasonable time in which to answer, but sometimes he's too far away from the bell to hear it.

In some instances, telephone bells do not ring when lines are put out of order temporarily by a storm or other cause. We have special appliances for detecting this kind of "trouble," but the operator may give the "don't answer" report on such calls until she learns of the difficulty. Then she announces that "the line is out of order," until the trouble has been remedied.

It's a pretty good rule always to answer your telephone promptly—the call may be an urgent one or one you can ill afford to miss.

Next week we're going to have a little chat on the subject of "telephone elocution."

Mrs. Baldwin, who was forty-eight years old, had many friends in Plainfield through frequent local visits. Beside her brother William, she is survived by her husband, one daughter, Miss Marjorie Baldwin, one son, Howard Baldwin, and also one other brother and two sisters, all residing in Brooklyn. The latter are Frank H. Townsend, Mrs. W. H. Howe and Mrs. Harriet Ayens.

William Taymerack had an engagement with Judge DeMeza this morning which he failed to keep, but he will be reminded of his indifference by a policeman sometime today and the chances are that he will be there on time tomorrow. Taymerack was ordered to appear in court today for riding a bicycle on the sidewalk. He failed to show up.

He declared that a Christian should have faith in salvation, in its teachings, in example and in the progress of Christian service and authority.

Dr. Harrison took occasion to refer to his mission work in Arabia, and then told of the interest in missions he found among the students of the various colleges he has been visiting during his stay in this country. Dr. Harrison will leave in a few days for Scribner, Neb., where he will visit his native home prior to returning to his mission station in Arabia.

Decoration Day is near,
We little flowers all,
Give a welcome to the dear
Soldiers as they call.

O, welcome all you soldiers,
And all the rest so dear,
We're ready for Memorial Day,
And it will soon be here.

The soldiers brave are marching now,
For Memorial Day has come,
I, just a little blue bell, bow,
To give the soldiers welcome.

Now off goes the gun,
Now silent all,
But hurrah for the fun,
Alas for those gone.

ARMY AND NAVY USEFUL IN FORCE

Oscar Strauss Tells How They Help International Diplomacy.

URGES PREPAREDNESS

Address Made Before National League to Enforce Peace in Washington Friday Proves Pacificism Without Might is Failure.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—Oscar S. Straus, former Ambassador to Turkey, speaking Friday at the first annual national assemblage of the League to Enforce Peace on "Preparedness Against the Re-barbarization of the World," said in part:

"It is a mistake to believe that armies and navies lie useless when not engaged in war. As a matter of fact armies and navies are the potential forces behind diplomacy when vital interests are at stake and their potentiality is in the background and often the controlling factors in obviating the development of conditions that lead to war or that project nations into war, even at times against their own will.

"Let us not deceive ourselves by failing to see that this war has let loose throughout the world the spirit of conquest, the hunger for territory and the rivalry for domination on land and sea. Even our efforts to maintain our neutrality instead of making for us friends have made us envied, distrusted, and by some nations hated. But entirely apart from the menace of foreign attack, if we are to be an affective influence either now or hereafter in the promotion or maintenance of the peace of the world, the measure of our influence will certainly not be in proportion to our weakness but in proportion to our available strength. It is said by some that to enlarge our naval and military forces will of itself be a provocative of war in that it will prompt the spirit of militarism. This is true where armaments are piled up for the sake of domination or of conquests, but armaments for defense—subordinated as they always must be under our form of government to the civil power—are not the promoters of militarism but a bulwark for the maintenance of the reign of law and of justice and for the security of all those ideals which constitute the elements of enlightened and progressive civilization.

The Hague Peace Plans.

"It is quite the vogue now to refer with ridicule to the two Hague conferences and to the efforts made to avert the catastrophe toward which Europe was so rapidly drifting. The tendencies were in two diametrically opposite directions which have been graphically described as Utopia or Hell. If the pacifists, who animated and encouraged their governments to participate in the peace conferences at the Hague in 1899 and 1907 and who looked with hopefulness upon the results that would follow, have met with disappointment, certainly they have not fallen further away from the realization of their ideals than have the militarists in the condition of helplessness and remoteness of results they aimed speedily to achieve by the war which now engulfs the world. In other words, the failure of the militarists has certainly been as decisive and infinitely more appalling than has been the failure of the peace advocates in achieving their end.

"This world war is a distinct proof that neither pacifism without might nor might—unless dominated by right—can be effectual in securing a permanent peace.

A League of Nations.

"Many plans have been devised but no one in my judgment has laid a better foundation for international peace than the one that has been adopted by the League to Enforce Peace. Herbert Spencer in his 'Principles of Sociology' some thirty years ago stated: 'A federation of the highest nations exercising supreme authority—may by forbidding wars between any of its constituent nations, put an end to the rebarbarization which is continually threatening civilization.' Some such plan was recommended by Sir Edward Grey and proposed by him to Germany as a safeguard againt aggression on the part of the Triple Entente, on July 30, 1914. This proposal was embodied in a telegram to the British Ambassador at Berlin. He said: 'If the peace of Europe can be preserved and the present crisis safely passed, my own endeavor will be to promote some arrangement to which Germany could be a party by which she could be assured that no aggressive or hostile policy would be pursued against her or her allies by France, Russia, and ourselves jointly or separately. I have desired this and worked for it as far as I could through the last Balkan crisis and Germany having a corresponding object our relations sensibly improved. The idea has hitherto been too Utopian to form the subject of definite proposals, but if this present crisis, so much more acute than any that Europe has gone through for generations, be safely passed, I am hopeful that the relief and reaction which will follow may make possible some more definite approachment between the powers than has been possible hitherto.'

"Unfortunately this proposal was only put forward at the eleventh hour when misrepresentation, irritation, and suspicion had poisoned the air; all of which emphasizes the necessity that arrangements for peace must be made in advance not only of mobilization but of the irritations which produce war, and that such arrangements must be made with the same precautions and preparedness as the nations have hitherto given to preparations for war."

GOLFERS QUALIFY FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Hydewood Golf Club Opens Active Season—Many Events Are Planned.

The Hydewood Golf Club opened its active season on Saturday with the qualifying round for the Spring championship, the winner to meet the winner of the Fall championship for the championship of the club. The eight lowest scores qualified on Saturday, and there would have been a much larger field out if it had not been for the untimely shower which passed over the course about 3 o'clock.

The course is in the best of condition and the scores returned were unusually good. The following eight qualified for first round match play tomorrow:

W. P. Taylor, 88; H. E. Blazier, 87; A. A. Cannon, 103; W. H. Nischwitz, 106; R. M. Smith, 107; H. L. Moody, 107; Walter Whitehead, 108; A. M. Collens, 113.

There was the first play for the President's cup, but owing to the fact that the handicap list has not yet been completed it is impossible to announce the scores today.

The improvements at the clubhouse are now about completed and the members will now be able to arrange many social functions for the season. There will be special events on the course tomorrow.

PLAINFIELD PLAYER LOST IN UNION COUNTY EVENT

Rain delayed many matches in the annual men's doubles of Elizabethtown and Country Club tennis tourney which opened Saturday at Elizabeth. R. Lindley Murray, Harold Throckmorton, Cedric Major and Alrick H. Man, who are picked to meet in the finals, were unable to be present because of the delay in the Sleepy Hollow Country Club tournament. It is expected that they will play today. Ludlow Van Deventer, of Plainfield, and R. Mason Kirkland lost to Thomas and Littell, 6-1, 7-5, in the second round.

P. H. S. SPORT NOTES

As a Decoration Day attraction, Percy Stelle, manager of the P. H. S. baseball team, has scheduled a game with the Barringer Reserves, of Newark. The game will be played on Parker Field at 10:30 tomorrow morning.

The Plainfield High School tennis team will try to register its fourth straight win tomorrow afternoon, when it will have as an opponent the team of the Bound Brook Country Club.

BOROUGH PITCHER HAD TIGER NINE BUFFALOED

Dilts Made the Princeton High School Batsmen Eat Out of His Hand.

North Plainfield High School claimed another victory, Saturday afternoon on Hyde Field, when they administered a defeat in the form of a shut-out to Princeton High, whom they defeated 5-0. Working with snap and precision the boroughites performed the feat in a clever manner, the visitors finding their defense invulnerable, they only penetrating once in the nine frames.

Dilts pitched the masterful ball which has been characteristic of his performances in the past; his opponents being in a complete quandary when it came to solve his delivery. Fifteen Princetonians took three vicious swings and then ducked for the bench. One lone bingle separated the local twirler from a no-hit no-run contest. For seven rounds the losers were unable to hit the ball on safe territory while two were out in the succeeding inning when the lonesome blow came.

The contest was sharp and fast, the boroughites doing some opportune hitting at critical junctions, two of their hits going for two and three bases, respectively.

Dr. Harrison, who has been spending some time throughout the West in the interest of his mission work, preached at Trinity Reformed church yesterday and is now planning to visit his native home at Scribner, Neb., before returning to his mission field.

Miss Rabbe is a graduate nurse, and it was while Dr. Harrison was in Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore that he met the young woman whom he is to marry. Just when Dr. Harrison will leave for Arabia is not known, but his plans will be announced later.

TRIED FOR AUTO DEATH.

Elizabeth, N. J., May 29.—Frederick Hanson, Joseph T. Cavanaugh, William J. Cossen and Elizabeth Cossen, all of Jersey City, will be tried today for manslaughter in connection with an automobile fatality. The four were indicted for manslaughter as the result of the death of Henrietta Bowen under an auto truck. Hanson was the driver of the truck which killed the Bowen girl. The other three, including the woman, were on the truck at the time.

"JULY'S AUTOMOBILE SALES WILL PRODUCE NEW PRICES, NOT NEW MODELS"--CRAIG

"Next July's automobile announcements will be, not of new models, but of new prices—and they'll be higher," said E. A. Craig, agent for the Reo Motor Car Company today.

"There are many reasons why few if any, automobile concerns will announce new models at the usual time next July, and there are quite as many reasons why prices will have to be tilted," continued Mr. Craig.

"First is the increased cost of materials because of the shortage of many kinds that are absolutely essential to the making of an automobile. Of course, this shortage is due to the European demand and the unprecedented prices munitions makers are willing to pay to obtain quick deliveries.

"Just consider the following, for which Geo. E. Smith, manager of the purchasing department of the Reo Motor Car Company, is authority:

"'Metals of all kinds have at least doubled in value in the past six months, and in some instances the advances have been much greater, this applying particularly to tool steels. High speed steels have increased in price from 45c per pound to $3.00 and over, and this figure is a nominal one, high speed steel being almost unobtainable; this has affected the cost of tools made from such steels to an even greater extent than represented by the advance in the cost of steels, due to large increases in labor costs.

"'High speed drills, which we formerly purchased at 65 per cent. discount from list, are now priced at list plus 15 per cent, up to half-inch diameters; above this diameter they ars list plus 30 per cent. up to one inch, above which size the price is double the list.

"'Cutters, reamers and small tools are now sold on the same basis, and are extremely difficult to secure. We are compelled to buy in small lots from different manufacturers and jobbers wherever we can find a small supply.

"'Bar steels, used for making parts of cars, have more than doubled in price, and prices are advancing rapidly, and the scarcity is increasing even more rapidly. Orders placed with the mills in December last are scheduled for delivery in January, 1917.

"'Ordinary cold rolled bars cannot be secured from mills in less than six months. Steel tubing required one year for delivery on mill specifications, and this item is also unobtainable from jobbers' stocks.

"'Odd lots of bar steel and forging steel can still be secured from jobbers and mills in small quantities, and in order to maintain our supply we are compelled to purchase wherever material can be found. For example: We have just completed a run of one thousand six-cylinder crankshaft forgings, made from steel that was purchased while in transit to another customer, this purchase having been made by paying a stiff premium for the steel. For our next lot of twelve hundred of these cranks, we have just succeeded in placing an order for steel with a small mill in Cumberland, Md., which they promised to ship immediately, the cost being just double the mill price on contracts for this period, and nearly three times the cost of this steel in normal times. This condition applies to all kinds of steel products.

"'Other metals are in the same shape. The price of copper at the present time being 27 cents against 13 cents before the advance began. This also is practically unobtainable, except by purchasing at least six months in advance of our requirements. This affects all brass goods, such as castings, sheets, tubes, rods, etc.

"'The aluminum situation is the same, the metal for immediate delivery being unobtainable, and the price at least three times above normal.

"'Zinc, which is largely used in the manufacture of war material, is selling at 20 cents per pound, against 6 cents to 7 cents in normal times.

"'Rubber advanced from 50 cents per pound to $1.00 per pound, but has since receded to about 80 cents. The supply is absolutely uncertain and unreliable owing to lack of ocean transportation facilities.

"'Leather remains extremely scarce and difficult to secure in satisfactory quality, the price being correspondingly high, costing at least one-third more than in the preceding season.

"'With the possible exception of paints, there is not a single item used in our factory that has not advanced from 10 to 300 per cent. in cost.'

"We Reo folk are fortunate, if you want to put it that way, in having practically everything that we will need for our factory run up to the close of our fiscal year, already on the floor, and we are comfortably covered for most everything for a year beyond that.

"In these times we never feel sure of anything unless it is in our own warehouse, and Mr. Smith was sufficiently foresighted to procure his requirements some months ago and to obtain deliveries before most men in his position realized that there was to be a shortage.

"Of course, Reo ready cash was a big factor in that operation, as it is now, for we are frequently able to pick up lots of materials that are destined for others who are less certain to pay or who are unable to pay cash on the nail.

"Another reason on which I base my assertion that next July's announcements will not be of new models, but of new prices, and that the prices will be higher, is the railway car shortage that obtains at the present moment. No manufacturer is able to ship cars as fast as he can produce them, and that is going to result in the slowing down of a number of factories and the consequent extension of the date on which the present factory runs can be completed. In other words, many factories that have planned to complete the present run by July 1 will probably have to extend the time over into next autumn. That also will affect the price.

"At first blush that last statement may seem illogical, but a moment's thought will show the force of it. For every day over that originally estimated as necessary to complete a certain number of cars, the 'overhead' cost on those cars will increase. That increase, added to the excessive cost of materials that makers who are not already protected will have to pay, is bound to increase the cost of production very materially, and, inasmuch as the percentage of profit on automobiles is small anyway, there can be only one answer—to tilt the price."

FADS AND FANCIES FOR THE MOTORIST

Summer furs are to be as popular this year as they were last, but they are appearing in different models. The pelerine cape and the deeper coachman's cape will be seen oftener than the white fox boa. The capes are made of the shorthaired furs, ermine mole, seal and chinchilla being the leaders. Ermine and seal are combined, and seal and mole make an unusual combination. A number of the fur collarettes, made like the collar and lapels of a coat, are edged with pleated chiffon and have chiffon ties.

Mohair dust coats in awning stripes, are made in the semi-fitted models with loose military pockets and wide half belts that catch the inverted pleats under each arm and in the centre of the back. The buttons match the colored stripe in the coat. One particularly attractive coat is of tan with a wide sage green stripe.

Panama sport hats are appearing with wide, flat trimming of prettily striped Jersey cloth, the trimming being buttoned with tiny silk buttons up the left side of the crown. In the centre of the crown there is a button the color of the Jersey cloth. The pinwheel hat is another newcomer. This hat is of soft white felt, with stripes radiating from the centre of the crown to the edge of the brim. A narrow stitched band around the crown is the only trimming. The hats come, the stripes in any color desired, for wear with the blazer striped sweaters.

Extra collars and cuffs of suede and corduroy in various colors come ready made to be attached to plain pongee dust coats. They are easily removed when the coats are laundered and are so reasonable in price that two or three sets may be used with one coat.

A new traveling sewing case is square shape, collapsible, and is fitted with all the necessities. The bag will carry also a fair sized piece of work, and if no work is carried it may be used as a veil case.

Tourists' books open out pad fashion. On one side is the paid, with the loops holding pencil and pen, the opposite side being fitted with an envelope flap as well as a place for stamps and postal cards. The books may be had in various colored leathers.

Veil novelties are not as frequently found as formerly, but a few new styles appear from time to time. The various colored chiffons with polka dots the size of a quarter, plain white chiffon with striped silk bordens, awning striped chiffons, washable marquisettes in solid colors and chiffons with spider net masks are the most popular. An occasional rainbow shaded veil is worn with the white country club hats.

Black tin cake boxes, large enough to hold the ordinary layer cake, are quite the thing to carry with the afternoon tea basket. If one is using the Chinese tea basket, decorated with beads and red tassels, then the black cake box should be painted with red poppies. White tissue serviettes, with poppy borders, are used in place of linene.

One of the new sport coats is made of yellow, black and white tweed in half-inch plaids. The coat is made in one of the full deep models and has a cape collar and very wide cuffs of black broadcloth. The wide girdle belt is buttoned in the front with three black cloth buttons, while at the right side of the coat there is a military pocket trimmed with black cloth and buttoned with one black button.

A TIP TO AUTOISTS.

Owing to the poor stretch of road between Rahway and Metuchen, over the Lincoln Highway, many autoists are detouring to Perth Amboy over the excellent new roadway, then turning right at Brunswick avenue, in the latter town and continuing toward Metuchen over another stretch of good road. Leaving Metuchen the best way to get to New Brunswick is to continue straight ahead over the car tracks, follow a left turn under the overhead railroad bridge, and then right on the amiesite to the Rutgers College town.

REO

Did You Know This?

DID YOU KNOW that it costs less to maintain a big, seven passenger six cylinder automobile today than it used to cost to run and to maintain a medium size five passenger car?

IF YOU STILL OWN a five passenger car made, say, three or four years ago—wheelbase possibly 108 to 112 inches; and if that car is any other than a Reo—

THEN WE'LL SAY THIS—you are paying more per mile for gasoline and many times more per year for upkeep and maintenance and repairs than it would cost you to drive a Reo Six.

IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE that, but we can prove it to you.

OF COURSE IF YOU HAVE owned a Reo of any model, you will readily understand and believe what we have said.

BUT WE FIND that owners of other makes of cars are unable to credit the stories they hear of low upkeep of Reos.

IF YOU'VE BEEN hesitating about buying a seven passenger car—one that will accommodate the whole family—because you feared you could not afford such a "great big automobile," just consider what we've said and you will hesitate no longer.

WHY, YOU PAID $1250 for a skimpy five passenger car then—and that's all this New Reo Six will cost you. Old car was worth it too—at the time. But—

COUNT THE COST of driving that old boat you now have. Cost of getting it in shape for the coming season—and you'll be money in the pocket by buying a Reo Six now—a car that will serve you for many years to come.

WHY, DO YOU KNOW the life of a car such as the Reo Folk make today will be thrice that of the best car that could be made a few years ago. Science has made wonderful strides—wonderful!

AND DON'T DELAY a day longer. Demand for Reo Sixes is tremendous. Only those whose orders are in our hands at once can hope to get Reo Sixes for spring delivery.

A POPULAR SUGGESTION.

That the Plainfield Business Men's Association has struck a popular chord in its appeal to the Council for the establishment of a public comfort station in the business section of the city, is proven by the comment heard on the subject about town. Plainfield should be with the leaders in everything, and the mere fact that many cities have not these conveniences, is no excuse for failure to establish one or more here. A very modest citizen, who takes an active interest in affairs in this city, but who refuses to permit his name to be used, expresses much surprise in a letter to the Daily Press, because the talk is of building only one such place. Even if it is merely an experiment, says he, three or four should be erected.

In Westfield plans are being made for a comfort station in the public park, and there is no reason why Plainfield should be behind its near neighbor. The question of site is naturally the most perplexing one. It has been suggested that the grounds of the new postoffice or the new city hall, in the city park, on Watchung avenue between the railroad embankment and the trolley waiting room, on the grounds of some of the churches, somewhere on Somerset street, near the bridge, and in a score of other places, might be used. At the present time the nearest approach to anything of the kind is in the new Public Library building, and the directors of that institution are entitled to credit for having established one there.

One thing is sure. Public comfort stations are needed in this city, and no taxpayer will criticise the Council for extravagance if they provide one or more at a point convenient to the business section.

HELP THE Y. M. H. A. FUND.

Fifteen thousand dollars in ten days is what the members of the Young Men's Hebrew Association of Plainfield expect to raise, beginning June 1—Thursday of this week. The money is to be used to get a substantial start on a $25,000 building which this organization hopes to have well under way within a few weeks, and the cause is a commendable one. The Y. M. H. A. occupies the same position with the Jewish people of Plainfield as does the Y. M. C. A. for other denominations. Its membership is made up of a lot of healthy, wide-awake young men, and men who stay young, and they have as much need for a recreation center as the frequenters of the Y. M. C. A. Any organization which is formed to keep the thoughts on clean, healthy, honest things, plays an important part in a community, and it is to be hoped that when the Y. M. H. A. makes its appeal to our people in a few days, there will be a ready response from Plainfielders, regardless of church affiliations. The erection of such a home as is planned will be but another step toward making a better Plainfield.

WELCOME TO LETTER CARRIERS.

All Plainfield is host to the thousands of New Jersey and New York letter carriers who will be assembled in convention here tomorrow. They are the city guests, and therefore, the guests of every public spirited and loyal citizen. They are welcome visitors. These deserving servants of the United States government, whose work is one of service to each individual in the entire country, get little of the honor and respect that is due them. Long hours they labor, and their task is not an easy one—even in the most pleasant weather, but it is when they are called upon to trudge through rain, snow or mud, laden with burdens of printed matter and letters, that their loyalty is tested. May their short stay in Plainfield be one of real amusement and enjoyment for each and every member!

* * * * * *

Plainfield has never seen a more complete, more appropriate, or more perfect souvenir than that which has been issued for the annual convention of the New Jersey Letter Carriers' Association which meets in annual convention here tomorrow. The booklets are printed in Plainfield and have been issued at great cost. They will be sold for a small sum, when the cost of compiling and publishing them is considered, and one should be in every home. They are intended to advertise the city well when taken away by the visitors, but if every delegate to the convention bought one the publishers would not be reimbursed for their cost of printing, and it is incumbent upon Plainfielders to show their appreciation of such a work by helping. The money will be well spent.

So often we hear a man or woman attempt to excuse discourtesy by the explanation that they were in a hurry. Time is valuable, but it need be sacrificed to politeness only in exceptional cases. Individuals who cannot afford to spare a few minutes each day that they may be courteous to those with whom they come in contact should be inspired by the example of a gigantic corporation that is spending money in a general advertising campaign calling attention to the common fault of abruptness and urging individual consideration of the happiness of others. If the New York Telephone Company has time and money to preach courtesy to its millions of subscribers, then it is a good business proposition. Time spent in spreading cheer is never wasted.

President Wilson's note to England on the mail-seizure outrages that are being practiced is not likely to cause any diplomatic break between the two countries. English statesmen know, and have known, that they are trespassing upon the rights of neutrals and there has never been any but a half-hearted attempt to defend this piracy. So long as there was no protest, the Britons saw no reason for discontinuing that which pleased them, and at times benefitted them to a slight degree. They will now gracefully accede to the demands of President Wilson, in which Holland, Sweden, and other neutral countries join, and the affair will soon be satisfactorily ended.

MANY ACCESSIONS TO PARK AVENUE CHURCH

Twenty-one new members were baptised into the Park Avenue Baptist church at the service of yesterday morning. All were converts at the recent Tabernacle meetings and more applications have been received and will be acted on as soon as possible. The Rev. B. S. Hudson, pastor, preached on "The Park Avenue Spirit." He told of the marvelous influence for good working among the new and old members of the congregation and entered a plea for a life of better Christian service from each one. At the Sunday-school service, Superintendent William N. Runyon made a similar appeal to the students. Large crowds attended both services.

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

The Cold Gray Dawn.

When you rise from your bed
With a terrible head,
And your tongue's like shredded wheat;
When your feeling at first
Is a fire engine thirst,
And you have no desire to eat;
When your brain's in a reel
And you're sure that you feel
The floor of your bedroom rock;
When the walls seem to sway
In an uncertain way,
And you're sure it's an earthquake shock;
When you're cold and then hot,
And you really do not Know just where you hid your shoes;
When your hair stands on end
And refuses to bend,
Though plenty of lard you use;
When your fingers are thumbs
And your dome of thought hums
Like a saw in a lumber mill;
When your features all hurt
And you can can't find your shirt,
And the furniture won't stand still;
Though you may not confess
It is easy to guess,
And really no sort of chore;
You can surely depend
You were with no sick friend
When you sat up the night before.

Answers to Correspondents.

Bill—You say you want to borrow a clean shirt so that you can take a life insurance examination. You ought to know better than to ask us. We can't stay in bed while you are being examined.

H. G.—The only way that we know of to avoid spending all of your money for coal is to live in a steam-heated flat and spend it all for rent.

Myrtilla—We are not running a matrimonial bureau, but if your intentions are serious, we know of a party who is so lonesome that he writes poetry dedicated to lady trapeze performers.

Indignant—We cannot roast your neighbor, for he doubtless takes the paper the same as you do, but if he walks around at night with a wooden leg that squeaks and keeps you awake, the only way you can retaliate is to buy a hound and teach him to sit under your neighbor's window every night and howl. This will make it unpleasant for both of you.

The Playmates of Yesterday.

Oh, where are the playmates of yesterday,
The fellows we knew in school?
Oh, what has become of the studious ones,
And where, oh, where is the fool?
Oh, what has become of the orator,
Whose passion was to recite?
And the bashful kid who could speak no piece
Unless he succumbed to fright?
Oh, what has become of the model boy,
Who was always the teacher's pet?
And where, oh, where is the tough young nut,
The one we can ne'er forget?

The studious, so we have been told,
Is driving a hack these days;
While the fool owns stock in a bank or two,
And a railroad that always pays.
The orator that we knew so well
Is clerk in a dry goods store;
While the bashful kid we knew has been
In Congress ten years or more.
The model boy is behind the bars
For stealing a neighbor's cow.
And you ask what of the tough young nut?
Oh, he's a preacher now.

- Proctor's Theatre -

AT PROCTOR'S WEDNESDAY.

Miss Marguerite Clark, the dainty Paramount star, appears today at Proctor's in a double role in "The Prince and the Pauper," an adaptation from Mark Twain's most delightful work, a picturization, upon which the author, if he were alive today, would unhesitatingly place his stamp of approval. It has two characterizations rendered by Marguerite Clark in the dual title role that fascinate continually, and it has atmosphere of an utterly convincing sort. The fourth episode of "The Mysteries of Myra," the engrossing serial spectacle, also is shown at Proctor's today, while tomorrow and Wednesday a stellar program of unparalleled photoplays greet the spectators, headed by Charlie Chaplin, the inimitable, in his latest and funniest comedy, entitled "Police! Police," which, when reviewed by Charlie himself, was acknowledged to be a "scream." "Police" is presented in three uproariously amusing parts, and is shown at Proctor's in advance of any other theatre in this vicinity.

William Hinckley and Norma Talmadge, in "The Children in the House."

AT PROCTOR'S TOMORROW.

The supporting program tomorrow consists of Norma Talmadge in "The Children in the House," an intensely interesting Triangle production, with numerous artistic comedy touches; Joe Jackson in a Keystone comedy of thrilling calibre entitled "The Lion and The Girl," and the thirteenth episode of "Mary Page." On Wednesday, in addition to "Police," Virginia Pearson, the renowned emotional star, will appear in her first Fox feature, entitled "Blazing Love," a picture that tells a powerfully compelling emotional story that gives Miss Pearson plenty of scope for her wonderful and deft talents. On Wednesday the fourteenth episode of "The Iron Claw" will also be shown. On Thursday Thomas H. Ince presents one of the most thrilling and picturesque photoplay spectacles every released entitled "The Beggar of Cawnpore," and starring H. B. Warner. "The Beggar of Cawnpore" is based on the famous Sepoy rebellion in India, and Warner is called upon to give the most convincing character portrayal ever entrusted to a screen star. On Friday Theodore Roberts will appear in "Mr. Crex of Monte Carlo," a Paramount picture, while the week's program will come to a close on Saturday, with the presentation of Julius Steger in "The Blindness of Love."

UNCLE STEPPED ON IT

--Astor Theatre--

A striking contrast of the manhood of the East and of the West is strongly pictured in "Ben Blair," the Pallas production coming to the Astor Theatre today on the Paramount program. In the scene where Ben, the unpolished Westerner, goes to force an issue with Sidwell, the society favorite, who has supplanted him in Florence Winthrop's favor, the two American types are exemplifieed. Blair finds Sidwell drinking heavily with congenial friends, and on their departure his Western blood forces him to say, "You're the only obstacle between me and the woman I love. Can you tell me any reason why I shouldn't remove that obstacle." But his Western blood also makes him bow to the seeming truth in Sidwell's answer, "Yes, a good reason—she loves me and she doesn't love you." Cooler thoughts and passed memories later make him doubt this statement. He goes to Florence's father with a plan that awakens the ex-plainsman's admiration and support and brings this strong Western drama to a successful finish. The usual method of snaring men was used with success upon the easily duped plainsman. In addition to this wonderful drama we will show the Burton Holmes Travelogue and other star features, for which the Astor Theatre is known. Coming on June 7 the first episode of that wonderful serial, "Who's Guilty?" Coming tomorrow a wonderful glint and glamor of fairyland, with the entrancing Ella Hall and the brilliant Robert Leonard in "The Crippled Hand," combining the mortal and fantastic, in five gripping acts and 100 wondrously beautiful scenes. A most wonderful photoplay for the children, an enchantment of elfin land, with Ella as one of the prettiest of Cinderellas. This picture was secured at a great expense to the Astor owing to the fact that there will be a number of children wishing a day of clean amusement. No increase in prices.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

In answer to Councilman Graves and ex-Councilman Claybrook would say it is my opinion that the readers of the Plainfield Daily Press have formed an opinion long ago why the sewer farm was bought, and why the City Hall plot was bought off one side. Sherman was right in regard to war, but he should have added "and politics." Most politicians have leaders as well as soldiers and obey orders almost as well. I am pleased to know that Plainfield has some men who have held office and are holding office that knows no boss. Not even an easy one with a velvet lined voice. I don't think it would change the fast any for me to be in this city and call the two men names as they have done. The facts stand out so plain that a blind man could almost see them. In raised letters so to speak. So far as I am concerned the $32,000 City Hall plot and the $36,000 sewer farm is closed. What next?

DR. HUDSON TALKS ON "PARK AVENUE SPIRIT"

It was a memorable Sunday for the Park Avenue Baptist church. The day started in with a splendid attendance and enthusiastic interest at the Bible-school. A feature of the session was the inspiring talk given to the school by the superintendent, William N. Runyon, who expressed his perfect faith in the loyalty and steadfastness of his officers, teachers and scholars, and urged them on to greater spiritual power and christian activity.

The entire school marched into the auditorium and participated in the church service. The attendance at the morning preaching service was one of the largest in the history of the church. The pastor, Rev. Dr. Birne S. Hudson, preached a strong sermon on "The Park Avenue Spirit." His words were exceedingly helpful, and inspiring and calculated to work great good throughout the membership. A climax to this service was the baptism of twenty-one candidates for membership into the church. Frequent allusions were made throughout the sermon to the recent Biederwolf meetings, all of which struck a responsive chord in the hearts of the congregation.

Every department in the Park Avenue church is starting out with renewed interest and enthusiasm and a spirit of reconsecration that will not only strengthen the faith and redouble the activities of those already members, but will turn Park Avenue into an evangelistic church that will reach out after the unsaved.

TO INSPECT POLICEMEN IN SUMMER UNIFORMS

The semi-annual inspection of the Plainfield police department will be held tomorrow, when Chief Kiely will review his men for the first time in their summer uniforms of 1916. All members of the department are ordered to be at the station at 1:30. The inspection will be held on Sycamore street in front of the Station at 1:45. When it is over the policemen will march in the letter carriers' parade.

"LEST WE FORGET."

A letter from Samuel Rothberg, in which the Memorial Day thoughts of all true Americans are well expressed.

It is a very queer kind of a feeling that steals over a man on Decoration Day.

When I think of the events this day commemorates; of those boys back in '76 and '61; of the hardships and privations they suffered; of the thousands that made the supreme sacrifice, laid down their lives so that you and I, and your neighbor and mine, might enjoy freedom of thought, of action and of life—when I think of all those things, as we all should do this day, somehow or other I feel like going off in a corner of—well, you all know the feeling.

And this year, because of our position with relation to the world at large, our feelings and sentiments on Memorial Day take on a more serious, a deeper significance. We realize that we must place a higher valuation on patriotism so that it will be a fitting answer to those among us (and I am sorry to say that there are a few) who question the necessity of undivided allegiance; who scoff at "Preparedness" and the higher patriotism which it symbolizes—in short, Memorial Day in 1916 should be a day of deep thought on present-day patriotism, and veneration for those who placed the interests of their country above their own sordid ambitions, aims and desires.

Friends, let us today remember that there is something bigger, better and more noble in all of us than the mere sordid striving for the everlasting dollar. Let us all forsake our everyday pursuits for this one day and place a wreath on the tomb to the memory of those who made possible our happiness and enjoyment of liberty.

SAMUEL ROTHBERG.

"I despise the world; it is nothing to me."

Daddy's Bedtime Story — A Rosebush and A Snail Have A Long Talk.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

AFTER the children had had supper they climbed up into daddy's lap for a bedtime story, and this is what he told them: "There was once a beautiful garden with a fence of hazel bushes and beyond it a meadow with sheep and cows in it. In the center of the garden stood a lovely rosebush in full bloom, and under it lived a snail. 'When my time comes,' he was always saying to the bush, 'I shall do a great deal more than yield roses or bear nuts or give milk like the cows.' He thought much of himself.

"'May I ask when you expect to come forth?' asked the rose.

"'I shall take my time,' said the snail. 'You are always in such a hurry.'

"The next year came, and there lay the snail under the rosebush again. The bush was already full of buds and soon burst into lovely pink bloom. The snail stuck his feelers out of his shell and then drew them in again. 'Everything looks just as it did last year,' he remarked. 'The rosebush is still full of flowers. It will never get beyond that.'

"Summer passed and fall came. The rosebush kept right on blossoming till frosts came. Then when it began to snow the bush bowed down toward the ground, and the snail crept back into the earth. The next spring the rosebush revived, and the snail came forth.

"'You'll soon be nothing but an old stick of a rosebush,' said the snail. 'You have given the world all that is in you. If you had tried to improve yourself you might have amounted to something.'

"'You alarm me!' cried the rosebush. 'I never thought of that!'

"'You never think much anyway,' said the snail.

"'No, but I blossomed in gladness. The dew was so clear and the sun so warm that I just breathed and grew and blossomed. It was my life.'

"'You've had a very easy life, then!' snapped the snail. 'But the world is nothing to me. I have enough just in myself. See how I can withdraw into my house if I want to!' And he drew his horny head under his thick shell.

"'But shouldn't we give freely what we have to give?' asked the bush.

"'Then give roses—if you want,' said the snail. 'They soon wither. But I despise all the world. It is nothing to me.' Then he withdrew into his slimy house again and closed it up tight after him.

"'What a pity I can't creep into shelter whenever I want to!' sighed the rose. But that spring her leaves burst into green, her buds swelled into roses, and little children came and picked them with joy. Years flew by, and the snail turned into nothing but earth. But all around the bush new roses bloomed all summer in the garden."

Marrying a Butterfly

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

Ralph Concludes That No Reasonable Methods Will Restore Ethel's Cheerulness.

"They are very pleasant people and I am mighty glad we ran into them." Ralph Gordon stood looking after the big touring car that was speeding down the road in its cloud of dust.

"Well, I am not." Ralph turned in surprise at this spiteful remark from his wife. "I do not care to be pitied by those women." Ethel wiped her eyes.

"Pitied!" Ralph faced her in astonishment.

"Oh, I could see it. Of course they pitied anyone who had to ride in an old ark of a buggy when everybody worth while has a machine." Ethel tapped impatiently on the ground with her foot.

"Oh, come, Ethel, have some sense." Ralph's tone was unmistakably angry. "Nobody but a snob would be guilty of such thoughts, and they are not snobs, or I am much mistaken. You can't see your face in this buggy, but it is a very respectable affair for a town livery to supply."

"Town livery!" echoed Ethel disdainfully. It surely looks like the backwoods. It will not be long before we will look equally rural."

Ralph's face spoke extreme irritation as he turned to pack the basket and rugs under the seat.

"And their dress wa so perfectly suitable for a motor trip," continued Ethel discontentedly.

"Well, I suggested that you change your dress, but you thought it too much trouble," he added bitterly.

Ethel climbed into the buggy and settled herself as far away from her husband as possible. Ralph drove on in stony silence.

"I do wish they had accepted our invitation to stay all night. I am proud of our house; that is really beautiful." A half inaudible snort was Ralph's only answer.

"I think it would be pleasant to accept their invitation and visit them some time. Kansas City seems a very pleasant city," began Ethel after a long pause.

"Oh, they might pity you," sneered Ralph. "I would not place myself in a position to be pitied."

"Of course I should see that everything about my clothes was strictly up to date," replied Ethel with a toss of the head.

Nothing more was said till Ralph helped her to alight at the door, when Ethel suggested that he bring home some ice cream when he came. Ralph nodded indifferently and climbed in and drove away.

"I certainly will be a fool if I ever do another thing to make things pleasant for her," he reflected bitterly. "The more I do the worse she gets. I thought this little outing would cheer her up, but it seems that I got in worse than usual this time. Who ever could have dreamed that she would feel this way about a buggy?"

The utter failure of his plan to restore Ethel to cheerfulness weighed heavily on Ralph's spirits. It was with a very heavy heart that he started for home with the ice cream.

REBUKES MARTINE FOR RUBLEE COURSE

Mennen Company Calls Treatment of His Constituents' Protests Arbitrary.

Senator James E. Martine is sharply rebuked for aiding to defeat the confirmation of George Rublee of New Hampshire for the Federal Trade Commission in a letter addressed to him by the Gerhard Mennen Chemical Company of Newark, Like other manufacturers in New Jersey, the Mennen company sent a telegram to Mr. Martine when it was announced that he was against Rublee, asking him to reconsider. Referring to many telegrams of the same purport which he had received, Mr. Martine said that they "appeared to emanate from the same source." He explained that he meant the Fair Trade League, which backs a bill to permit manufacturers to fix the price at which certain products should be retailed, and which Mr. Rublee, too, favors.

At once the Mennen company sent Mr. Martine a letter disclaiming any outside inspiration for its telegram, and again urging him to support Rublee. The Senator's reply pleaded that Senatorial courtesy left him no alternative but to oppose Rublee, but since the appointment was, at the time he wrote, being reconsidered by the Senate, the request of the Newark company would receive his "best attention." When Mr. Martine again voted against Rublee the Mennen company wrote a second letter, which, in effect, said that his "best attention" produced but a very ill result.

POLITICAL NOTES.

North Dakota introduces voting by mail next month. Citizens away from the State may cast their ballots at the primaries on June 28.

Jimmy Reynolds' diplomacy was taxed to its utmost to fit 700 into 200 seats reserved for the friends of candidates at Chicago. With the weeding-out completed, he will try to settle a half-hundred contests between Southern Republican factions.

Secretary of War Newton D. Baker will be temporary chairman of the Ohio Democratic State Convention on Thursday next.

After the big conventions are over, the Governors will journey to Salt Lake City, where the annual conference of governors opens on June 27, with Governor Spry as the host.

Nick Longworth has decided not to make the senatorial race in Ohio, and is back in Washington with the endorsement of the Cincinnati organization for another term in the lower house.

For the first time in twenty years, William Jennings Bryan will not dominate the framing of the Democratic National platform. President Wilson will fashion that document himself this year.

2,000 AT RALLY OF SALVATION ARMY

Stories of Miraculous Conversions Told at Tabernacle Yesterday.

A crowd of more than [illegible]sand people attended the ra[illegible] Salvation Army in the Bied[illegible] Tabernacle yesterday afternoon. The meeting was in charge of Col. W. A. McIntyre, of New York, and he was accompanied to Plainfield by the National Staff Band, an organization which has been popular here for many years. Before going to the Tabernacle the band played and sang on downtown streets.

Stirring stories of miraculous conversions to Christ were told by Envoy S. Reynolds White, U. S. Army, reserve list; Henry F. Milans, formerly managing editor of the New York Tribune; John Brokaw, formerly with a large New York mercantile establishment, and William Walsh, once a railroad chief engineer, but late a Chicago river pirate. These stories of redemption from lives of sin at an hour late in life were all simply and earnestly told and the speakers made a profound impression upon their hearers because of their sincerity and their thankfulness for new-found happiness.

The band played a number of selections and sang several songs. The Rev. Charles M. Anderson, opened the meeting and in a short address told of the great service being done for God by the Salvation Army.

SAYS HOT WATER EACH DAY KEEPS THE DOCTOR AWAY

Drink glass of hot water before breakfast to wash out the poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone prosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.—Adv.

Raking 'Em Over

By "JINKS"

THERE'S MORE COMING, BUT WE'LL GIVE IT TO HIM IN DOSES.

Surprised we are that our friend, the salve spreader, should be so peeved over the unadulterated truth. He who preaches wisdom and cautions his fellow-men to trod the straight and narrow path has become wrought up because his cold-blooded misrepresentation of City Baseball League facts has been disclosed. Some of the people have been fooled part of the time but even the readers of our E. C. are not all fools and will sooner or later "get wise" to the status of certain articles that are being published from time to time. The average newspaperman reads many poems and bits of philosophy in the course of a year's work and when he happens upon the same compositions credited to "local talent" it does not take him long to form his opinion on how they got there. No, brother, we "got" you aright. Don't try to cover up the "Dobbins-Bogardus" episode in baby style by yelling "you're another" or "it was mere pleasantry," give us the facts. Your retort declares that you always "admit it when you are in error," so it's up to you to admit the error or supply the ground for the story. There are two ways of running a sport page, the right way and the wrong way, and you can't run it the wrong way and cover up your day's distortions with the next day's salve.

PLAINFIELD ENTRY IN BIG AUTO CLASSIC.

When the starter's gun cracks at Olympic Park in Newark tomorrow afternoon it will send at least one Plainfield dare-devil around a half-mile dirt saucer with some of the country's best known auto pilots. Joe Jackson, of Plainfield, who drove a Coreja special in the Newark Park meet of last Decoration Day, has built a special model machine for tomorrow's event, aided by Frank Frazee, and the local drivers expect to "bring home the bacon." Many of the speeders who drove cars in the big Sheepshead Bay classic two weeks ago have entered the meet tomorrow and it's certain that the local entry will have to travel at a record clip in order to overcome the professional talent in the field. The Plainfielders are confident of copping at least one prize and intend to take a crack at several.

THERE'LL BE PLENTY DOING AROUND HERE TOMORROW.

Tomorrow bids fair to set a record for holiday activity in Plainfield. There'll be something doing every time you turn around. Heading the list is the postmen's convention but a program of baseball foretells a busy day in this branch of sport for the four quarters of the city. The usual number of holiday travellers will probably "hit" for the seashore and mountains but 7,000 visitors are expected and this throng will amply make up for any deficit in population. The baseball card has contests on tap for morning and afternoon, six City League title fights being on the list. Numerous independent contests are slated and they are of the crackerjack variety in every case.

NETHERWOODS HITTING UP A SPEEDY CLIP.

That Netherwood clan is traveling at a clip which will carry it far out in the lead if the other five league teams don't get after it pretty soon. Five in the same place is the champion's record and the other contenders will find it a hard job trying to close up the gap already opened. The kind of baseball the East Enders have been staging is the kind that probably will last. The gait has been steady and the all around playing good. The Netherwoods, taken all in all, have the best balanced combine on the circuit and there'll be more than one guess missed if they're not in at the finish with the first pack home.

After breaking the hearts of the faithful by losing thirteen out of the fifteen games played in the East—after groveling in the cellar until quondam admirers insisted they ought to be called "mush-rooms," in allusion to the only fruit that is said to grow at the lowest depth—the Giants have done it! They've won sixteen straight. Starting West for the opening game in Pittsburgh on May 9, they were a sad aggregation. Sad, sore, sick, and seemingly all in. Fans are wondering what took place on that brief railroad journey. Somebody uncorked a large shipment of dynamite on that train—it might have been McGraw—and when the despised Giants toted their bat bags out to the ball grounds that fatal afternoon they had more fight in their systems than any of those mythical wild cats. More than that—they had their "mad" up! McGraw ought to have been ashamed of his evil work—look what happened to the enemy. With a crash that echoed joyfully in this city the Giants fell on them and "plum ruined" everything they had. Thirteen runs, sixteen hits, and one measy error was the crop for that day, while the Smoky City stalwarts only gathered five runs, eight hits, and committed three errors. Sounds a whole lot like one of those Rah! Rah! games, but it made a lot of difference in the Giants. With sixteen straight, two garnered at the expense of Boston Saturday, the Giants are in shooting distance of several time-honored records that were made ten or more years ago. Just two more games and they will equal the record of the Giants, pennant winners for the first time in 1905, when they won eighteen games straight. Let them hang on and win three more, and they'll equal the top-notch record of the major leagues, that of nineteen straight made by the White Sox in 1906. It's likely that the Giants will win a few more—they haven't the nerve to stop now! Sixteen straight is old stuff and McGraw knows it even if some of the newer pans and fans have forgotten. Why, in 1912, they won sixteen straight! This is 1916, and they've just got to win one more for each year, making it twenty!

CROSS COUNTRY GOLF.

"Cross country" golf is a new departure from the regular game which is finding favor with the students of the University of Oregon. Contestants have only one hole to play for, but its distance from the teeing off place may range from a mile to three miles or, in fact, any distance which may be decided upon. As suggested by the title, "cross country," the ground played over is not calculated to be classed as fairway. All the entries in a "cross country" tournament start at a selected point, the distance decided on from the home tee and play go-as-you-please golf until the ball is putted into the cup. The University of Washington was the first of the northwestern colleges to take up golf, and the Oregonians followed suit a year ago. It is likely that the two institutions will hold an inter-collegiate competition later in the spring.

RESULTS OF SATURDAY'S GAMES

Netherwood....11 T. A. B. S.... 2

The games played in the City League, Saturday, were productive of many unlooked-for happenings. In the first place the Netherwood champions continued their winning way and had easy victims in the Abstainer corps. The East Enders were there with the bingles and had little trouble disposing of threatening Tab onslaughts. Perhaps the most exciting game played in the league so far this season was that participated in by the Hope Chapel and Farmer baseball teams, the tilt going into extra innings and being decided by a "hefty" wallop in the eleventh, Tommy Heron doing the trick. The surprise of the afternoon, however, was the good showing made by the Dunellen team, which had a merry-go-round on Maurer Oval, the Baptists being the 'goats.' General disorder and inability to do anything of material aid to scoring is assigned as the reason why the Baptists were so ignominiously defeated.

Bad weather marred all of the games and poor crowds greeted the players. On the whole, however, the encounters were exciting ones and were up to the usual high standard.

Tomorrow the teams have a grand rally and the fur is sure to fly. The Clinton team is out to win two more, while the other outfits are just as anxious to do something worth while.

The games carded for Decoration Day are as follows:

ANOTHER SCALP FOR NETHERWOOD TEAM

Champs Clout the Hide off Ball in Meeting With Tabs.

Russ Stewart pitched Netherwood to its fifth consecutive win on the new South avenue field, Saturday, the losing combination being none other than the West Fourth Street Tabs, who admit that their dose of 11 to 4 was not easy to swallow.

Tone Denny drew the pitching assignment for the losers and was not in his usual good form, allowing his opponents to bat him almost incessantly. Earl Moran, with his two doubles and a single, and Vic Terry, with his triple, double and single, were the main causes of the retreat of Tone and the subsequent humiliation of Jack Denny.

Perhaps the only time that the Tabs were really dangerous was in the fifth frame, when, with the bases full and one down, Stewart fanned the next two batters to face him, thus nipping in the bud a promising rally. For the victims, McCarty pounded out a triple, scoring two men in the first frame, but, unfortunately, that was the extent of the damage done.

Both outfits fielded well and no one man made more than a single slip. "Alias" Smith was again the Tab catcher, and he as previously, showed up well. The regular Netherwood catcher, Johnson of Bound Brook, failed to appear and Bill Dodd was used in his place. Bill performed to perfection and Johnson was not missed.

CAME UP FOR AIR IN THE ELEVENTH

Hopes Scored in First But Were Held at Bay for Nine Rounds Thereafter.

One run in the eleventh gave Hope Chapel a victory over the Farmer A. C. combine Saturday afternoon, the contest being the first extra-inning game and one of the best played to date in the City League. "Ches" Harriman, although still on the crippled list, played second for Hope and winged out three hits, besides accepting two putouts and seven assists without a mis-cue. Miller and Heron each collected a brace of bingles for the winners; Burns sent out three for the losers, and Ryan and Kacheiries each got a pair.

Hope got the "jump" on the losing side by pulling across a trio of counters in the first, but was held scoreless until the eleventh thereafter. Both teams played good ball in the field during the eleven rounds and some high-class fielding capers were pulled off by the various performers.

BAPTISTS HUMBLED BY CLINTON AVENUE

Cellarites Got Limbered up Running Bases and Swamped Rivals.

Fifteen hits and twenty-six runs were tallied to the credit of the Clinton Avenue baseball outfit in the City League engagement with First Baptist, Saturday afternoon, while the losing side was counting up nine hits and four runs. Two-base hits proved to be the day's feature, eight of these being made.

Ragged fielding and inability to connect with the delivery of Harney caused the downfall of the Baptists, while hard slugging and clever work in the field enabled the cellarites to break into the win column for the first time this year. Besides pitching good ball, Harney was the hit leader of the afternoon with five to his credit. Brown, Henry and Mounton each got a pair for the winning side, while Taylor, Waller and Randolph got two each for the Baptists.

Abstainers Beat Clintons But Failed to Keep a Detailed Box Score.

In a fast and well played game the T. A. B. S. defeated Manager Apgar's Clinton Avenue team on Avon Oval yesterday afternoon to the tune of 4 to 2. The T. A. B. S. nine sprang a surprise in the form of McFadden, who hails from Dunellen, and he pitched a good game, keeping the hits well scattered.

Dixon, pitching for the losers, twirled well also, but the Abstainers bunched three hits in the fifth inning and with the aid of a wild throw scored three runs, which were enough to win the game. Rosenson was the big man with the stick, garnering three in four trips to the plate.

BARNEY BREAKS ANOTHER.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—Barney Oldfield made another new record for the Indianapolis motor speedway when he circled the two and one-half mile course yesterday in 1 m. 27.70s., an average speed of 102.623 miles an hour. The former record of 1m. 30.13s. was made by Georges Boillot, in 1914. Oldfield was not using the car he will drive in the sixth annual international sweepstakes race Tuesday.

TWO BIG SESSIONS ENOUGH FOR W. H. S.

Plainfield High Walloped by Mt. Ararat Crew by a 10 to 1 Count.

If the fourth and eighth innings could have been left out of that match between Plainfield and Westfield High Schools, at Westfield, Saturday, there might have been a different story to tell; but as it was, Westfield walked away with a 10 to 1 victory.

The offerings of both Dealman and Hutchcroft, who preceded him on the mound, were hit hard and often, but sharp fielding on the part of the Red-and-Blue cohorts kept the Westfielders away from the platter except in two innings. In those, every Westfield man got a rap and in the fourth got halfway down the line-up again. While the victors showed some ragged fielding, they also killed off many good blows, and Davies' work in the seventh choked off several runs when he made a double play unassisted by spearing a line drive from Mills' bat and stepping on third to force Apgar.

The locals got their only run in the seventh. Apgar got on by an error and went to third on Linke's hit. While Linke and Mills were being caught in a double play, he got to third, and when Stevens fumbled Noonan's roller, came home.

Seven Bridge road from Morris avenue to Essex County line, estimated cost, $500. Central avenue from Grove street, Westfield, to St. George avenue, Rahway, estimated cost, $1,500.

A resolution was adopted referring the various Clerk's bills for the cost of printing of ballots and expenses at recent election to the Auditing Committee and County Attorney for investigation.

Freeholder Noah Woodruff called the attention of the Board to the condition of Westfield avenue through Roselle Park on account of height of trolley tracks. On motion by Freeholder Applegate this matter was referred to the County Road Committee.

A resolution was adopted directing the Clerk to notify the trolley authorities to clean up Westfield avenue, through Roselle Park, within ten days or it will be done at their expense.

The approved bills were on roll call paid.

On motion by Freeholder Meisel, the director declared the Board adjourned to Thursday, June 1, 1916, at 2:30 p. m.

J. EDW. ROWE, Clerk.

J. J. HILL IS WORSE.

Physicians Declare Outlook Is Extremely Serious.

St. Paul, May 29.—James J. Hill is critically ill at his residence here.

Dr. Biggs and Dr. Gilfillan issued the following statement:

"Condition less favorable and on account of the patient's age the outlook becomes extremely serious."

Dr. William J. Mayo said:

"Mr. Hill is a very sick man."

Mr. Hill was visited by Dr. Gilfillan and efforts were made to induce rest. It was said that the patient's condition showed no improvement aside from the fact that he seemed less restless.

The pioneer railroad builder's pulse was good, but his temperature was high and he suffered considerable pain. Intermittently the patient was unconscious. Members of the immediate family, together with the surgical and medical staff gathered in St. Paul during the last few days, kept in almost constant touch with Mr. Hill's bedside, while a number of business associates were on hand much of the day.

LANSING ON DUTY.

Secretary Has Recovered—Rumors of Resignation Again Denied.

Washington, May 29.—Secretary Lansing, whose absence of almost two weeks from the department of state gave rise to resignation rumors, is back at his office.

The secretary has been ill, largely from the strain of his official duties, and there was no foundation for the stories of his disagreement with President Wilson, officials said.

A note to Great Britain on interference with neutral commerce was in course of preparation when Lansing was taken sick. It is expected it will be completed and sent to London in a few days.

AUCTION SALE

THE CONTENTS OF THE BIEDERWOLF TABERNACLE, at Gerard avenue and West Front street, will be disposed of on WEDNESDAY, MAY 31, commencing at 2 p. m., viz: All of the platform furniture, including large and small chairs, tables, platform rugs, a number of yards of muslin, several dozen electric bulbs, large and small; ten heating stoves and pipe, a number of new galvanized ash cans, lot of coal scuttles and signs, and a lot of other miscellaneous articles. This will give the public who attended the services in the Tabernacle an opportunity to secure a souvenir in remembrance of the great religious campaign.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

CHILDREN HONOR LATE G. A. R. HEAD

Brilliant Feature in Connection With Annual Memorial Day Program.

39 VETERANS MARCH

Usual Ceremonies Held by Winfield Scott Post—Dr. Hare the Speaker of the Day—Banquet Concluded Exercises.

Several notable departures from the usual Memorial Day ceremonies of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., featured yesterday's celebration, one of the chief features being the initial visit to the grave of the late Captain William Hand, who last year acted as commander of the day, as he had done for many years previously. The observance was equally as impressive as that of other years, and the demonstration, both on the street in the morning and in Reform Hall in the afternoon, followed the customary procedure in the main.

Thirty-nine war veterans, all exhibiting signs of advancing age and some barely able to march, gathered at Reform Hall yesterday morning to pay their annual respects to departed comrades. As the years roll along the customary demonstration grows more impressive and the number present yesterday indicated that the ranks of the "old guard" are rapidly thinning out. A majority of those left, however, are remarkable specimens of physically fit aged men, and formed a marked contrast to some of the younger generation in line during the parade manoeuvres.

Those organizations which participated in yesterday's parade included G. A. R., Company K, Boy Scout troops, Uniform Rank, Jr. O. U. A. M. and the Dutch Arms band of the Trinity Reformed church. The line of march started east on West Second street, north on Park avenue, east on Front street, north on Watchung avenue, east on Chatham street to the North Plainfield cemetery. Here the ceremonies were in charge of Senior Vice Commander Dr. Joseph De Berg. Following the services at this cemetery the parade formed again and proceeded to Somerset street, then south to Front street, west to Plainfield avenue and south to the Plainfield avenue cemetery. Vice-Commander Berg again officiated at the burying ground. One of the features of the ceremony at the cemetery was the laying of a handsome wreath on the grave of Captain Hand by the children of St. Mary's Parochial School. Captain Hand had been delegated to the parochial schools for the past thirty-five years by the local post and was held in high esteem by the children and graduates of that institution. His absence this year was sadly felt and this prompted the children to collect their pennies for the purchase of a suitable token in his honor.

The parade reassembled at the cemetery and marched east on West Fifth street to Central avenue and north to Reform Hall, where it disbanded for the noon hour.

The usual afternoon program in Reform Hall were held at 1 o'clock so that the participants and their friends might view the letter carriers' parade at 2:30. Past Grand Commander William C. Smith succeeded Commander T. O. Doane, who had charge of the parade, in taking charge of the program. A large attendance of veterans, members of the Relief Corps and friends of both organizations were present, and an elaborate musical program was rendered under the direction of Mrs. John Manley.

Rev. J. Madison Hare, of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, was the speaker of the day and delivered an inspiring address on "Patriotism." His talk called forth considerable favorable comment from the veterans and audience, and dealt with topics particularly pertinent to the occasion. The veterans also held their usual ceremonies at the hall. Each one received a carnation tied with white ribbon, which was the work of Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, representing the W. C. T. U.

The program follows:

Opening chorus, "Wake Up, America!" by the children; recitation, "Boys in Blue," by Helen Upstein and Sadie Goldberg; chorus, "Our Banner," by the children; solo, "America, I Love You," by four-year-old Marie Kelley; recitation, "Memorial Day Blossoms," by Eva Upstein, Elizabeth Bloom and Annie Levine; chorus, "I Salute Thee, Old Glory," by the children; address by Dr. Hare. Mrs. Manley rehearsed the juvenile performers for this portion of the day's program for the past seven years and the entertainment yesterday reflected with much credit on her ability to direct and her ableness in handling the participants.

Following the event, ice cream and cake were served to the children and the veterans were banqueted by members of the Women's Relief Corps.

3,000 MARCH IN CARRIERS' PARADE

Demonstration Greatest, But One, in History of Association.

BANQUET A SUCCESS

1,800 New Yorkers Added Much to Day's Events—Praise for All Members of Local Committee—Runyon Toastmaster at Dinner.

More than 3,000 postmen and their friends participated in yesterday's parade of the eighteenth annual convention of the New Jersey Association of Letter Carriers, and Plainfield streets were crowded all along the five mile line of march to cheer the mail men. It was estimated that 15,000 people saw the demonstration.

Thanks to the unselfishness and loyalty of New York and Brooklyn letter carrier, Plainfield made the best showing in the history of the State association with a single exception, and all the visitors and officials were loud in their praises of the manner in which this city entertained and honored her guests. There were almost 1,800 carriers from New York and Brooklyn in the parade, and they brought numerous bands and drum corps.

The parade assembled at Watchung and Crescent avenue shortly after 2 p. m., and was under way on schedule time. It reached the downtown section about 3:45. At its head rode city officials, officers of the association and a platoon of police. Then came local militia organization, and following them the New York carriers, in platoons. They stretched over twelve or fourteen city blocks. Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., and Jacob Astor Post, Spanish-American War Veterans, had positions of honor in the parade, and there were many veterans of the postal service in automobiles. One, Augustus Herman, of Newark, who was a postal employe before the Civil war, and who has served continuously since his honorable discharge after serving in the Union army, refused a proffered automobile. He walked the entire distance.

Newark, Jersey City, Elizabeth, Hoboken, Bayonne, Princeton, Ridgewood, Morristown and many other Jersey cities were represented in the parade.

Mrs. Thomas Norton, a clerk in the New York Pennsylvania Terminal station, was the only woman in the parade. She will be featured in the moving pictures taken by Henry Bryniarski, local representative of the Mutual Weekly.

The parade broke up at the Tabernacle, where coffee and sandwiches were served the marchers by women of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

Assemblyman William N. Runyon acted as toastmaster at the banquet served at the Columbus Club last night and the total number who enjoyed this event was in excess of two hundred. At the speaker's table were Judge Runyon, Postmaster Hoagland, F. W. Truax, Hon. Wm. E. Tuttle, Jr., Rev. B. M. Bogan, Mayor Leighton Calkins, John J. Walsh, retiring president of the association, and others.

Members of the committee in charge of arrangements for the convention occupied a table. This committee was composed of A. E. Hoagland, chairman; Garret Keating, A. E. Force, D. W. Littell, T. C. Vail, J. J. Gaffney, L. R. Fort, P. H. Burns, A. F. LaRock, Samuel Rothberg, A. C. Wilmerding, William Floersch, A. L. Seidler, Charles S. Sminck, L. V. F. Randolph, Edward S. Ralston, G. Finger, T. A. Doane, Jr., J. J. Carroll, H. Hammond, G. Wescott and C. B. Bepp.

Congressman John H. Capstick and Congressman John J. Egan were to have been among the speakers but they were unable to attend. Guests of honor at the banquet were:

Hon. Thomas F. Martin, Hon. W. L. Smally, Haddon Ivins, N. J. Opdyke, C. C. Larabee, W. H. Sharp, E. T. Van Winkle, J. B. Conklin, Rev. George Hunter, E. H. Bird, E. T. Dunn, C. B. Stephens.

Visiting postmasters were:

H. M. Knight, Camden; P. J. Ryan, Elizabeth; J. C. Sinnot, Newark; G. M. Oakford, Ridgewood; J. J. O'Hanlon, South Amboy; A. C. Halsizer, Flemington; E. W. Townsend, Montclair; S. Dana Ely, Rutherford.

Because of the fact that most of the delegates were forced to catch the 10:36 train they left the banquet hall immediately after the dinner was served, and the speeches were made to Plainfield people, with few exceptions. All of the orators expressed appreciation of the loyal and faithful work of letter carriers as individuals, and commendation of all that they stand for as an association. All approved of the proposed pension law for postal employes.

Much praise was given members of local committees for the effective work done in arranging for the convention, and President Doyle pronounced it the greatest demonstration he had ever seen.

The general committee this morning issud the following note of thanks:

The Plainfield letter carriers and the citizens' committee desire to express their appreciation and hearty thanks to our friends who so splen-

Father Peter J. Hart Delivers Fine Address and the College Orchestra Renders Choice Program—Purse Given to Mother Superior.

The annual reunion and banquet of the Mt. St. Mary Alumnae was held in Gabriel Hall yesterday, there being seventy-five members present. Dinner was served in the college dining hall which was beautifully decorated with blue and gold, the college colors, interspersed with ferns and wild flowers from the mountain side.

Rev. Peter J. Hart, rector of St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, and the Rev. John F. Baldwin, the college chaplian, were the guests of honor at the banquet. Rev. Father Hart addressed the members in his usual happy and genial manner; he urged them to be faithful and loyal to their alma mater by returning each year to strengthen the bonds of friendship and receive new inspiration to carry out in their lives the ideals instilled during their period of training at Mt. St. Mary's, continuing Father Hart said that women who had received exceptional advantages such as they enjoyed should give to the world the example of true noble womanhood, should be faithful loyal members of the holy mother church and the leaders in all movements instituted for the uplift of humanity.

a, Angelus from scenes Pittoresques, Massenet; b, Hungarian Dance, Brahms; c, Pizzicato, Polka, Strauss; d, Serenade D'Armour, Von Blon; e, Nocturne, Op. 9, No. 2, Chopin.

At the conclusion of the banquet the Alumnae Song was beautifully rendered by the whole assembly. At three o'clock the social meeting was held in the study hall. The president, Florence Drummond Stiles, of Brooklyn, presided and addressed the members. The new members were presented by the Sister Directress and welcomed into the association by the president.

The chapel exercises took place at 4 o'clock. Benediction of the most Blessed Sacrament was given by Rev. Father Baldwin, a special program of music was rendered by the college choir, followed by the consecration of the Alumnae to Mary Immaculate. Before leaving for their homes, the officers in the name of the Alumnae presented the Mother Superior with a generous purse to be used for advertising purposes.

SAYS FOWLER WOULD BE CANDIDATE FOR PRES.

Trenton Newspaper is Authority for Statement That He is Seeking Nomination.

According to an article in the Trenton Times on Monday former Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, wants to be the Republican candidate for President of the United States, and he is actively engaged in an attempt to arouse sentiment for himself. Mr. Fowler sometime ago announced himself as a candidate for United States Senator. A few months ago he wrote a book, "The National Issues of 1916," and he has also had published in Prosperity, a magazine, a proposed platform for the party for this year.

The Times says that Mr. Fowler "has been in Trenton attempting to raise $10,000 as a part of a publicity fund. It is reported that he has asked former Governor E. C. Stokes to nominate him at the Chicago convention. Mr. Stokes was seen with reference to this report, and he declined to discuss it."

BIG FLAG DISPLAYED FROM DAILY PRESS BUILDING

The big American flag which was displayed on the front of the Daily Press building yesterday has been seen by Plainfielders before, but never in the business section of the city. It was formerly the property of H. Alfred Streuli, for many years a prominent resident of Plainfield, and was flown from the big flagpole at "Fairmount," the Streuli home on Hillside avenue, on every occasion which called for a display of the national colors. It is probably as large as any flag in Plainfield, being 15 by 24 feet in size. The blue field, which contains but 38 stars, is ten by eleven feet. The flag was presented to the Daily Press by Mrs. Evarts Tracy, of Hillside avenue, a daughter of the late Mr. Streuli. Prior to being hung yesterday the national emblem was thoroughly overhauled, and repaired, as it had been torn on occasions in the past when it was displayed from flag poles in the city

ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR ALLIES' FAIR

Belgian Relief Society Receive Many Gifts to Be Sold for War Funds.

COMMITTEES NAMED

More Than 1,062 Articles Have Been Sent to Mme. de Rancongne to Be Distributed Among Soldiers and Sailors—Resolution Adopted.

At the special meeting of the Plainfield Belgian Relief Society, held Monday, announcements were made of the plans made in Plainfield for assisting the Allies' Bazaar, and also that individuals might learn what gifts would be most acceptable and where such gifts might be sent. Mrs. J. K Myers, Mrs F. W. Wallace, Mrs. G. A. Bomann, Mrs. Harold Van der Linde, Miss King and Miss Ivins will be among the members who will sell articles on Plainfield Day, which will be held on June 12.

Mrs. Wallace will receive Victor records and miscellaneous salable articles, which will be sent to the city in an automobile placed at her disposal by Mrs. W. A. Conner. Garden hats and bags may be sent to Mrs F. W. Yates, 1112 Watchung avenue. Donations for individual members so far have been interesting and varied. A beautiful Chinese porcelain ginger jar of the K'anghsi period (1662-1722), decorated with floating hawthorns on cracked ice in cobalt blue, and a lovely gold bracelet, with diamonds and sapphires, are among the gifts.

Mrs. Bomann has sent some charming tapestries, one a museum piece; Mrs. W. T. Gough will give a silver mesh bag and lorgnettes; Mrs. George Mellick, a very fine pig; Mrs. Van der Linde, some hand-made rugs from the Self-Masters' Colony, and some automobile accessories.

Mrs. Wallace announced that 1,062 articles had been sent to Mme. de Rancongne since the preceding meeting. The treasurer's report showed a balance with the bank of $480.02, supplemented by one dollar in cash and decreased by a check for $99.75 sent May 27 to the Vacation Relief for 79 pairs of shoes and 26 dozen stockings shipped to the Secours Duryea. This left a balance in hand of $381.27. A resolution was passed that the chairman ascertain as quickly as possible from the head of the Belgian Relief in New York whether the Belgians are now in greater need of food or clothing, and that as soon as that information is received an executive committee, formed of the chairman and the treasurer, make the purchases that seem advisable and ship them at once to Belgium.

After the reading of a letter from Mrs. C. F. Judson, of Philadelphia, thanking the society for a check for one hundred dollars sent direct by her to La Panne to be used by the King's sister for special cases of immediate need, the meeting was adjourned.

CONTROVERSY SETTLED.

Eddie Conshay's name was sent in for City Baseball League endorsement by both the Farmer A. C. and Hope Chapel at the weekly meeting Monday night. According to the organization's rules he became the property of the team with which he performed first and as he played with Hope yesterday he becomes a bona-fide Chapelite for the remainder of the season.

LETTER CARRIERS MAKE DEMAND FOR PENSIONS—GRIFFIN BILL IS INDORSED BY THE CONVENTION

SENATOR MARTINE AND CONGRESSMAN SCULLY PLEDGE SUPPORT AND TELL OF BILLS NOW PENDING IN CONGRESS.

MANY SERVICE REFORMS ARE CALLED FOR

More Than 200 Delegates at Business Session—President Walsh, of Elizabeth, Succeeded by C. Eugene Doyle, of Hoboken—Routine of Convention Deliberations in Babcock Building Yesterday Afternoon.

OFFICERS OF LETTER CARRIERS.

C. E. Doyle, Hoboken; president.
Harry A. Lane, Bloomfield, vice pres.
William J. Hope, Rutherford, second vice president.
William F. Kelly, Jersey City; sec'y.
Jos. M. Brennan, Orange; treasurer.
James Morissey, East Orange; sergeant at arms.

Through all of the activities of delegates and visitors to the eighteenth annual convention of the New Jersey Association of Letter Carriers yesterday there ran a dominant note—an appeal for adequate pensions for those grown gray or disabled in the service. It was the principal topic of speech at the banquet last night; veterans of the service blazoned their unpensioned and unrewarded old age as they marched over Plainfield streets in the parade, and at the convention of yesterday afternoon, decisive action was taken to bring about legislation on this important matter.

The Griffin bill was indorsed by the convention. This bill is now pending in Congress and is in the hands of the committee on Post Offices and Post Roads. It is not the best of the many postal pension bills before Congress, friends of the association admitted, but it is the one that stands the best chance of being passed. The Griffin bill is known as the indefinite leave-of-absence bill. It provides that mail carriers, postal clerks and other men in the service shall be allowed an "indefinite leave of absence" when incapacitated from disability or old age, and that they shall be paid $600 a year while not working. All other bills calling for pensions have been referred to the committee on reform in the civil service, which is hostile to the plans of the carriers; but this is in the hands of a friendly committee in the House and will be referred to the same committee in the Senate. Senator James E. Martine is ranking member of the committee on post office and post roads in the Senate, and before the convention yesterday he pledged his hearty support to any pension bill. He introduced one in the Senate last week.

More than two hundred accredited delegates were on the floor when President John J. Walsh, of Elizabeth, called the meeting to order shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. After the invocation was pronounced by the Rev. George Hauser, Mayor Leighton Calkins extended a welcome to the convention.

He told the delegates that Plainfield was honored in playing host to the letter carriers of the State, and that the city was theirs for the day. Mayor Calkins also sounded the keynote of the convention when he called attention to the common practice of taking good service in public work for granted, but declared that honest service was entitled to pension, and that the letter carriers should be given some form of superannuity.

Senator James E. Martine came in during the address of Mayor Calkins and he was called to the platform for an address. Senator Martine said he lived on a broad platform, and that the one provided was too narrow, so he came out on the floor that he might have room to walk up and down as he talked. He told the carriers that ther calling was one which brought much of benefit, happiness and blessing to the people of the country and one of which they could be justly proud. The senior senator denounced war and said he wanted peace. He has always advocated a broadening of the postoffice system, he said, and will always stand for liberality toward the postal employes. Only last week he introduced in the Senate a pension bill, and he pledged his support to any measure of this kind that came before the committee on post offices and post roads, of which he is a member. Such a bill, he said, is literally, intrinsically and absolutely just, and he promised that one would become a law within a short time Congressman Thomas J. Scully was also in the convention hall, and he pledged his support to the pension bill in a short address.

Harry M. Knight, president of the New Jersey Association of Postmasters, and postmaster at Camden, was another who approved pensions for carriers and clerks. Mr. Knight attends all of the meetings of carriers and he was given a rousing welcome when he took the floor yesterday.

The resolution indorsing the Griffin bill was passed only after a warm debate. Some of those on the convention floor insisted that other bills before Congress were better for the carriers than this, but James J. Gallagher, of Jersey City, who has been on the inside of the situation in Washington, explained that this bill was the only one that seemed to have a chance of passage, and the resolution indorsing it was finally passed by unanimous vote. The bill contains a recall clause, under which pensioned carriers, or those on "unlimited leave of absence," can be called back for extra service around the holidays, but none of the carriers objected to this. Mr. Gallagher reported that 116 members of Congress had been signed to the support of the bill.

A resolution calling on the national secretary to send out more news to the branch organizations was passed. It suggested a weekly bulletin from headquarters.

Duties of second-class clerks are just as hard as those of first-class clerks, according to a resolution presented by the Newark branch, and the requirements are as exacting, yet first class clerks may be promoted to $1,200 a year, while second class men can only hope to reach $1,100. The resolution passed called for a revision of the class salaries.

A resolution suggesting a change in the representation of branches in the national convention, was referred to the national body without comment.

A resolution originating at Milton, calling attention to the high cost of living and asking for the elimination of the $800 and $900 class of clerks and the raising of the maximum from $1,200 to $1,400 was passed.

The Keating bill, now pending in Congress, providing for a supreme court of appeals for all federal employes was strongly indorsed.

That the practice of "speeding-up" carriers and clerks at busy periods is un-Christian, un-American and inhuman, was declared in a resolution introduced by the Hoboken branch. It demanded that this practice be stopped. The resolution was passed.

Two resolutions pertaining to newspapers were passed. One declared that the state association recognized the power of the press in determining all important matters and solicited the support of newspapers in all its suggested reforms, especially that looking to a pension for aged employes. The other expressed the thanks of the association for assistance already rendered. In this resolution the Plainfield Press was named, and no other local paper, but later the convention decided that it would be best not to use names. A resolution of thanks to the Saturday Evening Post was also passed.

Expressions of thanks to Plainfield letter carriers, Postmaster Hoagland, the local citizen's committee, and the New York carriers who helped to make the convention a success were ordered prepared by the secretary.

After a heated debate it was decided to call on the national secretary for a report on the recent strike of carriers in West Virginia. Some union journals have printed charges that the carriers were not cared for by the national association; and in order to refute these statements, information is called for.

A number of addresses were made. Fred M. Truax, member of the national executive board, whose home is in St. Paul, Minn., came all the way to Plainfield for the convention, and he said he had been amply repaid for the trip. Mrs. Stein, of Rochester, national president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, also addressed the convention for a few minutes.

The convention went into the election of new officers at 6 o'clock last night. The only contest was for the position of secretary, and William F. Kelly, of Jersey City, was re-elected by a good majority. C. Eugene Doyle, of Hoboken, chairman of the executive board, was elected to succeed John J. Walsh, of Elizabeth, as president. Harry A. Lane, of Bloomfield, succeeded M. H. Taylor, of Hoboken, as first vice president. William J. Hope, of Rutherford, was re-elected second vice president, and Joseph M. Brennan, of Orange, was re-elected treasurer. James Morissey, of East Orange, succeeded Harry

Y. M. C. A. BOYS ON HIKE TO NEWARK

Band of Eighteen Enjoys First Outing of the Summer Season.

Residents on East Front street were sure a band of Mexican raiders had gotten past General Pershing's lines and invaded New Jersey, when eighteen husky chaps in clothes that were older than old, carrying blankets, cooking utensils, hammocks, "grub" and cameras, passed down that street at 7:30 Monday night. Then someone started singing and those alarmed Plainfield citizens were reassured, for the song was "There's Honey in the Rock, My Brother."

The party was composed of members of the Boys' Division of the Y. M. C. A. and were starting out on the first overnight hike of the season, under the leadership of Physical Director Meermans, and Boys' Work Secretary Lynn.

A detachment of the enemy encamped at the store at Mountainside was attacked at 9 o'clock, the Y. M. C. A. forces carrying away stomachs full of ice cream, soda and Moxie, leaving behind several dead bottles. An indemnity was demanded, however, and they were forced to pay the enemy five cents for every drink of soda, and a dime for each plate of ice cream.

Elated by the success of the first battle, the band of skirmishers pushed rapidly on and encamped for the night at Echo Lake. At 1 o'clock an insurrection broke out and a bloody battle was fought in the woods and fields. The rebels were finally "walloped," and although they should have been shot at sunrise, were pardoned by the officers in command.

At daybreak, breakfast was prepared by each fellow over the camp fire, and at 5 o'clock the march on Newark began.

A Red Cross ambulance, in the shape of a trolley car, was pressed into service at Springfield to carry the dead and wounded into the city. Browlee, Henwood and Brower, the first suffering from sore feet and the latter from cold feet, thus escaped some of the hardships of the march.

The Newark Y. M. C. A. was besieged at 9 o'clock in the morning, and after a short "parley" between Chief Lynn and General Cozzens, unconditionally surrendered and turned over the whole equipments of baths and towels to the attacking forces.

The rest of the day was spent in sightseeing and good times, and there were eighteen fellows in Plainfield last night who did not need to be rocked to sleep.

INSTALL NEW MACHINES.

Schiller Brothers, of West Front street, manufacturers of women's underwear, have just completed the work of enlarging their factory. The improvements include the installation of new high-power machines which almost doubles the capacity, and several new lines have been added. The firm has been engaged in business here thirteen years, and is now employing about seventy-five people. Harry Katz is the efficient manager of the plant and under his direction the work has been brought up to a high standard of efficiency.

ORGANIZE BIBLE CLASS.

The class will meet in the association parlors Tuesday mornings at 10 o'clock. Miss Kathryn Aller, the general secretary of the association, will teach the class. All women interested in Bible study are invited to join the class.

CONCEALS CAUSE OF MURDER.

Cincinnati, May 31,—Refusing to divulge, even to his attorneys, the cause which prompted him to shoot a former friend to death, Harry Leahy, formerly a broker in this city, faces Judge Caldwell in court today to accept a life sentence for his deed. The deepest mystery surrounded the murder of Frank Clements, a workhouse guard, on August 31 last. Clements and Leahy, with friends, had been talking in a friendly manner, when Leahy left to go to the office of the telegraph company of which he was vice-president, where, it is alleged, he procured a revolver. Returning to the group, Leahy pressed the gun against Clements' body and fired. He then fled and was caught in Louisville, Ky. Rumors that a woman was the cause of the tragedy will not down. Clements refused to make any statement before he died, and Leahy has covered up all information that would explain the act, even to his attorneys. Leahy was indicted for first degree murder, and his attorney secured several delays of the trial in an effort to prepare a defense. But he failed, and finally induced the prosecuting atorneys to accept a plea of guilty to second degree murder, dropping the charge of premeditation. All the condemned man says to his attorney is that he would rather go to the electric chair or spend his days in jail than to "draw another person into it."

Raking 'Em Over

By "JINKS"

Such a collection of scorers as the City Baseball League has herded together is bound to do more harm than good in the long run. We venture to state that not a single set of scorers who compiled statistics at yesterday's games agreed on their figures. One game in particular returned such a prominent mess that no publication should really be given it. There is absolutely no reason why the officials appointed by the various aggregations cannot get together during the games and mediate on certain points about which there is a question. Errors have been chalked up as hits and hits as errors and one team failed to even have the score right. Instead of trusting this important phase of the league work to a group of novices the organization should get together and appoint competent men who could at least agree on hits, runs and errors and turn in records that come somewhere near being correct.

• • • • • •

When it comes time to publish statistics for the season of 1916 the clubs will find themselves in the same predicament as presented itself last year. Not an individual or team standing was obtainable at the conclusion of the 1915 race and it is reasonable to expect that no accurate compilation could be made even at this early stage of the schedule. This is the one weak spot in the City League organization and it would require little trouble to instruct the official average keepers in what is demanded of a real scorer. Get together on this issue before it's too late and give us accounts that come within a mile, at least, of being half-way correct next Saturday night.

More baseball was played on Plainfield lots yesterday than has been staged hereabouts in the last three years. Games galore were put on in every part of the city and all were fairly well patronized, especially the City League encounters. Those who were skeptical about double headers paying, even on a holiday, were treated to a sad jolt by the managers' returns for yesterday's bookings. The day was a big one for everyone of the six clubs and the engagements slated were pulled off in a manner that gave some new "customers" a decidedly impressive view of City League competition.

North Plainfield High School turned a baseball trick of note yesterday in taking into camp the Alumni diamond athletes. Victory over a graduate force is generally taken as an indication that the undergraduate nine is up to par and the borough schoolboys fully demonstrated this to be so. The contest was a good one and the old timers who tried to come back put on a brand of baseball that made the youngsters hustle to beat. Aside from being a good hitting game the fielding of both teams was well nigh perfect and caused a flash of optimism to be stirred up in the High School camp.

Anyone who followed the postmen in their march through the city yesterday afternoon was fully convinced at the finish that letter carriers have to be good athletes as well as consistent performers. The parade was taken over a long route but none of the carriers exhibited signs of fatigue at the conclusion. The line of march yesterday was considerably shorter than many of them travel three times daily in distributing mail matter and they were all in good trim for the journey.

George Trust, who recently cast his lot with the Clinton Avenue City League outfit, has shown himself to be a clever all around performer in the contests staged since he linked his name with that club. He is a former Southern League player and the Clintons might well consider themselves fortunate in being able to command his services. His most conspicuous trait is base stealing and he has proven himself to be one of the speediest men on the local circuit's sacks. A few more like Trust would add considerable strength to the league teams.

Coincident with the triumph of Christy Mathewson over the Boston Braves comes the announcement that Britt Martin, veteran manager of the Hope Chapel leaguers, stepped to the plate as a pinch hitter yesterday and swatted out the bingle that spelled victory for the churchboys. Britt has been guiding the destinies of the Chapelites from the bench this season but pulled himself together at a critical moment in yesterday's contest and delivered the goods. Although he shares the organization's age championship with Warry McLaughlin, Britt still has some ball playing left in his makeup and those who follow the activities of the loop may well expect to see him flash to the fore again before the race comes to a finish.

Well, now that the Giants have lost their first game since leaving little old New York Plainfield fandom can once more breath easily and settle down to the real business of rooting. Surprising it is how many dollars changed hands here during the past week between Giant supporters and those who "knew" that McGraw's outfit was about due to cash in on sixteen different occasions. The strain has now been broken and it is not likely that the Gothamites will indulge in any such pastiming after they return to the shadows of Coogan's Bluff Friday.

Press Amateur Dep't

A conversation the writer had with Francis Connolly yesterday was productive of the announcement that the Laurel A. C. would not only enter the Parker Field League this year, but would be the only entirely uniformed team in that circuit. The boys have all been fitted out by John Doughty, the sporting goods man, and are very anxious to initiate the new suits.

Joseph Guinee has requested that we announce to the world that the Shamrocks are willing to meet any team of like calibre anywhere at any time. The All-Stars are the boys for whose scalp Joseph is angling.

Handling twenty chances without a slip is no mean achievement for a little fellow, but that is what Joseph Earner did the other day. Joe is a very capable fielder and is improving with the willow.

"Barney" Sachar again breaks into the limelight. If that is all Barney breaks into, the authorities should worry.

The value of holding an acquaintance with some of the younger lads is by no means of little importance. We very often get some startling information, and if we published all that we have been requested to publish we would be eating dry bread and sipping ice-cold water in the vicinity of Elizabeth by this time. Some managers are willing to challenge others in every line of sport—principally in pugilistic combat.

William Coogan is a director. No, he's not a "movie" director, but just an ordinary diamond director. He has, at present, the handling of the reins of the West Third street stars, a very formidable aggregation of which Eddie Hannigan is captain.

Little Danny Guinee is quite a baseball player. Danny is a rather small chap, but he has Jeff Tesreau beaten a mile when it comes to pitching a ball. In fact, many a large fellow wishes he had Danny's arm. Of course, Dan mixes his offerings, too.

"Bim" Baglin, the war reports state, is still in the scoring business. "Bim" caters to this phase of the business simply because he realizes that there is a woeful lack of talent in this "department"—meaning, of course, that he intends to help out the sport writers as much as he can.

What Shakespeare missed (with apologies to Tom Powers)—The patched-up score cards handed in to sport writers the world over.

SWIMMING CLASSES.

"SQUALEE-HALLEE-MELEE" CHINESE VS. ABSTAINERS

The T. A. B. baseball team of Elizabeth will have as its opponents next Sunday afternoon one of the best teams now touring the East. The aggregation representing the Chinese University at Hawaii will visit T. A. B. Park, Third and Trumbull streets, Elizabeth, and a fast and entertaining contest is anticipated. The Celestial nine last year won 137 games out of 161 played and it is out to eclipse this record, starting with the "Tabs." The Orientals are proficient tossers and hope to return the beating received at the hands of the "Tabs" last year.

Among the players are: Ping Kong Chin, lf; Vernon Ayau, ss; Lai Ting, 3b; Yan Chiff, cf; Lee Suan, 2b; Yim, 1b; Hoe Mark, c; Sam Hop, rf; En Sue Pung, Luck Yee and Ahh Lee, p. A monster crowd is expected as the performance of the Chinamen last year is still fresh in the minds of the Elizabeth fans and many from this town who take in many of the games at the Elizabeth ball park. The field is reached easily, inasmuch as it is located at the Elizabethport station of the Central Railroad.

NETHERWOODS UPSET THE BIG FEATURE OF HOLIDAY CITY LEAGUE ENGAGEMENTS

Although six games were staged in the City Baseball League yesterday, the relative standing of the clubs remained unchanged. Every one of the six clubs broke even on the day's program, winning one and losing one. The biggest feature of the day was the upset of the Netherwood combine by the Tabs, this being the initial defeat in seven games for the champions of last year.

One extra-inning contest—that between the Baptists and Tabs, was pulled off, and all of the other five attractions were of the gilt-edged variety. Plenty of interest was manifested in each engagement and good crowds attended the contests.

Close scores predominated and several of the victories were pulled out of the fire by eleventh-hour licks. The pitching was good and the fielding was up to the standard. The one regrettable feature of the day came in the scores returned by the official record-keepers. They were a set of the worst imaginable and indicated that the regular tally-keepers were either off on a holiday trip or else they never did know how to compile a satisfactory record of league games.

The returns:

CHASED THE JINX BY BEATING GRADUATES

N. P. H. S. Chalked up its Eighth Victory in Holiday Game.

North Plainfield High School won its eighth victory of the season yesterday morning, when it defeated the Alumni on Hyde Field by a score of 6 to 5. The contest was similar to those of former years, only the High School came out on top, thus ending the procession of defeats which they have been subject to for the past five years.

Both nines displayed a gilt-edged brand of the outdoor pastime, it being one of the most interesting games the boroughites have participated in. Making an uphill fight, the grads scored three runs in the seventh, and one in the eighth, thus tying the score, but the High School players were not to be deprived of their prey, they pushing the last counter over in their half of the same inning.

Dilts and Townley were the opposing boxmen, both pitching clever ball, the former getting his usual large number of strikeouts, while each were touched for the same number of hits.

NO SUNDAY CONTESTS FOR CITY LEAGUERS

Will in the Future Stage Sabbath Attractions Under Other Names.

It was decided at the weekly meeting of the City Baseball League, held in the Daily Press office Monday night, that in the future no league club should stage Sunday games under titles used on the loop. During the past few weeks several of the combines have seen fit to arrange contests with rival leagues under league names and this has proven confusing and served to detract interest from the usual Saturday schedule. The games of the clubs will probably be continued Sunday afternoons but they will assume "Sunday names."

The following changes were endorsed in various rosters: Releases, Tabs, L. Dixon; Farmers, Nichols; First Baptist, Dunham and Burner; Clinton Avenue, Penoyer; Hope Chapel, Heftl. Additions: Tabs, McFadden; Baptists, Dorman and Nelson; Farmers, E. Conshay; Clinton Avenue, Reed; Hope Chapel, E. Conshay.

The business session was a short one and well attended.

While this will probably be the only men's meeting before the summer vacation season, it is the beginning of a series of meetings for men commencing again in the fall, at which some very strong speakers are to be heard.

In addition to these meetings several Bible classes are to be organized, one of which has already begun under the leadership of W. D. Murray, and meeting in the association auditorium every Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The course used being "The Life and Works of Jesus According to St. Mark," Mr. Murray himself being the author. This class will continue until July 1, adjourning until fall.

MOTORISTS OUT FOR EGAN BILL

Organizations Promise Financial and Moral Aid.

MAINTENANCE IS PROVIDED

Annual Increase in Motor Vehicle Registration Said to Solve Problem—June 17 Set Aside as Good Roads Day. Prejudice Against Measure Overcome.

Newark, May 31.—That the Egan bill provided for the maintenance of the 575 mile proposed trunk road system was emphasized by George E. Blakeslee during an open discussion at a meeting of motorists at the clubhouse of the New Jersey Automobile and Motor club. The autoists, who represented practically every motor vehicle organization in the state, decided to lend financial and moral support to the measure.

A general impression had prevailed that the bill failed clearly to specify either the method for or source of the maintenance of the $7,000,000 roads, should they be voted at the November referendum election.

Mr. Blakeslee held that the certain annual increase in motor vehicle registration automatically solved the maintenance problem. He produced figures from Commissioners William L. Dill and Edwin A. Stevens of the motor vehicle and roads departments to show that the revenue would materially increase annually. Sufficient funds would accrue three years hence to provide a maintenance fund of last year's size, exclusive of the amount required by the bill to retire the bonds annually and to meet the interest.

Relieved of the upkeep of their main traveled arteries, each county would then be able to divert its road maintenance fund toward the improvement of more remote highways, it was argued.

Maintenance would be directed through the same channel as now, the state roads department. Mr. Blakeslee held that in 1919, when the first bonds would fall due, the receipts of the motor vehicle department would amount to nearly $2,000,000. The average yearly payment of the bond issue is $590,160. The total receipts of the department last year were about $1,000,000. In 1925, Mr. Blakeslee predicted, the department's revenue would pass the $2,500,000 mark.

Augustus V. Hamburg, president of the Associated Automobile Clubs of New Jersey, urged a thorough publicity campaign in behalf of the measure. He suggested a representation at the annual meeting of the State Chamber of Commerce at Beach Haven, June 15, 16 and 17. The last date has been set aside as Good Roads day. It is expected that fully 80,000 business and professional men of the state, members of the state organization, will be represented.

BOYS LEG BROKEN WHEN RUN OVER BY AUTOMOBILE

John Wilson, who Monday afternoon struck five-year-old Rubin Deutsch and ran over him with an automobile, has been ordered to court but his case was allowed to go over by Judge De Meza. This morning he was taken to his home at 513 West Third street. He is in no danger.

OPAL CHEMICAL CO. CASE GOES OVER UNTIL MONDAY

Newark, May 31.—In the hearing of the application for a receiver for the Opal Chemical Company here today, Vice Chancellor Foster ruled that there still existed a doubt as to the solvency of the company and he postponed a decision until Monday of next week, when the hearing will be reopened. The application is made by Judge William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, for Howard Huntingdon, of that city. John E. Helm and other stockholders contend that $4,600 in notes against the company, held by Samuel Huntingdon were not authorized and that the money did not go into the business. Books of the company will be produced in court Monday.

DARIO RESTA WON CLASSIC; FOUR PILOTS BADLY HURT

Indianapolis, Ind., May 31.—Dario Resta, driving a Peugeot automobile, won the sixth annual international sweepstakes on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway yesterday, completing the three hundred miles in 3h. 36m. 10.32s. He finished two minutes ahead of Wilbur D'Alene, who was second, in a Duesenberg car, and three minutes ahead of Ralph Mulford, in a Peugeot, who was third. Resta's average rate of speed as 83.36 miles an hour. Ralph De Palma completed three hundred miles of last year's 500-mile contest at an average rate of speed of 90.21 miles an hour.

Four men were injured, one seriously, when two of the racing cars overturned. "Jack" Le Cain, driving a Delarge as relief for Jules Devigne, is in a serious condition as a result of overturning on the north turn. Le Cain was caught under the machine, and it was announced at the hospital last night that his skull is fractured in two places and the abdominal wall is torn. He probably will die. He was a teammate of Carl Limberg, who was killed in the Metropolitan Trophy race at Sheepshead Bay on May 13. He was driving a car owned by Harry S. Harkness, president of the Sheepshead Bay Speedway.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

"The combination fine and probation plan for minor offences," says the Sun, "as worked out by Mayor Calkins, of Plainfield, N. J.—as sort of pay as you go along on probation system—is bound to inspire interest. If an honest Plainfield workingman drinks not wisely but too deep on Saturday night, no fine too large for him to pay on the spot is imposed on him; he is permitted to pay so much down and so much a week until the fine is cancelled. The object of the scheme is twofold. The installment plan for fines renders possible the punishment of offenders without imprisonment, a penalty which costs the municipality the support of the prisoner, while he loses time from work, thus bringing hardship on his family. Besides this saving, the installment plan keeps the culprit on probation until he has paid the last of his fine, a procedure which is said to be of value in breaking up bad habits."—Stamford Advocate.

EDUCATOR'S NOTEBOOK

Toronto—While the air is full of war plots, fostered by Canada's enemies, one war plot is home-bred, and in it the red blood of Canadian boys and girls take a vigorous part. The "potato war plot" of the children of Ontario has netted $2,843 in cash, and a motor ambulance was bought and sent to the war zone, so that the papas and uncles of the Canadian children would have another friend to stand by them. The Ontario department of agriculture furnished the potato seedlings for some 2,500 of these plots, and the boys and girls of 34 counties participated in the work. Although a poor crop resulted in many cases, the school pupils were able to send a bright new ambulance, inscribed to tell the tale of their work in the hot sun.

Boston—Results are beginning to show in the new movement started a year ago by the Massachusetts Board of Education in training the coming generation how to govern itself. When the present school children of the old Bay State shall become voters, it is promised that Massachusetts shall have a government truly and intelligently by the people. Those college-bred few who presumably know good from evil, but seldom voted for either, and those under-college many who may or may not know, but who vote just the same, at the dictation of a boss—all these in the happy days of the future cast their ballots as regularly as they pay taxes, and cast them independently. That, at any rate, is the intention of the education board. The means to this end is a radical reorganization of the method of teaching civil government in the public schools. The children are to grow into citizenship as a habit, and will not suddenly become citizens at twenty-one.

Milwaukee—A resolution to keep defective children out of the public schools will be considered by the reorganized school board in July. The resolution is favored by Miss Estelle Levy, head of the school for exceptional children, and by some of the public school authorities. "The purpose is to bar from the schools such children as have not attained the mental age of four after four months' trial," says Miss Levy. "It seems to be a waste of taxpayers' money to spend it on children who cannot be helped by their school work. It would benefit all concerned to bar them."

New Orleans—The Louisiana State Board of Education has put its foot down on Mother Goose's rhymes, throwing out a reader series because of these ditties in them. Ex-Governor Hall and other prominent members, who are plantation born and reared, thought they belittled the farmer. Superintendent of Education Harris and other members of the board fought valiantly for the rhymes, but were outvoted.

Chicago—One of the biggest legacies music has ever received is the $700,000 fund recently left by Byran Lathrop, of this city. The purpose of the bequest is expressed by the late Mr. Lathrop as follows: "The City of Chicago now has universities, technical schools, museums and an unsurpassed orchestra, but it has no public school of music, such as the Conservatoire of Paris, and it is in my opinion very desirable that an institution should be founded in Chicago in which an education can be obtained in the higher branches of music and musical composition, not inferior to that provided in the cities of Europe."

New York—A naval reserve organization, to be trained under officers of the navy, is being organized in this city by men teachers and principals of the city schools, who have already enlisted in a company which is being trained by regular officers. The New York school teachers plan to form the pioneer section of an American mosquito fleet, patterned after the British organization of motor boats, yachts and other small craft, armed with three-inch guns and machine guns, which now patrols the waters off the British Isles for submarines. Many of the teachers and principals are the owners of motor boats and spend their summers off shore. During the summer now at hand, they will complete their course of training, and the school teacher will then fill another important role in the preparedness program of the present day.

Mr. and Mrs. Runyon Field, of Bound Brook, and Mr. and Mrs. David Hastings, motored to Washington and other points of interest over Decoration Day.

SELF-SACRIFICE OF THE PIONEERS

Former Senator Frelinghuysen Delivers Stirring Address to the G. A. R.

PRAISE FOR VETERANS

Spirit of Patriotism and Hope for Universal Peace Keynote of Memorial Day Talk—Thanks the Almighty for Blessings Enjoyed.

Somerville, May 31.—In an address which had for its keynote the spirit of patriotism and the hope for universal peace, Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, former State Senator, and a candidate for the nomination for United States Senator at the Republican primaries next September, spoke here yesterday at the exercises conducted by the Grand Army of the Republic. He referred to the self-sacrifice of the early pioneers, the patriotism of the veterans of the Civil War, the opportunities that were available to the present generation because of this sacrifice, and the splendid work of the public schools in the task of assimilating those from other nations.

It was a thoughtful speech, somewhat of a sermon in some respects, expressing deep thanks for the favor the Nation had enjoyed from the Almighty, and it made a deep impression upon the large audience that listened to his remarks.

Referring to some of the diplomatic problems that were confronting the Nation at this time, Senator Frelinghuysen said:

"We are now passing through trials and difficulties as a Nation. Our people have been murdered and our honor assailed in ruthless and wanton way. Give us wisdom and strength to bear these trials and do the right. We appear defenseless as a Nation in the sight of man—point the way and method that we may procure and wear our armor.

"May not material riches lead our people and call the wrath of Gomorah on this Nation—but may we as a people realize that every perfect gift cometh from Thee.

"May she stand as the great sign post of the world, pointing the way to mankind of returning reason of civilization, of Christianity and the establishment of universal peace and help us to protect the integrity of this Nation which was founded on Christianity and the brotherhood of man."

Referring to the dedication of Memorial Day to the memory of the Civil War heroes, Senator Frelinghuysen said:

"Each year for more than fifty years the soldiers who fought to preserve the union of States and maintain the great principle breathed into our national life that 'all men are created equal,' have gathere in the beautiful month of May to pay tribute to the memory of their comrades who have departed to the other shore.

"The pioneers who founded this Republic and who fought for the liberty their descendants enjoy have all passed on. There is no one living today who endured the hardships of Washington's band and who fought freedom's battle who is here to assist on this solemn occasion. They are a silent army of the dead. To those who are living falls the duty of placing the memorial wreath on their resting place.

"Let us not forget in the ceremonies of the hour the memory of the men who gave to the human race that boon that for one hundred and forty years has made potent in America, this blessed land of ours, the teachings of the Golden Rule that Christ preached: That, 'whatsoever ye would that men should do to you do ye even so to them.'

"To this sacrifice every American born or adopted son living or dead owe the blessings of opportunity and happiness that they have enjoyed during their natural life. They erected a monument to the world and the heart beats of the living today record paens of thanksgiving to that noble band who gave us the blessings we enjoy.

"Spanning eighty-five years of National life, up to the time when the long roll called the men of '61 to the defense of the Union, the patriotism of these men was then galvanized in energy true to the traditions of race. America's sons gave their life blood to continue to generations yet to be born that treasure that the early pioneers gave to the race. Of that gallant band there are many yet living—fewer, it is true, as the years pass—but enough living who remember the comrades of those trying days."

U. S. TROOPER KIDNAPED.

Corporal Peters Says He Was Seized at Namiquipa.

El Paso, May 31.—Hands and feet tied while he was asleep about 500 yards from the camp of the Tenth cavalry, below the base of the punitive expedition at Namiquipa, Corporal Joe Peters was taken to a camp of Carranza troops a week ago, but escaped, according to his own story to General Bell. Peters was found by guards at Santa Fe bridge shortly after he had crossed from Mexico. He said he escaped from a detachment of Carranza troops at Villa Ahumada, seventy-five miles below Juarez, and made his way to Juarez.

The trooper was attired in a pair of blue overalls and a huge Mexican sombrero. He had been allowed by the Mexicans to keep his government shoes and through these he was identified.

Advocates of equal suffrage have a golden opportunity in the national political situation as it is shaping up. They have sent a challenge to the Democratic party. It read originally that unless a suffrage amendment to the constitution was passed before November the full strength of the suffrage vote would be turned against the Democratic Presidential candidate, and it looked bad. Already there is talk of a compromise on a suffrage plank in the Democratic platform, but as this does not come from President Wilson, who is to write the platform himself this year, after twenty years of Bryan dictation, it is hardly to be believed. However, the Suffrage States may yet hold the balance of power, and if they do, the Democrats will gallantly "come across."

Mayor Calkins has named a committee of broad-minded men and women to sit in judgment of shows that are on the border-line of immorality and indecency, and any of the local theatre managers can reply absolutely upon the judgment of the volunteer body. It should be explained that they are to have no authority, and the committee is not a board of censorship. They will merely pass judgment when the theatre manager is in doubt, and the Mayor is to be congratulated on the personnel of his committee.

"Blest Be the Tie That Binds," was an appropriate farewell song for those of the different churches of Plainfield to sing as they left the Tabernacle at the close of the last service there. May the tie that bound Christians there hold throughout the years to come.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

Permit me to thank you for the publicity you gave in Monday's issue to the fact that I will not marry divorced people, no matter what the ground of the divorce, but let me correct one slight mis-statement in that item as indicated by the words "that in the future I will not marry divorced people." I took this attitude some years ago from the pulpit and repeated it last Sabbath only to give it greater prominence without reference to any recent action by Assembly, Conference or Convention, and have for a long time applied the rule without partiality in every case to my personal relief and satisfaction.

And may I further emphasize the statement made last Sunday and reproduced in your news item and I believed the same authority that assumes the responsibility of divorce should assume the responsibility of remarrying those divorced. I maintain there is only one ground for divorce with the right of remarriage to the innocent party, namely, marital infidelity, while I concede there are several causes that justify separation without the right to remarry; but in no case I contend should a clergyman be called upon to pass upon the justice and propriety of remarriage, and if all clergymen would take this position, the prevalence of divorce would be greatly reduced. Let the courts, I repeat, assume the entire responsibility in such matters, and then, if they are not in harmony with the Scriptures, the church, at least, will be free from complicity.

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

An Alibi.

It's mighty nice to play with wealth
And travel in pursuit of health,
But when the autos blow sky-high
And railroad trains are wrecked, by gee,
And steamboats sink far out at sea,
Without a chance of rescue nigh,
And other things go to the bad
I'm always pretty gol darn glad
That I can prove an alibi.

Uncle Abner

Our idee of a waste of time is to talk about the high cost of livin' to a feller that is in love.

Old man Hicks says there is nothing like striikng a fair average in this life. He has two sons in the ministry and two in vaudeville.

It beats all how some fellers go backward. Luke Tibbitts, who used to be the best pin pool player in this locality, has gone to work to make an honest living by selling vacuum cleaners.

No matter how styles may change in other things, it doesn't seem as though time or tide will ever knock out the wing collar.

No matter how a man in politics gets his money, there will always be a few people who will say nothing, but look mighty wise.

Miss Amy Pringle, our village milliner, has got a new dress designed after a wall paper pattern, and there ain't a drummer that comes to this town that don't stop, look and listen.

George Washington must have been a very versatile man. No two pictures of him look alike.

Outside of waitin' for a train in Philadelphia, about the saddest occupation I know of bein' in is pallbearer for some feller that died owin' you $17.

The trouble with this country today is that there are too many people writin' musical shows and not enough engaged in other business so they can buy tickets.

Equal Rights.

Women demand equal rights with men. What does a woman have to wear during the oppressive dog days?

One low-necked, sleeveless, mosquito netting gown.

One pair silk stockings.

One pair slippers.

That's all.

What does a man wear during the said dog days?

One coat.
One vest.
One pair trousers.
One shirt with starched collar.
One pair socks.
One pair shoes.
One union suit.
One hat.
One pair suspenders.
One belt.
One necktie.

If he takes his coat off in a hot restaurant he is thrown out. If he takes his tight collar off, he's a rube. If he wore his trousuers slit up to the knee he would be sent to the insane asylum.

Equal rights.? Huh!

The Difference.

I don't care how the robin sings
Or how the rooster flaps his wings.
I don't care how the sun may shine,
I can't cheer up, for woe is mine.
All nature may be glad and gay,
But I can never feel that way,
When the home team drops a game.

I care not how the rain may pour,
Or how the price of meat may soar.
The clouds may hang close to the ground,
And pessimists may growl around,
But happiness in me holds sway,
And naught keeps me from feeling gay,
When the home team wins a game.

- Proctor's Theatre -

AT PROCTOR'S TODAY.

Charlie Chaplin, that inimitable funmaker, who appeared to the delight of hundreds of amusement-seekers at Proctor's yesterday, will continue to cut up his funny caper today in "Police! Police!" one of the most enjoyable of his comedy creations, and which is simply chock full of his nonsensical eccentricities that provoke continual laughter and merriment. In addition today Virginia Pearson, who has been seen recently in Vitagraph productions, and is acknowledged to be one of the greatest emotional actresses appearing on the screen today, will make her debut at Proctor's as a William Fox star, and will be starred in a vehicle written specially to suit her wonderful talents, and personality, entitled "Blazing Love," which is presented in six powerfully dramatic parts. The fourteenth episode of "The Iron Claw" is an added attraction today. Tomorrow Thomas H. Ince, through special arrangements made with the Proctor management, presents H. B. Warner, the noted Triangle star, and at one time the portrayer of the leading role in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," in his most triumphant screen characterization as "The Beggar of Cawnpore," a huge Triangle play in six parts that is so powerful, yet so picturesque, that it will seldom be equaled." The Beggar of Cawnpore" is based on the famous Sepoy rebellion in India, and is one of the most spectacular films ever released. Tomorrow also Mack Swain, that jovial Keystone funmaker, will be seen in "His Bitter Pill," an amusing comedy with a different twist and plot than its contemporaries. On Friday Theodore Robert, assisted by Carlyle Blackwell and Dorothy Davenport will appear in "Mr. Grex of Monte Carlo," a Paramount offering, while on Saturday Julius Steger will star in "The Blindness of Love," a picture which marks the entry of this renowned stage star into the realm of the motion picture.

THE EAVESDROPPER

.· Plainfield Theatre. ·.

The great success attained by the monster eight-act bill for anniversary week at the Plainfield Theatre was more than gratifying to Manager Shannon, and he will inaugurate a complete change tomorrow with the same big program. Eight new acts secured from the best agencies in New York will constitute the bill for the remainder of the week, opening for the first tomorrow afternoon. Capacity crowds enjoyed the performances yesterday, and this same program will be retained this afternoon and tonight. One of its big features is the Canine Cabaret, positively the greatest dog act ever seen in this city. In addition to the eight vaudeville acts introduced tomorrow there will also be the usual picture features. Tomorrow's specialty will be the fourteenth episode of the serial film, "The Iron Claw," while the Plainfield Theatre's other serial, "The Strange Case of Mary Page," is scheduled for Friday afternoon and night, at which time the fifteenth and concluding episode will be shown. This picture has been followed by hundreds of Plainfielders who will be on hand to find out how the young actress is cleared of a murder charge. The picture attraction for Saturday, in addition to one and two-reel comedies and dramas, will be the Pathe weekly, showing the latest happenings all over the world as recorded by the newspapers.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT WILL VISIT NEWARK

Accepts Invitation to Be the Guest of Big Industrial Exposition.

Newark, May 31.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt will visit the Newark Industrial Exposition tomorrow night, after a flying trip to Kansas City and St. Louis which he has undertaken in the preaching of preparedness and Americanism.

Col. Roosevelt's invitation to attend the Newark Industrial Exposition was extended by Franklin Murphy, chairman of the committee of one hundred, under whose auspices the city's 250th anniversary celebration is being held. Despite the fact that Mr. Murphy is recognized as one of the State leaders of the Republican regulars, no political significance is to be attached to the latter's invitation to the Colonel to attend the celebration. Mr. Roosevelt will be the guest of the city and is expected to reach Newark at 7:30 Thursdays night. He will be dined at the new million dollar Treat Hotel, and at nine o'clock is scheduled for an address at the armory where the exposition is being held.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Edison were the guests of the management on Monday night. The electrical wizard and his wife came down from their home at West Orange, which is one of Newark's suburbs, and were particularly impressed with the magnificent display of electric motors, lights, spark plugs, generators, wireless outfits and other electrical paraphernalia in the electric division of the show. Everything is made in Newark, and the list includes everything from a wire corkscrew to a concrete burial casket.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., is due at the armory tonight, when he will address the Plattsburgers from this section, who will hold special exercises on that night. On Saturday night, which is closing night, Vice-President Marshall will be the guest of the management, after attending the Newark Moose carnival and addressing the members of the local order.

REV. DR. HERRING TALKS TO THE FLOWER GUILD

The meeting of the Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild on Monday evening was one of the most interesting held by the guild, and a large number of members were present. J. M. Harper, the president, presided during the session, and during his opening talk to the members urged them to take up some line of work in the guild. The devotional service was led by Edwood E. Waller, Jr., president of the Young People's Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church. Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, offered prayer.

A feature of the meeting was an address by Mr. Waller on the subject of "The Christian Life." He compared life with a game of baseball. "The baby when he first enters this world occupies as it were the first base. He is not familiar with the game of life and has to be taught to pray and be led into the Sunday-school and step by step he gains the second base. When he reaches the second he is in the higher grade of the Sunday-school and is beginning to learn to trust in Christ. He then reaches the third base, where he enters the church and becomes interested in the various activities. He is now preparing for his home run. This home run may be short or long. It is likely to be filled with many mistakes and blunders. If we keep Christ close by our side and start afresh after every fall we are sure to make our home run successfully."

A quartet from the Park Avenue Baptist church sang two selections, after which Dr. Herring delivered a short address. Reports were read by the treasurer, Mrs. Winter; Mrs. L. M. Case, chairman of the distributing committee, and Miss Suydam reported what the guild had done in the Biederwolf campaign. An appeal for members was made by C. R. Banks. The next meeting of the guild will be held on Friday evening, June 9.

FOREMAN HOFER SURPRISED BY FACTORY ASSOCIATES

Albert A. Hofer, who has been foreman at the Sloan Areoplane factory on North avenue since last December, was given a pleasant surprise at that shop Saturday afternoon previous to his bidding farewell before leaving for Dayton, Ohio, where he has accepted a similar position with the Wright Company. Mr. Hofer was called into the office and there presented with a handsome diamond stickpin, the gift of the executive staff and the employes. The presentation speech was made by General Superintendent Day and the recipient made a fitting reply although he was taken by surprise and was unprepared to talk.

Mr. Hofer came to this city from Bound Brook, where he had been foreman of the aeroplane plant at that place. He was very popular with the workmen in the local shop and while all regret exceedingly at the severance of relations they are greatly pleased to know that his change of position means considerable advancement. While here Mr. Hofer made his home at the Hotel Kensington. He left for Dayton Saturday night and entered upon his new duties Monday.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

A Bird Tries To Steal a Gold Apple.

It Pecked at One of the Apples.

[Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales.]

SOON after supper daddy began the bedtime story: "Once upon a time a king of the east had a beautiful garden. In it stood a tree that bore golden apples. Each night these apples were always counted, so if any were stolen the king might know it. But about the time the apples became ripe one always disappeared each night. The king was very angry and told his gardener to keep watch of the tree.

"So the gardener set his eldest son to watch. But about midnight he fell asleep, and in the morning another apple was missing.

"Then the gardener set his second son to watch. At midnight he fell asleep, and in the morning another apple was gone.

"Next the third son offered to keep watch. But the gardener would not let him for fear something might happen to him. At last he gave in, and the young man lay down under the tree to watch. Just as the clock struck midnight he heard a rustling in the air, and a bird came flying and sat down on the tree. By the moonlight the gardener's son saw that the bird's feathers were all pure gold. As it was pecking at one of the gold apples the young man jumped up and shot an arrow at it. The arrow did the bird no harm. It merely dropped a golden feather from its tail and flew away. The young man then took the gold feather to the king, and in the morning all the court was called together. Every one agreed that it was the most beautiful thing he had ever seen and that it was worth more than all the gold apples in the kingdom. But the king said: 'One feather is of no use to me. I must have the whole bird.'

"Then the gardener's eldest son set out to find the bird and thought to find it very easily. When he had gone a little way he came to a wood, and by the side of the wood sat a fox. The lad was fond of hunting, so he took out an arrow and made ready to shoot the fox.

"Mr. Fox, who did not like the idea of being shot, cried out: 'Softly, softly! Don't shoot me. I can give you good advice. I know you want to find the gold bird. This evening you will reach a village that has two inns. The right hand one is very pleasant and beautiful to look at. But don't go in there. The other may seem to you poor and mean, but rest there for the night.'

"The lad thought, 'What do you know about it?' and shot an arrow at the fox. But the arrow missed him, and the fox, with a sly laugh, ran away."

"Oh, daddy, have you finished so soon?" cried Jack and Evelyn.

And daddy smiled and kissed them good night.

Marrying a Butterfly

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

A Promised Visit from Ethel's Mother—Will It Make Things Better or Worse?

Ralph Gordon started home with reluctant steps, after he had purchased the ice cream his wife had requested him to buy. The harrowing scenes of the past two days seemed more than he could stand. He thought of the quiet room at his boarding house, where he was never disturbed, and he wished with all his heart that he could go to it; could be himself with no nervous worry about what unreasonable thing Ethel would be demanding next. He realized that this apprehension had become habitual in his subconsciousness.

"Marriage keeps on till we die," he thought bitterly to himself. "I am to be a galley slave; to work early and late to supply my wife's extravagant fancies and put up with her utter serfishness. I won't pay the price," he flamed hotly. "She must be made to see that there is someone else on earth besides herself. I am too tired to settle the thing tonight, but some day, my lady, there will be a battle royal." He entered his gate moody and captious, dreading to enter the house on account of the social difficulties awaiting him there. Scarcely had he stepped inside the door when Ethel flew to meet him, her gauzy dress that had looked so out of place in the woods floating out behind her, her face dimpled and smiling.

"Oh, Ralph," she exclaimed, "I have a letter from mamma. She is comig to visit us. I am so glad." She danced up and down with girlish glee.

Ralph's spirits rose with a bound. This unfathomable girl had annihilated the disagreeable past and all its consequences with a single gesture.

"I would be a fool not to enjoy the sunshine because it may rain tomorrow," he thought as he helped her dish the ice cream.

"Let's take the tea-wagon into the living room and enjoy the tiny fire in the grate. Julia had it all laid and I lighted it," suggested the little creature.

They were soon established in front of the fire that crackled and danced merrily, and Ethel spread her hands to the blaze while she ate her cream and enlarged on what she would do to entertain her mother when she came.

"You don't say anything, Ralph," she finally observed. "Aren't you glad mamma is coming?"

"Certainly, but I have had a lesson this afternoon. I shall never try to help you entertain your friends when I make such a lamentable failure of entertaining you." Ethel stared in astonishment. "I suppose you have not forgotten all the disagreeable things you said because I was rash enough to bring a horse and buggy around here to take you to the woods without consulting you, because if you have, I have a memory, and I can refresh yours for you." Ralph had not planned to say anything about the affair, but the opportunity was too good to let slip. Ethel dropped her eyes. "It will not take many such experiences to cure me of ever trying to do anything for you," he continued.

"I was hateful. I am sorry. Won't you please forgive me?" The tone was very beguiling. She came and leaned over to kiss her husband as she spoke like the penitent child that she was. Ralph drew her to his knee and she put her arms around his neck. With all her faults on her head, and they were very fresh in his memory, he was glad she was there as he held her in his arms, with her penitent head on his shoulder.

NEWS AND VIEWS
Conducted by
THE W. C. T. U.

The report of Spokane county, Washington, for the first four months of 1916 is inspiring reading for one who is interested in the question of financing a city government without the liquor revenue, showing as it does that it cost the county just $15,078 less to maintain th egovernment offices during the first four months of this year than it did for the corresponding period of last year. While there was a general feeling among the commissioners last year, at the time the budget was made, that the expenses of the office of prosecutor might call for from $5,000 to $20,000 additional for this year, the expense for the last four months has been about $500 less than the expense for the same months of last year. If the remainder of the year keeps up to this record there will be a neat balance instead of a deficit to be taken care of by the appropriation of additional funds.

The most conspicuous savings in the maintenance of the county government, outside of the $6,000 decrease in the expenses of the Superior Court, are those connected with the relief work of the county. What a commentary on prohibition is the fact that in a county containing a city the size of Spokane, with only four months of prohibition, the expenses of the poor farm show a decrease of $4,000, and the relief fund nearly $3,000; the honor camp, $1,250; the jail, $812. Even lazy husbands seem to be affected by prohibition, as only $7 expense is credited under this heading, as compared with $136 a year ago.

Ernest P. Bicknell, who is at the head of the relief work of the American Red Cross Society, and has had a most favorable opportunity to observe the results of prohibition in Russia, said in an address delivered before the National Conference of Charities and Correction:

"Immediately after the taking effect of the prohibition edict, the savings bank deposits in Russia began to increase at a most amazing rate.

"Americans living in Russia complained with jocular bitterness that the result of the prohibition edict had greatly complicated and intensified the servant problem in their homes. Since it had been common for working men to spend their wages regularly upon vodka, the wives had been accustomed to seek domestic service to return home, prohibition edict took effect a widespread exodus occurred on the part of those wives, who gave up their domestic service to returun home, with the explanation that their husbands now had money enough to support them."

Another interesting fact connected with the suppression of the vodka trade was related by Mr. Bicknell in the course of his address.

"One of the chief industries in Poland," he said, "was the manufacture of the drink called vodka. The cheaper form of vodka is distilled from potatoes. The vodka industry, therefore, required the production of vast quantities of potatoes.

"The Poland potato crop had been planted in the spring of 1914, but when the war came on the Emperor of Russian issued his famous edict prohibiting the manufacture and sale of all intoxicating liquor, including vodka.

"At first this seemed a crushing blow to the industry of Poland, but after the country had been desolated by war and the ordinary food supplies had been exhausted, the people of Poland found themselves in possession of a vast harvest of potatoes, and these potatoes, no longer valuable for the manufacture of vodka, provided a supply of food which kept the nation alive during the winter which followed."

The latest and greatest and most convincing answer to the revenue argument of the liquor interests is the Empire of Russia. In his book, "Russian Prohibition," Ernest Gordon, the well-known student of the liquor problem, who has very recently visited Russia, presents the revenue side as well as every other side and aspect of prohibition as he saw it demonstrated in the Czar's domains. We quote at length from this volume, which ought to be in the hands of every temperance worker.

The vodka monopoly brought in such huge incomes to the state that it was commonly said its abolition by the government would be like the chopping off of one's own legs. Nothing so serious, however, has occurred. "The budget has been much less affected," said Mr. Bark in an interview in the Petit Parisien, "than one would have believed. The productivity of labor has increased on an average 50 per cent., and all the fiscal resources which come from direct or indirect taxes have greatly developed. The tax on sugar, for example, has brought in much more than in preceding years. The less alcohol, the more sugar consumed by the taxpayer." "Before, when we derived our revenues from vodka, it was as though we were forever drawing out, drawing out"—he made a gesture as though milking a cow—"the vitality of the Russian people. Now, at the end of two months of temperance, we seem to be taking merely the interest on their stored-up strength and resourcefulness.

The Bureau of Statistics of Nijni Novgorod estimates that the savings of the peasants in the five prohibition months of 1914 would enable them to pay the usual takes twice over. "The land tax," reports a judge in the Luga district, "formerly always in arrears, is now promptly paid." Professor Westergaard, the Danish political economist, has said somewhere of national prohibition that "its introduction would occasion no greater economic disturbance than when one throws a large stone into a strong current. The next moment the stream flows over it as if it had laid there for centuries." How perfectly the figure conforms to the fact in Russia. And one must further always remember how inauspicious the time for broaching so radical a reform seemed to be. Yet so successful has it proved, even in war time, that one can almost compare it with the ether of the operating table.

Wealth has been conserved in unexpected ways. One of the most interesting byproducts of prohibition has been the diminution in disastrous fires.

Obsequies Are Held This Afternoon at the Home of His Sister in the Borough.

The funeral of Edgar I. Serrell, who died suddenly in Utica, N. Y., Monday, was held this afternoon at 2:30 from the residence of his sister, Mrs. Charles P. Lyman, of Washington avenue, the borough. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which Mr. Serrell was a member, conducted the service in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends of the deceased. The floral offerings were unusually numerous and beautiful, many handsome set pieces being included in the number. Burial was in Hillside cemetery.

News of Mr. Serrell's death came as a distinct shock to his many local friends. He was in his usual health only a few days before the fatal attack of heart trouble overtook him. Mr. Serrell was a native of Plainfield, being born in this city forty-one years ago. His parents were the late Harold and Anne E. Serrell. He made his home in this city until five years ago when his business affiliations compelled him to make a change. At the time of his death he was connected with the E. W. Bliss Company, a munition concern of Brooklyn.

Beside Mrs. Lyman, Mr. Serrell is survived by a widow, two brothers and another sister. These are Arthur H. and Walter T. Serrell and Mrs. John P. Reynolds, all of Brooklyn.

HONOR LATE G. A. R. HEAD

Dr. Hare's address was as follows:

Our Unfinished Task.

Someone has said: "Take off your hat to the past, but take off your coat to the future." In other words, reverence the one, but labor to make the other the very best. And to do that requires the heroic endeavor of all men.

On this Memorial Day, with 51 years lying between us and the sound of war on our own shores, we are far enough away from the din of battle and strife of conflict to weigh issues without prejudice and from judgments without bias.

That was an attractive subject recently discussed by the president of Union College, when he spoke of "The Conservation of the Past." We of this great republic are in danger of so far forgetting the past that we will not learn its best lessons for the future. You, my comrades, at Appomattox, presented to these United States and to the world the factors of one of the world's greatest problems. And you, my comrades, with all good men have been to school under God for these 51 years trying to solve this problem—the unfinished task, the inheritance of the Civil War.

The surprising result of any great war is to learn how little it accomplishes. It is true victories are won, armies are vanquished and terms of peace are established, business resumes its normal course, a great army of broken men and bereaved women live out their maimed life, but after all the real task is yet to come. Reconstruction is the great factor for weal or woe. With us the carpet-bagger came near precipitating a great woe. Here also God raised up great and good men, who, rising above party strife and sectional jealousy, won victories in peace no less renowned than thoe of war. Let us then recount elements of our unfinished task upon which you, my comrades, have been at work.

The Civil War demonstrated once and for al ltime that no great nation can be builded on negative or selfish principles. The outcome of that conflict created a permanent issue. There could be no neutrals. He that was not for the Government was against it. "A Government of the people, for the people and by the people" for five decades had been an experiment, and there was danger that it would crumble of its own weight, but you, my comrades, wrought a work in those four years of fratricide strife that made it impossible forever for an American to be neutral when a crime against humanity should ever be committed. In the Civil War there was born in us a national consciousness, not made of fragments of States, but of one people to know no north, no south, no east, no west—a nation whose right to exist among the nations of the earth was won on the field of her own fratricidal war, where in she said to God and the nations of the world: "We are not States; we are a nation." The interest of one man, whether in America or Belgium, is the interest of all men. That principle was reiterated in '98, when we had an international re-birth and took our place as the friend and defender of the downtrodden of other nations than our own.

To be an American and be neutral when humanity's blood cries out is to ask again the question of Cain: "Am I my brother's keeper?" In '61 you, my comrades, answered "Yes, I am my brother's keeper;" and brotherhood was not limited to race or national boundary. Would to God that in 1914-15 we had cried out in the hour of the world's great crisis: "We, too, are our brother's keeper."

Neutrals, can man ever be in crimes against treaties and humanity? But, comrades, this flag, the emblem of our principles, "a Government of the people, for the people and by the people," shall not go down to defeat in this crucial hour when the nation is at the crossroads of history. It shall not be a corporation of industries to make fortunes out of the munitions of contending armies and the unplowed field and silent factories of the stricken nations of the world. The people are aroused as never before, and the shame of patriots will bring forth an international responsibility for our nation that will do more than give thousands through Red Cross channels, splendid as that is; it will make us worthy to suffer, and if needs be die to atone the wrongs of murder and pillage committed, not only against our own citizens, but against the down-trodden of the world.

You, my comrades, who offered your lives that the nation might live, will yet see a greater uprising than even heretofore of all conditions of men who are offering their lives that the down-trodden nations of the earth might live and be pillaged no more. We must be prepared to lose our life that we might save it. Not preparation for war, but preparation to keep out of war until war is the only instrument that can convince brute militarism that might does not make right and the end does not justify the means.

The unprecedented prosperity which has been ours as a reunited nation has set us in the forefront of international life. We, as no other nation, are cosmopolitan. Our principles, sometimes misunderstood, have attracted the nations of the earth to make our nation the "home of the free" for the oppressed of their lands. Many came who knew no liberty in their own land and mistook license for liberty in ours. Their oath of allegiance often meant but a scrap of paper. And the dangers that threaten us and true patriotism are from those who know not what was accomplished from Sumter to Appomattox. It is our task to teach all men the sacredness of the trust bequeathed to this generation and all our liberty and prosperity are ours at the cost of blood. Every man, woman and child must learn, as did the South learn, that no one of them can play the prodigal and get gain in money, prosperity, skill, industry, art, science or education to be squandered on themselves, but to be put into the life of the nation for the welfare of the nations. No citizen can serve two nations, for he will love the one and hate the other, or cleave to the one and not the other. There is only room for one nation within our borders. There is only room for one flag, emblematic of our allegiance. We may have many languages and tongues, but one nation. Ours is so uniquely different in genius and purpose that it must be separate and alone in the hearts of its people. Its language is so simple it needs no hyphen to spell its meaning. Hyphenated Americanism does not look well, sound well or work well. It speaks of secret codes and foreign alliances. It died at Appomattox; its resurrection produces an unpleasant odor after fifty-one years.

Your gift of a saved and united nation lays on us and the future citizenry a tremendous responsibility. "A nation of the people, for the people and by the people." I for the U. S. W. V., you faithful comrades who gave all that we were asked, as did you accept the task to train by precept and example our boys and girls of all nations that statesmanship must be large enough and broad enough to look at national questions from Capitol Hill, not from a viewpoint of my constituency only, as we count the nation the constituency of every legislator and that, broad as is the land and wide her boarders, there is room only for those true to the flag purchased at the price of patriots' blood, and the voice of the flag is justice and safety for all men everywhere, "that a Government of the people, for the people and by the people must not perish from the earth," but the leaves of its life must be the healing of the nations.

MUST SUPPORT FAMILY.

Louis Jackson, a driver, was ordered to pay $6 a week towards the support of his four children when arraigned before Recorder Hand in the borough court this morning on complaint of Overseer of the Poor Fred Becker. It seems that Jackson's wife, who was recently released from the Union county jail, deserted him, and he turned his children over to his mother, but neglected to pay for their cars and she turned them out on the street with the result that they were taken in care by Overseer Becker. The children will be sent to a home.

CLINTON AVENUES, REPRESENTING DUNELLEN, BROKE EVEN IN PAIR OF SNAPPY ENCOUNTERS

Dunellen broke even in a double-header yesterday. In the morning they took the Hope Chapel team into camp in a most exciting game by the score of 7-6 and in the afternoon they lost to the Farmer A. C. by the count of 7-5.

Trust, the Dunellen third baseman, whose hitting and speed on the bases has made him the sensation of the league, won the Hope Chapel game for his team after he had apparently lost it by errors in the third, when he sent a long fly over "Henny" Alberts' head in right, sending Bergen across the pass with the deciding tally. The star play of this game was made in the seventh inning by Norman Harney, who played right field for Dunellen. With two down and Miller and Heron, both of whom had singled, reposing on third and second, respectively, Henny Alberts hit a long low fly to right center. While on a dead run Harney reached out and grabbed the ball with his bare hand and then turned a couple of somersaults. This catch saved the bacon for the Dunellen aggregation, which was steadily coming up from behind, and Harney was loudly applauded as he came in from the field. Warry McLaughlin, the grand old man of baseball, had his first work-out of the season in this game. His delivery was knocked for twelve hits, two of which were obtained by "Pop" Martin, but four of these were of the infield variety for which his infielders by slow work and indecision were responsible. Henny Alberts, who caught for Hope Chapel, was obliged to go to the outfield when he split his finger in the middle of the game.

The Farmer A. C. in defeating the Dunellens in the afternoon game displayed a gilt-edged article of ball. The playing of Friele on third base was particularly brilliant. This youngster accepted ten chances without an error. Randolph in left field made two good catches when he ran back into the high grass and robbed Bergen and Trust of two baggers. The Farmers obtained a lead of four runs in the third inning, when they scored three runs on a single by Peterson, a two-bagger by Ryan and general loose playing by the Dunellens. This lead was not in jeopardy until the seventh when the Dunellens scored three runs on two errors and singles by Brown and Hendry. In the midst of this rally Dunellen met with a great misfortune when Trust, who got caught between second and third, threw his right shoulder out in sliding back to second. His place on third was taken by Lou Dixon, who had plenty of fielding opportunities when his team went back into the field.

FIRST ROUND FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Close Scores Posted in Competition at Hydewood Golf Club.

36 HOLES HANDICAP

Miss Grace Ten Eyck and W. H. Nischwitz Win Approaching and Putting Contest—Play for Duffers' Cup.

The Hydewood Golf Club was an attractive place yesterday, when the popular course was filled with players competing in the many events offered for the holiday. Conditions were perfect and low scores were the rule. The social features at the clubhouse were also enjoyed by many of the members who preferred this sort of entertainment to playing on the course.

The first round play for the Spring championship cup was the attraction in the morning. The results were as follows:

W. P. Taylor beat R. M. Smith, 6 and 4; H. E. Blazier beat H. L. Moody, 6 and 5; Walter Whitehead beat A. A. Cannon, 3 and 2, while W. H. Nischwitz drew a bye. The pairings for the second round on Saturday are as follows: H. E. Blazier vs. W. H. Nischwitz, W. P. Taylor vs. Walter Whitehead.

Another interesting event was a 36 holes, medal play handicap, which attracted a large field. The scores:

W. H. Nischwitz, 187, 34-153; H. E. Blazier, 172, 14-158; Harry Rush, 238, 76-162; W. P. Taylor, 177, 14-163; A. M. Collens, 211, 46-165; R. M. Smith, 220, 50-170; Harry G. De Meza, 208, 36-172; A. A. Cannon, 208, 32-176; J. A. Wilson, 208, 32-176; Clarence J. Hand, 211, 32-179.

Miss Grace TenEyck and W. H. Nischwitz won the approaching and putting contest with a score of 8.

The qualifying round, 18 holes, scratch, for the Duffers' cup, brought out a large field. The following qualified: Harry Rush, Dr. O. B. Whitford, Dr. George T. Moore, George Clarke, Nathan E. Lewis and Robert F. Hand. The first round will be played on Saturday.

BOX SCORES DIFFER; BUT "CHAMPS" WON

Netherwoods Pounded Out Victory at Expense of Farmer Clan.

Netherwood trimmed the Farmer A. C. Leaguers by a 12 to 6 count in their afternoon section of the City League program yesterday, although the box scores returned to the Daily Press by the respective team managers are as different as the run total shows the two aggregations to be in playing ability. The one published below—Heaven only knows which team "belongs to it"—gives the winners credit for nineteen bingles and five miscues in the field, while the losing side totaled six hits and but one slip.

Matty Coughlin, with four bingles, and Moran, with a trio, led the hitters in this contest, two of Coughlin's being of the double-decker variety. Loose playing featured the contest and the Netherwoods had little trouble in asserting their supremacy.

MGR. VET. MARTIN PUSHES HIS NOSE IN Hope Chapel Beat Baptists When 'Old Timer' Knocked Two Across in Ninth.

Brit Martin's single with two down in the eighth inning, scoring a brace of runs for Hope Chapel, gave the West Fourth street City League outfit a victory over the First Baptist clan yesterday by the score of 11 to 8. Five runs in the initial round put the Hopes ahead but this big lead, with two more added in the fifth, was overcome by the Baptists in the eighth and Martin's bingle proved a life-saver for the Chapelites.

Townley, with three hits, and Jaeger and Martin, with two each, were the league bat swingers of the engagement. Loose work in the field proved a feature of both combines' playing. After replacing Overland at the bat in the ninth to make his drive, the veteran Martin romped out to right field and finished out the match as a playing manager.

FIRST REVERSE FOR NETHERWOOD TEAM

After Showing the Way With a Clean Slate for Five Weeks Champs Lose.

Thirteen hits and two more runs tallied by the T. A. B. S. City League outfit treated the Netherwood champions to their first beating of the season yesterday afternoon. The final score, 15 to 6, explains the victory in full. It was clean-cut and decisive. The winners asserted their supremacy from the start and although the losing side managed to collect eleven safe hits, the clouts were scattered and were minus quantities when hits meant runs.

Every man but Clark broke into the hit column for the Netherwood team and every individual on the T. A. B. S. side managed to collect at least one safety during the afternoon.

Neither team fielded up to par but some snappy stunts pulled off at various times during the nine innings amply made up for the eight miscues.

HOLIDAY EVENTS AT COUNTRY CLUB

Local Golf Course is Thronged With Players in Various Competitions.

LOW SCORES THE RULE

First and Second Rounds for Spring Cup and Selected Score Competition Among Features — Dinner Dance in Evening.

An attractive holiday bill trought out a large field of golfers at the Plainfield Country Club yesterday, when the course was thronged with enthusiastic players. The weather was ideal for the sport and many low scores were returned in the various competitions. There was also plenty doing at the clubhouse, where many of the fair sex enjoyed the social features. In the evening there was a dinner-dance which was largely patronized and enjoyed.

Owen Fleming beat E. A. Lyon, 1 up, 20 holes; H. D. Hibbard beat Charles A. Reed, 5 and 4; H. J. Cochran beat T. S. Wheeler, 2 up, 26 holes; S. D. Perrin beat W. W. Coriell, 7 and 6; W. M. Alling beat Harry Williams, 3 and 2; J. R. Evans beat L. H. Gates, 2 and 1; J. A. Lane beat W. G. Cooke, 2 up; C. E. Lipscombe beat D. O. Rogers, 4 and 3. Second round—Owen Fleming beat H. D. Hibbard, 1 up; S. D. Perrin beat H. J. Cochran, 6 and 4; J. R. Evans beat W. M. Alling, 1 up; C. E. Lipscomb beat J. A. Lane, 7 and 5.

These scores were returned in a selected score competition, 18 holes:

E. B. Shoemaker, 77, 10-67; F. O. Reinhart, 73, 4-69; W. B. Alling, 78, 9-69; L. B. Alling, 88, 18-70; J. W. Baker, 75, 4-71; J. R. Shoemaker, 77, 6-71; D. H. Barrows, 76, 5-71; Warren Ackerman, 85, 13-72; R. S. Rowland, 78, 6-72; Owen H. Fleming, 80, 7-73; Morris J. Dumont, 84, 19-74; S. D. Lounsbury, 86, 12-74; J. P. Stevens, 91, 17-74; H. E. Butler, 83, 8-75; C. E. Lipscombe, 86, 11-75; F. W. Wallace, 94, 18-76; W. Lester Glenney, 80, 3-77; J. P. Stevens, Jr., 89, 11-78; A. W. Kleinecke, 94, 16-78; Will T. Glenney, 82, 3-79; Noah C. Barnhart, 98, 17-81; H. J. Cochran, 99, 17-82.

Dudley H. Barrows, 79, 8-71; J. Whitney Baker, 78, 6-72; F. O. Reinhart, 80, 6-74; H. D. Hibbard, 89, 14-75.

Other scores follow: H. E. Butler, 88, 12-76; Owen H. Fleming, 86, 10-76; S. D. Perrin, 94, 17-77; L. G. Carman, 87, 10-77; D. O. Rogers, 88, 10-78; J. R. Evans, 103, 24-79; Arthur Murphy, 90, 9-81.

"P. O. N." DIAMOND CHIPS WALLOPED

Barringer Reserves Sent Home to Celebration City Soundly Spanked.

One inning was enough for Plainfield High School to score a 11 to 4 victory over the Barringer Reserves, of Newark, on Parker Field yesterday morning, but by way of a little batting practice the pastime went seven innings, giving the visitors a chance to do some playing. Davidson was a little wild on the pitching mound, but had the Newarkers standing on their heads when he located the plate and allowed only four blows. Apgar was robbed of the honor of making the first home run of the season in the sixth, when he walloped one to deep center. The ball landed in the batting net erected in front of the goal post and went only for three sacks.

The locals sewed up the game in their half of the first by grabbing eight runs. Every man but Noonan got around the bags and the three lead-off men got two raps. Davidson put the last wedge in his own game in that frame by knocking in two runs with a two-bagger.

BOY SCOUT KILLED BY AUTO

Speeding Motor Runs Into a Troop on a Hike.

Trenton, N. J., May 31.—Aldin E. Williams, eleven years old, of 862 Beatty street, a member of the Boy Scout troop No. 3 of the Broad Street M. E. church, died in Mercer hospital a few hours after having been struck by an automobile while on a hike with members of the troop to Scudder's Falls. The auto fractured the boy's skull.

Twenty scouts were in charge of Scoutmaster Leon A. Rentner of 2413 South Clinton avenue. They were marching along a road that runs close to the Delaware river when an automobile driven by James W. Ball of Philadelphia came along. The boys scattered to allow the motor to pass, but young Williams was not quick enough to dodge the car, and it knocked him down.

NEWARK PAGEANT BEGINS.

Great Dramatic History Enacted In Natural Amphitheater.

Newark, N. J., May 31.—The life story of Newark, from the time 250 years ago when Robert Treat bought its site from the Indians for beads and hatchets and firewater, until Abraham Lincoln visited it, was translated to the present before an assemblage of 30,000 persons. Stormy skies and flurries of rain kept fully 10,000 more away.

From seats in a natural amphitheater on a sloping hillside the great crowd saw history repeat itself in the portrayal of 4,000 actors on a stage as big as a city block. The pageant, the piece de resistance of Newark's anniversary celebration, is the result of six months' work and planning and rehearsing that began in January. It will be repeated three times.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.
